Declares Fiscal House In Order As Third Term Begins

Phelan: Protect Neighborhoods, Attract 'Right' Development

MAYOR WILLIAM PHELAN takes his third term oath from his father-in-law, former Mayor Arthur Tobin, as his children William Arthur, Kerry, Rachel and Brianne join him.

THE QUINCY HIGH School auditorium was crowded for Mayor William Phelan's third term inaugural and the city council and school committee organizational meetings. Members of the Phelan and Tobin families are shown in front.

Mayor William Phelan, starting his third term Tuesday, pledged to focus the next two years on preserving and strengthening the neighborhoods, improving the quality of life for senior citizens while attracting "Smart Growth" development — the right kind in the right places.

In his inaugural address in the Quincy High School auditorium, Phelan also:

• Declared the city's fiscal house in order.

• Predicted a bright, bold, exciting future for the city.

• Saw the long awaited new Quincy High School as "closer to reality than ever before."

• Outlined a series of "Strong Neighborhood Initiatives."

• Proposed a new commission to review and amend existing codes and ordinances to better present the neighborhoods.

MAYOR WILLIAM PHELAN, delivering his third Inaugural Address, said he will focus on preserving the neighborhoods while attracting "Smart Growth" development in the right areas.

• Cited measures to strengthen public safety including a citywide emergency and evacuation plan and expansion of community policing.

• Said he will continue to pursue the creation of a centralized community center with links to neighborhood centers.

• Plans to announce more Affordable Housing Trust Fund initiatives and continue efforts to end chronic homelessness in the city. He noted there will be more housing with the opening of Squantum Gardens.

• Gave the schools a top priority as "often being the heart of our neighborhoods" and vowed to continue to strive for excellence and provide the resources to achieve that goal.

Phelan said he came into office facing million-dollar deficits and finances in disarray but his administration has changed that.

"We face a very different situation today," he said.

New Council President

Gutro Pledges Cooperation And Honest Deliberation

New City Council President Douglas Gutro pledged cooperation with the mayor's office, honest deliberation and outlined challenges ahead for the council at Tuesday's organizational meeting.

The Ward 5 councillor was unanimously elected president after being nominated by Ward 1 Councillor Leo Kelly and Ward 4 Councillor Jay Davis. He took his oath from City Clerk Joseph Shea.

"In any democracy, dissent between the executive branch and legislative branch must be allowed," he said in his acceptance remarks.

Elected School Committee Vice-Chairwoman

Dwyer Sets New QHS Completion, All-Day Kindergarten As Goals

ANNE MAHONEY, James Timmins and Kevin Mulvey are sworn in as new members of the school committee. Quincy Sun photos/Robert Noble

Elaine Dwyer, new vice chairwoman of the school committee, cites completion of a new Quincy High School and a possible all-day kindergarten program for all eligible students as two of her main goals.

Dwyer was unanimously elected vice chairwoman at the school committee's organizational meeting Tuesday in the Quincy High School auditorium. She was nominated by Linda Stice, a past chairwoman, and newcomer Anne Mahoney.

ELAINE DWYER delivers her acceptance speech after being elected school committee vice chairwoman.

"We all know a new Quincy High School is most important," she said in her acceptance speech. "As your vice chair and the Building Needs chairperson, I will continue to work with the mayor, the administration, the city council and state officials to achieve this essential goal.

"The high school project is one of the reasons I ran for school committee four years ago and I am as committed today as I was then to complete this project. And, don't worry, I have not forgotten our commitment to Central and Sterling Middle Schools.

"I will also provide direction in regards to the possibility of offering an all-day kindergarten program to every eligible child in our city. This exciting challenge will be a main focus within our Policy Sub Committee and its chair, Linda Stice."

Dwyer said she knows she cannot accomplish anything alone and needs the support of her colleagues.

"We may agree or disagree but each and every decision we make needs to have all of our collective patience, respect and knowledge, knowing that our decision will serve our students, teachers and school system well.

"Through appreciation, direction and participation, I am honored to serve my colleagues on the Quincy school committee as well as proudly serve our teachers, parents, citizens of Quincy but importantly — keeping my eye on the prize — our students."

Dwyer welcomed the three new members to the school committee: Anne Mahoney, Kevin Mulvey and James Timmins.

She also recognized former colleagues Ron Mariano, Jo-Ann Bragg and Michael McFarland. Mariano and Bragg stepped down after serving 16 and 12 years, respectively. McFarland left the school committee to win a seat on the city council.

Dwyer also had praise for Mayor William Phelan, school officials and others.

"Our school committee has a mayor that supports us with generous budgets, a supportive vision and even enhances our literacy program with funds from his golf tournament.

"We are also so fortunate to have our Superintendent Rick DeCristofaro and Assistant Superintendent Carmen Mariano to guide us and navigate us through all the facets of the school system — it is such a pleasure to work with them.

"We have excellent administrators and professional staff members and, who make us proud, parents who support our decisions but more importantly we have great students.

"I will appreciate and celebrate what we have as a school committee, a school system and as a city and always work to make it better."

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On Jan. 7, 1903, novelist Zora Neale Hurston is born in Eatonville, Fla. Although Hurston had published more books than any other black woman in America at the time of her death in 1960, she died poor and alone in a welfare hotel.

• On Jan. 5, 1914, the Ford Motor Company rolls out a series of initiatives aimed at improving the lives of its workers. Ford doubled the minimum wage to a lofty $5 per day and cut the workday to eight hours.

• On Jan. 6, 1936, Porky Pig makes his world debut in a Warner Brothers cartoon, "Gold Diggers of '49." When Mel Blanc joined Warner Brothers the following year, he became the famous voice behind Porky as well as other Warner Brothers characters.

• On Jan. 2, 1941, the Andrews Sisters record the classic World War II hit "Boogie Woogie Bugle Boy" on Decca Records. The Andrews Sisters were the most popular "girl group" of their time, and set the stage for the "girl group era" of the mid-1960s.

• On Jan. 3, 1959, President Dwight D. Eisenhower signs a special proclamation admitting the territory of Alaska into the Union as the 49th and largest state. The $7.2 million purchase of Alaska in 1867, negotiated by Secretary of State William Seward, was ridiculed at the time as "Seward's folly," "Seward's icebox" and President Andrew Johnson's "polar bear garden."

• On Jan. 8, 1962, at the National Gallery of Art in Washington, D.C., Leonardo da Vinci's masterpiece, the Mona Lisa, is exhibited for the first time in America. First lady Jacqueline Kennedy and Andre Malraux, the French minister of culture, arranged the loan of the painting from the Louvre Museum in Paris.

• On Jan. 4, 1974, President Richard Nixon refuses to hand over tape recordings and documents that had been subpoenaed by the Senate Watergate Committee. Nixon resigned from office in disgrace eight months later.

Another Term Or Higher Office?

It wasn't just William Phelan's right hand that was raised Tuesday as he took his third term oath as mayor.

Also raised were the inevitable questions by political observers looking for signs of things to come.

How many more terms for Phelan?

Who will follow him into the third floor office?

And, toss in this one: Is there a woman mayor in the near future?

PHELAN

Phelan has indicated he doesn't intend to make a career of being mayor. He has no plans of trying to match Jim Sheets' historic six terms.

SHEETS

He has a law practice to go back to whenever he wants to.

But at age 45 he could let that wait.

The mayor's office is usually the last political step for a mayor. But for Phelan it could be a good starting point to higher office.

If, for example, Bill Delahunt should decide he's had enough of Washington and doesn't seek re-election, Phelan would have a shot at that Congressional seat.

Or if Norfolk County Dist. Atty. Bill Keating decides to run for attorney general, well, that's another possibility.

There could be some other openings. In politics, doors always open, sometimes when least expected.

Phelan has grown stronger with the job. His performance rating is up.

Last November he became only the fourth mayor in Quincy's history to run unopposed, although he had a write-in opponent. The other three: Thomas Burgin, Frank McCauley and Sheets who got three free rides.

Phelan has come a long way since stunning the political scene with his 17-vote upset win over Sheets in 2001.

He was only in his second year as a school committeeman — a virtual unknown — when he defeated Sheets, one of Quincy's all-time political powers.

And he became the first mayor in 79 years to get to that office without first taking the traditional route through the city council chamber.

The fact he drew only write-in opposition in his third-term run attests to the fact that he, himself, has become a power.

RAYMONDI

Whether he runs for a fourth term remains to be seen. And whether he would have a name challenger if he did also remains to be seen.

No one in the city council took him on last year but there's no doubt there are several councillors who have their eye on that third floor office.

Dan Raymondi, who passed up a run in 2003 while city council president, is still considered a likely candidate.

GUTRO

KEENAN

Doug Gutro, unanimously elected city council president Tuesday, is a potential candidate as are John Keenan and Joseph Finn who almost ran last year. Kevin Coughlin is interested, too.

FINN

And a new potential candidate has arrived in the council: Michael McFarland.

McFARLAND

McFarland gave up his school committee seat to win the council at-large seat McCauley retired from. Some observers think the move positions him for a near future mayoral run.

Chances are that one of them will follow Phelan into the mayor's office.

But what about a possible woman mayor?

In Quincy's 117-year history as a city, only four women have tried to reach that office. None did.

The first was Rita Anderson, a housewife, in 1971, the year Walter Hannon was elected, succeeding James McIntyre.

She finished last in a four-candidate preliminary election field that included Joseph Brett and school committeeman James McCormick. Her vote was 737.

Grace Saphir, an environmentalist and wife of well known Dr. Nelson Saphir, came the closest, with a vote of 10,416 to incumbent Hannon's 15,416 in 1973.

SAPHIR

Two years later, she tried again, but this time was eliminated in the preliminary election with a vote of 2,710.

That was the year of the famous recount when Hannon appeared to have been re-elected by 134 votes. The recount, however, showed Joseph LaRaia the actual winner by 483 votes. Final tally: LaRaia, 17,231; Hannon, 16,748.

Two women challenged incumbent McCauley in 1985: Ward 6 Councillor Joanne Condon and Sabina Kavanaugh Stenberg.

CONDON

Condon was nominated with a vote of 4,642 but lost to McCauley 13,117 to 7,307 in the final election. Stenberg had 240 votes in the preliminary runoff.

So, in 117 years four women have tried to reach the mayor's office but didn't make it.

Will there be a fifth to try some year soon?

MAHONEY

If there is, could it be someone like Anne Mahoney who took her seat on the school committee Tuesday after a dazzling political debut.

Mahoney finished first in a 12-candidate preliminary field in September. And did an even more impressive encore in the final, taking the top spot by 1,209 vote margin.

The attractive 40-year-old mother of three young children isn't thinking mayor. Her attention is focused on the school committee.

But doors do open.

Or maybe the next woman mayoral candidate right now is a baby girl in a crib somewhere in Quincy who we may hear from later.

Don't know about you but I would like to someday see a Her Honor in His Honor office.

The woman's touch would certainly be pretty interesting to watch.

KeySpan Working To Mitigate Cost Of Natural Gas

KeySpan is very concerned about the impact natural gas prices will have on our customers this heating season. With that in mind, we are working hard to help mitigate the cost of natural gas prices in several ways.

We buy gas in the summer months when prices are lower; we use proactive hedging strategies to get the best price in the marketplace; and we encourage conservation and efficiency so energy is used wisely.

It should be noted KeySpan does not profit from the cost of natural gas; it is a pass through expense. We can only charge the customer what we pay for the commodity.

KeySpan promotes programs such as Balanced Billing, Home Energy Assistance Program (HEAP) and other programs and services to help educate customers on ways they can manage or get assistance with their energy costs. There are also cold weather protections in place for the elderly, blind or disabled, and those with a medical emergency or life support.

Despite these efforts, we realize this heating season poses an increased financial burden on customers due to record high energy prices. As a result, KeySpan is doing even more by implementing a plan designed to educate all customers about efficient energy use and identifying customers eligible for financial assistance programs and services.

We mounted a newspaper campaign to promote HEAP and other low-income programs. Our customer service representatives are receiving additional training with a focus on high bills, financial assistance and payment arrangement policies. Our efforts also include letters to elected officials, customer bill inserts, presentations throughout local community organizations and more.

In addition, to help those in need pay their heating bills, KeySpan is making a $1-million contribution to fuel funds in its service territory in New England and New York. Locally, funds are going to some of the most respected emergency assistance programs, such as the Salvation Army's Good Neighbor Energy Fund, New Hampshire's Fuel Assistance Programs and the United Way of Massachusetts Bay's Special Fund.

We hope you can assist us as we do all we can to help our customers weather this challenging heating season. To sign up for home weatherization services, customers can call 1-800-292-2032, or for more information on available assistance programs, they can call our customer service line at 1-800-233-5325. Quincy High School 'Pony' Returns

Jan. 4- 10
45 Years Ago

Quincy High School's model sculpture of Cyrus Dullin's famed "Appeal To The Great Spirit" was reinstalled as its accustomed stand in the school's lobby.

The sculpture was under extensive repair for two months following damage by vandals who stole it in October, damaging a hand and the torso of the Indian.

Since its installation by Principal Ernest Collins at the "new" high school, it has become the symbol of the school. It was the gift of the class of 1924 from the "old" high school (presently Central Middle School).

ADAMS ST. BUILDING VARIANCE OVERRULED

The state's high court, the Supreme Judicial Court, overruled the Quincy Board of Appeals' variance granting a business use in a residential area at 435 Adams St.

The court reversed the ruling of Superior Court Judge Edward DeSauinier, saying the Quincy board exceeded its power in granting a variance to Benjamin Kurtzman to use the property as a professional building.

CITY EMPLOYEES PROTEST PAY RAISES

A dozen city employees protested their treatment in an amended salary schedule that passed over Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa's veto.

The mayor said complaints would be turned over to a salary schedule appeals board that would be set up shortly.

Among the appeals was one of the Quincy Planning Board which protested that the position of city planner was the only one not given a raise.

Parker Math Measurement Fair Equals Fun

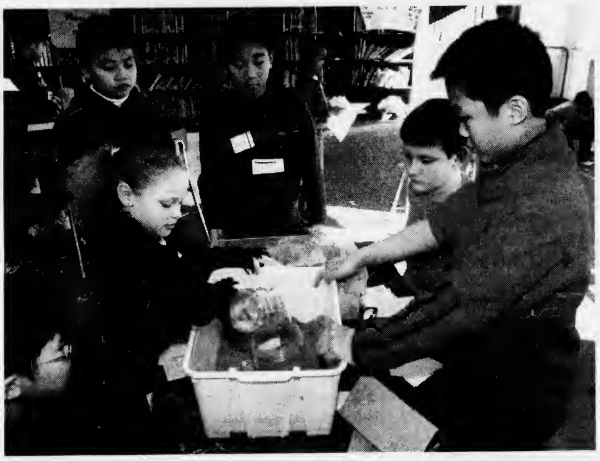
PARKER SCHOOL fourth and fifth grade students worked hard to prepare measurement stations for the school's recent math fair. Stations included grade level appropriate activities on measuring and converting customary and metric units of length, capacity and weight; area, perimeter, circumference, volume, time, temperature and estimation. Playing a "guessing game" of estimating weight in grams are (from left) Ashley McBrien, fifth grade; first graders Robbie Fiasconaro and Linda Phung; Stephanie Reamer, grade four tour guide; and fifth graders Erika Histen and Kim Do.

Beachcombing Treasures Topic Of Library Program

Quincy resident Norma Jane Langford will draw attention to the mysterious shards of pottery and sea glass that was up on Quincy's beaches next month at the Thomas Crane Public Library.

In her presentation, "China Beach: Treasures from the Sea," Langford will show slides, display her own collection of treasures and explore the story of her finds Thursday, Jan. 5, at 7 p.m.

Then she will lead a winter beachcombing walk Saturday, Jan. 7, at the Edgewater Drive beach in Houghs Neck, beginning at 10:30 a.m. at Brill Field at Sea Street and Island Avenue.



Rain date for the walk is Sunday, Jan. 8, at 1 p.m.

Langford's interest in beachcombing began during a winter walk along the beach in Houghs Neck when she found pre-World War I amethyst glass, hand-blown glass circa 1820 and a tiny porcelain doll from Europe.

She is a senior lecturer at Northeastern University and writes and lectures on a variety of topics, including historic houses and gardens, archaeology, urban farming and travel.

College Financial Seminar

Quincy High and North Quincy High School invite residents to attend a college financial aid seminar Thursday, Jan. 5, from 7-9 p.m. at Quincy High School.

The seminar, presented by a representative from the Massachusetts Educational Financing Authority (MEFA), will discuss various aspects of financial aid and the process parents and students go through when applying to college. Topics will include how to fill out financial aid application forms, the process of filling the appropriate forms, how financial aid is calculated and awarded, how to compare financial aid award letters, and making alternative financing decisions.

Admission is free. Further information/directions may be obtained by calling Diane Merrill at Quincy High School at 617-984-8793. Any family interested in receiving an application for a low cost college loan or more information can also contact MEFA at 800-449-MEFA (6332).

NQHS Senior Stay-Out Meeting

The North Quincy High School Senior Stay-Out meeting will be held Tuesday, Jan. 10, at 7 p.m. in the Trophy Room at the school.

Parents of freshmen, sophomores and juniors are needed to volunteer to work at this all-night event, which takes place after the Senior Prom.

All NQHS senior students, whether they attend the prom or not, will be invited to the Senior Stay-Out 2006, an all-night substance-free party. The Stay-Out offers food, fun and a safe place to spend the night, all at no cost to the student.

For more information, call Chris Guerriero at 617-328-6466 or e-mail redvw43@aol.com.

Sadie D'Angelo Honored At 100th Birthday

By TOM HENSHAW

Some 60 friends and family members attended the 100th birthday party of Mrs. Sadie Smith DeAngelo recently at the Braintree Landing Nursing and Rehabilitation Center.

"She has never smoked, never drank alcohol and never sat in the sun," said her granddaughter, Karen Worsham of Phoenix, Ariz.

"And every day she has had a cup of Dunkin' Donuts coffee and a chocolate frosted doughnut. She says that gave her a long life."

Mrs. DeAngelo was born on Water Street in Quincy in 1905 when Theodore Roosevelt was president and, until recently, she always lived in Quincy.

Her late husband was Antonio DeAngelo, a native of Italy and a welder at the old Bethlehem Steel Company Quincy Shipyard during World War II.

Together, they used to ride a motorcycle through the streets of Quincy and they produced four children, including Diane Ryan of Mobile, Ala., and many grandchildren.

Mrs. DeAngelo graduated

SADIE SMITH DeANGELO

from the Woodward School for Girls and worked for a time at the former Walter Baker Chocolate Co. in Milton Lower Mills.

She has been a member of the Quincy Pomona Grange since she was a teenager.

QUINCY RESIDENT Peter O'Connell (left) with his daughter Laurie Graf and granddaughter Alexandra Graf (also of Quincy) and his son, Tom O'Connell of Hingham at the Symphony Hall reception for "A Company Christmas at Pops." They were among those attending the 22nd annual Boston Pops benefit concert which raised more than $1 million for the Boston Symphony and Boston Pops Orchestras. Special guests included Jose Feliciano, New York Voices, and Boston Red Sox Manager Terry Francona.

Marie's Kitchen

BY MARIE D'OLIMPIO

Suzie's Spinach, Rice Delight

I had just put a small meat loaf in the oven when our daughter Suzie called and invited her dad and I for dinner. And who refuses that? Well I took the meat loaf out of the oven (it had not started to bake yet) and headed down to her house.

In addition to her delicious pasta, one of her side dishes were spinach balls. They were so delicious as we poured tomato sauce over them. They are pretty easy to make and are baked and not fried.

Suzie's Spinach Balls

1 package of frozen chopped spinach (cooked)
1 cup brown rice (cooked)
2 eggs slightly beaten
1/4 cup seasoned bread crumbs
1/4 cup grated Parmesan or Roman cheese
salt and pepper
milk (in case the mixture is dry) extra bread crumbs if liquidy

First, drain the spinach well. Mix with the rice, eggs, bread crumbs, cheese, salt and pepper. Shape into balls the sire of a meatball. Place on a greased cookie sheet and bake in a 350 degree oven for 25 minutes.

Michael Guerard Deployed In Support Of Operation Iraqi Freedom

Army Pfc. Michael R. Guerard is deployed overseas at a forward operating location in support of Operation Iraqi Freedom.

Operation Iraqi Freedom is the official name given to military operations involving members of the U.S. armed forces and coalition forces participating in efforts to free and secure Iraq. Mission objectives focus on force protection, peacekeeping, stabilization, security and counter-insurgency operations as the Iraqi transitional governing bodies assume full sovereign powers to govern the peoples of Iraq.

MICHAEL R. GUERARD

Members from all branches of the U.S. military and multinational forces are also assisting in rebuilding Iraq's economic and governmental infrastructure, and training and preparing Iraqi military and security forces to assume full authority and responsibility in defending and preserving Iraq's sovereignty and independence as a democracy.

The private is a light-wheeled vehicle mechanic regularly assigned to the 6th Battalion, 27th Field Artillery, Fort Sill, Lawton, Okla.

He is the son of Eugene M. Brusin and Debora A. Bostock of Edison St., Quincy.

Guerard is a 1999 graduate of Quincy High School.

State Street, Boston Financial, NQHS Sign 17th Partnership Agreement

North Quincy High School, State Street Corporation and Boston Financial Data Services recently held their 17th annual partnership signing ceremony.

Principal Louis Ioanilli hailed the partnership as a symbol and model for school and business collaboration in Quincy and throughout the country.

Ron Logue, chairman and CEO of State Street Corporation commended the staff of North Quincy High School for its passion in promoting teaching and learning.

Steven Hooley, president and CEO of Boston Financial Data, said he regarded the partnership and its initiatives as an investment in the future.

Mayor William Phelan praised the partnership and its initiatives for the new opportunities it opened to the students of North Quincy High School.

Beachcombing Treasures Topic Of Library Program

Quincy resident Norma Jane Langford will draw attention to the mysterious shards of pottery and sea glass that was up on Quincy's beaches this month at the Thomas Crane Public Library,

In her presentation, "China Beach: Treasures from the Sea," Langford will show slides, display her own collection of treasures and explore the story of her finds in Houghs Neck when she found pre-World War I amethyst glass, hand-blown glass circa 1820 and a tiny porcelain doll from Europe.

Thursday, Jan. 5, at 7 p.m.

Then she will lead a winter beachcombing walk Saturday, Jan. 7, at the Edgewater Drive beach in Houghs Neck, beginning at 10:30 a.m. at Brill Field at Sea Street and Island Avenue.

Rain date for the walk is Sunday, Jan. 8, at 1 p.m.

Langford's interest in beachcombing began during a winter walk along the beach

She is a senior lecturer at Northeastern University and writes and lectures on a variety of topics, including historic houses and gardens, archaeology, urban farming and travel.

The China Beach program is sponsored by the Friends of the Thomas Crane Public Library and the Park Department's Environmental Treasurers program.

Quincy College Inducts Three New Governors

Quincy College has inducted three new members to its Board of Governors.

The three—all Quincy residents are:

Police Chief Robert F. Crowley, businessman Mark Bertman and Peter H. Tsaffaras, experienced in the field of higher education.

The Appointing Council for the board selected the three after meeting several times with them. They were inducted by City Clerk Joseph Shea Dec. 15.

Crowley has more than 30 years of law enforcement experience with leadership skills in uniting community members, public officials and department staff.

Crowley completed his undergraduate studies at Stonehill College and earned his master's degree in Criminal Justice at Anna Maria College.

He was a sergeant in the Light Helicopter Squadron in the U.S. Marine Corps Reserve.

Crowley was also a Special Agent for the U.S. Department of Justice in New York City before joining the Quincy Police Department in 1972.

A businessman in Quincy since 1960, Bertman brings a knowledge and perspective of commerce and business development in Quincy over the last four decades to the Board of Governors. Owner of Rogers Jewelry, he has served as a board member for local organizations including the original Quincy Center Business and Professional Association, the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, and the South Shore Big Brothers and Big Sisters Program of Quincy. Born in Boston and raised in Brookline, he graduated from Boston University's College of Business Administration. He is a recipient of the Jason Feldman Outstanding Citizen Award (1998) from Quincy Court, and fundraiser for the Salvation Army.

Tsaffaras has 20 years of work experience in the field of higher education. He is the Director of Employee Relations and Benefit Administration for the Massachusetts Board of Higher Education, an organization dedicated to ensuring a standard of quality in the programs and services offered by institutions of higher education in the Commonwealth.

After earning an undergraduate degree in History at the University of Massachusetts-Lowell, Tsaffaras completed his graduate work at Umass-Boston in Education. He received a Juris Doctor degree from the New England School of Law, and currently maintains a general practice of law in Quincy in addition to his work for the Massachusetts Board of Higher Education.

QUINCY COLLEGE has appointed three new College Governors to serve on its board. The Appointing Council for the Board selected the new governors after meeting several times during the fall semester. The new members (from left) Mark Bertman, Robert F. Crowley, and Peter H. Tsaffaras, were recently inducted by City Clerk Joe Shea in the President's Conference Room at Quincy College.

Vincent Dolan Veterans Council Commander

Caring For Endangered Species

QHS Students Participating In 'Head Start' Program For Plymouth Red Belly Turtles

Students at Quincy High School are participating in the "Head Start Program" for Plymouth Red Belly Turtles.

Early in October the AP Environmental Science and Marine Science Students obtained Plymouth Red Bellied Turtles which they will care for until April. Students set up an aquarium with a sand covered platform, two filters, and infrared heat lamp and a full spectrum grow lamp.

Students will work on experiments to determine the ideal conditions for the turtles to grow and develop at maximum levels. The turtles will be measured weekly and students will report data to Mass Wildlife. Students need to be very careful not to over handle the turtles since the turtles may experience retarded growth under stressful conditions.

Plymouth Red-Bellied Turtles were declared an endangered species by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service in 1980. It was estimated that less than 300 survived the previous winter. Plymouth Red-Bellied Turtles live almost exclusively in Plymouth County. The threat to their survival stems from the development of upland habitats surrounding ponds and shorelines. This adversely affects the turtle through loss of nesting and basking sites, increased predation of eggs by raccoons and skunks, fluctuation in water table levels and morality from vehicular traffic, shooting and pets.

The division of Fisheries and Wildlife have established a "Head Start Program" in order to increase survival rate of young hatchlings. Young turtles weigh as little as 5 grams and are vulnerable to predators during early stages of development. In addition, if the fall/winter seasons are particularly cold the baby turtles don't survive.

Science teacher Peter Swanson said he is pleased with the response of the students in his classes. Students seem to be extremely excited to be part of the Head Start Program and have shown new found respect for their unusual classmates.

Will Ortiz , a Marine Science Student, said he believes Quincy High School is the right place for the turtles. Ortiz is a member of the varsity football team and wants to compete in a nurturing way with the turtles.

" I believe that we will make the right choices for our new friends. We want our turtles to show the most growth in any of the other Head Start Centers. We are constantly observing their behavior and doing everything possible to provide an enriching environment of them," he said.

QHS STUDENTS from the Quincy Police Student Academy, with the aid of Police Lt. Dan Minton and Director Jim Flahive, donated 10 turkey dinners to the needy of Quincy for Thanksgiving.

10 Turkey Dinners Donated To Needy Families

Members of the Quincy Police Student Academy, with the assistance of Police Lt. Dan Minton and Director Jim Flahive of Quincy High School, donated 10 complete turkey dinners to Quincy's needy families over the holidays.

Sean McPartlin, manager of Star Market on Granite Street, donated the turkeys and Bill Mignosa of Lambert Fruit Market donated the produce and students and staff of Quincy High School worked through November to gather the meals.

Quincy 2000 Offering Business Training Course

Quincy 2000 Collaborative will co-sponsor a business training course with the South Shore Chamber of Commerce in partnership with the UMass/Boston Small Business Development Center (SBDC).

SBDC's NxLevel program is a business-training course designed to enhance entrepreneurial skills and assist business people in creating a comprehensive business plan.

The course will begin Jan. 23 and run for 12 Monday evenings from 6 to 9 p.m. through April 24 at the South Shore Chamber offices in Quincy. The full course costs $495. Fee for additional participants from the same company is $395 each. The application deadline is Jan. 16. Class size will be limited.

NxLevel is designed to help entrepreneurs learn the skills needed to create, develop and strengthen business ventures. Unlike other education courses, NxLevel addresses the special needs of the entrepreneur by providing a practical, hands-on and common sense approach to developing their business.

The course includes prominent business leaders, professionals and lenders as guest speakers, a comprehensive textbook, workbook and resource guide, and free business consulting.

Students will learn how to determine the feasibility of their business, how to write a business plan, how to identify opportunities and markets for their business and how and where to get funding.

More information and course applications are available from Quincy 2000 Collaborative at 617-847-1454.

Team Up With Dunkin' Donuts, Germantown Neighborhood Center

Quincy Firefighters Answer Call To Help Needy Families Enjoy Joyous Holiday Season

Three hundred and sixty-five days a year Quincy firefighters answer the call of those in need.

They save lives and protect property at the risk of their own safety to perform the duties of their life's mission.

However, on Christmas, they answer an additional call.

For the last five or so years, Quincy firefighters have joined forces with Dunkin' Donuts to help the Germantown Neighborhood Center offer a joyous holiday season to those who do not have the means to do so.

"It's all about giving back to the community," said Thomas Bowes, president of the Quincy Firefighters. "Firefighters are far from being financially well off, but we all know that there are families in Quincy that are much worse off than us. It is up to each of us to insure the well-being of our fellow man."

The Quincy Firefighters Association "adopted" three underprivileged families selected by Kathy Quigley, director of the Germantown Neighborhood Center. Two other families were "adopted" by individual firefighters for a total of five families.

The firefighters supplied clothing, shoes and boots, house-wares and toys for these families. "Many items we take for granted are Godsends to these people," said Quincy Firefighter Bill Arienti.

In addition to the other items, Arienti's 10-year-old son, Mark, took it upon himself to go door-to-door and collect donations from his neighbors in Hanover and was able to purchase turkey dinners for the adopted families.

When asked why he did this, Mark's only response was "I like helping people."

Quincy firefighters who worked on this effort include Thomas Bowes, Andy Smith, Bill Arienti, Ernest Arienti, Tom Gannon, Ed Nardone, and Jay Toner.

MARY BROWN of Germantown and her son, Seamus, express their gratitude to Mark Arienti and Santa Claus for the clothing, shoes, boots, toys and house-wares presented to them by Quincy firefighters.

QHS Students Participating In 'Head Start' Program For Plymouth Red Belly Turtles

Early in October the AP Environmental Science and Marine Science Students obtained Plymouth Red Bellied Turtles which they will care for until April. Students set up an aquarium with a sand covered platform, two filters, and infrared heat lamp and a full spectrum grow lamp.

Students will work on experiments to determine the ideal conditions for the turtles to grow and develop at maximum levels. The turtles will be measured weekly and students will report data to Mass Wildlife. Students need to be very careful not to over handle the turtles since the turtles may experience retarded growth under stressful conditions.

Plymouth Red-Bellied Turtles were declared an endangered species by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service in 1980. It was estimated that less than 300 survived the previous winter. Plymouth Red-Bellied Turtles live almost exclusively in Plymouth County. The threat to their survival stems from the development of upland habitats surrounding ponds and shorelines. This adversely affects the turtle through loss of nesting and basking sites, increased predation of eggs by raccoons and skunks, fluctuation in water table levels and morality from vehicular traffic, shooting and pets.

The division of Fisheries and Wildlife have established a "Head Start Program" in order to increase survival rate of young hatchlings. Young turtles weigh as little as 5 grams and are vulnerable to predators during early stages of development. In addition, if the fall/winter seasons are particularly cold the baby turtles don't survive.

Science teacher Peter Swanson said he is pleased with the response of the students in his classes. Students seem to be extremely excited to be part of the Head Start Program and have shown new found respect for their unusual classmates.

Will Ortiz , a Marine Science Student, said he believes Quincy High School is the right place for the turtles. Ortiz is a member of the varsity football team and wants to compete in a nurturing way with the turtles.

" I believe that we will make the right choices for our new friends. We want our turtles to show the most growth in any of the other Head Start Centers. We are constantly observing their behavior and doing everything possible to provide an enriching environment of them," he said.

QHS STUDENTS from the Quincy Police Student Academy, with the aid of Police Lt. Dan Minton and Director Jim Flahive, donated 10 turkey dinners to the needy of Quincy for Thanksgiving.

10 Turkey Dinners Donated To Needy Families

Members of the Quincy Police Student Academy, with the assistance of Police Lt. Dan Minton and Director Jim Flahive of Quincy High School, donated 10 complete turkey dinners to Quincy's needy families over the holidays.

Sean McPartlin, manager of Star Market on Granite Street, donated the turkeys and Bill Mignosa of Lambert Fruit Market donated the produce and students and staff of Quincy High School worked through November to gather the meals.

Quincy 2000 Offering Business Training Course

Quincy 2000 Collaborative will co-sponsor a business training course with the South Shore Chamber of Commerce in partnership with the UMass/Boston Small Business Development Center (SBDC).

SBDC's NxLevel program is a business-training course designed to enhance entrepreneurial skills and assist business people in creating a comprehensive business plan.

The course will begin Jan. 23 and run for 12 Monday evenings from 6 to 9 p.m. through April 24 at the South Shore Chamber offices in Quincy. The full course costs $495. Fee for additional participants from the same company is $395 each. The application deadline is Jan. 16. Class size will be limited.

NxLevel is designed to help entrepreneurs learn the skills needed to create, develop and strengthen business ventures. Unlike other education courses, NxLevel addresses the special needs of the entrepreneur by providing a practical, hands-on and common sense approach to developing their business.

The course includes prominent business leaders, professionals and lenders as guest speakers, a comprehensive textbook, workbook and resource guide, and free business consulting.

Students will learn how to determine the feasibility of their business, how to write a business plan, how to identify opportunities and markets for their business and how and where to get funding.

More information and course applications are available from Quincy 2000 Collaborative at 617-847-1454.

Team Up With Dunkin' Donuts, Germantown Neighborhood Center

Quincy Firefighters Answer Call To Help Needy Families Enjoy Joyous Holiday Season

Three hundred and sixty-five days a year Quincy firefighters answer the call of those in need.

They save lives and protect property at the risk of their own safety to perform the duties of their life's mission.

However, on Christmas, they answer an additional call.

For the last five or so years, Quincy firefighters have joined forces with Dunkin' Donuts to help the Germantown Neighborhood Center offer a joyous holiday season to those who do not have the means to do so.

"It's all about giving back to the community," said Thomas Bowes, president of the Quincy Firefighters. "Firefighters are far from being financially well off, but we all know that there are families in Quincy that are much worse off than us. It is up to each of us to insure the well-being of our fellow man."

The Quincy Firefighters Association "adopted" three underprivileged families selected by Kathy Quigley, director of the Germantown Neighborhood Center. Two other families were "adopted" by individual firefighters for a total of five families.

The firefighters supplied clothing, shoes and boots, house-wares and toys for these families. "Many items we take for granted are God-sends to these people," said Quincy Firefighter Bill Arienti.

In addition to the other items, Arienti's 10-year-old son, Mark, took it upon himself to go door-to-door and collect donations from his neighbors in Hanover and was able to purchase turkey dinners for the adopted families.

When asked why he did this, Mark's only response was "I like helping people."

Quincy firefighters who worked on this effort include Thomas Bowes, Andy Smith, Bill Arienti, Ernest Arienti, Tom Gannon, Ed Nardone, and Jay Toner.

MARY BROWN of Germantown and her son, Seamus, express their gratitude to Mark Arienti and Santa Claus for the clothing, shoes, boots, toys and house-wares presented to them by Quincy firefighters.

Senior Conference Renamed To Honor COA's John Noonan

It's not just the Quincy Senior Conference anymore — it's the John D. Noonan Senior Conference.

Noonan, the chairman of the Council on Aging for the past 25 years, was thus honored at the recent 10th anniversary senior conference.

Mayor William Phelan issued a proclamation designating the conference in his name in recognition of his year's of service to Quincy's elderly.

Former Mayor James Sheets, the keynote speaker, paid tribute to Noonan for his dedication to improving the quality of life for Quincy's fast growing senior population.

Financial Aid Forum Tonight At Quincy High School

Quincy and North Quincy High Schools will sponsor a college financial aid seminar Thursday, Jan. 5, from 7 to 9 p.m. at Quincy High School, 52 Coddington St.

A representative from MEFA will discuss various aspects of financial aid and the process parents and students go through when applying to college.

The seminar will teach parents how to fill out financial aid application forms, how financial aid is calculated and alternative financial decisions.

For more information, call Diane Merrill at Quincy High School, 617-984-8793.

Vocational Teachers Buyback Law Now In Effect

State Senator Michael Morrissey reports that the Legislature has passed into law, legislation that will allow vocational school teachers the option to buyback up to three years of creditable service.

The law, which went into effect Dec. 14, was passed over Governor Mitt Romney's veto. The Senate voted to override the governor's veto by a 38 to 0 vote, and the House of Representatives overrode the veto 155 to 0.

"The law received strong bi-partisan support in the Legislature," said Morrissey.

Morrissey championed the vocational school teacher creditable buyback legislation for almost two decades and worked closely with the Massachusetts Teachers Association, the Massachusetts Federation of Teachers, and the Massachusetts Vocational Teachers Association to pass the law by this year.

"A vocational teacher's teaching license is dependent on satisfying both the real work experience requirement under Chapter 71 of the law and the educational requirements set forth by the Department of Education's regulations," Morrissey said.

"Vocational school teachers become educators later in life compared to other public school teachers and they are unlikely to have the opportunity to reach a full retirement benefit." Licensed professions, such as plumbers and electricians, are required to pass an examination and train in an apprenticeship program before receiving a license.

MICHAEL MORRISSEY

"After receiving a professional license, the licensed professional must actively work a certain number of years in the licensed trade before being able to apply and receive a vocational school teacher's license."

The legislation, now Chapter 90 of the Acts of 2005, gives vocational school teachers the option to buy up to three additional years of creditable service. The vocational school teacher must be a member of either the Massachusetts Teachers Retirement System or the Boston Teachers Retirement System for at least 10 years before they are eligible. The vocational school teacher must pay into the retirement system with interest for the additional years as if he or she has worked those years. Once a vocational school teacher requests an application for creditable service and the appropriate retirement board has provided the forms and buyback costs, the vocational teacher has 180 days to decide whether to go forward with the buyback.

"Vocational school teachers should seek advice from their respective associations or the Massachusetts Teachers Retirement Board," Morrissey said.

William Chy Graduates Air Force Basic Training

Air Force Reserve Airman William Chy has graduated from basic military training at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas.

During the six weeks of training, the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization, and military customs and courtesies; performed drill and ceremony marches, and received physical training, rifle marksmanship, field training exercises, and special training in human relations.

In addition, airmen who complete basic training earn credits toward an associate degree through the Community College of the Air Force.

WILLIAM CHY

Chy is the son of Alice Cai of Old Colony Ave., Quincy.

He is a 2001 graduate of North Quincy High School.

Home Heating Oil, Motor Oil Don't Mix

Q: With the cost of home heating oil spiking so high, I'm having trouble paying to heat the three-unit apartment house I own. As I'm required to keep the temperature at or above 64 F, it's difficult for me to limit costs. Is it feasible for me to mix used motor oil with the heating oil to save some money? What ratio of motor oil to heating oil is best? — Buck T. in Massachusetts

A. I hate to break it to you, but mixing used motor oil with home heating oil is a terrible idea in so many ways: It's dangerous, it is ultimately expensive, and you really won't save much money.

Here's why burning used motor oil in a standard home furnace is dangerous. It contains all sorts of byproducts from being run through a car's engine, including dirt and small metal shavings, and it could be contaminated by other solvents after its removal from the engine to a storage container. You just don't know what's in it, even if you attempt to filter the oil before adding it to the tank.

In addition, motor oil is a high-viscosity product that will sink to the bottom of the tank and exist mostly as sludge. A small amount will enter the furnace's burner system and begin to clog it up. And then one day your furnace will backfire, sending clouds of noxious smoke into the living areas of the building.

This is where the expensive part comes in. You'll have to call a repairman to fix or replace the burner nozzle, the burner and all the filters. Maybe the entire furnace. And if the backfire produces a lot of soot or ash, your tenants may ask you to replace damaged possessions.

To add insult to injury, you probably won't save all that much in the first place. Motor oil doesn't burn efficiently in a home furnace, and the only suggested ratio I found was adding just a quart to some 200 gallons of heating oil, which is pointless.

One short-term solution I can see for you, as a landlord, is to winterize your tenants' living spaces as best you can (or ask them to do so). You also may have to raise rents to cover heating costs — if your lease contracts allow it.

Lower Your Energy Bill With The Right Home Exterior

If you're a homeowner looking to save on energy bills, one good solution may actually be on the outside of your home. The right exterior siding can significantly cut energy costs by helping to keep the home warmer in cool months and cooler in warm months. And for style-conscious homeowners, energysaving exteriors can also give the house a unique and stylish look (or facelift) and increase your home's value. Sound too good to be true? Not so, with an Exterior Insulation and Fetish System (EIFS). Here's how EIFS works.

Energy

Exterior insulation systems have become popular with homeowners, builders and architects because of their design flexibility and energy efficiency. By providing insulation on the outside of the wall where it is much more effective, these exterior cladding systems significantly reduce the year-round cost of heating and cooling. In an independent study by the Oak Ridge National Laboratory, one EIFS (manufactured by Dryvit Systems, West Warwick, RI) performed far better on energy tests than the six other common cladding choices tested (including brick, precast concrete and wood). Today, we know that Dryvit home exteriors lower energy costs by at least 20 percent.

Design

One of the unique benefits of EIF systems is that they can be shaped, colored and textured to achieve virtually any look. Dryvit, for example, manufactures different finishes that accurately replicate brick, limestone, stucco and granite, allowing for the design of more unique and visually interesting homes. A striking and much publicized example of Dryvit's Custom Brick finish can be seen at the Venetian Hotel in Las Vegas- on both interior and exterior walls. Enhanced energy efficiency and varied finish styles make EIFS a truly unique home exterior option.

Quality Guarantee

Dryvit's residential systems can carry a warranty "as long as the mortgage," with 30 years of coverage when installed by qualified building professionals. For more information on this exclusive warranty and on EIFS in general, visit www.dryvit.com or call 800-4DRYVIT.

Info Seminar At Registry Of Deeds Jan. 19

Register of Deeds William P. O'Donnell will host an informational seminar on computer assisted land records research at the Registry of Deeds in Dedham Thursday, Jan. 19 from 4:30 to 5:30 p.m.

The seminar is intended for both real estate professionals and the public.

The program will include a brief presentation (at 4:30 and again at 5 p.m.), written reference materials, and hands-on exercises.

There will be opportunities for both basic and advanced questions and answers.

Computer assisted land records research is available both at the Registry and on the Internet at www.norfolkdeeds.org.

There is no charge for the seminar. Persons planning to attend are asked to register by phone (781-461-6116).

The Registry of Deeds, located at 649 High St., Dedham, is the principal office for real property in Norfolk County.

The Registry receives and records hundreds of thousands of documents each year and is a basic resource for homeowners, title examiners, mortgage lenders, municipalities and others with a need for secure, accurate and accessible land record information.

Commonly Overlooked Household Hazards

Many parents and caregivers know to install safety gates and locks around their home. They know not to leave sharp or harmful objects within a child's reach, and to cover all electrical outlets. Some other potential hazards, however, aren't as obvious. Here are just a few:

• Toxic Plants. Certain plants, such as English Ivy and Philodendron, are extremely poisonous and can cause skin reactions, diarrhea, vomiting and convulsions. Be sure to keep all plants out of the reach of children, and check with a local poison control center for a list of toxic plants.

• Showers. When bathing a child, make sure the shower converter is properly adjusted. If a child gets his hands on the faucet knobs and the shower is activated, he can be burned by the scalding hot water.

• Sliding Glass Doors. These are a risk to children-and also adults-because the doors are difficult to see. Be sure to place decals on the glass doors to make them obvious to avoid collision injuries.

• Window Cords. Since 1991, more than 175 infants and young children have died from accidentally strangling on window cords. Mini blinds and shades made before 2001 should be retrofitted or replaced with today's safer products or cordless designs.

Call 1-800-506-4636 to order free retrofit kits.

TIPS FOR HOMEOWNERS

Expelling Uninvited Guests

(NAPS) Whether Mother Nature has wreaked havoc on homes or a neighbor has been bitten by the remodeling bug, Americans nationwide have embarked on massive construction and reconstruction efforts. In fact, a recent Home Improvement Research Institute reports found that 52 percent of recent homebuyers completed one or more improvements within the first year of purchase and half were planning at least one more project within the next year.

Any time ground is broken, whether by construction or otherwise, its natural inhabitants, mice and rats, who once made their homes outdoors will begin traveling indoors seeking food, water and shelter. Some tell-tale signs of infestation include scampering or gnawing sounds late at night and droppings in noncongested areas. If you cat or dog paws excitedly at the base of your refrigerator or walls, it may be because of the smell of vermin.

Mr. Fix-It, Lou Manfredini, offers the following tips on ways to help avoid rodent infestation:

• Mice can squeeze through spaces as small as a dime. Be sure to inspect your home and seal up all potential entrances with steel wool, sheet metal or cement. Or better yet, seal holes and cracks with clay mixed with cayenne pepper. It's a taste they won't forget.

• Keep piles of firewood or debris away from the foundation of your home and trim all bushes and trees that are near the house to prevent rodents from nesting in these areas. Additionally, be diligent about trash removal, it only provides another home for pests. Sprinkle a little powdered laundry detergent near the foundation; rodents do not like the smell.

• Never leave food or water out overnight, even for your pets. If you pets do their business in the backyard, make sure to pick up after them daily.

• Be proactive and keep a supply of d-CON Rodenticides on hand. Regular baiting and trapping helps deter rodents. If you squirm at the thought of removing a dead rodent, try d-CON's No View, No Touch Mouse Trap, which kills the mouse and keeps it concealed in the trap for clean and easy disposal.

For more information on rodent prevention or for a free brochure, call d-CON at 1-800-395-3266.

Home Ideas

(NAPS) Homeowners should make sure they understand exactly what is covered in their insurance policies, considering budgeting for these situations, and learn how to deal with the most common home-related damages promptly and efficiently.

Keeping a list of emergency phone numbers can help save time, money and headaches. It's a good idea to include the number for a restoration company for fire, water or smoke damage.

Tips For The Right Size To Accessories

Selecting A Snowthrower

(NAPS) Even though you may face a blizzard of choices, these tips will help you select a snowthrower that meets your needs.

Selecting The Right Size Snowthrower

• What is your area's average annual snowfall. Select a snowthrower with enough power to handle the amount of snow you're likely to get during a "typical" winter.

• Measure your driveway and sidewalk(s), and how far you need to throw the snow.

• Homeowners experiencing heavy snowfalls with lots of area to clear will find large-frame, two-stage units ideal. Those living in light snow areas or who only need to move snow from narrow driveways, sidewalks and steps can usually get by with a single-stage unit.

Visit A Snowthrower Dealer

• A neighborhood dealer who handles snowthrowers is a great resource for finding the right unit.

• Bring along all potential operators. A snowthrower should feel manageable to everyone who will be using it.

• Be sure to start the unit and try the controls.

Consider The Need For Accessories

• Electric-start systems make starting your snowthrower in cold weather quick and easy.

• A good cab made of high-tech plastic protects the operator from wind and blowing snow and helps improve visibility.

• Headlights, drift cutters and hand warmers all enhance snowthrower operations.

• Simplicity Manufacturing, for example, offers several exclusive features on its Simplicity and Snapper brand large-frame two-stage snowthrowers to make clearing snow quick and easy. These include Easy Turn, which allows the operator to release the drive power to the right wheel for easy maneuvering and 180-degree turning.

Finally, ask about service. Factory-trained servicing dealers can provide service as well as preseason maintenance.

Visit www.simplicitymfg.com or www.snapper.com for more information.

New Building Codes For Residential Bathrooms

(NAPS) Do-it-yourselfers, builders and remodelers now have a new consideration for their bathroom designs. Changes made to the 2006 International Residential Code (IRC) no longer recognize moisture-resistant, paper-faced drywall (commonly known as "greenboard") as a suitable tile backing material in wet areas such as tub and shower surrounds.

Instead, a cement-based backerboard or other approved moisture-resistant tile backerboard product must be specified to meet IRC requirements. These products tend to provide better overall performance in wet areas than green board.

However, green board is still suitable for use in many areas where it has traditionally been installed, including bathroom walls, laundry rooms and basements.

While most municipalities have their own building codes, they are typically adopted from code groups that develop a range of standards. Numerous industry groups and municipalities have said for years that paper-faced board should not be used in tile applications, including the Tile Council of America and National Tile Contractors Association.

These organizations have long recommended installing cement board and other materials that comply with ASTM (American Society for Testing and Materials) standards governing moisture and mold on surfaces.

Tubs and Showers

Tub areas and shower stalls are some of the most common areas in a home for moisture to pose a problem. Water can damage walls and floors and create more serious problems, including mod. That's why it is crucial to install the proper tile-backing material.

There are several high-performance tile backers on the market today, most notably DUROCK Brand Cement Board from United States Gypsum Company. This cement board is preferred by contractors and builders alike because of its tile-holding strength and ease of installation and other benefits.

The cement board panels are composed of an aggregated portland cement core, sandwiched between two layers of reinforcing glass-fiber mesh, giving the product excellent tile bond strength and durability. Cement board also resists mold and moisture and is available in a variety of thicknesses and sizes to suit most applications.

U.S. Gypsum makes another product called FIBEROCK Brand AQUATOUGH Tile Backerboard, which is ideal for use as a tile backer in areas exposed to intermittent moisture, such as tub surrounds.

Designed to be installed and finished like traditional walletboard, this new tile backerboard features a smooth surface that can be finished with a ceramic tile or painted. The product offers outstanding resistance to mold and moisture and is an environmentally friendly option because it is made from recycled materials. The backerboard is available in a 1/2 inch thickness and several different sizes.

Both cement board and tile backerboard are popular replacement for green board, which has been phased out by as many as 70 percent of the nation's high-end custom builders, based on a recent industry survey.

Perhaps best of all, according to U.S. Gypsum, the additional cost of using cement board or tile backerboard is minimal for each shower or tub surround. Many builders and remodelers are already making this investment, and urge do-it-yourselfers to follow suit.

A Job Well Done

By LT. DAN MINTON
Quincy Police Crime Prevention Officer

On Nov. 25, at approximately 1:30 a.m., Officer Steve O'Donoghue and Fallon Ambulance were dispatched to the 7-11 store on Franklin Street to investigate a man bleeding inside the store.

Upon arrival, he met with the victim, a 20-year-old Milton resident, who stated a friend hit him with a crowbar. The victim was transported to Quincy Medical Center and Officer O'Donoghue pursued the investigation there.

LT. DAN MINTON

The victim said he and his friend got lost driving out to Framingham for a party. He said when he contacted the host of the party, he was told it was now too late to come to the party. After being lost and not being able to go to the party, the friends got into an argument on the way home.

Once in Quincy, the suspect told the victim to pull over because he wanted to drive. As they switched seats, the argument escalated to the point that the suspect got out, reached into the back seat for a crowbar, then went to the victim, now sitting in the passenger seat, and struck him twice.

The first blow hit him on the upper thigh and the second blow hit the right hand. The victim said he did not expect the assault and since the second strike hit the victim's hands, Officer O'Donoghue recognized that he used his hands to prevent a serious blow to crucial parts of the body. This is also known as a defensive wound.

The victim said he called the police after the suspect drove him to the 7-11 store and dropped him of. A search of the area where the assault occurred was conducted but no weapon was found. A description of the suspect and his vehicle were broadcast to all units and the suspect's residence was checked to no avail.

After photos of the victim's injuries were taken, Officer O'Donoghue contacted the suspect on his cell phone and convinced him to come to the police station to be interviewed. The suspect said there was an argument and the victim got him so upset that he pulled a "metal thick wire" from the back seat and hit him with it.

The suspect, who was given his Miranda Rights (right to remain silent . . .), said he did not know the whereabouts of the weapon and gave permission to search his car. Although the weapon was not found in the car, there was a significant amount of blood.

Based upon the totality of the circumstances, Officer O'Donoghue placed the suspect, a 23-year-old Quincy resident, under arrest on the charge of "Assault and Battery with a Dangerous Weapon." Nice work!

SPOTLIGHT ON HEALTH & FITNESS

FROM START TO FITNESS

by Andrea Wyatt M.S.S., C.S.C.S.

Bad Posture

Q. My posture has gone from bad to worse over the past year. I blame it on my job, which requires me to sit for long periods of time at my computer. Even my friends have mentioned how my back is becoming rounded. Can exercises give me good posture? I already work out three days a week.

A. Sedentary jobs and the lack of physical activity have created the common picture of slanted shoulders, forward head position and rounded back. Many of these postural distortions can be corrected by making a conscious effort to improve your environment and lifestyle.

First, we need to look at what constitutes "good" posture. Is it standing up straight with your chest out and head up? Well, although we tend to look at the upper body when evaluating posture, we really need to focus from the feet on up. The position of your feet, knees and hips, in addition to your lower back, shoulders and neck, all play a role in maintaining an effective postural stance.

To know exactly where you can improve your postural balance, we need to assess whether your knees come in or bow out, if you have high arches or flat feet, an anterior or posterior tilted pelvis, forwardly rotated shoulders and your forward head position.

Consult your physician or a fitness professional to help identity whether your posture problems are a result of structural deformation, muscular imbalance or lifestyle choices. Once the source is found, the work can begin.

Muscular imbalances can be addressed with strengthening and flexibility exercises to improve the weak, tight muscles of the body. Be sure your workout routine includes exercises that strengthen your upper back, shoulders, lower back, abdominals, glutes and hamstrings (we often forget about the muscles we can't see in the mirror), in addition to stretching to improve the flexibility of muscles that are tight. Discuss the type of stretching that's right for you with your fitness professional.

Lifestyle choices can also aid in poor posture. One of the best adjustments you can make is correcting how you sit at work, in the car and while relaxing on the couch. At work, be sure your computer and seat are at the proper height and that you limit the amount of slouching and leaning done throughout the day. You can improve your posture immediately by sitting up, slightly contracting your abdominals, pulling your shoulder blades together and keeping your head in alignment with your shoulders.

Allow your lifestyle choices to improve your posture, not hinder it.

Always consult a physician before beginning an exercise program. If you have a fitness or training question, e-mail Andrea at letters.kfws@hearstsc. com or write her in care of King Features Weekly Service, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475.

Simple Steps From An Orthopedic Surgeon

Preventing Winter Sports Injuries

Winter weather has arrived in New England, creating ideal conditions for the outdoor activities so many of us look forward to.

And this year, like past years, doctors' offices and emergency rooms will be busy treating patients with winter sports injuries. In 2004, the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission reported more than 500,000 injuries from activities such as ice hockey; ice skating; sledding, skiing, tobogganing, snowmobiling and snow boarding.

"It's not doing routine activities where people get hurt. It's usually doing something they don't have the skills for, like riding the rail in a snowboard park or flying down a double black diamond," said Daniel F. O'Neill, M.D., Ed.D., an orthopedic surgeon specializing in sports medicine and founder and director of the New Hampshire Knee Center in central New Hampshire.

Research shows that preparing for and using caution when participating in outdoor activities during the winter months can significantly reduce the risk of injury.

According to Dr. O'Neill, the following tips will help reduce the risk of injury from outdoor activities this winter:

1. Maintain a strong fitness level year round. To accomplish this, include cross training, yoga and Pilates in your regimen. Snow sports are very physically demanding and require balance and flexibility; two qualities that decrease as you age.

2. Update your equipment when necessary. Technology innovations typically equate to improved safety and function. This is especially true with the new fabrics for cold weather clothing.

3. Vary your types of winter equipment. Keep different types of equipment on hand for changing conditions such as cross country skis, snow shoes, cramp-ons, ice skates, Alpine skis, and snowboards. It's often a good idea to do one activity in the morning and switch to a different one in the afternoon. Cross training reduces fatigue — and its fun!

4. Hydrate, eat right, and get plenty of sleep. These three things are particularly important outside in winter conditions as your body is constantly working to maintain an ideal temperature. DO NOT go into the woods in the winter unless you are prepared, experienced, and fit.

5. Warm up, stretch and cool down. There's no rule against clipping out of your skis at the top of the lift to get a good stretch of your calves, quads and hamstrings. Also, a light jog or swim after a long day of exercise can help loosen your muscles.

6. Look for groomed trails. Conditions in the Northeast can change by the hour. Warm up with groomed runs before hitting the back country.

7. Call it quits by 3 p.m. This is particularly important for both young and old. At the end of the day the lack of lighting can make it challenging to see, and falling temperatures often create icy conditions. On the slopes, many tired folks are heading for the lodge so be alert for other skiers at the end of the day.

8. You're not Bode! Pace yourself, and don't place performance over comfort.

9. Be the ball! Take a moment before your activity to mentally prepare with some visualization exercises. Also, you don't need alcohol to enjoy winter activities – this stuff is already fun.

How To Recognize Exercise-Induced Asthma

(NU) Exercise and sports that require continuous activity, especially running and cold-weather activities, can induce asthmatic symptoms. Exercise-induced asthma affects about 17 million Americans, many of which are children.

Symptoms include coughing, wheezing, chest tightness, breathing difficulty and shortness of breath. Children with exercise-induced asthma often start to experience symptoms five to 20 minutes after they begin to exercise.

Recognizing exercise-induced asthma in your child can be difficult because symptoms often take a subtle form. Your child may complain that he cannot run as quickly as friends or may express a dislike for sports. Avoiding sports or physical activity limits quality of life for some children and can lead to problems with fellow students and low self-esteem.

Sports that may act as triggers for exercise-induced asthma include soccer, basketball, field hockey, long-distance running, cross-country skiing and hockey.

"There is no cure for exercise-induced asthma," said Dr. Michael Kaliner, medical director of the Institute for Asthma and Allergy in Chevy Chase, Md. "But by preventing inflammation, you can successfully reduce the chances of having an asthmatic attack."

It is important for children to receive proper diagnosis and treatment.

"For children five years and older, one option is Intal," Kathliner said. It works by preventing certain cells from releasing substances that may cause inflammation in the air passages. It is important to not that Intal should be used prior to engaging in exercise, as it cannot treat acute asthma attacks."

It is also a good idea to provide your child's gym teacher or coach with written instructions, including:

• The nature and severity of the exercise-induced asthma.

• Which medicines are used to prevent it and how to use them.

• Techniques to avoid exercise-induced asthma, including a sufficient warm-up period.

• Warning signs when your child is experiencing an asthma attack.

With appropriate management, most children are able to exercise and perform to their full ability.

The most common side effects from Intal therapy in controlled clinical studies were throat irritation or dryness, unpleasant taste, cough, wheeze and nausea. Intal inhaler should not be used in patients who have shown hypersensitivity to cromolyn sodium or other ingredients in this product, Intal has no role in treatment of an acute asthma attack.

DENTISTRY for the 21st Century

by Steven A. Brustin, D.M.D.

TOO BUSY TO SCHEDULE AN APPOINTMENT?

If you think that your schedule is too hectic to take time to visit the dentist for a cleaning and examination, consider the following story. On October 3, 2005, Pope Benedict XVI was approaching the end of the morning session of a synod of bishops at the Vatican. At that point, Archbishop Nikola Eterovic made an announcement that the afternoon session was scheduled to begin at 4:30 in the afternoon. Then, just before the microphones on the dais were turned off, the Pope could be heard on closed circuit television telling the archbishop in Italian, "Unfortunately, at 4 p.m., I have an appointment with the dentist." That's leading by example. Our entire staff encourages your questions about comprehensive dental care. We supply superior oral health care for the entire family. For answers to your oral health issue questions we invite you to call our office at 617-479-6220. Your health is our first priority. We offer almost any type of dental treatment right here in our office, and we are pleased to provide you with state-of-the-art dental care at 44 Greenleaf Street. Our goal is to make each visit to our office a comfortable and positive experience. We offer the services of anesthesiology with a fully trained and qualified anesthesiologist. Visit us on the web at www.quincydentist.com.

P.S. Visiting the dentist twice a year for regular cleanings and examinations helps avert problems that could lead to costly work later.

GIRLS' BASKETBALL

Quincy Drops First Game

By CHRIS POISSON

The Quincy High School girls' basketball team came down with a case of "vacation syndrome" last week.

After opening with a 3-0 record, the Presidents dropped their first game of the season last Tuesday at Norwell, 41-34, during school vacation week.

"I think we got vacation syndrome," said head coach Jeff Bretsch. "We just came out flat. We didn't have intensity on defense like the previous game. We weren't sharp. We looked like we were on vacation, mentally."

"Overall, I've been pleased with our performance," he added. "We move the ball very well. We're very unselfish and look for the best shot. At times, we've run the floor well. At times, we've shown we can be an outstanding defensive team.

"We have that potential. It's a good group of kids. They're committed to making this a great season. I think we'll be fine."

Quincy traveled to Whitman-Hanson Tuesday and will host Plymouth North Friday at 6:30 p.m.

Against Norwell, junior forward Brighid Kyle played an aggressive game and scored a team-high 14 points. Senior co-captains Jessica Page and Ashlee Scott added 11 and eight points, respectively.

"We just played terribly," said Bretsch, whose team trailed, 20-17, at halftime. "As our defense goes, so goes our team. We weren't creating pressure like we usually do. Hopefully, we'll learn from that experience and move on."

On Dec. 22, Quincy cruised to a 58-47 home victory against Methuen. Page led the team with 21 points and sophomore guard Meagan Tobin netted 15, shooting 9-of-11 from the free-throw line.

Sophomore guard Marybeth Torpey chipped in eight points and dished out 10 assists, tying the school record held by Kerry Duffy. Kyle also scored eight points and sophomore center Elizabeth Bock totaled four.

"We played our best basketball of the year in the first half," said Bretsch, whose team built a 36-16 halftime advantage. "We moved the ball well, we were really aggressive, made good decisions and pushed the ball up court. It was a glimpse of how good this team could be."

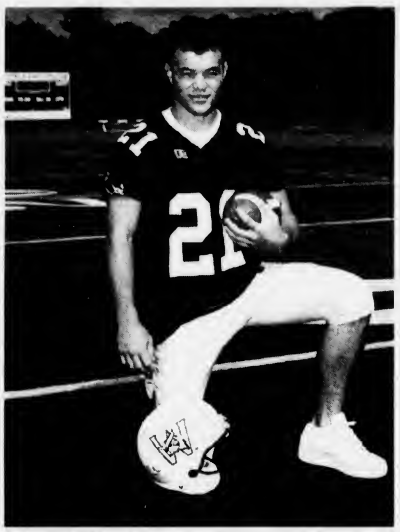
On Dec. 21, Quincy cruised to a 36-22 lead over Plymouth South at the break en route to a 52-45 home victory.

Page poured in 24 points, hitting her 15th straight free throw to open the season. Tobin added nine points.

"We just dominated the first eight minutes of the game and then kind of got a chance to play a lot of kids and they did a fine job," Bretsch said. "In the second half we didn't play particularly well. Our defensive intensity wasn't what it usually is."

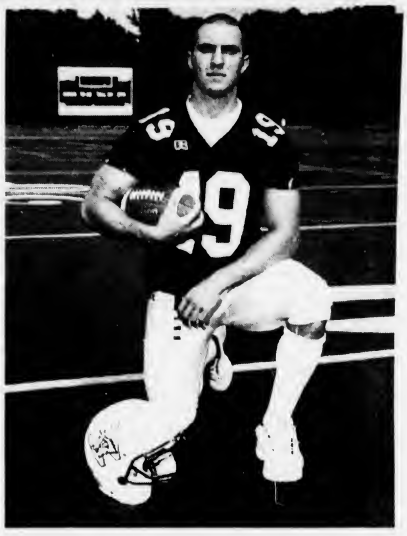
In the Dec. 15 season opener, Quincy pulled out a thrilling, last-second 42-38 victory at Weymouth.

After the Presidents blew a 12-point lead in the second half, Tobin rescued her teammates when she buried a three-pointer with 20 seconds left to snap a 38-38 tie — the second time in her career she's provided late-game heroics.



Quincy made a huge defensive stop after Tobin's trey and Torpey added a free throw to account for the four-point win. Page tallied 19 points and nine rebounds. Tobin added seven points and Scott six.

Bottle, Can Drive Saturday



The Quincy/North Quincy High School girls' hockey team will hold a bottle and can drive Saturday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the front parking area of North Quincy High School.

Those who need cans or bottles to be picked up can call 617-472-5189.

Holleran, Lorenzano Lead Westfield State Football

B.J. HOLLERAN of Quincy (North Quincy High School) was a member of the Westfield State College football team that finished with a 4-5 record during the 2005 season. The senior wide receiver led the 14-team New England Football Conference with 61 catches for 809 yards and five touchdowns. He set two schools records this season - most catches (14) in a game and a longest TD reception of 90 yards.

MIKE LORENZANO of Quincy (Quincy High School) was also member of the Westfield State College football team this past season. The senior was Westfield's starting quarterback. He completed 97 of 204 passes for 1,199 yards and six touchdowns. His favorite receiver was senior wide receiver B.J. Holleran of Quincy, who led the New England Football Conference with 61 catches for 809 yards.

South Shore YMCA Men's Basketball Starts Jan. 10

The South Shore YMCA, 79 Coddington St., Quincy, will hold its men's basketball league beginning Tuesday, Jan. 10.

Registration began Monday. The season consists of regularly scheduled games Thursday and Friday nights as well as playoffs and a championship series.

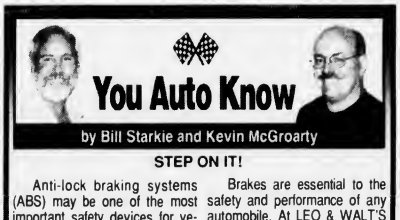
There is a maximum of 12 teams. There must be a minimum of eight players per team. Only 12 players will be allowed per team. Must be 18 years old to play.

For more information, contact Tish Holmes at 617-479-8500, ext. 161.

Brian O'Hanley On BC Men's Ice Hockey Team

Brian O'Hanley of Quincy has played in the first 14 games for the Boston College men's hockey team this season.

The sophomore defenseman has registered three assists, seeing significant time on both the offense and defense. He assisted on BC's lone goal in a tie at Northeastern Oct. 22.



Presidents Hockey Blank Lynn-English

The Quincy High School hockey team remained undefeated with a 3-0 shutout last Wednesday at Lynn English.

Senior forward Mike McKeon and senior co-captain Matt Giordani each tallied a goal and an assist and sophomore forward Ted Walsh also scored.

Senior goalie Alex Smith turned back 15 shots for his second shutout of the season. He also blanked Plymouth North in a 2-0 win Dec. 21.

The Presidents (4-0), who had only one victory last year, faced off against neighboring North Quincy yesterday (Wednesday, 7:10 p.m.) at Quincy Youth Arena. They host Dennis-Yarmouth Jan. 11 at 7:10 p.m.

STEP ON IT!

Anti-lock braking systems (ABS) may be one of the most important safety devices for vehicles in recent years, but they must be utilized correctly. Otherwise, drivers risk getting into the very spins and slides that the system is designed to avoid. ABS uses sensors to keep a vehicle's wheels from locking up and causing a skid. To do this, it applies individual brakes, for microseconds, whenever the system senses lockup. Before the advent of ABS, drivers used to try to prevent lockup by intermittently pumping their brakes. However, if drivers try to exert this old habit with ABS, the system will be ineffective. ABS requires simply that drivers stomp on the brakes, without letting up. ABS does the rest.

Brakes are essential to the safety and performance of any automobile. At LEO & WALT'S SUNOCO, our mechanics are trained to work on ABS brakes, and would be more than happy to check your car's brakes. If your brake light, or any indicator light, is on in your car please don't hesitate to bring it to 258 Quincy Ave., E. Braintree. When you bring your car to us you will receive the professional care you deserve. If you have any questions please call 781-843-1550. We are "A Place Where Your Car Can Live Longer."

HINT: Get used to using ABS by practicing in empty parking lots with slippery surfaces. Become accustomed to the system's chatter and pedal vibration.

SCOTT DEWARE

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

The next time a bid for cooperation is stressed, in any sort of venture, the following illustration might be used to excellent advantage.

A concert is enjoyed only when each musician does his part. Individual renditions, when given separately from the over all orchestration, are never as interesting or exciting. In any sort of venture, people working together create a working team similar to a good orchestra. Each player in the symphony is an individual with his specified part to play. Any foul up by the individual detracts from the finished result – or product. Similarly, every worker in a team is important with his own function to perform.

Each player in the symphony has to keep in mind the listener, playing his part so well that the listener can find nothing to criticize. Similarly, each worker in any venture must think of the person who will use his product or service.

Only when this is done can each participant have a common joy in a finished product or service... Much of today's criticism of service and/or products can be avoided if this sort of illustration is remembered – or stressed...

Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) As an Aries, you're eager to start the new year with a new project. But if you're getting mixed signals in response to your questions, consider holding off until everything is sorted out.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) In dealing with a still "iffy" workplace project, it might be wise to wait to get something more substantial going before you become too involved. A personal matter might need attention.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Helping disputing parties find a way to reach an understanding is laudable. But try not to take too much time away from matters of special concern for you and those close to you.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Things might not be as clear as you'd like, but those hazy areas could brighten up soon enough if you persist in having all your questions answered as a condition of any deal you might agree to.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Try to arrange your schedule to allow time for getting the facts to set up that plan you're considering. Potential supporters will also want more information before making commitments.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Making an assessment of last year's personal and professional successes and disappointments should provide a guideline for decisions you might well be facing in 2006.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) The new year could bring some long-awaited news that will affect your plans to expand your business. Some colleagues might offer advice, some of which could be worth listening to.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) As you get into your busy post-holiday work schedule, don't forget to set aside time for someone close to you who might still need you to provide emotional reassurance.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Learning more about some of the new people in your life could provide several surprises that the savvy Sagittarian will know how to put to his/her best advantage.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Several unexpected complications could threaten your plans. But once again, the nimble Goat will know how to get past those rocky moments without falling behind.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) While your creative aspect demands most of your energy this week, don't ignore matters dealing with practical challenges you might have to face up to in the not-so-distant future.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Some of the challenges that come with the new year might be unwelcome. But take the time to check them out before you make a decision about them one way or the other.

BORN THIS WEEK: You sometimes assume a parental attitude toward others, but they understand that it's only because you care for them.

Bank Of Canton Awards $2,500 In Holiday Giveaway

Bank of Canton's "Good Cheerlings" Holiday Promotion recently awarded $2,500 to area residents whose names were drawn over a four-week period at the bank's five branches, including the Quincy branch on Quincy Ave.

Irving Wish of Randolph was the grand prize winner and received a check for $1,000.

"We at Bank of Canton were happy to give back to the community during the holiday season," said James D. Egan, president and chief executive officer of Bank of Canton. "The 'Good Cheerlings' program allows us to thank the community, while informing them about our low loan rates and high interest rates for the upcoming year."

The promotion concluded at the bank's annual holiday party held at its main branch, 557 Washington St. in Canton. One of the guests was Santa Claus.

Paulo Deandrade Completes Basic Training

Navy Seaman Recruit Paulo J. Deandrade, son of Diolinda R. Monteiro of Quincy, recently completed U.S. Navy basic training at Recruit Training Command, Great Lakes, Ill. with honors.

During the eight-week program, Deandrade completed a variety of training which included classroom study and practical instruction on naval customs, first aid, firefighting, water safety and survival, and shipboard and aircraft safety.

An emphasis was also placed on physical fitness.

The capstone event of boot camp is "Battle Stations." This exercise gives recruits the skills and confidence they need to succeed in the fleet.

Deandrade is a 2005 graduate of Quincy High School.

MEMA Suggests Winter Weather Supply List

The Massachusetts Emergency Management Agency (MEMA) has issued a "Suggested Winter Weather Supply List" for the home and emergency items for the car.

"Everyone should have some non-perishable food, bottled water, flashlights and extra batteries around the house, along with a portable radio or NOAA Weather Radio in case of power outages or other emergencies caused by weather storm," says MEMA Director Christine McCombs.

Additional items that should be included are a freshly stocked first-aid kit, essential prescription medicines, non-perishable foods (those that require no refrigeration such as canned goods, dried fruits and nuts), a non-electric can opener, water (One gallon per person, per day), baby-care items, extra blankets, sleeping bags and a fire extinguisher.

"Every household should develop a Family Emergency Communication Plan in case family members are separated from one another during a storm," she said. "That is a real possibility during the day if adults are at work and children are at school," said McCombs.

Suggested items for a winter emergency car kit include a flashlight with extra batteries, a basic first-aid kit, necessary medications, a pocket knife, booster cables, a blanket or a sleeping bag, extra clothes (including rain gear, mittens and socks), non-perishable foods, a non-electric can opener, sand for generating vehicle traction, tire chains or traction mats, a basic tool kit (pliers, wrench, screwdriver), a tow rope, a container of water and a brightly colored cloth to serve as a flag, if necessary.

Ensure that your tires have adequate tread and keep your gas tank at least half-full. Plan long trips carefully, listening to the latest weather reports and road conditions. Travel during the day and if possible, try to take someone along with you.

Winter can be a difficult season that can be made easier with some basic preparedness planning.

Suggested Winter Weather Supply List:

Keep these items around the house in case of emergency during a winter storm.

- Flashlight and extra batteries.
- Portable radio or NOAA Weather Radio with extra batteries.
- First-aid kit.
- Essential prescription medicines.
- Non-perishable Food.
- Non-electric can opener.
- Water (one gallon per person/per day)
- Baby items.
- Extra blankets and sleeping bags
- Fire extinguisher.

Family Emergency Communication Plan:

Develop a "Family Emergency Communication Plan" in case family members are separated from one another during a winter storm (a real possibility during the day when adults are at work and children are at school), and have a plan for getting back together. Ask an out-of-state relative or friend to serve as the "family contact." After a disaster, it is often easier to call long distance. Make sure everyone knows the name, address and telephone number of the contact person.

Suggested Winter Emergency Car Kit

Keep the following items in your car in case of emergency during a Winter Storm:

- Flashlight with extra batteries.
- Basic first-aid kit.
- Necessary medications.
- Pocket knife.
- Blankets or sleeping bags.

Computer Troubleshooters Opens Franchise In Quincy

Computer Troubleshooters, the world's largest computer service network, has expanded in the U.S. with a new franchise office in Quincy.

Computer Troubleshooters offers friendly, low-cost computer service and consulting to area residents and small businesses.

The Quincy franchise is owned and operated by Jerry Forde, who has over 25 years of technology experience, specifically software engineering.

"I grew-up in Quincy and am now raising my family here. I've worked for software companies my entire career, which spans 25 years.

"For the past few years I've had a burning desire to start my own business and use my technology skills to build a successful computer services company. Computer Troubleshooters will allow me to have more flexibility so that I can be more involved with my family's activities and more involved in the local community.

QUINCY NATIVE Jerry Forde owns and operates a Computer Troubleshooters franchise based in Quincy.

"I look forward to working with the businesses in Quincy and providing them professional computer services."

The Computer Troubleshooters network includes more than 250 US computer service professionals and 400 locations worldwide.

The Quincy office will provide on-site computer repair, maintenance, networking, consulting, and internet support services, all uniquely designed around the needs and priorities of residents and businesses with one to 25 computers.

As member of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, Forde says he looks forward to serving the community of Quincy.

For more information, call Forde at 617-745-9800.

Police Seek Man In Armed Robbery Attempt

Quincy police are seeking a man who attempted to rob a Quincy Point gas station with a knife on New Year's Eve.

The clerk at U.S. Petroleum, 664 Washington St., fought off the robber, pulling his hood from his head to expose his face to a surveillance camera.

Quincy police Lt. Joe Burrell said they believe they know the man's identity. He said the assailant is a white man between the ages 25 to 35 with a receding hairline.

Burrell said the man entered the gas station before 9 p.m., demanded money and pulled a knife on the clerk before a fight broke out.

Surveillance video shows the robber hitting the clerk in the eye with the butt of the knife before leaving.

The clerk was taken to Massachusetts Eye and Ear Hospital in Boston.

Weymouth police believe the same man robbed Walgreen's on Bridge Street two hours later.

Fitness For Seniors At The Atrium

Dr. Wayne Westcott, a strength training consultant at the South Shore YMCA will present "Fitness for Seniors" Sunday, Jan. 8, at 2 p.m. at the Atrium at Faxon Woods, 2003 Falls Boulevard, Quincy.

Dr. Westcott will demonstrate how to avoid muscle loss, increase bone mineral density and reduce arthritic pain, all through fitness.

Refreshments will be served. Snow date is Sunday, Jan. 15 at 2 p.m. RSVP 617-471-5595.

Two New Deputy Chiefs

Phelan Promotes 6 In Fire Dept.

Mayor William Phelan has promoted six members of the Fire Department, bringing to 26 the number of firefighters promoted during his administration.

The latest six received their promotions last Thursday in ceremonies in the City Council chambers.

Gary A. Smyth and Jeffrey H. Starr were promoted to deputy chief.

Starr is a 28-year veteran of the department and had been a captain since 1993.

Smyth, who joined the department in 1987, had been a captain since 2002.

Promoted to the rank of captain were Stephen P. Baylis and Robert A. Gilbody. Baylis has 12 years experience in the department and Gilbody has been with the department since 1987.

Moving up to lieutenant were Myles J. O'Malley and Michael T. Marshall.

"I congratulate these men and their families for this achievement," said Phelan. "All have exemplary records of service to this department and our city. I am proud of the work that they do on a daily basis to make Quincy such a safe and livable city. We are committed to working with the department to continue to improve public safety in Quincy."

Last year, the city purchased two new state-of-the art pumper engines now located at Quincy Center and West Quincy. The city has also purchased 30 new Class A protections suits, personal protective equipment for all firefighters, and generators for all seven fire stations. Repairs have also been made to the stations at Quincy Point, North Quincy and Central Fire.

Former Alabama Resident Keynote Speaker

City To Honor MLK Monday

Related Story On Page 11

Louvenia Davenport Brewster, who grew up in segregated Alabama in the 1930s and '40s, will be the keynote speaker at the annual Dr. Martin Luther King Day breakfast Monday, Jan. 16, from 9 a.m. to 12 noon in the North Quincy High School cafeteria.

Celestine Dorch Howard, 97, the first African American teacher in the Quincy schools, at Central Junior High from 1962 to her retirement in 1979, will also be recognized at the breakfast.

Tickets are $10 for adults, $6 for students and senior citizens and may be purchased by calling 617-773-5306.

Ms. Brewster left the South to become a community activist in Boston and founder of the Quincy Geneva Neighborhood Improvement Association, the first and largest such organization in Dorchester.

She a business owner and retired teacher from the Boston public schools who has since taught as a substitute in the Quincy Public Schools. She has won a number of awards for her community activism.

Also on the breakfast program are Altarnation, a teenaged singing and rap group from Bethany Church of the Nazarene in Adams Shore and a computer presentation on Dr. King by the Germantown Neighborhood Center.

Attending the breakfast will be Norfolk District Attorney William Keating and the Rev. Dr. Thomas Pang, canon for the Asian-American Ministry of the Episcopal Diocese and director of the community center at St. Chrysostom's Church in Wollaston.

"We are pleased to honor Dr. King's legacy with a celebration of our diversity," said Mayor William Phelan.

"I encourage all Quincy residents to join us for an observance of the impact that Dr. King had on our society. I want to thank the Human Rights Commission for organizing this event."

Victim Identified, 'Person Of Interest' Found In Slaying

By TOM HENSHAW

The Norfolk District Attorney's office has identified a "person of interest" in the gunshot slaying of Deryck J. Long, 37, of Mattapan, outside a Willard Street, West Quincy, apartment house.

District Attorney William Keating identified him as Jamal Vaughn, 32, of Dorchester, who has been taken into custody in Boston on unrelated warrants.

"We should be very clear that no one has been charged in this homicide at this time," said Keating.

The site of the slaying was identified as a "troublesome" house at 145 Willard Street gunfire erupted just before midnight Monday night, leaving Long dead in the parking lot.

It was the first murder in Quincy since a stabbing in South Quincy on May 29,

Fir Tree Seedlings Bloom Under Evergreen Program

ELAINE CALIRI of Agawam Road, Merrymount, and City Councillor Leo Kelly flank 10-foot fir tree that was given to the Caliri family to care for in exchange for their old Christmas tree 10 years ago as part of the Quincy Evergreen Program.

The evergreen tree beside Elaine Caliri's house on Agawam Road, Merrymount, is 10 feet tall and growing, a tribute to the Quincy Evergreen Program now in its 17th year.

The tree was given to the Caliris some 10 years ago as a 10-inch seedling in exchange for their old Christmas tree and nursed to maturity by Mrs. Caliri and her husband, Robert.

The Caliris also have seven or eight smaller trees acquired in the program that has had an impact on the landscape of Quincy, the South Shore and points as far away as New Hampshire.

The 2005-06 program started Dec. 26 and will end Saturday, Jan. 14, between the hours of 7:30 a.m. and 3 p.m. at the Richard J. Koch Family Park and Recreation Center, One Merrymount Parkway.

Residents may turn in their old Christmas trees and receive in exchange a coupon that entitles them to a live 10-inch evergreen seedling for them to nourish Saturday and Sunday, April 29 and 30.

Over the years, the Caliris have learned to leave the seedlings in their pots, outdoors in the summer and indoors in the winter, until they have reach a point where they are sure to survive on their own.

The discarded trees are put through a chipper at the Public Works Department and turned into mulch that is used in flower beds all over the city

City Councillor Leo Kelly, who has chaired the program since its inception 17 years ago, estimates that it gives out some 1,000 seedlings a year.

It is sponsored by Jay Cashman, the contractor, who annually picks up the tab for the seedlings and promotional materials for the program.

Oh, yes, the Caliris have already turned in their 2005 Christmas tree for their 2006 seedling.

Ward 6 Democrats To Caucus Feb. 4 At Best Western Adams Inn

Registered Democrats in Quincy's Ward 6 will hold a caucus Saturday, Feb. 4 at 10 a.m. at the Best Western Adams Inn, 29 Hancock St., North Quincy, to elect 10 delegates and two alternates to the 2006 Massachusetts Democratic Convention.

Delegates will be divided equally between men and women.

The state convention will be held Friday, June 2 and Saturday, June 3 at the DCU Center in Worcester. At that time, Democrats from across the state will gather to endorse candidates for the office of Auditor, Treasurer, Attorney General, Secretary of the Commonwealth, Lt. Governor, Governor and U.S. Senator.

The names of those candidates who receive 15 percent of the state convention vote will be placed on the Sept. 19, 2006 Democratic Primary Ballot.

The caucus is open to all registered Democrats in Ward 6. Candidates for delegate and alternate must consent to nomination in writing and must be present at the caucus. All candidates may make a two-minute statement and may distribute materials on their behalf.

All ballots will be written and secret. Those not elected as delegate and/or alternate, who meet the qualifications, may apply to be add-on delegates in the following categories: youth, minority and disabled.

Discrimination on the basis of race, sex, age, color, creed, national origin, religion, ethnic identity, sexual orientation or economic status in the conduct of the caucus is strictly prohibited.

Challenges to the delegate selection process can be filed with the Massachusetts Democratic Party, 56 Roland St., Suite 203, Boston, MA 02129 no later than 10 days after the caucus date.

For more information, contact the Democratic State Committee at 617-776-2676.

City Joins Alzheimer's Search And Rescue Program

Quincy has joined a nationally recognized search and rescue program for people with Alzheimer's disease and related conditions.

Norfolk County Sheriff Michael Bellotti, statewide coordinator, Mayor William Phelan and Police Chief Robert Crowley signed the agreement Wednesday at City Hall.

The program, "Project Lifesaver," is a nationwide search and rescue program started by the Chesapeake, Va., Sheriff's Office in 1999. Massachusetts is the 32nd state to adopt the program.

The program utilizes state-of-the-art radio frequency technology to find missing persons. Project Lifesaver is designed specifically for people with Alzheimer's and related conditions such as autism and Down syndrome who may have a tendency to wander and go missing.

People on the program wear a personalized radio transmitter wristband that emits a tracking signal that specially trained teams using mobile tracking units can pick up if the person goes missing.

With the Quincy signing, all of Norfolk County's 28 communities are now participants. Currently, there are 30 people in Norfolk County being monitored by the program.

There are more than 15,000 people with Alzheimer's in Norfolk County, including more than 2,300 in Quincy alone, Bellotti said.

Nationally, autism occurs in one in 166 births, and Down syndrome one in 1,000 births.

Bellotti's office provides training for all law enforcement agencies throughout Massachusetts who adopt the search and rescue program. Regional response teams are then set up to answer calls for help.

Nationally, there have been 1,200 rescues since the program began in Virginia in 1999. The average rescue time is 30 minutes or less.

Bone Marrow Donor Sought In Emily's Leukemia Battle

Children's Hospital is seeking a potential bone marrow donor for Emily, an 18-year-old patient who recently suffered a relapse in her fight with acute myeloid leukemia (AML).

Volunteers in general good health between the ages of 18 and 60 are invited to take a non-invasive test Friday, Jan. 13, from 12 noon to 6 p.m. at Quincy City Hall, 1305 Hancock St.

The test, administered by Caitlin Raymond International Registry from UMass Medical Center, involves taking a swab of the cells inside the mouth and testing them.

If you are a match, you will be contacted for further tests and, if compatible, you will be asked to donate stem cells from your blood, not the actual marrow, for a transplant to Emily.

The test is covered by Massachusetts health insurance, so bring your insurance information if you have it.

For more information, call Patti Henley at 781-690-6779 or e-mail phenley2001@yahoo.com.

Ward 5 Democrats To Caucus Feb. 4

Registered Quincy Democrats in Ward 5 will hold a caucus in the Beechwood Knoll Elementary School's Media Center Saturday, Feb. 4 at 1 p.m. to elect 11 delegates and two alternates to the Massachusetts Democratic Convention.

Is that adjustable-rate Home Equity Line of Credit starting to make you nervous?

Now that interest rates have started moving up, the payment on your adjustable-rate home equity line will start moving up too. It's that simple. In fact, if you have an adjustable-rate home equity line or balances on your credit cards, the window might be closing soon on your chance to consolidate that debt into a fixed-rate, guaranteed fixed-payment loan. With Colonial Federal's 10-Year Fixed Home Equity Loan, you lock in a great deal at a rate that's still historically low. You get the security of fixed monthly payments. And you won't have to worry anymore about getting squeezed by rising interest rates. Sound good? Come see us or call Cathy or Eileen at 617-471-0750.

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On Jan. 13, 1910, Lee De Forest, the American inventor of the vacuum tube, broadcasts a live performance of Enrico Caruso from the Metropolitan Opera. The broadcast over a telephone transmitter could be heard only by a small number of electronics hobbyists who had radio receivers.

• On Jan. 10, 1923, four years after the end of World War I, President Warren G. Harding orders U.S. occupation troops stationed in Germany to return home. When the war ended in November 1918, more than 2 million American soldiers had served on the battlefields of Western Europe.

• On Jan. 11, 1937, 12 days into a general sit-down strike at the General Motors factory in Flint, Mich., General Motors security forces and the Flint Police Department move in to evict the strikers. Strikers held off police and GM security with fire hoses and jury-rigged slingshots, and the police responded with bullets and tear gas. The strike lasted 44 days.

• On Jan. 15, 1942, the first "blackout" Cadillacs were completed. Due to restrictions on materials necessary to the war effort, these cars had painted trim rather than chrome.

• On Jan. 14, 1954, 28-year-old Marilyn Monroe, born Norma Jean Baker, marries baseball legend Joe DiMaggio. They divorced nine months later.

• On Jan. 9, 1972, in Hong Kong harbor, a fire breaks out aboard the Queen Elizabeth during a conversion that would turn the retired ship into a mobile learning center. By morning, the famous vessel lay in a wreck on the bottom of the sea floor.

• On Jan. 12, 1984, modern construction techniques used in the restoration of the Great Pyramids in Egypt are abandoned in favor of the method employed by the ancient Egyptians. Restorers stopped using mortar, which caused the stones to split, and adopted the system of interlocking blocks.

Sheets Could Feel Their Pain

Jim Sheets could feel the pain of the families of the victims of that tragic coal mine explosion in Tallmansville, West Virginia.

The former mayor, who grew up in a coal mining family in Clarksville, Pa. sat glued to the television screen in his home as the tragedy unfolded.

He shared in the families' joy when word came that 12 of the 13 trapped miners had survived. One had died instantly.

And, in their agony when that announcement was cruelly cancelled by a later report that the 11 had actually died, leaving only one survivor.

SHEETS

Sheets knew the feeling first hand – but in a reverse manner.

His father, Harry, a coal miner for 50 years, was working in a mine in Fredericktown, Pa., about four miles from Clarksville where the family lived in a small coal company built house and still owns today.

The mine, now closed, was about a two-to-three hour drive from the Sago Mine in West Virginia, scene of last week's disaster.

Sheets, now 71, vividly remembers one day of his childhood.

A day that later would help change his life.

"I was 8 or 10 years old and had just walked home from school when my mother, Pauline, put her arms around me and told me that there had been a cave-in in the mine and that my dad was caught in it and believed dead."

His mine boss, Lee Bogart, had come from the mine to the Sheets home to deliver the bad news in person because coal miner homes did not have telephones.

"Mom was not crying," Sheets recalls. "She whispered in my ear that 'we have gone through this before. Your dad has great safety instincts.'"

But despite his mother's comforting words:

"I went into my little bedroom – coal company built homes are very small – laid down on the bed and cried.

"I had laid there for at least an hour and a half when I heard squeaking of the front gate and those oh-so-familiar footsteps coming around the house on the concrete walks Dad had built.

"I knew it was Dad. I raced out the front door and around the house and jumped into his arms, unmindful of the coal dust and dirt that covered his face and clothes. He was on his way to the cellar which he had dug out and put in a shower. He put his arms around me and said, 'I'm okay, The Good Lord takes care of me.'"

The elder Sheets was a "shot fire" who strategically placed dynamite to blast the coal loose. He would run his cable about 1200 feet and from there set off the charge.

This day he felt something was wrong and made his way down a passageway just as the roof caved in where he had been.

He was alive but trapped on the other side. He banged on the cement wall with his steel hat. Rescuers heard him and broke down the wall with sledge hammers and, as Sheets says, he "crawled back from the dead."

PAULINE SHEETS applauds as her son, Mayor James Sheets, is inaugurated for a second term in 1992.

HARRY SHEETS on his way to work in a coal mine.

"I've been down in a mine a couple of times," says Sheets. "But I could never work there."

And his mother was determined that he never would.

His two grandfathers and seven uncles were coal miners. One of the uncles was killed. And his father nearly lost his life that day.

Her only son was not going to follow in their footsteps. Not if she had her way. And, she did.

Sheets graduated from East Bethlehem High School in 1953. (One of his classmates would become a miner and be killed in a mine accident.)

Pauline Sheets was already motherly plotting to keep her son out of coal mines

Unknown to him, she sent an application for admission and his school graduation records to Eastern Nazarene College in Wollaston. And, he was accepted.

A year later, a pretty young lady named Joann Roberts enrolled at the school. She lived in Scotdale, Pa, about 45 miles from Sheets' hometown but they had never met.

They did at ENC, never dreaming they would marry, settle in Quincy and he would become Mayor and she First Lady.

Sheets graduated from ENC in 1958 and she in 1959.

His parents came on for his graduation and during the visit got to see the Atlantic Ocean for the first time as their son had.

His mother came back in 1990 and 1992 to attend the first two of his historic six inaugurals as mayor.

"Those were very proud occasions in her life," Sheets says. "She had accomplished what she had set out to do – change my life."

His father retired after a half-century working in coal mines and died in 1978 – eight years later of the black lung disease. His mother died in 1993.

Sheets believes every miner should be required to carry a pocket unit which would enable them to just push a button to send up a signal pinpointing their location in the event of a cave-in or some other accident.

"Rescuers could then drill a hole and lower an oxygen line to them, keeping them alive while expediting their rescue," Sheets says.

He has this tribute for miners and family members:

"Men of the mines have a special kind of courage, but so do the wives and mothers. Each day when they watch their husbands and sons walk out the door, they do not know if they will return.

"In my time, if one did not return, his family might have to move out of coal company home. But wives were courageous, tough and strong women. They would make a way for children and themselves."

Sheets is grateful to his mother for changing his life from that of a would-be miner to a resident and a mayor of his adopted city.

And, where he says, he will stay.

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS OLD POSTCARD shows the early submarine boat Octopus that was launched at Fore River Shipyard in 1906. After competing in trials off of Newport the successful design of this boat led to a great deal of work for the Quincy shipyard. This included five larger submarines for the Japanese Navy as well as contracts from the British, Spanish and Canadian navies. Fore River delivered almost 80 submarines for the Electric Boat Company before they built their own shipyard in Groton, Conn. in 1924. The Quincy yard built three sister subs for the Octopus. They were named Cuttlefish, Viper and Tarantula. To contact Tom Galvin, e-mail tmgalvin@verizon.net.

Concerned Over The Changes In Quincy

Shortly after being sworn in for another term as mayor, Bill Phelan spoke about protecting neighborhoods and attracting the "right" kind of development.

In recent years what's happening all over Quincy are: Luxury condos. Luxury apartments. Luxury home prices. And luxury rents.

Everytime one turns around there's another luxury development either in the works or already started. Every day as I drive to work over the Neponset Bridge I see that the construction of those two twin apartment towers is getting ready to start.

The area has been cleared and soon we will see the structures starting upwards. Two buildings, 90 units a building. Ten percent affordable whatever that means. Soon behind the Best Western, another large apartment complex is coming.

You can move up and down Hancock Street and see the changes. Higher rents. Higher prices and moving trucks for working class families hauling them away.

The latest thing I heard was over on Washington Street in Quincy Point not far from Quincy Center. Fourteen townhouses replacing one radiator shop.

What is the "right" development for Quincy's neighborhoods? Perhaps, what we need to hear is what is the "wrong" development.

Everytime another luxury residential unit is built, it is one less unit available to working families. Affordable unit set-asides are a joke which can't make up for what is being lost. The character of the city is changing. City Hall needs to understand that.

Do we have a real meaningful masterplan for development? Every proposed development keeps getting approved. The quality of life of this city is being impacted by the cancerous growth of gentrification. Soon we will look more like Manhattan where people can either afford Marina Place or only afford the housing project. Middle class and working families are being forced out by the real estate boom hailed by so many and damned by even more.

The City of Presidents is impeaching its own citizenry and for what?

Peace In Iraq

When India and Pakistan, not long ago, were about ready to use atom bombs against each other, President George W. Bush told them that violence is not the way to go – peace is.

When, most recently, a fragile truce started to break up in Sri Lanka, between the Sri Lanka Government and the Tamil Tiger rebels, the U.S. State Department called for the resumption of talks, saying that both sides should "embrace peace and work together."

I am possessed by a childlike optimism that we, too, could achieve peace in Iraq, if we would include in the peace talks on Iraq our archfriend President Saddam Hussein, who worked for our intelligence for many years, (the reason may Iraqis would like to execute him) and if we would also include in the peace talks our archfoe Osama bin Laden.

Rather than have a choice between victory and defeat, would it not be divinely beautiful and eminently pragmatic, if our President would practice in Iraq what we preach everywhere else?!

Police Chief Calls For Strict Enforcement Of Snow Ordinance

Jan. 11-18
38 Years Ago

Police Chief Francis Finn called for strict enforcement of the city ordinance requiring homeowners and businesses to clear their sidewalks within five hours after the end of a storm.

Legal action could result in a fine of $20.

Finn took the action following complaints that school children, especially elementary school students, were forced to walk in the streets to get to school.

Mayor James McIntyre said it was the property owners' responsibility to clear sidewalks and the city had no obligation to do so.

REVALUATION FIGURES RELEASED

Cole, Layer and Trumble, the company hired to reassess the city, ended a long deadlock with Mayor James McIntyre and Board of Assessors by releasing valuations on properties in wards 1, 5 and 6. The surprise move ended a five-month stalemate with the city.

The company had refused to release its report on the three wards as a way to force the city to make the final payment of $60,000 on its $190,000 contract. McIntyre had withheld the last payment until the assessors had time to check the appraisal firm's work.

Chief Assessor William Callahan had intervened with the company, noting state aid to schools could be held up without the new valuations.

FEDERAL GRANT AIDS PARK IMPROVEMENTS

Congressman James Burke announced a grant for $71,000 for major beautification improvements to Merrymount Park, Black's Creek and Hancock Cemetery.

Richard Koch, director of the Park Department, said the funds would provide for the construction of new football and soccer practice fields at Merrymount Park and the extension of Adams Field.

The city matched the grant with $15,000.

Point Webster Students Perform Holiday Concert

Twenty six students from Point Webster's Middle School chorus recently performed a variety of traditional Christmas songs at the Quincy Credit Union.

The performance was lead by Amy Rogers, Point Webster's music teacher, and accompanied by instrumental teacher, David Buckley.

Songs included "Once Upon a December," "The Sleigh," and "Holiday Processional."

"It's important not to get too nervous. It's okay to be a little nervous. You just have fun and try to relax while you sing and then you'll be fine," said Rogers.

The students worked before and after school with Rogers and Buckley to learn the performance songs. Funding from the 21st Century Grant from the Department of Education gave Point Webster students opportunities to participate in various programs designed to promote learning and love of the Arts.

Quincy Credit Union has been a Quincy-School Community Gold Member Partner for several years. Mrs. Judith Brazil of the Quincy Credit Union and Principal James P. McGuire work together to closely involve the Credit Union in Point Webster activities, such as a learning booth at Roche Brothers/Point Webster's Math Fair, and a real life math activity by Point Webster's sixth grade class.

The public is invited to attend Point Webster's spring concert, which will be in May.

Preview Screening Of New PBS Adams Documentary Jan. 17

Area residents will have a chance to preview PBS's new documentary on President John Adams and his wife, when the Quincy ArtsAlive! Event Series presents a free screening event Tuesday, Jan. 17 from 7 to 9 p.m. at United First Parish Church in Quincy Center.

The screening will allow attendees to get a first glimpse of excerpts from American Experience's new two-hour documentary, John & Abigail Adams, which makes its broadcast premiere at 9 p.m. Monday, Jan. 23 on WGBH 2.

For more information on American Experience's John & Abigail Adams, visit pressroom.wgbh.org.

American Experience Series Manager Jim Dunford and the documentary's writer and producer, Elizabeth Deane, will be on hand to discuss the film's production and introduce excerpts from the film.

Additional speakers will include Quincy Mayor William Phelan; Marianne Peak, superintendent of the Adams National Historical Park; and Jim Taylor, editor-in-chief of the Massachusetts Historical Society's Adams Papers.

A question-and-answer session with the audience will follow the screening.

Attendees will also have an opportunity to visit the church's presidential crypt at the conclusion of the program. Presidents John Adams, John Quincy Adams and their wives are interred in the crypt beneath the church, which was designed by Alexander Parris and completed in 1828 from granite donated by John Adams.

United First Parish Church is located at 1306 Hancock St. in Quincy Center, across the street from the Quincy Center MBTA station.

The Adams screening is presented by Quincy ArtsAlive!, a cultural collaborative comprised of the City of Quincy, Discover Quincy, Adams National Historical Park, Quincy Art Association, Quincy Historical Society and Quincy 2000.

For more information on Quincy ArtsAlive!, visit www.quincyartsalive.org.

The Quincy ArtsAlive! initiative is funded in part by a grant from the Massachusetts Cultural Council.

Programs For Adults, Teens At Library

The Thomas Crane Public Library has scheduled the following programs for adults and teens for January:

Booked For Lunch

Read any good books lately? Looking for something new to read? Bring a brown bag lunch and join other readers in a lively exchange of authors and titles on the first Friday of each month beginning tomorrow.

The meeting from noon to 1 p.m. is in the Main Library atrium (outside the cafe). If you have read a book you would like to share or are looking for something new to read, this is the group for you.

Internet Classes For Beginners

An Introduction to the Internet class will be offered in the Main Library computer lab Wednesday, Jan. 11, at 10 a.m. The class covers Internet basics such as Web browser features and how to do a Google web search.

A follow-up class will be offered Wednesday, Jan. 18, at 10 a.m., reviewing basic concepts, offering time for you to ask specific questions relevant to your own personal interests, and providing help setting up a free Yahoo! e-mail account.

Both classes require that you have experience using a mouse and keyboard. If you do not, or if you have any questions, call 617-376-1316 or stop by the Main Library reference desk on the top floor. Both classes are free and require no advance registration.

Monthly Anime Screening

The Thomas Crane Public Library presents "Full Metal Alchemist" Tuesday, Jan. 10, at 7 p.m. "Full Metal Alchemist" has regularly topped viewer polls in Japan since its debut in 2003. This fantasy-adventure by director Mizushima Seiji offers a satisfying blend of slapstick comedy, exciting adventure and genuine warmth. Three or four episodes of this series will be shown, depending on available time.

The program is intended for adults and teens ages 13 and older and is not suitable for younger audiences.

Line Dancing For Seniors

The Quincy Council on Aging will hold a line dancing class for seniors every Thursday at 10 a.m. at the Fore River Clubhouse, 16 Nevada Rd., Quincy Point.

Social

Library Program For Kids To Explore Sign Language

The Thomas Crane Public Library's "Discover It at the Library!" program explores sign language this week as storytellers exhibit their craft in both American Sign Language and Spoken English.

The program, conducted by Karen Glickman and Tony Toledo, will be held Saturday, July 14, at 10:30 a.m. in the large meeting room of the Main Library at 40 Washington St. for families with children 5 and older.

No registration is required. The program is sponsored by the Friends of the Thomas Crane Public Library.

Registration for Winter Storytimes and Elementary Explorations, weekly programs offered by the children's department for youngsters ages 4 months to 7 years, will being Friday, Jan. 20, at 9 a.m.

Registration is limited to Quincy residents. Children must be of age by the first meeting. Each child may register for only one storytime. For more details, visit www.thomascranelibrary.org or stop by the library.

Registration for the Spring Storytimes begins Friday, March 17.

Marie's Kitchen

BY MARIE D'OLIMPIO

All In One Oven Bake

I think most everyone will agree is that there is nothing like making dinner all in one pan. And so it was this week, when I had about a cup of beans, two pork chops and two lamb chops that I wanted to use up. It was a cloudy, rainy day and the oven felt pretty good.

All In One Oven Bake

four chops (any kind can be used)
1 1/2 cups rice (uncooked)
10 ounces chicken stock (cans are good)
1 package frozen peas
1 cup beans (optional)
1 small onion (chopped)
salt and pepper to taste
garlic powder
3 tablespoons soy sauce
2 tablespoons cooking sherry

First pre-heat the oven to 350 degrees. Then season the chops with garlic powder, the salt and pepper.

In a roasting pan preferably with a cover otherwise use aluminum foil, place the chops first, sprinkle the rice over them.

Add the frozen peas (unthawed), the beans and then add the chicken stock, sherry and soy sauce.

Cover the pan and cook for 1 1/2 ;hours. Halfway through, stir the peas (which are now thawed) and the rest of the ingredients and then cover again and cook until done. You can also use string beans in place of peas and if you do, you won't need the other beans.

It just is so delicious when done and only one pan to clean!

COA To Meet Jan. 26 To Plan Coming Events

The Quincy Council on Aging will meet, Jan. 26 at 2 p.m. in the Park and Recreation Hall, one Merrymount Parkway.

COA Chairman John Noonan urges all members to attend and participate in planning events for the coming year.

Noonan also said that beginning in February, Don McCusker will provide free tax assistance and also training to seniors.

Volunteers will provide free tax assistance until April 15.

Volunteers are now wanted to receive training to do the IRS/AARP tax-Aide Program. This has been an on-going program conducted by COA to help Quincy seniors with low or middle incomes file their Federal and State tax returns.

Any Quincy senior interested in volunteering for the training program is asked to call the COA at 671-376-1246.

Health Tips For The New Year

Maryann Mahony, Senior Coordinator at Beechwood Community Life Center, passes on this advice from the National Council on Aging.

Each year 243,000 seniors end up in the hospital because of reactions caused by combining over-the-counter and prescription medicines. Here are 10 tips from the National Council on the Aging and The Quigley Corporation on how to take medicines safely.

• When you feel sick, consider whether you need to reach immediately for medicine or whether you can fix your condition with simple home remedies such as hot tea with honey for a cold and sore throat, cold water for burns, an ice pack for a fever or a mud patch for a bee sting.

• Just because over-the-counter medications are available without a prescription does not mean they are safe for everyone.

• Talk to your doctor before taking any over-the-counter medication if you use prescription drugs or have a pre-existing medical condition.

• Many over-the-counter medicines simply treat the symptoms of conditions to make you feel more comfortable, rather than curing you.

• Always use over-the-counter medicines that have no or few side effects.

• Look for products that target only the symptoms you have.

• Read and understand the directions on the label and follow the instructions precisely.

• Taking double the recommendation dose, or taking the remedy more frequently than instructed, will not make you feel twice as good.

• Do not use over-the-counter remedies beyond the recommended time period.

• If a condition lasts for more than a week, consult your doctor.

Ask These Three Questions to Improve Your Health

Are you nervous to ask your doctor, nurse, or pharmacist questions? Don't be. Everyone wants help with health information. You are not alone if you find things confusing at times.

Your medical team wants you to get the information you need to care for your health. here are three good questions to ask whenever you go to an appointment, prepare for a procedure, or get your medicine.

• What is my main problem?

• What do I need to do?

• Why is it important for me to do this?

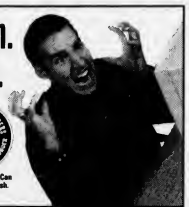
Quirk Donates Car For Quincy After School To Raffle

Quirk Automotive has donated a 2005 Chevy Cavalier to Quincy After School Child Car to raffle off, to help raise money for its Scholarship Fund. Scholarships are given to families who are working and cannot afford the full cost of care in the program. Until the raffle drawing, which is to be held Feb. 17, Fallon Ambulances has donated space to garage the donated car at their headquarters in Quincy.

"I am thankful we have two great community minded businesses like Quirk Automotive and Fallon Ambulance in Quincy who believe in helping," said Quincy After School Executive Director Doug Veeder.

"Dan Quirk has been working with non-profit organizations throughout the community for years and by donating a car to Quincy After School, we will raise much needed funds to help those in need throughout Quincy."



For a chance to win the Chevy Cavalier, tickets can be purchased for $25 at Quincy After School Child Care, 44 Billings Rd., North Quincy, or by calling 617-773-3299.

Bridgewater Credit Union Receives SBA Loan Guarantee Designation

The U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA) has approved Bridgewater Credit Union's Quincy branch for its Loan Guarantee Program.

The designation enables Bridgewater Credit Union to offer small business loans under the SBA's 7(a) Loan Guarantee Program.

Bridgewater and several other credit unions that recently received the designation can now offer loans to help qualified small businesses obtain financing, especially those that might not be eligible through traditional lending channels.

Five clients of Octant Business Services LLC, their business-landing subsidiary, were awarded the designations at a special ceremony at the conclusion of Octant's board meeting at Eastern Corporate Federal Credit Union in Woburn attended by several credit union and SBA officials.

"We're very pleased to receive the SBA's 7(a) Loan Program Designation," said Audrey Phinney, president/CEO of Bridgewater Credit Union. "We have a number of small-business owners who are our members, and this program will open way for them to grow their companies. It also will provide an incentive to other members who are looking to start their own businesses."

Jim Roche, chief operating officer for Octant, said the SBA 7(a) option is the Agency's most flexible business-lending program.

"Financing can be guaranteed for a number of general business purposes, such as working capital, furniture and equipment- even land and building. We're pleased to see several of our participating credit unions receive this designation," Roche said.

Loans made under the SBA 7(a) Loan Guarantee program have maturities of up to seven years for working capital and usually up to 25 years for fixes assets.

Bridgewater Credit Union is a state-chartered community credit union, with assets in excess of $280 million and more than 27,000 members. The Quincy Branch is located at 62 Clay St. in Wollaston.

Any persons who lives or works in the Massachusetts of countries of Plymouth, Bristol, Barnstable or Norfolk is eligible to join. Bridgewater Credit Union, a member-owned cooperative, is a full service financial institution offering a variety of savings and loan products. For more information, visit www.bridgewatercu.com.

Friendly Visitors Sought At COA

The Quincy Council on Aging is seeking volunteers to call on the elderly who live alone and would welcome a friendly visitor.

The COA is also seeking seniors who live alone and would like a friendly visit themselves.

Call the COA at 617-376-1508 and ask to speak with the friendly visitor coordinator.

The Council is mandated by law to do background checks on all volunteers.

Kennedy To Address Raising Federal Minimum Wage At MLK Event Monday

Sen. Edward Kennedy will speak on increasing the federal minimum wage at a "Let Justice Roll" event on Martin Luther King, Jr. Day, Monday, Jan. 16 at 2:30 p.m. at United First Parish Church (Unitarian), 1306 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

The New England Conservatory Millennium Gospel will sing at the event hosted by United First Parish.

As keynote speaker, Kennedy will address the moral obligation and urgent necessity for generating support for this measure to alleviate poverty.

The state's senior senator has introduced federal legislation to raise the national minimum wage.

The Let Justice Roll Living Wage campaign is a national non-partisan interfaith and community coalition of over 50 organizations working for just a minimum wage as part of its living wage campaign. The campaign is working in several states to raise state minimum wages through ballot initiatives and legislation as necessary steps toward establishing a living wage. See www.LetJusticeRoll.org for more information.

SEN. TED KENNEDY

Since the last minimum wage increase was passed in 1997, the value has eroded by more than 15 percent. To have the value it had in 1968 the minimum wage would have to be $9.05 an hour today, $3.90 more than the current national minimum of $5.15 an hour.

Nearly 36 million people in the United States live in poverty, including 13 million children. Among full-time, year-round workers poverty has doubled since the late 1970s – from about 1.3 million then to more than 2.6 million. An unacceptably low minimum wage is a key part of the problem.

Hundreds of "Let Justice Roll" events are being held across the country on the Martin Luther King, Jr. Day weekend. Dr. King considered the struggles for racial and economic justice to be inextricably connected.

A key demand of the 1963 March on Washington for Jobs and Freedom was for "a national minimum wage age that will give all Americans a decent standard of living."

Event participants include Quincy Mayor William Phelan, National Council of Churches General Secretary Bob Edgar; Local SEIU 615 President Rocio Saenz, Rev. Hurman Hamilton, pastor, Roxbury Presbyterian Church; Wayne Smith of the Unitarian Universalist Service Committee, and others.

Sponsors of the Quincy event include the Boston Let Justice Roll Coalition, the Unitarian Universalist Association, the Unitarian Universalist Service Committee, UUs for a Just Economic Community, MA Jobs with Justice, SEIU 615, the Unitarian Universalist Urban Ministry, and United for a Fair Economy.

United First Parish is being asked to host the event in part because of its participation in the Greater Boston Interfaith Organization (GBIO) and its work for social justice.

The public is invited to Monday's event.

Market Gets License Suspension On 'Sting'

By MARIE D'OLIMPIO

As a result of a 'sting' conducted on Dec. 3, the License Board Tuesday issued a three day suspension to Joe's Market Place, 260 Centre St., a beer and wine retail store.

Two days will be suspended and only one day is to be served.

According to Liquor Inspector , Lt. Peter Turowski an underage woman was sent into the market to purchase beer with a marked ten dollar bill.

The clerk said he asked her for an ID, but later changed his story and said he told her to "bring it in tomorrow."

Turowski said the he thought the clerk had been "untruthful" and added that the person they sent in to purchase the beer did not have an ID.

The owner, Sureshchandra Patel was out of town and could not attend the meeting. His brother Rocci Patel who manages the market told the board that the clerk who sold the underage person the beer has since been fired. He told the board he was not on duty the night of the sting

Chairman Joseph Shea said that somehow that market "doesn't do well with stings." and added that former owners also had a problem with serving underage persons.,

Making the motion to suspend was Capt. John Duggan who was sitting in for police Chief Robert Crowley.

Duggan suggested the day the market should close would be on a Saturday.

Shea said he will send a letter to the owner and tell him which Saturday.

Love Letters Workshop Feb. 9

'We Must Be Willing To Take Some Risks'

164 Graduate In Quincy College Winter Commencement

"You may not believe this," said Sue Harris, the new president of Quincy College, "but your success is nearly as monumental for those of us who work at Quincy College as it is for you and your families."

With that, she introduced Mary Therese Flanagan of Milton, mother of 10, who was chosen to represent her Class of 2006 at the annual Winter Commencement of Quincy College Saturday.

Flanagan shared with her fellow graduates her personal journey of perseverance through the college's rigorous nursing program while managing a family and the responsibilities of daily life.

Dr. Leor Alcalay, recipient of the Quincy College President's Award for Excellence, led the 164 graduates as they marched into the ballroom at the Boston Marriott Quincy Hotel.

The keynote address was delivered by Dr. Edward Kelly, a professor of English and himself a graduate of Quincy College, who warned the graduates that "what you face from now on are new circumstances.

"We must be willing to take some risks which is how we learn to change and adapt to new circumstances. Approach them as you did when you started here with conviction and a willingness to take sensible risks."

Theresa Lord-Piatelli, chairwoman of the Quincy College Board, welcomed the graduates and their families; Mayor William Phelan brought the greetings from the city and Dr. Keith Cotronen, senior vice president of Academic Affairs, conferred the degrees.

The list of graduates:

A Job Well Done

By LT. DAN MINTON
Quincy Police Crime Prevention Officer

On Friday, Dec. 30, at approximately 11:50 a.m., Officer Paul Foley was dispatched to the Egg & I restaurant for a call of "a suspicious man in the bathroom." The dispatcher added that a patron reported he was in the bathroom and observed a hypodermic needle fall out of the pants pocket of a white male.

LT. DAN MINTON

Officer Joseph McGunigle and Detectives John Menz and Jim Lencki assisted. Officer Foley interviewed the witness and learned the suspect, a tall white male, after dropping the needle, panicked and ran out of the restaurant to a room at the President's City Inn.

After Officers Foley and McGunigle knocked on the door and identified themselves as "maintenance," a short white male opened the door, followed by another male that matched the suspect's description.

Officer Foley asked the suspect if he was the person who dropped the needle and he responded, "Yeah, that was me but my friends have nothing to do with it." While standing at the doorway to the hotel room, Officer Foley observed a bottle cap inside the room, which contained a brownish residue.

Based on his training and experience, Officer Foley believed this was heroin, after being cooked. Since the evidence was in reach of the suspect and could be destroyed, Officer Foley entered the hotel room and secured the bottle cap.

Officer Foley asked the suspect for the needle. The suspect then turned to a female in the room and instructed her to bring him the needle. After receiving the needle, Officer Foley asked the suspect what was in the bottle cap and the suspect replied, "It's heroin."

The three occupants of the room were arrested for "Possession of Class A drug, Heroin." The short male and the female also had outstanding warrants for drug violations. Officer Foley found a second bottle cap in the room. A check of the suspect's arm showed fresh injection marks. A search of the short male's pockets revealed he had $4,370 in cash, which he explained as "earning good tips as a waiter in Boston."

The two bottle caps and the needle were placed into evidence to be tested at the drug labs. The male suspect who dropped the needle in the bathroom was a 29-year-old homeless person from Brockton. The short male who opened the hotel room door was a 26-year-old Stoughton resident. The female, 24, was from Athol.

The witness, from South Boston, was the catalyst for this arrest. He made a prompt call to the police and not only provided a thorough description, but was able to direct the officers to the room the suspect fled to.

Special thanks goes out to James Knight (with permission) of South Boston. He was the witness who stepped forward and made the call to the police. He also waited for the police to arrive and was able to provide pinpoint information which led to the apprehension of three criminals. Nice work!

On Jan. 4, at approximately 2:30 p.m., Chief Crowley was exiting City Hall when he observed three males running at full speed from McIntyre Mall. Based on his many years of experience, he notified communications to send some officers to find out what they were up to.

At the same time, a "911" call came in stating a woman just had her handbag stolen by three males. Chief Crowley provided a full description of the suspects as well as their direction of travel, which enabled Quincy Police Officers Jackson, Lanergan, Francis, Elmes, O'Donnell, Menz and Lencki, along with Transit Officer Nancy O'Laughlin, to corner them and make the arrest. Nice work!

Quincy 2000 Collaborative Schedules Partnership Meetings

FIRE SAFETY

by Captain Tom Lyons
Fire Prevention Bureau
Quincy Fire Department

Hypothermia And Cold Water Emergencies

We've been very fortunate in this city not to experience an excess of cold-water emergencies through the colder months of the year.

Considering the shoreline length along Quincy, that's a pretty good sign while I wonder if it's the citizen's constant awareness of water that minimizes their occurrence. I hope so.

Here are some facts about cold water:

In the fire service and the emergency medical field, any water that is cooler than normal body temperature is by definition "cold water. Cold water drains away body heat 25 to 30 times faster than air. Cold water doesn't have to be icy to cause hypothermia, just colder than you are. The lower the temperature of water, the faster the onset of hypothermia.

What is hypothermia?

Hypothermia is the excessive lowering of body temperature. A drop below 95 degrees F, causes shivering initially, leading to confusion, loss of muscle strength and if not treated, death. Safety experts suggest that half of drowning victims die from the fatal effects of cold water, not the fatal effects from water-filled lungs!

So what do you do if you witness someone falling through ice?

Act quickly and call 911 for immediate help. This will alert properly trained and equipped rescue personnel. AVOID going out on the ice by yourself. Often times would be rescuers become victims themselves. Our policy is to REACH, THROW or ROW. Extend a branch, pole or ladder to the victim. Throw them a buoyant object such as a life ring or float tied to a rope. A lightweight boat can be used to row out to the victim or push it towards them along the ice while being held by the rescuers.

Each situation dictates it's own solution. In the fire service, it is essential not to become part of the problem yourself. That is why each rescue is unique, should be well thought out and performed carefully so as not to complicate what is already difficult.

If you witness a cold-water emergency yourself, think and respond properly while not reacting irrationally. Contact those prepared to respond to such an incident and assist as safely as you can if you can do so safely. Think REACH, THROW or ROW, while not becoming part of the problem or a victim yourself.

12 Volunteers Sidelined By Stormy Weather

Several of the community leaders who volunteered to man the Salvation Army kettle in front of City Hall were turned back by sudden stormy weather.

City Clerk Joseph Shea and Ward 1 Councillor Leo Kelly began their shift but half way into it gusts of wind blew down a weather protective tent. Their shift and the remaining shifts had to be canceled.

The other volunteers who were sidelined as a result included:

Norfolk County Register of Probate Patrick McDermott, Sheriff Michael Bellotti, state Rep. Ronald Mariano, John "Jake" Comer, past National Commander American Legion; Jay Asher, president radio station WJDA; Henry Bosworth, publisher The Quincy Sun; Robert Guarnieri, president Colonial Federal Savings Bank; Daniel Flynn, chairman South Shore Chamber of Commerce Quincy Business Council and owner of Daniel J. Flynn Co.; City Councillor John Keenan and School Committeeman David McCarthy.

STATE REP. Bruce Ayers and Alicia Gardner, former Ward 6 city councillor.

QUINCY SUN publisher Henry Bosworth, Daniel Flynn, chairman of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce Quincy Business Council and owner Daniel J. Flynn, and Robert Guarnieri, president Colonial Federal Savings Bank, were among those volunteering but a sudden storm stopped them.

QUINCY LEGIONNAIRES rang the bell for the Salvation Army at the South Shore Plaza. John "Jake" Comer, past National Commander of the American Legion, and Ken Menz take their turn at the kettle.

WAYNE SCHMIDT, commander, and Steve Dunlea, junior vice commander, Morrisette Legion Post, volunteer their turn at the kettle.

Home Remedies for Furniture Stains

Q. Do you have a solution for water marks on furniture made by glasses? Thanks so very much. — Sarah, via e-mail

A. Believe it or not, toothpaste is probably the best all-around solution for removing those unsightly water rings. Apply a small amount of toothpaste (the regular paste kind, not the gel) to a lint-free cloth and gently rub it over the water ring. Wipe away the paste with a damp cloth, dry the area and, if the stain is gone, polish. The pumice in toothpaste acts as a super-fine sanding agent that won't mar the wood finish.

Another method for removing cloudy or white water stains from highly varnished furniture is to place a thick dishcloth over the stained area and then set a clothes iron on the dishcloth for three to five seconds (make sure the steam setting is OFF), moving it in circles.

If you are completely refinishing a piece of furniture, tackle the water stains once you have stripped off the old varnish. Try toothpaste first. If that doesn't work, make a paste of lemon juice (straight from the lemon) and salt, and apply it directly to the stain and nowhere else. Let the solution stand for 15 minutes, then scrub, rinse and blot dry. Wait for the area to dry completely to see if the stain came out.

Scratches can also mar your furniture, but can often be dealt with quickly. Mix one part lemon juice with one part olive oil, dip a lint-free cloth deep into the solution, then firmly rub in the direction of the scratch until the mark disappears. You can also use mayonnaise for this — and some readers swear it will work on water stains, too.

Another method is to take a plain old crayon that is the same color as the wood, color in the scratch, and then carefully remove excess wax by scraping a single-edge razor blade across the wood at a 45 degree angle (very gently). And if you want to try a really old-fashioned method — rub a walnut over the scratch! I've never tried this myself, but if it works for you, then great.

With all the solutions above, be careful when first trying them and test in an inconspicuous spot before tackling stains in visible areas.

Neighborhood Housing Homebuyer Workshop

Neighborhood Housing Services of the SouthShore, in conjunction with Citizens Bank, will host a First Time Homebuyer Workshop Monday, Jan. 30 from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m., and Saturday, Feb. 4 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Citizens Bank, 1200 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

Arrive at 8:45 a.m. on Saturday for coffee and registration.

Attendance at both workshops is mandatory to receive a homebuying certificate.

All potential first time homebuyers are encouraged to attend the educational workshop. Participants will have an opportunity to be pre-qualified by a lender.

Topics convered include mortgage options, legal aspects of the home buying process, how a home inspection works, and other presentations from real estate related professionals.

Participants must complete the workshop to qualify for grant programs.

There is a $15 fee per person. Breakfast and lunch will be provided.

For more information, call 617-770-2227 ext. 31.

Citizens Bank Housing Heroes Award Program

Citizens Bank is accepting applications for its 2006 Housing Heroes Award program designed to recognize a non-profit organization that has developed innovative solutions to the challenge of increasing affordable housing.

As part of the award, the organization will receive a $50,000 grant from the Citizens Bank Foundation, $10,000 of which is reserved for a resident-related program such as playground equipment or leadership training.

The executive director of the organization will also have the opportunity to tap into the expertise of Citizen's Bank CEO through the "President to President" program.

"There is a critical need to provide affordable housing in Massachusetts and there are many non-profit developers in our area demonstrating very creative solutions to address the problem," said Robert E. Smyth, chairman, president and CEO of Citizens Bank of Massachusetts. "Through the Housing Heroes Award we are spotlighting the hard work and dedication of those agencies that are committed to creating affordable housing throughout the state."

The Housing Heroes Award program will recognize a successful project that has created affordable housing units in the state. It will be available to any non-profit developer who has completed an affordable housing project between January 2005 and December 2005.

The award will highlight projects that demonstrate innovative solutions, effective use of resources, leadership in creating affordable housing and strong fiscal responsibility.

For more information about the award and application process, visit the website www.citizensbank.com.

Completed applications must be submitted by 5 p.m. on Wednesday, Jan. 25.

Housing Assistance Corporation of Hyannis was the recipient of the 2005 Housing Heroes Award for excellence in developing "Cape Cod Senior Residences at Pocasset," a project that offers assisted living and independent senior housing side-by-side.

Housing Hero awards will be presented in March.

Homebuying Seminar At Mount Vernon Mortgage

Mount Vernon Mortgage Corporation will host a free homebuyer workshop Thursday, Jan. 19 from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. at 500 Victory Rd., Marina Bay, North Quincy.

(NAPS) – Government officials say home buyers should compare mortgage types before buying. Interest rates are rising, increasing payments on adjustable-rate mortgages. A viable alternative is a fixed-rate loan with mortgage insurance, which can be cancelled after 20 percent equity is built, usually after three years.

Managing Your Mortgage

Mortgage Payments On The Rise?

(NAPS) The combination of historically low interest rates and creative new mortgage products has pushed homeownership in America to a record high of 69 percent.

Many recent home buyers have opted for new or "exotic" ortgages-Adjustable Rate Mortgages (ARMs), Interest Only Loans (Ios" or Option ARMs-that require as little as zero down payment and feature ultra low montly payments. But as interest rates rise and the real estate market cools, economists and governmental officials warn that these "exotic" loans may have created a looming nightmare.

"Interest-only adjustable rate mortgages are dangerous." says financial expert and television host Suze Orman. "If the only way you can afford to buy is with one of these loans... you can't afford to own just yet."

Why be alarmed?

According to the Mortgage Bankers Association, 63 percent of all new mortgages nationwide in the second half of 2004 were of this "exotic" or "high-risk" category. The low monthly payments that these mortgages offer are only possible because it is only for a short introductory period, after which the loan converts to the current interest rate which will likely be higher.

For example, the monthly payments on a $200,000 interest-only mortgage go up substantially when a 5.25 percent interest rate adjusts to 6.5 or 8 percent. In this case, the monthly payment jumps from $875 to as much as $1,544, which might be difficult for many first-time home-owners to afford. Locking in a 30-year fixed-rate mortgage at a sllightly higher interest rate ends up the better deal and can be obtained with a low down payment when mortgage insurance is added. In this example, for an additional $86 per month, mortgage insurance alleviates the risks that face home buyers who opt for piggyback or combo mortgages with Adjustable Rate or Interest Only features.

"The fact that so many homebuyers are using these risky morgages is frightening. People need to do their homework and compare monthly payments and how they can fluctuate, especially as interest rates creep up" said Stella Adams, Executive Director of North Carolina Fair Housing Center. Think about it-the only thing that can happen to the monthly payment on a insured mortgage is that it will go down when the insurance is cancelled, which is usually possible after only three years. It's a win-win situation."

(NU) – The newest trend in home renovation is to add updates that are true to a home's specific architectural tradition.

Because wood is a flexible and durable material, it is commonly used to achieve a cohesive look and add indelible character to a home. One manufacturer, Jeld-Wen, offers windows with AuraLast wood that provide 20-year protection against wood decay, water absorption and termite infestation.

Tips On Sticking To Your Housekeeping Resolutions

(NU) Each January, many people make New Year's resolutions to clean up their messy homes or free themselves of the clutter that tends to pile up, but by February they're back where they started. This year, let the cleaning experts at Merry Maids help you stay on track with the following tips:

• Tackle your closet. "Out of sight, out of mind" seems to be the mantra for some when it comes to keeping closets organizes. Declutter this space by getting rid of any clothing, shoes or purses that haven't been word or used in the past year. Donate unwanted items to a local charity or add them to your garage sale pile.

• Use the Web. One person's trash is another person's treasure. For items that you don't need or haven't used in a while, get rid of them. If you want to sell anything, take advantage of online auction Web sites. It's an easy and fun way to make some extra money.

• Have a plan. Throughout the year, set aside time to de-junk your home. Use this time to walk through your house, throwing away anything you don't need or want. By scheduling specific times to get rid of unwanted items, you'll be more motivated to get the task done.

• Get help. Sometimes you simply do not have the time to keep your home as tidy as you'd like. If cleaning from top to bottom every other week is too much to ask, consider calling in outside help from the experts at Merry Maids.

For more information on residential cleaning, call Merry Maids at 1-800-MERRYMAIDS or visit www.merrymaids.com

Quincy Stops 4-Game Series Slide To North

Presidents Top Raiders

By CHRIS POISSON

The North Quincy High School hockey team seemed to be skating on a path of dominance similar to the Quincy football program's when it comes to city rivalry showdowns.

But the vastly improved Presidents derailed the Red Raiders' four-game series winning streak with a 5-2 victory last Wednesday night in the first meeting of the year at Quincy Youth Arena.

North Quincy hadn't lost to Quincy since a 3-2 defeat Jan. 25, 2003, almost three years ago.

"I tip my hat to them," said head coach Bob Doyle. "Without question, Mr. Sylvia's troops came much more prepared for the game than we were. I was very impressed with their defensive zone coverage. We couldn't generate any offense. Quincy outplayed us, out-hit us and deserved the game."

The win kept the Presidents undefeated with a 5-0 overall record (4-0 Atlantic Coast League). They played Dennis-Yarmouth Wednesday and will host Falmouth Saturday at 8 p.m.

North Quincy (3-2 overall, 2-2 ACL) played at Barnstable Monday and at Falmouth Wednesday and will scrimmage Auperville North, a team from Chicago, Saturday at 8:30 p.m. at Ulin Rink in Milton.

The Red Raiders scored first early in the game but Quincy netted the equalizer before the end of the period.

The Presidents dominated the second period with two goals and took a 4-1 advantage a minute into the third frame. North Quincy cut it to 4-2 with a goal by junior center Jimmy Fitzpatrick. Giordani closed out the scoring with an empty-net goal.

North Quincy senior center and tri-captain Andrew Donovan injured his right ankle and Doyle said he is expected to miss two weeks. By that time, he's also hoping senior Chris Tufo will be back from a hamstring injury sustained in the Thanksgiving Day football game.

"Getting both of them back will change the complexion of our team," he said.

The Red Raiders rebounded from the Quincy loss with a well-played 4-1 triumph over Plymouth North last Saturday night at home.

"I was very pleased we bounced back from our lackluster effort against Quincy," Doyle said. "We were really hurting from the Quincy game. We weren't getting enough offense. We only had 16 shots in that game. We had a good turnaround with 42 shots on net."

After a scoreless first period, the Red Raiders tallied a pair of goals in the second frame. Fitzpatrick scored with 10 minutes left with assists from junior left wing Nash Winters and senior tri-captain and defenseman Evan Harrington.

Two minutes later, junior right wing Ted Finnegan found the back of the cage with Fitzpatrick and Winters assisting.

In the third, junior defenseman Joe Canavan scored with an assist by Winters to extend to lead to 3-0.

The Blue Eagles got on the board with 9:45 remaining when senior goalie and tri-captain Frankie Sorrento fanned on a clear-out pass and the puck went into an empty net.

Sorrento (26 saves) atoned for the mistake when he stoned a breakaway attempt with a butterfly kick save to preserve the two-goal cushion.

"We really carried momentum for most of the game," Doyle said. "I was pleased with the 42 shots and I was pleased with (junior) Matt Lawlor, who got elevated a couple of lines due to the injury to Andrew Donovan."

"I'm pleased with the progress we're making," he added. "We're inexperienced. We're playing three freshmen and they're logging regular shifts. (Matt) Rodriguez and Furey, our two freshmen defensemen, are playing 10 to 15 minutes a game. And both goalies are playing fine."

Marissa Powers, Liam Powers On College Hockey Teams

The Powers family of Quincy Point boasts two college hockey players this winter season.

Marissa Powers, a 2005 Quincy High School graduate and former captain of the Quincy/North Quincy girls hockey team, has been selected to play for the Trinity College women's hockey team in Connecticut.

She recorded her first collegiate point in a recent victory over Salvi Regina. She is a freshman majoring in mechanical engineering.

Liam Powers, a 2003 graduate and former captain of the Quincy High School hockey team, has recently been named a captain of the Westfield State College men's hockey team. He is a junior majoring in business administration.

They are the children of Elaine and Steve Powers.

CRASH-AVOIDANCE TECHNOLOGY

The latest vehicle safety technology to come along is crash-avoidance technology, which enables a car to detect dangers on the road faster than drivers can. The trend of utilizing radar to detect and warn drivers of impending hazards has been with us for a few years. The latest crash-avoidance technology senses when a car is about to crash and automatically applies the brakes. Other systems have warning systems that alert drivers when a vehicle strays from its lane. In the future, crash-avoidance technology will provide drivers with ample warnings, such as yellow or red lights on the dashboard or windshield, to take avoidance action. If the driver fails to respond, the vehicle will work independently to avoid a crash.

Over the history of the automobile, year after year, technology finds a way to make our daily driving safer. Crash-avoidance systems and adaptive cruise control are advanced systems. At LEO & WALT'S SUNOCO, we are fully trained to repair and maintain the high tech systems found in newer cars, and want to ensure your safety. Get a check-up; keep your car healthy, preventative maintenance can save you money over the life of your car. Stop by 258 Quincy Ave., E. Braintree, or call 781-843-1550 today to schedule an appointment. Open: Mon.-Fri. 6am-9pm, Sat. 7am-9pm, Sun. 9am-5pm. We are "A Place Where Your Car Can Live Longer."

HINT: "Adaptive cruise control" prevents drivers from getting too close to the vehicle in front while using cruise control.

After Bowing To Whitman-Hanson

Quincy Bounces Back Against Plymouth North

GIRLS' BASKETBALL

By CHRIS POISSON

Head coach Jeff Bretsch believes his Quincy High School girls' basketball team is in good shape after last week's performances.

The Presidents played two-time defending Atlantic Coast League champion Whitman-Hanson tough in a 54-50 road loss Tuesday and they responded Friday with a 50-34 home win against Plymouth North.

"Whitman-Hanson is a great team," Bretsch said. "They've won the league two years in a row and got their nucleus back. To compete on that level, we feel good where our team is at right now. We would've liked to have taken one from them on their home court."

Quincy (4-2 overall, 2-1 ACL) played Weymouth Monday and will host neighboring North Quincy Friday at 5 p.m.

Down 26-21 at halftime, Quincy stayed close with the Panthers the entire game. Senior co-captain and forward Jessica Page drained a 3-pointer to pull Quincy within one with 17 seconds left.

Unfortunately, Quincy fouled their star player, Jackie Branca, who hit both free throws, and then it couldn't convert on its final possession.

"It was a very close game," Bretsch said. "They were playing without one of their starters so we knew we had a chance to surprise them on their home court. We were fired up and we battled hard."

Page, who is averaging 20 points, finished with a career-high 30 points, hitting 9-of-10 free throws and three 3-pointers.

Junior forward Brighid Kyle added 14 points and played strong defense against Branca, holding her to "only" 21 points. Sophomore guards Meagan Tobin and Marybeth Torpey each had three points.

In the Plymouth North game, the Presidents installed a new press which created 28 turnovers.

"That's a big stat for us," Bretsch said. "The kids worked really hard to succeed in the press. We're going to use it as a weapon. We're a man-to-man team. That's what we do. But they showed they can press as well. They played really hard with a lot intensity."

Page paced the offense with 18 points. Also scoring were Torpey (seven), Tobin (five), sophomore center Elizabeth Bock (five), sophomore forward Julie Kisielius (five), senior co-captain Ashlee Scott (four), Kyle (four) and junior forward Hope Collins (two).

Red Raiders Cook At Home, Down Plymouth S., W-H

BOYS' BASKETBALL

By CHRIS POISSON

The North Quincy High School boys' basketball team showed its depth last week as it kicked off Atlantic Coast League play.

With senior center John Murray out with an injury, the Red Raiders responded with a pair of home victories, topping Plymouth South, 72-40, Tuesday and Whitman-Hanson, 69-60, Friday.

"I'm really pleased with our defense at this stage of the season," said head coach Jim Rendle. "Offensively, we're getting more balanced. We're playing 10 guys on a regular basis, even in close games. We're looking to uptempo the game now that our depth is getting into shape and the younger kids are able to contribute a little bit."

North Quincy (4-3 overall, 2-0 Atlantic Coast League), which played Plymouth North Tuesday and Marshfield Wednesday, will face city rival Quincy Friday night at 6:30 in the CTE gym.

Against Whitman-Hanson, senior Joe Howlett stepped up by hitting 10-of-12 shots for 20 points. Senior Kevin Donovan turned in a fine all-around game with 11 points, 14 rebounds and seven assists.

Senior point guard Kyle Costa and sophomore guard Dennis Martin each scored 11 points and junior Matt Edgerly added nine.

"They played a box-and-one zone against Costa so we went elsewhere and Howlett had a good game," Rendle said.

In the Plymouth South game, the Red Raiders' aggressive defense held the Panthers to 18 first-half points.

Costa led a balanced scoring attack with 15 points, followed by junior guard Terrell Johnson (12), who was called up from the junior varsity team, senior Imad Elktrib (11) and Donovan (10, 11 rebounds).

Over school vacation, North Quincy finished last in the Chelsea Holiday Tournament. It dropped a 49-47 decision to Somerville in the first game and suffered a 49-38 loss to Everett in the consolation game.

Against Everett, the Red Raiders lost Costa (concussion) and Murray (chipped bone in wrist) in the first quarter to injuries.

North Quincy Falls To W-H, Plays Quincy Friday

The North Quincy girls' basketball team was in for a few surprises last Friday night when it stepped off the bus at Atlantic Coast League power Whitman-Hanson Regional High School.

Already knowing the Panthers would be without two starters, the Red Raiders quickly learned their best player, Jackie Branca, needed eight points to reach 1,000 and head coach Jim Daley needed a win for his 400th.

And when Branca hit a 3-pointer 15 seconds into the game, head coach Doug MacFarlane turned to his assistant coach, his brother John, and told him it was going to be a long game. He was right. North Quincy lost, 67-35.

"I knew they had a couple starters out with some kind of suspension., but I knew it was still going to be tough because they play 12 kids," MacFarlane said.

"And when I get there I find out that Jackie Branca needs eight points for 1,000 and a win would be Jim Daley's 400th. They all came to play for him. They shot unbelievable."

North Quincy (2-4 overall, 1-1 ACL), which played Plymouth North Tuesday and Marshfield Wednesday, will square off at cross-town rival Quincy Friday at 5 p.m.

Branca finished the game with 30 points, hitting 10-of-18 shots, including six 3-pointers.

"We couldn't stop her," MacFarlane said. "We tried everything on her, a box-and-one, zone, man-to-man. It didn't matter."

The Red Raiders fell behind 27-9 before cutting the deficit to 34-22 at halftime. A quick basket to begin the second half pulled them within 10, but they proceeded to turn the ball over on seven of their next eight possessions.

"I thought when we cut it to 10, that it would be a game and then the bottom just fell out," MacFarlane said.

Whitman-Hanson shot a sizzling 57 percent compared to North Quincy's 25-percent performance. "We're just not consistent with our shooting," MacFarlane said.

Sophomore forward Rebecca Goreham led the Red Raiders with 25 points (10-of-13 free throws).

Last Tuesday, North Quincy cruised to a 70-39 victory on the road against an inferior Plymouth South squad.

Junior guard Lauren Stille scored a team-high 18 points to go with five steals and her sister, sophomore guard Mary Kate, added 16 points. Goreham pulled down 15 rebounds and chipped in nine points.

"We ran really well and scored a lot of points off our fast break," MacFarlane said. "Lauren and Mary Kate had seven layups between them."

Over school vacation, North Quincy finished third in the Chelsea Holiday Tournament. It opened with a 55-53 loss to Winthrop, missing 15 free throws. Goreham scored 20 points with 11 rebounds and senior tri-captain and forward Elyse O'Connell had 14 points and 10 rebounds.

In the consolation game, it pulled out a 54-50 victory in overtime against Cathedral. With five seconds left in regulation, Stille buried a 3-pointer to tie the game at 47. O'Connell registered another double-double with 13 points and 10 rebounds. Goreham and senior tri-captain and forward Kayla Lenane each scored nine points with eight rebounds.

Presidents Win Streak Snapped At Plymouth N.

The Quincy High School boys' basketball team's six-game unbeaten streak to start the season came to an end in cruel fashion last Friday night at Plymouth North.

Down by two points, the Blue Eagles edged the Presidents when sophomore Brett Tirlia nailed a 3-pointer with eight seconds remaining for a 40-39 victory.

"We just didn't shoot the ball well," said head coach Bob Fisher. "We shot 13-of-62. We're not going to win, no matter who we play, when our percentage is that poor. We had good looks, open looks. We just couldn't find a bucket when we needed to."

Quincy (6-1 overall, 2-1 Atlantic Coast League) played Snowden Tuesday and will host city rival North Quincy Friday night at 6:30.

The Presidents called a timeout after Tirlia's long-range bucket. Freshman point guard Doug Scott missed a shot and senior tri-captain and center Joe Griffin was in position for the putback, only the referees ruled the basket came after the buzzer sounded.

Fisher said junior forward Steve Connolly played his best game of the season, scoring 11 points, rebounding and defending well and picking up three offensive fouls.

"It's a very disappointing loss against a team I think we're better than," Fisher said. "Those are the games you have to win, especially on the road. It had nothing to do with our defensive effort. We held them to 13 points in the second half. Offensively, we just didn't do the job. We all take responsibility, from the coaching staff down. We have to do a better job."

Last Tuesday, the Presidents conversely played their best game of the season, knocking off Whitman-Hanson, 74-59, at home.

"It was our best ball game played as a team from start to finish," Fisher said. "We had some solid practices leading up to that game. The bench played well. The starters played well. We played very good transition basketball and did a nice job offensively and defensively."

Scott poured in a team-high 23 points, Griffin and sophomore Giovanni Cesar netted 14 apiece and senior tri-captain and forward Lavell Johnson added eight, including two 3-pointers.

Quincy won the battle of the boards, with Griffin and Connolly grabbing eight apiece and Johnson seven.

Fisher praised senior tri-captain and guard John Orlando. "Orlando played his best game for us," he said. "He scored six points and did a great job on their point guard, Ben Ford, and stopping the penetration of Whitman-Hanson."

Tips To Manage Stress, Lose Weight

(NU) Is stress knocking your diet off course?

Some people turn to food in times of high stress and anxiety, or when they are feeling blue.

While "comfort" foods like macaroni and cheese, pizza or chocolate fudge ice cream cones are OK in moderation, they can wreak havoc on your diet.

The following tips from CyberWize, maker of Vital StressX, a supplement designed to help your body cope with stress, will help you relieve stress and get your diet back on track.

• Keep a food diary. Writing down everything you eat can help you become aware of your eating habits. Keeping track of the foods you eat each day will help you track your eating habits and determine what changes you can make to your diet.

• Exercise regularly. Get off the couch and into action. At least 20 minutes of physical activity three to five days a week can do wonders to not only burn calories, but reduce your stress level.

• Try supplements to help you combat your stress. Vital StressX, for instance, contains a unique blend of herbs, called adaptogens, which help to stabilize levels of cortisol (the "Stress hormone") in your body. This herb blend, first discovered by the Soviet Academy of Sciences, was used by cosmonauts and high-performance athletes to manage the effect of stress. In addition to cortisol levels, stress increases glucose levels," said Dr. Robert D'Amico, a specialist in osteopathic medicine in Tarpon Springs, Fla. "Glucose eventually converts to fat when not used efficiently. Vital StressX balances glucose levels and decreases urges to eat junk food."

• Meditate. Taking some quiet time each day can help you relax. Play a CD of nature sounds or New Age music, or simply sit in silence and clear your mind. Reflect on an inspirational quote, poem or spiritual book, or practice deep breathing techniques.

• Join a support group or find a hobby. Talking with other people who are experiencing what you are going through can help you deal with the stress of your daily life.

For more information on Vital StressX, call (866) 308-9493 or visit www.vitalstressx.com.

Dusting Off Your Old Exercise Program

Q. In the past year I have not been physically active and have gained about 30 pounds. My old exercise routine involved running 2 or 3 miles a day, plus weight training three days a week. I recently began to exercise again, and while running, my knees, ankles and back were very painful. My heart can complete the running distance (although I'm winded), but my body is having a difficult time recovering. Should I stop running and just weight train until I lose weight, or should I suffer through the pain and hope it will get easier?

A. Restarting an exercise program should be done carefully and patiently. Trying to make up for lost time, or wanting to pick up where you left off, may do more harm than good. Accepting your current conditioning level and beginning from there can keep you from placing yourself at risk for injuries, and can keep you motivated and prevent burnout.

Start with a visit to your physician to rule out any medical conditions that could prevent you from safely completing an exercise program. If you have begun any medications, had an injury or been diagnosed with a medical condition since your original exercise program was designed, discuss this with your doctor. Contraindications to exercise from medications or injuries could mean a change in your routine.

After you are cleared by your physician, slowly begin to move back into your exercise routine. Since you have been inactive for a year, reduce the intensity of your workouts by lowering the resistance in your weight-training program and modifying your running program.

Pain is your body's way of telling you that something is not right. Your knees, ankles and back are adjusting to your exercising again and are trying to manage the stress being place on them, especially while you run. Allow the pain from running to be a warning that you need to modify your program. Working through your pain can cause severe injuries.

Begin to recondition your body by walking, then progress to walking and jogging, and then to running. As you continue to exercise and eat well, you will lose body fat and weight, and gain muscular strength, endurance and flexibility, which should make exercising easier and pain-free. Remember there is a difference between soreness, discomfort and pain.

Stay consistent and keep working to make your exercise program a part of your lifestyle, and your renewed desire to exercise will pay dividends for years to come.

DENTISTRY for the 21st Century

by Steven A. Brustin, D.M.D.

EAT BETTER WITH DENTAL IMPLANTS

On average, a denture patient with an excellent fitting eats at 15%-20% efficiency compared to a person with natural teeth. As the jawbone shrinks due to the loss of both tooth crown and root, chewing efficiency is reduced even more. This makes it increasingly difficult for denture patients to eat certain foods. Dental implants, on the other hand, can restore chewing efficiency that is comparable to that of natural teeth. This is because dental implants replace the entire tooth crown and root, which is implanted directly in the bond. In addition, a full denture covers the palate of the mouth and reduces the ability to taste foods. With dental implants, the palate is exposed for full taste enjoyment.

A dental implant feels and looks like your own lost tooth. How best to replace missing teeth is an important decision. We can answer all your questions and help you decide what will work best for you. We invite you to call 617-479-6220 to schedule an appointment for experienced and comprehensive dentistry. We're located at 44 Greenleaf Street, where we feel a deep responsibility and commitment to provide the very best care with state-of-the-art technology. We strive to teach you good oral hygiene. In the long run, you will have better dental health. We offer the services of anesthesiology with a fully trained and qualified anesthesiologist. Visit us on the web at www.quincydentist.com.

P.S. A dental implant will initially cost more than a bridge or dentures, but it will more than make up for the extra cost in terms of comfort, function, and appearance.

Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Better to get an explanation of a colleague's behavior than try to guess at the motive. Speculation can never replace facts. What you learn could lead you to reconsider some of your plans.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) The practical Bovine wants to see some substantive changes in a situation that just doesn't feel right. You might want to help move things along by offering some suggestions.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) You might be of two minds about a situation that seems to fit your needs, but which might make more demands than you're ready to deal with. Use both your head and your heart to reach a decision.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Don't blame yourself if you can't figure out that puzzling workplace situation. It might be that you don't have enough facts to work with. Do more research and ask more questions.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) It's a good week to catch up on matters that couldn't be completed during the hectic holiday season. It's also a good week to reach out to new friends you made over the holidays.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) A negative reaction to a request could be misunderstood. Make sure your reasons for saying no are clear. Also, be open to changing your mind if more facts come through.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) The "security" of doing things as usual should be balanced against possible benefits from moving into a new direction. Also work quickly to avoid a possible family misunderstanding.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) A personal matter requires attention, and might lead to a surprising revelation. Meanwhile, the new year could bring some long-anticipated changes to the workplace.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) A new friendship seems to hold less promise than you previously thought. But make no assumptions one way or another without first having an open and frank talk.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Your creative input could lead to changes in the workplace. And even if some colleagues disapprove of your efforts, stay the course. You're heading in the right direction.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) While this week is mostly a positive one, a few negative factors might arise. Best to deal with them before they create problems that can jeopardize some of your later efforts.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) You might feel you have all the facts and support you might need to deal with a long-deferred situation. Good for you. Once the matter is finally settled, you can move on.

BORN THIS WEEK: You are a sincerely generous person who never has to be asked to do something nice for others.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

SCOTT DEWARE

It isn't the things that go in one ear and out the other that hurt, as much as the things that go in one ear and get all mixed up before they slip out the mouth. . .

A wit once wise-cracked, "Nothing is opened more by mistake than the mouth." It was meant in jest but it also has a serious meaning. For instance, can any one honestly say he has never said the wrong thing at the wrong time? Hardly. When a faux-pas like that happens, one regrets it. An unthinking slip of the tongue can happen to any one. It is understandable. However, an outright lie - especially an untrue and confirmed rumor spoken behind the back of some one, is not a slip of the tongue. Instead, it is a slippery side that debases a human mind.

Because malicious gossip can malign, tragically taint or ruin a person's character and reputation, the act is inexcusable. The offended person must really stretch religious instincts of compassion, forgiveness and understanding of a non-understandable offense. The victim must show considerable courage to believe the sureness of right will prevail. It takes even more courage to adhere to Ecclesiastes 7:9 - "Be not quick to anger, for anger lodges in the bosom of fools." . . .

Kevin Wentzell Residential Lending Manager At Bank Of Canton

James D. Egan, president and chief executive officer of Bank of Canton, announces Kevin Wentzell has joined the company as a residential lending manager.

Wentzell works at Bank of Canton's corporate office, located at 490 Turnpike St. in Canton, servicing the residential lending needs of consumers throughout western Massachusetts including his hometown of Milford.

Wentzell is a banking industry veteran with more than 30 years of professional experience. Before joining Bank of Canton, he spent 18 years at Marlborough Savings Bank, where he most recently held the title of senior vice president Mortgage and Consumer Lending.

Prior to that, he spent 11 years at Hudson National Bank in Hudson where he was assistant vice president Retail Lending. He has also served on the Massachusetts Bankers Real Estate Loan Committee.

"Kevin's extensive industry experience, customer dedication and regional knowledge equip him to provide the high-quality financial consultation services our customers are accustomed to receiving," Egan said. "He has a natural ability to 'fit' borrowers with the 'right' products to meet their individual financial needs.

"We are excited have him as the latest member of Bank of Canton's Residential Lending Division."

Wentzell, a Milford resident, attended Babson College in Wellesley. He has served on the Board of Directors of the United Way of Tri-County and the Marlborough Boys and Girls Club. He is also a fundraising volunteer for the American Heart Association and the Special Olympics.

In his spare time, Wentzell coaches youth racquetball and participates in competitive racquetball as a member of the United States Racquetball Association.

Bank of Canton, with offices in Canton, Quincy, Randolph, Brookline and Hyannis (to open Winter 2006), lends throughout the state. Established in 1835, Bank of Canton is a Massachusetts-chartered mutual savings bank that offers its consumer, business and commercial customers access to a full array of deposit, loan, investment and convenience service options.

Fudge Bar Adds Dessert To Quincy Center Menu

A little something for the sweet tooth has been added to Quincy Center.

Steve and Sandra Clement have opened The Fudge Bar, a candy shoppe at 1219 Hancock St. featuring 30 varieties of fudge, ranging from the traditional chocolate to exotics like cranberry nut and pistachio.

The Fudge Bar also offers a dipping station where red apples or marshmallows or even pretzels can be dipped in chocolate fudge or caramel for a touch of added sweetness.

All this can be checked out on line by visiting www.thefudgebar.com.

2004, and the first by gunfire since Aug. 22, 2002 in a Quincy Avenue Burger King.

Six shots were fired outside the 48-unit apartment house at and two of them struck Long, who was visiting a friend in the building, in the neck and chest.

Witnesses said they heard a screeching of tires about the time of the shooting as a car raced up the ramp of the Southeast Expressway toward East Milton Square.

Police said the building had a long history of trouble that included police raids and several arrests on undercover drug stings.

The building's reputation is such that the state attorney general attempted to take it over in 1996 and the Quincy Housing Authority stopped for a time placing subsidized tenants there.

"We've had a lot of problems in the past," said Ward 4 City Councillor Jay Davis. "We've been involved with the community police.

The City Council. along with Police Lt. Dan Minton, filed an application for a compliant pertaining to the ":keeper of a disorderly house."

"We knew there were problems and we did what we could as the City Council and the Quincy Police," said Davis.

"We knew there were drugs in there and the police knew that there were drugs in there."

Quincy/Weymouth Continuum Awarded $1.5 Million

Mayor William J. Phelan announces The Quincy/Weymouth Continuum of Care has been awarded $1,567,114 to administer nine projects under the 2005 McKinney-Vento Homeless Assistance Program, administered by the United States Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

The funds awarded will assist agencies located throughout Quincy and Weymouth in providing housing and services for the homeless.

Grant recipients are:

• Sister Miriam's Project: This new three-year project, with the Quincy Interfaith Sheltering Coalition (QISC) serving as project sponsor, will move eight chronically homeless men and women directly from shelters and/or the streets into permanent supportive single-room-occupancy (SRO) housing. Supportive services will be provided by QISC case managers. These services will include recovery services, education and training, advocacy and assistance, counseling and case management, and housing-stabilization services. Project award: $290,677.

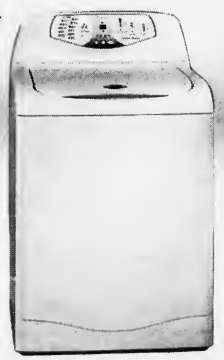
• Quincy Commission on the Family - Traditional Housing Program: This three-year renewal program will provide transitional housing for a projected ten families, and will link families to job and life skills training. The program allows children of homeless families in Quincy to remain in the Quincy School System while significantly raising the earning potential of the family. Project award: $186,186.

• Paula's House: This three-year renewal project, sponsored by QISC, is a permanent supportive housing program for individuals suffering with serious mental illness. This program will like the homeless individuals to permanent housing and provide ongoing support and stabilization services. Project award: $202,227.

• Homeless Management Information System (HMIS): This one-year renewal project, sponsored by QISC, is part of a supportive housing program. HMIS is a date collection system for homeless information for the Quincy/Weymouth Continuum of Care in an effort to track persons in the system, create required reports, as well as forecast future trends. Project award: $75,000.

• Bob's Place: This one-year renewal project, sponsored by QISC, is a "Shelter Plus Care" tenant-based rental assistance (TRA) program, which administers twenty-two subsidies for homeless individuals. The project provides the individuals with scattered-site, permanent supportive housing and links to them to community-based services related to their disabilities. Project award: %189,504.

• Carly's Place: This one-year renewal project, sponsored by QISC, will serve ten homeless and formally homeless adults with disabilities. Like Bob's Place, this Shelter Plus Care TRA program will provide the individuals with scattered-site, permanent supportive housing and links them to community-based services related to their disabilities. Project award: $297,792.



• Annie's Project: This one-year renewal project, sponsored by QISC, is also a Shelter Plus Care TRA program and will administer 14 subsidies for homeless individuals. This program will also link these individuals to community-based services related to their disabilities. Project award: $135,360.

• Dillon's Program: This one-year renewal project, sponsored by QISC, is another Shelter Plus Care TRA program and will administer six subsidies for homeless families. Like the other TRA programs, Dillon's project will link these individuals to community-based services related to their disabilities. Project award: $88,800.

• Eugene's Project: Similar to Dillon's Program, this one-year renewal project, sponsored by QISC, is a Shelter Plus Care TRA program and will administer six subsidies for homeless families. This project will also link these individuals to community-based services related to their disabilities. Project award: $101,568.

Since 1996, the Consortium through the Quincy Department of Planning and Community Development has successfully secured $10,719,995 of McKinney funds to be used for programs that serve the homeless population in the Quincy/Weymouth area.

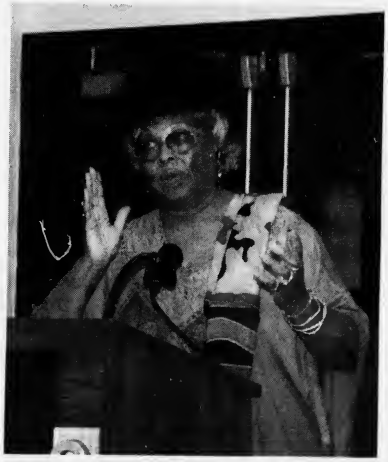
First African-American Teacher Honored



MLK Speaker: 'Racism' Is An Equal Disease'

By MIKAELA SLANEY

"Racism is an equal disease. Thanks to God, it is curable," said keynote speaker, and community-activist, Louvenia Davenport Brewster to a diverse crowd, at the annual Dr. Martin Luther King breakfast, held by the Human Right's Commission, Monday.

"Today's crowd is reflective of the scope of impact that Dr. King had on our world," said Mayor William Phelan. "Thirty seven years after he was assassinated, people of all races, creed and color gather to celebrate his memory."

Mrs. Celestine Dorch Howard, 97, the first African-American teacher in Quincy, was awarded the 2006 Human Rights Award, presented by Mayor Phelan and City Council president Douglas Gutro. An art teacher at Central Junior High School, she taught from 1954 to her retirement in 1979.

"RACISM IS AN equal disease," said keynote speaker Louvenia D. Brewster at the 10th annual Martin Luther King breakfast at North Quincy High School Monday.

"I have a lot to thank Quincy for," said Howard.

Brewster, who grew up in segregated Alabama in the 1930's and 1940's said:

"I sat at the back of the bus, I drank from the 'coloreds-only' bubbler. I

Friends To Meet On Decision

Star Of Sea May Appeal On Vatican Reopening Denial

By TOM HENSHAW

Friends of Star of the Sea Parish are likely to appeal the refusal by the Vatican to reopen the Squantum church which currently exists as a mission chapel.

"I'm not 100 percent sure we'll continue the appeal," said Sean Glennon, co-chair of the Friends along with Maureen Mazrimas, "but I think we will.

"I'm going to discuss it with Maureen tonight (Tuesday) when we have a copy of the Vatican's decision. Then we'll meet with the committee and decide."

Mazrimas said she too feels that the Friends will continue their appeal to the next level, the Apostolic Signatura in Rome.

"We'll keep our options open," she said, "but I feel we will pursue it. The denial shouldn't have any effect on our status as a mission chapel of Sacred Heart."

Star of the Sea, which was closed as a church in October, 2004, by the Boston Archdiocese, was one of 10 churches in Greater Boston denied reopening by the Congregation of the Clergy in Rome.

"We were not surprised due to the history of these appeals," said Glennon. "Very few closings are overturned. We're disappointed. We still feel we have a strong case."

If the Friends Committee gives the go ahead, Glennon said, they will seek the aid of the Council of Parishes, an umbrella group of some 14 churches for advice in proceeding.

"Up to now we've been doing it ourselves," he said, "but it has escalated to a point where we need professional help.

"We need a lawyer who speaks Italian and can appear before the Apostolic Signatura with our appeal. We don't have one yet and the Council of Parishes can help us.

"I'm told that appeals to the Apostolic Signatura can take as long as two or three years. After that, there's only the Rota, which is like the Supreme Court of the Vatican."

Glennon said there is still some resentment of the church closing among pa-

Where It All Began

City May Have A Howard Johnson Motel

Howard Johnson may be returning to Quincy, the city of its birth, but in name only.

The Zoning Board of Appeals will hold a public hearing Tuesday, Jan. 24, on a bid by Rina, Inc., for a special permit to expand the President City Inn at 845 Hancock St.

The name would also be changed to Howard Johnson, a familiar one in Quincy where it all began as a soda fountain in Wollaston in 1925 and went nationwide.

The President City Inn currently consists of two buildings, one a single floor structure with 27 rooms and the other a two-story building with 10 rooms for a total of 37.

Ashish Sangani, the principal and manager in Rina, Inc., proposes to construct a second story on the one-story section of the inn and increase the capacity by 22 for a total of 59.

The plan also would enclose the room entrances by adding a hallway, expand the lobby and sitting area to provide a breakfast nook and upgrade the rooms.

Rina, Inc., attorney Robert Fleming reported that the owners have an agreement with Howard Johnson for the use of the name. Rina purchased the motel in 2003.

Ward 5 City Councillor Doug Gutro said most of the concerns of neighbors expressed at a meeting last week involved the appearance of the new hostelry and the possible clientele.

Fleming assured Gutro that "the proposal will include aesthetic improvement to the building, landscaping and other site improvements."

He said renovations will take place almost entirely within the existing footprint and the site will include 65 parking spaces, more than the required number.

Quincy Joins Program

Wandering Alzheimer Afflicted Can Now Be Found Within 30 Minutes

By MIKAELA SLANEY

Through technology, Project Lifesaver, which Quincy has joined, those with Alzheimer's and others with special needs who wander, can be found within 30 minutes.

"In government there is no more important function than to keep the citizens of our community safe and sound," said Mayor William Phelan, who signed the program into fruition with Sheriff Michael Bellotti, and Police Lt. Dan Minton, who signed on behalf of Chief Robert Crowley, who was unable to attend.

"This is our last and final signing," said Bellotti, who is the statewide coordinator.

"We're the first county in Massachusetts to have every single city and town signed onto this program," said Dr. William Knight, chief of Project Lifesaver, at the Sheriff's Office.

The program will secure a tracking device onto potential wanderers, so that a rescue team can find them using radio signals emitted by the device.

Project Lifesaver uses advanced technology and trained law enforcement personnel to locate missing persons. Individuals in the program wear personalized wristbands that emit unique tracking signals. Rescue teams use mobile tracking units to pick up the signals.

Each wristband contains a one-ounce, battery-operated transmitter that automatically emits a signal every second and can be tracked for several miles from the air and up to a mile on the ground.

Searches that used to take many hours and cost taxpayers hundreds of thousands of dollars are now successfully resolved within 30 minutes on average and at a fraction of the cost.

Residents enrolled in Project Lifesaver do not bear the burden of this expense. The program relies on the generosity of individuals, businesses and community organizations for financial support.

"This is just another level of security for Alzheimer's patients, those folks that tend to wander or go missing, which is very prevalent in stages of Alzheimer's.

"And also for family members, so that they can be comforted knowing that if their Alzheimer's relative, somebody who is inflicted with this horrific disease, wanders from their home, that they'll be found in less than 30 minutes," said Bellotti.

Reducing recovery time is crucial in that a victim's survival rate drops 50 percent after the first 24 hours, according to Bellotti.

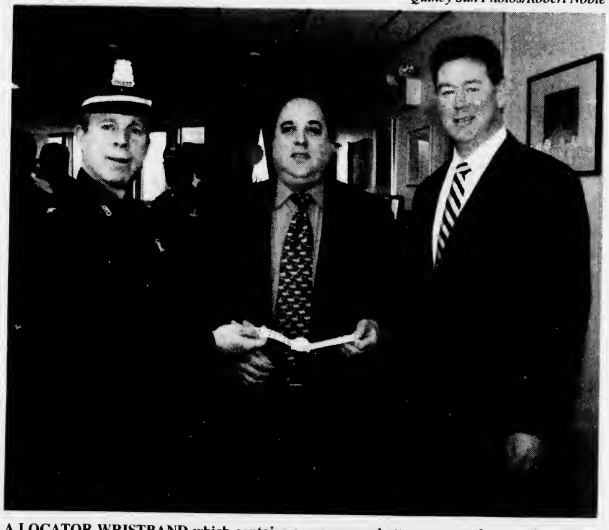
"The teams do what we call 'triangulars.' They spread out in an area where they suspect that the person is wandering, and they close in on that. And if need be, we actually have support from the state police, who have allowed the Quincy Sheriff's office to use the helicopter," said Bellotti.

"We have about 25 people on the program, countywide, right now, and all of the Alzheimer's patients are wearing the device themselves. We have children with autism, from four years old up until 15 years old wearing the devices. All of the children are wearing them, whether on their ankle, their fanny pack or on their wrist. We're very fortunate with that," said Knight.

The equipment costs $3,100 per mobile unit, and $300 per wristband.

"I have funded some of these through my fund at the sheriff's office, but the goal is to hopefully get these devices in the community funded by private donations," said Bellotti.

The tracking equipment has a 3/4 to one mile range, and a three to four mile range from the air, depending on buildings and other interference.



"After a certain period of time we would notify air support so that they can get prepared, and if we don't find somebody within 45 minutes to an hour, we would initiate that air search," said Knight.

If police are still unsuccessful in locating the victim, they have resources to start a full-fledged search and rescue using canines.

"Twenty three hundred individuals who are inflicted with Alzheimer's in Quincy, and then others, who are at risk for wandering and getting into harms way will be better protected because of your leadership, and I appreciate that," said Phelan.

NORFOLK COUNTY SHERIFF Michael Bellotti (right) displays a search antenna which is used to help locate wandering Alzheimer's victims, and other lost citizens with special needs. The program was unveiled last week at a press conference in the office of Mayor William Phelan (left). Also attending the announcement were Quincy Police Captain Paul Keenan, Lt. Charles Santoro and Lt. Daniel Minton. Quincy Sun Photos/Robert Noble

Proposes Increase At MLK Event Here

Kennedy Calls Minimum Wage Freeze Step Back

By MIKAELA SLANEY

Sen. Edward Kennedy, fresh from the Senate hearings into Judge Samuel Alito's Supreme Court bid, says the nation has made great strides toward financial and racial equality in the past 50 years.

"We're not going to go back and we shouldn't have anyone on the Supreme Court who's going to take us back," he said.

Kennedy spoke at a "Let Justice Roll" campaign rally commemorating Martin Luther King Day at United First Parish Church.

One of the campaign's goals is to increase the national minumum wage from its current $5.15 an hour, where it has been since 1997.

Failing to do that, said Kennedy, is a step in the wrong direction.

"Let me tell you something that offends me," said Kennedy. "It's been nine years now since we've had an increase in the minimum wage.

"During that time, members (of Congress) voted themselves seven pay increases, a total of over $30,000, but we can not get an increase in the minimum wage?

SEN. EDWARD KENNEDY tells 'Let Justice Roll' campaign rally that failure to raise the minimum wage is an unconscionable step backward. Quincy Sun photos/Robert Noble

REV. SHELDON BENNETT

MAYOR WILLIAM PHELAN

REV. HERMAN HAMILTON

"It is unconscionable.

"Who are the recipients? Men and women of dignity. They may be making minumum wage but they want to do the job. They want to do it right and they want to do it well.

"Primarily, it's women. Sixty five to 70 per cent of those women have children. It's a women's issue. It's a children's issue. It's a family issue. It's a civil rights issue. It's a fairness issue.

"American people, working 50 hours a week, should not have to live in poverty."

Kennedy said that senators, when they get their pay checks, also get a little blue card.

""In the blue card," he said, "if you want federal employee's comprehensive, universal health coverage, you just check right up here and you don't have to have your home coverage any longer.

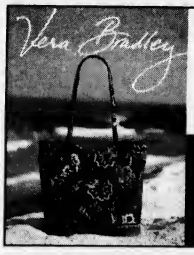
"You know there isn't a single member of the United States Senate that has not checked that box? That's the box I want for everyone."

Rev. Sheldon Bennett, minister of United First Parish Church called it "simply wrong" that half a million Americans do not have healthcare because they can't afford it.

"A job should lift a person out of poverty, not keep them in it," he said. "They want healthcare, but don't want it at the expense of raising taxes.

"People who don't have healthcare are forced to use the emergency room, which is funded by taxes. We end up paying 10 times more."

"Work should be rewarded, there is something wrong," said Rocio Saenz, president of Local Service Employees International Union. "People should not have to make the difficult choice to pay rent, pay bills or go to the doctor."



Margarita Osperto, who cleans a hospital, said she doesn't make enough money to pay for healthcare.

"I always worry that one of my children may become sick or something," said Osperto.

Maude Hurd, national president of ACORN (Association of Community Organizations for Reform Now), recalled a 2004 vote in Florida to increase the minimum wage to $8.25 an hour.

"Seven to one said 'yes.'

Do you have an adjustable rate mortgage or home equity loan?

Will you be able to afford your payment when rates start going up? Lots of people have gone with adjustable rate loans because they could "buy more house" or just because the rates were so low. But rates are starting to move up now. In fact, short-term rates went up more than a point over the past few months. Fed watchers say they'll be going up again soon. Did you always plan to switch to a fixed-rate loan before rates went up? Then we should talk. At Colonial Federal Savings Bank, we can make it very easy for you to convert to a fixed-rate loan. And fixed rates are still hovering near 50-year lows. Is that adjustable rate loan starting to make you nervous? Come see us. Or call 617-471-0750.

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On Jan. 18, 1803, President Thomas Jefferson asks Congress for money to fund the journey of Meriwether Lewis and William Clark to explore the vast regions of the Far West. The costs for provisions, weapons, gunpowder, scientific instruments and a large boat came to $2,500, with $696 earmarked for gifts to Indians.

• On Jan. 20, 1870, Victoria Woodhull and her sister Tennessee Claflin open the doors of Woodhull, Claflin & Co., the nation's first brokerage firm run solely by women. The firm represented an early victory for equal rights in the often-chauvinistic world of Wall Street.

• On Jan. 22, 1912, Florida East Coast Railroad opens, running between Key West and the mainland. The railroad closed in 1935. Three years later, the roadway was paved, bringing automotive traffic to the Florida Keys for the first time.

• On Jan. 19, 1931, producer Samuel Goldwyn announces he has contracted with fashion designer Coco Chanel to advise United Artists costumers. The move indicated the power that Hollywood was beginning to have on American fashion trends.

• On Jan. 17, 1949, "The Goldbergs" debuts as television's first situation comedy. The show, which ran until 1954, followed the adventures of a middle-class Jewish family in the Bronx.

• On Jan. 16, 1953, the Chevrolet Corvette is introduced as a show car at New York's Waldorf-Astoria Hotel. Although some car buffs criticized the sports car for being underpowered, that didn't stop Corvettes from speeding off the showroom floors.

• On Jan. 21, 1976, from London's Heathrow Airport and Orly Airport outside Paris, the first Concordes with commercial passengers simultaneously take flight. With a cruising speed well over the sound barrier at 1,350 mph, the innovative Concorde could cut air-travel time by more than half.

Pretty Much A Man's World

Politically speaking, Quincy is still pretty much a man's world.

Alicia Gardner's decision not to seek re-election in Ward 6 returned the city council to an all-male body.

GARDNER

She had been the only woman elected to the city council in 10 years when she won the seat in 2003. And, only the fourth woman to serve in the council since Quincy became a city in 1889.

AUSTIN

It was 53 years before the first woman took a seat on the council. She was Edna Austin who was elected in 1942 and served until 1959 when she retired.

CONDON

It took 26 years for the next woman to make it to the council chamber. She was Joanne Condon, elected to the Ward 6 seat in 1978. She left in 1985 to unsuccessfully challenge Mayor Frank McCauley.

TOLAND

But before she left, Patricia (Pat) Toland came on giving women two seats on the same council, during a two-year period, for the first and only time in the city's history.

Toland, a former school committee member, was elected in 1981 and served until 1993 when she left to become assistant city clerk.

She was city council president in 1988-89 – the only woman ever to hold that powerful post.

It took another decade for the next woman to be elected. That, as we noted, was Gardner who took the Ward 6 seat in 2003 and held it only two years before stepping down last month because of family reasons.

So, in 117 years there have been only four women – to something like 369 men – elected to the city council.

And, so far, the mayor's office has been forbidden political territory. Four women have tried: Rita Anderson, Grace Saphir, Joanne Condon and Sabina Stenberg. Mayoral score: men 29, women 0.

In his political history of Quincy covering 1889 to 2000, Frank McCauley found that 456 individuals had been elected to municipal office. Of which, 436 were men and only 20 women.

In the three elections since – if our arithmetic is correct – it is now 469 individuals – 447 men, 22 women.

Women fare best running for school committee to which 18 of the 22 women were elected. Three women are on the current school committee: Elaine Dwyer, vice chairwoman; Linda Stice and newest member Anne Mahoney.

In the 117 years things, politically, have been pretty much lopsided in favor of men.

Despite the fact that women registered voters still outnumber men.

How long will it take for the next woman to crack the city council?

And, will there ever be a woman mayor?

Time marches on.

ELAINE DWYER and her daughter, Katelyn, are making mother-daughter history on the school committee.

ELAINE DWYER

KATELYN DWYER

Dwyer, of course, is now vice chairwoman. And Katelyn sits beside her as a student representative to the school committee from Quincy High School where she is a senior and her class president.

It's a "first" for the school committee.

Katelyn will be going to Northeastern University when she graduates to begin her studies to be a school teacher.

Already there is her sister, Kristen, who was president of the QHS student council and graduated two years ago. She is studying to be a special needs teacher.

Proud Mom noted in her acceptance remarks after being elected vice chairwoman at the school committee's organizational meeting:

"I am very proud they have both decided to begin their journey as what I believe to be the most rewarding and outstanding profession: teacher."

Dwyer thinks one of them just might be interested in politics, in addition to teaching.

Maybe the first woman mayor will come out of that generation.

Or a woman councillor or two.

Ward 2 Democrats To Caucus Feb. 4 Fore River Clubhouse

Registered Democrats in Quincy's Ward 2 will hold a caucus Saturday, Feb. 4 at 10 a.m. at the Fore River Clubhouse, 10 Nevada Rd., Quincy Point, to elect 11 delegates and two alternates to the 2006 Massachusetts Democratic Convention.

Delegates will be divided equally between men and women.

An organizational meeting of the Ward 2 Democratic Committee will be held before the caucus is called to order.

The state convention will be held Friday, June 2 and Saturday, June 3 at the DCU Center in Worcester. At that time, Democrats from across the state will gather to endorse candidates for the office of Auditor, Treasurer, Attorney General, Secretary of the Commonwealth, Lt. Governor, Governor and U.S. Senator.

The names of those candidates who receive 15 percent of the state convention vote will be placed on the Sept. 19, 2006 Democratic Primary Ballot.

The caucus is open to all registered Democrats in Ward 2. Candidates for delegate and alternate must consent to nomination in writing and must be present at the caucus. All candidates may make a two-minute statement and may distribute materials on their behalf.

All ballots will be written and secret. Those not elected as delegate and/or alternate, who meet the qualifications, may apply to be add-on delegates in the following categories: youth, minority and disabled.

Discrimination on the basis of race, sex, age, color, creed, national origin, religion, ethnic identity, sexual orientation or economic status in the conduct of the caucus is strictly prohibited.

Challenges to the delegate selection process can be filed with the Massachusetts Democratic Party, 56 Roland St., Suite 203, Boston, MA 02129 no later than 10 days after the caucus date.

For more information, contact the Democratic State Committee at 617-776-2676.

Friendly Visitors Sought At COA

The Quincy Council on Aging is seeking volunteers to call on the elderly who live alone and would welcome a friendly visitor.

The COA is also seeking seniors who live alone and would like a friendly visit themselves.

Call the COA at 617-376-1508 and ask to speak with the friendly visitor coordinator.

The Council is mandated by law to do background checks on all volunteers.

Quincy 2000 Offering Business Training Course

Quincy 2000 Collaborative will co-sponsor a business training course with the South Shore Chamber of Commerce in partnership with the UMass/Boston Small Business Development Center (SBDC).

SBDC's NxLevel program is a business-training course designed to enhance entrepreneurial skills and assist business people in creating a comprehensive business plan.

The course will begin Jan. 23 and run for 12 Monday evenings from 6 to 9 p.m. through April 24 at the South Shore Chamber offices in Quincy. The full course costs $495. Fee for additional participants from the same company is $395 each. The application deadline is Jan. 16. Class size will be limited.

NxLevel is designed to help entrepreneurs learn the skills needed to create, develop and strengthen business ventures. Unlike other education courses, NxLevel addresses the special needs of the entrepreneur by providing a practical, hands-on and common sense approach to developing their business.

The course includes prominent business leaders, professionals and lenders as guest speakers, a comprehensive textbook, workbook and resource guide, and free business consulting.

Students will learn how to determine the feasibility of their business, how to write a business plan, how to identify opportunities and markets for their business and how and where to get funding.

More information and course applications are available from Quincy 2000 Collaborative at 617-847-1454.

Let Us Not Forget

On Dec. 16, 1944, the Germans launched an attack in the Ardennes, later known as the "Battle of the Bulge," which caught the Americans completely by surprise.

The Germans were headed for Antwerp, Belgium, to cut off our supply line. General Omar Bradley had asked several generals if they could get their troops up there and stop the Germans. Only one general volunteered: George Patton, who said he would be at Bastogne on Christmas Day. The other generals including the British scoffed at this and asked Patton how he could be so sure of his statement.

His answer was, "I trained by 3rd Army and they will do what I ask of them."

Well, due to the icy conditions, Patton arrived at Bastogne the day after Christmas and hit the German flanks as he said he would and he inflicted heavy losses on the Germans. In fact, he had an entire German Army trapped and he was waiting for Field Marshall, Montgomery to close the gap at Falaise. Montgomery never showed up.

Patton called Eisenhower and told him that he was going to throw him into the ocean like the Germans did to them at Dunkirk. "Ike" told Patton that Montgomery had our 9th Division with them and ordered Patton to let the Germans withdraw into Germany and kill as many as possible.

We had 600,000 men in that battle and the Germans had 500,000. We suffered 40,000 casualties and the Germans 100,000. So never forget the greatest battle of World War II and all the soldiers who lived and died to defeat Hitler and his Nazi regime.

The battle came to a close on Jan. 25, 1945, although I thought it lasted until the 28th.

As a fortunate soldier who survived along with some others I know, I salute those heroes for a job well done.

Although my unit, the Devils Brigade, was a Regimental Combat Team we gave the 10th Armored Division valuable assistance which they recognized years later when they made all the "Devils" honorary members of the 10th.

Virus Threat Keeps Students At Home

Jan. 18-24
35 Years Ago

In an effort to reduce the chance of infection by a virus, Health Commissioner Dr. Alfred Mahoney urged parents to keep children with colds and sore throats home from school.

Dr. Mahoney's action came after 100 students were sent home from public and parochial schools. The absenteeism across the city has reached an all-time high at 25-35 percent.

ADAMS SHORE RESTAURANT OPPOSED

Residents of Adams Shore and Germantown voiced their strong opposition to the proposed "Dockside" restaurant at 47 Palmer St., site of the Quincy Adams boatyard.

A petition in opposition to three-story restaurant was presented by Mr. and Mrs. William Duane of Utica Street and Edward Inmar of Forbush Street on behalf of St. Boniface's Church along with one from the Adams Shore Community Church.

Councillor Edward Graham was recorded in opposition, noting the already bad traffic conditions in the area and neighbor's concern with the service of alcohol.

NORTH QUINCY IMPROVEMENT PROJECT

George Fleming, project director of the North Quincy Improvement Area project, announced an additional $496,000 was approved for the project allowing for an extension of six months of work.

To date, there were 200 loans and grants for home improvements with two-thirds of the 1,100 code violations corrected. The total amount of the project was $3.1 million.

Oyster Stuffed Pork

Here is a great oyster stuffing recipe for a roast pork that I cooked for Christmas. I made a 7 pounder and if the bone is in you can stuff the top by cutting it all along the top edge. Then secure it with toothpicks.

If you use a pork shoulder you can do the same thing. Also pork tenderloins can be cut in halves, but not all the way. The one I purchased were two boneless roasts tied together and I placed the stuffing in the center and retied it. (the tie was made of an elastic so it was easy to slip it off and put it back on). Any leftover stuffing can be baked in a greased casserole dish.

Oyster Stuffing

1 can oysters (fresh if you are ambitious)

4 slices of bread cut in cubes

2 tablespoons fresh parsley (chopped)

1 small onion

2 stalks celery

1/4 cup white wine

1 cup chicken or beef stock

1/2 cup seasoned bread crumbs

2 tablespoons oil and 1 tablespoon butter or margarine for sautéing

Sauté the onion and celery. Add the oysters, the chicken stock and the wine. Then add the bread and blend well and then add the bread crumbs. It should be dry enough to stuff the meat, otherwise, add a little more crumbs.

Slit the top part of the roast and place the stuffing. Bake in a 325 degree oven for 20 minutes to the pound. If you use a thermometer, follow those directions.

League Of Women Voters Sponsoring Essay Contest

The League of Women Voters Education Fund is sponsoring an essay contest for Massachusetts students in grades 4 through 12 on the theme "Making Democracy Work: Our Bill of Rights."

The contest deadline is Wednesday, March 15. The prize will be a savings bond and recognition at a ceremony in Boston's Faneuil Hall.

Sen. Michael Morrissey urged local schools to take advantage of the essay contest.

"The League of Women Voters is a non-partisan political organization committed to educating and working with the next generation of voters and leaders to help insure that our democracy will flourish," he said.

For further contest details, visit the website www.lwvma.org.

Children To Perform Opera At Eastern Nazarene College Jan. 28

Brundibar, a short children's opera written in the Terezin concéntration camp by composer Hans Krasa in 1939, will be performed Saturday, Jan. 28 at 4 p.m. at Eastern Nazarene College.

The performance, part of ENC's Musica Eclectica Concert Series, will be presented at the Mann Student Center Auditorium, 23 East Elm Ave., Wollaston.

The performance will be followed by a discussion and reception with Holocaust survivor Edgar Krasa, jointly sponsored by the ENC History Department.

Brundibar, a moving story of two siblings seeking milk for their sick mother, will be performed in English by children ages five and up under the direction of Barbara and Ralf Gawlick and the Dalcroze Center for Music and Movement.

At 40 minutes long, children of all ages are welcome to attend.

A $5 donations will be accepted.

The discussion with Edgar Krasa will immediately follow the performance.

More information, including directions, may be found at www.musica-eclectica.org, www.enc.edu, or by calling 617-745-3715.

The ENC campus is a ten-minute walk from the Red Line (Wollaston stop/ Braintree train). Parking is free.

The Musica Eclectica concert series exists to enrich the cultural life of Boston, the South Shore, and the ENC campus by presenting musical performances drawn from a wide range of styles, said Delvyn Case, Artistic Director and founder of the series. Case is an assistant professor of music at ENC and a visiting professor at Boston College.

Upcoming concerts include rock, classical, jazz, and gospel music.

Storyteller - Folksinger Features Languages At Library

Storyteller and folksinger Tim Van Egmond will present traditional stories and songs from around the world on Sunday, Jan. 29 at 2 p.m. at the Thomas Crane Public Library, 40 Washington St.

You Say Potato, I Say Pomme de Terre explores the fascination of language in a program suitable for adults and children aged seven and older. A variety of folk traditions and languages will be represented, including Shona, Bengali, Irish, Italian, Chinese, Seneca, and Spanish.

Van Egmond creates performances for a wide range of topics and themes, but feels especially drawn to the subject of this program. He has an ear for languages, having earned his college degree in Romance Languages, spent a semester studying in France, and traveled widely. Since 1978, he has been appearing at schools, libraries, and community centers, as well as various folk festivals and on a number of television and radio programs. A resident of Montague, he is a featured artist in the Massachusetts Cultural Council's Education Program and its Touring Program.

This free program is one of a series of programs highlighting the library's collections by its classification system, the Dewey Decimal System. Discover It @ your library— in the 400's section this month, sponsored by the Friends of the Thomas Crane Public Library.

For more information about this or other library events, call 617-376-1301 or visit thomascranelibrary.org.

Paul Harold Memorial Scholarship Awarded

The Paul D. Memorial Fund committee has awarded its first scholarships.

The recipients of the $500 awards are Marybeth Morris and Kendra Ciccone, 2005 graduates of North Quincy High School respectively.

Marybeth is attending Boston College and Kendra Umass Lowell.

In announcing the awards, committee co-chairpersons Mike Linnens and Ann Knafelz said:

"Both students were selected for the award based on their courses of study. It is hoped these young women will someday follow the steps of Paul Harold as civic leaders, educators or provide a service to the quality of life within their communities.

"Paul Harold, a person of commitment and compassion lived for the citizens of Quincy and Massachusetts. It is only fitting his legacy lives on through this scholarship and the sponsorship of Quincy Youth Hockey and Quincy Youth Soccer teams. Education and Youth sports were dear to him."

Linnane was Harold's campaign coordinator and Knafelz his administrative assistant 14 years while state senator.

Other members of the committee Paul Bragoli and, Robert Flavel and Jay MacRitchie.

Harold's public service career spanned 27 years as a city councillor, council president, state senator and Norfolk County register of deeds. He died from cancer in August, 2002 at age 53.

The Quincy Center Concourse bridge was dedicated as The Paul D. Memorial Bridge" in 2004. A memorial road race held in conjunction on with the bridge dedication, 2nd donations raised sufficient money to establish the memorial fund.

The committee plans to make the scholarship awards annually and continue sponsorship of the youth hockey and soccer teams.

Applications for the next awards will be available at the Quincy and North Quincy High School Guidance offices beginning Feb. 1.

Donations may still be made to the Paul D. Harold Memorial Fund care of the Quincy Credit Union, 100 Quincy Ave., Quincy, Ma, 02169.

Quincy, Boston Organizations Recipients

State Street Pledges $100,000 For Needy Children

State Street Corporation announces special holiday outreach gifts of $100,000 to help less-advantaged children in the Quincy and Boston area.

The State Street Foundation, the grantmaking arm of State Street, will fun 13 nonprofits that provide children and their families with holiday items and activities, including: tickets to music and dance performances, gift cards, clothing, books, toys, holiday parties, and meal programs.

"State Street has a long history of supporting the communities where we do business and we extend this tradition by giving extra holiday support in our home city," said George Russell, executive vice president of community affairs and director of the State Street Foundation. "We are pleased to be able to make this financial contribution and hope it will provide underprivileged families in Boston and Quincy with the essential items they need, along with some holiday cheer."

Fourth Quarter Philanthropic grants to Quincy and Boston organizations total $1 million.

Part of State Street's donation will fund tickets to three Boston cultural events: Boston Ballet's The Nutcracker, the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and the National Center for Afro-American Artists Black Nativity. The tickets will be distributed to area youth groups.

The holiday outreach initiative will also support the following community organizations: The American Red Cross, for expansion of its holiday meal program; The Boston Chinatown Neighborhood Center, for holiday parties and pre-reading literacy enrichment materials for immigrant families; Christmas in the City, for a full day of food, activities and visits with Santa.

The Home for Little Wanderers, for toy drive expenses and gift card purchases;

Horizons for the Homeless, for materials for its holiday shopping spree;

Project Hope, for expansion of its Holiday House-warming drive.

Quincy Community Action Program, for gift card purchases and holiday staffing.

The Salvation Army, for the purchase of gift cards for the Christmas Castle.

The South Shore YMCA's Germantown Neighborhood Center, for clothing, coat and show purchases for family wish lists.

The U.S. Marine Corps Toys for Tots.

Established in 1977, the State Street Foundation targets initiatives by charitable organizations that serve the less advantaged in communities around the world where State Street has significant business presence. managed through Community Affairs, the Philanthropy Program helps generate and sustain positive change in our communities. This grantmaking program is facilitated by more than 30 contribution committees worldwide.

Pre-registration is required. Call the office of the Council on Aging at 617-376-1506 to reserve a place.

Preschool Fire Safety For Child Care Providers

PRESCHOOL FIRE PREVENTION – Sharon Gamache, executive director of the Center for High-Risk Outreach at the National Fire Protection Association (N.F.P.A.) helped Norfolk District Attorney William R. Keating kick off the Norfolk Firewall Partnership's countywide effort to make preschool fire prevention information available to local communities. In collaboration with the Office of the State Fire Marshal and the Coalition for Kids in Danger, prevention videotapes for parents and other caregivers have been donated to public libraries and local school systems.

It is a few minutes that can save a life. According to the National Fire Protection Association (N.F.P.A.), playing with matches and lighters is the number one cause of fire death among preschool age children and the number one reason they are a higher-risk group.

Parents, their babysitters, and other caregivers of preschoolers, along with more than 940 licensed child care providers serving the 28 communities of the Norfolk District will now have access to an important resource with a timeless child safety message.

This month, the Norfolk Firewall Partnership, an inter-agency coalition to protect children and families from fire, will begin making available to communities an 8-minute videotape describing how to prevent fires and burns to young children, and reminding caregivers to keep matches and lighters out of kids' reach.

The video, entitled, "A Lighter Is Not a Toy" was produced and donated by the N.F.P.A. headquartered in Quincy. It is being distributed in collaboration with the Massachusetts State Fire Marshal's Office and the Coalition for Kids in Danger.

The videotape is not intended for children, but rather for the adults that supervise them.

The Norfolk Firewall Partnership's plan is threefold. First, free copies of the videotape will be provided to all public libraries in Norfolk County for convenient access by parents, grandparents, and other caregivers. Licensed child care providers in each community will be notified of its local availability.

Second, each public school system offering a kindergarten or preschool program will receive a copy of the videotape for faculty and staff training.

Third, copies of the videotape will be made available to regional offices of the Massachusetts Department of Social Services for possible inclusion in foster parent training programs.

Safety information related to the upcoming National Fire Prevention Week may also be provided.

"When it comes to protecting young children from fire, simple, common sense steps can make all the difference," said D.A. Keating, who helped launch the Norfolk Firewall Partnership in 2001. "Safety begins with prevention."

According to "Ten years ago, preschool children were twice as likely to die in home fires. Since then we've made great progress. Training programs, such as this one, can further reduce risks to our children, " said Judy Comoletti, assistant vice president of Public Education for the N.F.P.A.

The Norfolk Firewall Partnership offers the following guidelines for the safe use and safe storage of matches and lighters.

• Matches and lighters should be kept far away from children, and stored beyond children's reach, preferably in a locked cabinet.

• They should be put away immediately after lighting a fireplace or wood burning stove.

• They are tools for adults only, not toys for children to play with.

• All lighters should be child-resistant.

• Wooden "strike anywhere" matches should not be used in homes with young children.

• Teach young children to tell an adult when they see matches or lighters, but not to pick them up themselves.

Additional information about fire prevention is available online from the Office of the Massachusetts State Fire Marshal at www.mass.gov/dfs/osfm, the National Fire Protection Association at www.nfpa.org, the Coalition for Kids in Danger at kidsandfire.net, and the Shriners Hospitals for Children at www.shrinershq.org.

A Year Ago This Weekend

'The Blizzard Of '05': Do You Remember?

By TOM HENSHAW

Try to remember, as you look out on the patio and dream of steaks on the barbie, try to remember what you were doing a year ago this coming weekend.

If you were Carol Collins of 862 East Squantum St., Squantum, you were knee-deep in a snow drift as you tried to shovel your way out of the house.

If you were Deputy Fire Chief Tim Pettinelli you were on the horn asking all able-bodied Quincy residents to help shovel fire hydrants out of snow banks.

If you were the 7-year-old son of Alan Flynn of Quincy you were buried in an eight-foot snow drift while neighbors and passing motorists dug furiously to get you out.

In case you've forgotten, that's the way it was a year ago when the Blizzard of '05 dumped 28 inches of snow on Quincy, one of the biggest storms ever to hit the city.

The monstrous storm is often compared favorably — or unfavorably, depending on your perspective — with the almost legendary Blizzard of '78.

The National Weather Service said the snow totals placed the storm among the top five in the past century and rated its force just shy of that seen in the Blizzard of '78.

There was so much snow in Quincy that Public Works crews ran out of places to store it once it was picked up and the bitter cold (a 15 below wind chill) prevented a mass melt.

At the height of the storm on Sunday evening as many as 90 pieces of equipment were being used by the DPW in snow removal and police towed some 50 vehicles that defied the city's parking ban.

Schools were closed on Monday and Tuesday as crews focused their efforts on clearing pedestrian walkways for students and main roads and side roads for school buses.

Snow drifts eight and 10 feet deep closed roads in Germantown and abandoned cars all but shut down Quincy Shore Drive and, in spite of sub-freezing temperatures, there was minor flooding in Houghs Neck.

On the plus side, no deaths were reported, there were no major power outages and evacuation centers set up at North Quincy High School and the Atherton Hough School went unused. Fifty four people died across New England in the Blizzard of '78.

And the snow that piled to such enormous heights was relatively light, fluffier than the heavy, wet snow that fell in 1978, bringing down with it electrical wires and straining even the heaviest equipment and the backs of shovelers.

A SHOVELER ATTACKS a mountain of snow in front of his house on Quincy Shore Drive after a January 2005 blizzard dropped 28 inches of snow on the city.

Are You O.K.? Is 'An Extra Layer Of Security'

Sheriff's Program Continues To Aid Senior Citizens In Their Homes

For nearly five years, Norfolk County Sheriff Michael Bellotti's "Are You O.K.? Program" has been a valuable in-home service for senior citizens, especially those living alone.

"It's an extra layer of security," Bellotti said. "It gives seniors added confidence and it's a great way for family members to know their elder loved ones are being checked on daily."

Each registered senior receives a personal, automated phone call every day at a specified time. If there's no answer, a second call is placed five minutes later. If there's still no response, a deputy sheriff calls the designated contact – usually a family member, friend or neighbor. That person is asked to go to the senior's home. If the contact person cannot be reached, the deputy calls local police who then respond to the senior's residence.

"This program works," Bellotti said, "and it saves lives."

Since the program's inception in April 2001, there have been 37 total "saves," including two in November.

In the first case, a 95-year-old legally-blind Quincy woman confined to a wheelchair did not answer her daily call. Police were dispatched to the woman's home and found her on the floor where she had been since midnight after falling out of her wheelchair trying to use the bathroom.

The woman was taken to Quincy Medical Center for X-rays. Her family, out of state at the time, was notified.

In the second case, a 78-year-old Weymouth woman answered her second call and stated she was not feeling well. The Sheriff's deputy notified the police, who quickly arrived and took her to South Shore Medical Center for evaluation. The woman has no immediate family.

"These situations speak for themselves," Bellotti said. "What would have happened under different circumstances in which no one was checking in on these seniors? This program is important, and it works."

Since starting the program, Bellotti said, there have been more than 500 Norfolk County senior citizens who have taken advantage of the free service.

Currently, there are 250 seniors from 26 Norfolk County communities who are registered and receive individual calls every day.

Senior citizens can register through their local senior center or Council on Aging, or by calling the Norfolk County Sheriff's Office toll free at 1-866-900-RUOK (7865) between 7 a.m. and 3 p.m.

rishioners even though it was allowed to reopen for one Sunday mass a week only by a visiting priest from Sacred Heart Parish in North Quincy.

"We wanted to be open for baptisms, weddings and funerals, too, but they wouldn't let us," he said. "They met us halfway but people are still upset."

"If they had permitted us to hold baptisms, weddings and funerals at the church there would be no need to pursue further appeals," said Mazrimas.

Glennon recalled that two ushers at the church died recently.

"One was buried out of Sacred Heart, the welcoming parish. The other was buried out of St. Ann's in Wollaston," he said.

"There are still some people who can't accept it."

Ward 3 Democrats To Caucus At Granite Place Feb. 4

Registered Democrats in Quincy's Ward 3 will hold a caucus Saturday, Feb. 4 at 10 a.m. in the function room at 125 Granite St. (Granite Place), to elect 10 delegates and two alternates to the 2006 Massachusetts Democratic Convention.

Delegates will be divided equally between men and women.

The state convention will be held Friday, June 2 and Saturday, June 3 at the DCU Center in Worcester. At that time, Democrats from across the state will gather to endorse candidates for the office of Auditor, Treasurer, Attorney General, Secretary of the Commonwealth, Lt. Governor, Governor and U.S. Senator.

The names of those candidates who receive 15 percent of the state convention vote will be placed on the Sept. 19, 2006 Democratic Primary Ballot.

The caucus is open to all registered Democrats in Ward 3. Candidates for delegate and alternate must consent to nomination in writing and must be present at the caucus. All candidates may make a two-minute statement and may distribute materials on their behalf.

All ballots will be written and secret. Those not elected as delegate and/or alternate, who meet the qualifications, may apply to be add-on delegates in the following categories: youth, minority and disabled.

Discrimination on the basis of race, sex, age, color, creed, national origin, religion, ethnic identity, sexual orientation or economic status in the conduct of the caucus is strictly prohibited.

Challenges to the delegate selection process can be filed with the Massachusetts Democratic Party, 56 Roland St., Suite 203, Boston, MA 02129 no later than 10 days after the caucus date.

For more information, contact the Democratic State Committee at 617-776-2676.

NORFOLK COUNTY Dist. Atty. William Keating presented Mrs. Celestine Dorch Howard with a special citation.

moved to Boston at the age of 18. Racism was also practiced in the north, in a subtle way. There are generations of Americans that have never seen a sign, saying 'colored only' on a bus, or a drinking fountain for 'colored only,'" said Brewster.

"(MLK) taught all people a method of a non-violent protest," said Brewster. "We would not have gotten where we are today without the help of our white brothers and sisters," she added, and then asked the African-American audience members to help her in thanking white supporters.

"A lot of whites were always there. Even in slavery. All children need that knowledge," said Brewster.

Brewster quoted Dr. King:

"Hatred and bitterness never cure the disease of fear. Only love can do that."

"We thank you for your love and your dream. Your dream is still alive and well, your living has not been in vain," said Brewster, whose speech was met with a standing ovation.

"(MLK) empowered the downtrodden in our country, with his uplifting message of hope and opportunities, and he enlightened the privileged members of our society, by speaking on behalf of a population that had no voice," said Phelan.

"He built a bridge between populations that had never before existed, in the history of our country. He taught us to treat strangers as our own brothers and sisters," said Phelan.

"AMAZING GRACE" was sung by Gabriella Sharpe, a student at Central Middle School.

"He spread the message of tolerance and understanding. I challenge all of us, to take this message with us when we leave today, not only practice his message but spread it to others as he did, do as he did. That's the best way to honor his legacy," said Phelan.

"We want to preserve as a country, the message of that person's life, and have that transfer from generation to generation to generation. That's what makes today so important," said District Attorney William Keatings, who was a speaker at the event.

The program, which was in the North Quincy High School cafeteria, opened with a Pledge of Allegiance by the North Quincy High School ROTC, with a blessing by Rev. Dr. Thomas Pang Canon, for the Asian American Ministry of the Episcopal Diocese. Speakers included Phelan, Edmund Grogan, Chairperson of the Human Rights Commission, and Douglas Gutro, City Council president.

The presentation included a performance by "Altar Nation," a teen rap group from the Bethany Church of the Nazarene. Altar Nation includes: Thomas Speed Kinsin, Jacob Theodoris, and Debbie Egan Fidah Salem.

"Girl Power," a girl group from the Germantown Neighborhood Center, took turns reading "My Brother Martin," a story by Martin Luther King's sister, detailing the prejudices that they experienced in their childhood, and the events that lead up to her brother's dream that would eventually "turn the world upside down."

Girl Power took turns announcing their own dreams for a brighter future.

The students then took turns telling their dreams of a world without poverty, hunger, disease and war.

Gabriella Sharpe, a Central Middle School student from Germantown, sang Amazing Grace.

The presentation concluded with an audience-participatory performance of "We Shall Overcome."

Also present at the breakfast was Sen. Michael Mauracy.

"GIRL POWER" from the Germantown Neighborhood Center presented "My Brother Martin." From the left are Cyanna Manning, Victoria Samsel, Brandi Issacs, Ashley Will Mandell, Isabella Batres, Sylvia Sanchez, Krystina Stokes, Taylor Lawton, Joanne Ruan, Georgia Papaconstadinou. They were directed by Alicia Greene of the Germantown Neighborhood Center.

In The Wake Of Katrina

Former Quincy Woman Finds Destruction, Hope In Biloxi

By TOM HENSHAW

Future history buffs who visit Beauvoir, the last home of Confederate President Jefferson Davis in Biloxi, Miss., can thank Leslie Douglas of Milton at least partially for its restoration after the ravages of Hurricane Katrina.

"Before the hurricane, Beauvoir was the third oldest building in Biloxi," she said. "Now it's the oldest. The others were destroyed in the storm."

Douglas, who grew up in Quincy (QHS Class of 1967), and her 15-year-son, Alex, spent the second week of the new year in Biloxi as part of a Boston College delegation with Hands on USA, an all-volunteer disaster agency.

"The hurricane was five months ago, but there are still people living in tents. There is still debris everywhere," said Douglas, who is office administrator in the Communications Department at BC.

"We spent the first night there sleeping in an unheated tent. The temperature was down in the 30s and 40s. We were only there for the week. The people who live there in tents had no place else to go.

"There was a place in nearby Pass Christian called "The Village" where people are living in donated Army tents.

"We went there and helped unpack for distribution a tent containing food items and another containing men's and women's clothing.

"Men from our group built bookcase-type units that we used like shelves in a store. Others staffed the daycare center on the first weekend.

"The families have lived there since it was set up. There are two heaters in each tent but they don't always work well.

"Everyone is afraid for their children to get sick from these conditions."

The second night and for the rest of their stay the Douglases moved into the donated hall of the Beauvoir Methodist Church, sleeping on the floor in their own sleeping bags along with some 200 fellow volunteers.

"We had to use gloves to handle the debris," said Douglas. "We had to leave our shoes outside. There were bottles of hand sanitizer everywhere. We had to us that before we ate.

" I had four shots of tetanus, hepatitis A and B and gamma globulin before we left. Alex had three shots.

"The minute we got off the plane we could smell mold. The smell was terrific. Many of the collapsed building may still have bodies in them. Who knows? No one knows the body count.

"There are still messages spray painted on the buildings, like 'Susan Jones. I'm OK. Reach me at . . .'"

The volunteers did something different every day. After supper each night, one of the organizers of the trip would lay out their schedule of tasks for the following day and ask members of the group to choose.

"We were never told to do something," said Douglas. "We were volunteers in every way."

One project was the "street team," where two volunteers, one male and one female, were assigned a block of four streets to canvas for the well-being of the people and listen to their needs.

"Some of the residents started to cry, they were so glad to see that they were not forgotten," said Douglas. "If you shook hands with them they'd say, 'Oh, you're so cold!' and invite you in to get warm. That's the kind of people they are."

The magnitude of the disaster impressed both mother and son.

"Along Highway 90, the major Gulf Coast road, there used to be a strip of magnificent Old South homes," she said. "There are only pieces of them left now. It's like an atom bomb hit.

"Jefferson Davis' old home was badly damaged, too, but there was enough of it left to be restored. It's now a museum and a 'secure site' with guards. We were the first to be allowed into the grounds to sift the debris.

"We did hands-on sifting. Alex found a Confederate coin and Stonewall Jackson's china. The relics will be restored to the museum while the gift shop items will be auctioned off on eBay."

The volunteers also worked with the Humane Society to care for animals that were left homeless by the storm.

"A lot of pets were found abandoned," said Douglas. "We washed animals and cleaned cages for them. We also worked with the Salvation Army to staff the community center."

Evening meals were far from catered. The volunteers had to buy their own food and carry it to their transient home themselves. Some volunteers cleaned up while others did the cooking for 220 in the church hall.

The menu was simple — chicken, baked or fried, macaroni and cheese, Caesar salad, ham hocks, collard greens and candied sweet potatoes. Once they had a typical New Orleans dish, jambalaya.

"Breakfast was at 7 a.m.," said Douglas. "At 9:30 p.m. they dimmed the lights and turned them out at 10 p.m. There was only one shower in the pastor's bathroom and you had to sign up for that. There were two outdoor showers, if the weather was nice.

"One young couple had just been married so they were given a small room by themselves. We called it 'the Honeymoon Suite.'"

On their second day in Biloxi, the Douglases were able to attend the first mass at the restored Catholic church since Hurricane Katrina swept through.

"Two congregations were combined for the mass," said Douglas. "It was such a joyful celebration with singing and hand-clapping like you would expect in the south."

The trip was not a free junket for the volunteers, who paid better than half the cost of the flight to the Gulfport/Biloxi Airport by way of Atlanta. BC paid the rest. They may or may not be reimbursed.

"It was a great experience for us both," said Douglas. "We will never forget these people with such faith, spirit, hope and gratitude for being alive in the face of such incomprehensible devastation.

"We met wonderful people, caring people from all over the country of all ages who raised money to come here or just hopped in their cars and drove.

"People are so giving. There's so much need in the world that it seems impossible. But if each person can do one small thing, then there's hope for the world."

LESLIE DOUGLAS sifts debris from the final home of Confederate President Jefferson Davis (in background) in Biloxi, Miss., which was badly damaged in Hurricane Katrina, for relics to be preserved in the restored museum.

MOTHER & SON. Leslie Douglas and her son, Alex, 15, take time out for lunch in their work cleaning up debris and seeing to the needs of the people of Biloxi, Miss., in the wake of Hurricane Katrina.

FIRE SAFETY

by Captain Tom Lyons
Fire Prevention Bureau
Quincy Fire Department

Be Very Careful With Space Heaters

Seventeen space heater fires were reported to the Office of the State Fire Marshal in 2003.

These fires caused three civilian injuries and an estimated dollar loss of $300,000. Seventy percent of these fires were caused when combustible materials such as bedding, rubbish or furniture were too close to the heater, and another 15 percent were caused by an electrical failure such as an overloaded extension cord. (From Firefactors, Office of the State Fire Marshal.)

Any space heater used should have the label of an independent testing lab, e.g.: "UL APPROVED".

Follow the manufacture's instructions for installing and use.

The heater should be placed a minimum of three feet from combustibles, clothing, bedding, newspapers, curtains, etc.

Make certain that a space heater is placed upon the floor in such a manner to avoid tipping over on its own or by casual contact.

The heater should not be left unattended or used while you sleep.

Keep electric heaters away from water. Never use them near a sink or in a bathroom.

If an extension cord is used, make certain that it is not frayed or faulty. use cords within their marked rating, do not overload. Keep extension cords out of traffic areas and from under rugs.

Regarding unvented kerosene heaters and unvented portable propane heaters;

"No person shall install or use in a building used in whole or in part for human habitation an unvented space heater which uses gas or oil as fuel." M.G.L Section 25A.

With the rising cost of fossil fuels, space heater use tends to increase. Their use appears to be quite common with seniors as well who are statistically proven to be particularly vulnerable to fire within a home. This fact and this combination make proper use of space heaters imperative. Please use them safely and be mindful of all the safeguards listed here and recommendations specified on the manufactures' instructions as well. Be safe!

* Since creation of this section, 527CMR 30 allows non-portable unvented gas-fired space heaters complying with ANSI Standard Z21.11.2 installed by a licensed plumber or gas fitter with permission and by approval of both a plumbing and fire department.

Two Quincy Men Arraigned In $30 Million Pyramid Scam

Two Quincy men, former executives of marketing firms operating out of Boston, Canton and Attleboro, were arraigned in federal court Friday accused of bilking some 400 victims in at least 15 states out of $30 million.

Seng Tan, 57, who has addresses in Quincy, Attleboro and Burnsville, Minn., pleaded innocent while James Buchan, 51, of Quincy, Attleboro and North Miami Beach, Fla., had his arraignment moved to Jan. 19.

They were charged with 11 counts of operating from March 2002 through November, 2005, a massive pyramid scheme that targeted mainly ethnic Cambodians, soliciting investments and then misappropriating the investors' funds for their own use.

"Many of the victims are hard working people who thought they were being responsible about their and their families; financial futures," said U.S. Attorney Michael J. Sullivan.

"They mortgaged their homes to make what they believed to be secure investments with the defendants' companies. As a result, their are now facing the loss of their homes and financial ruin.

"I want to assured the victims of this unconscionable fraud that we will do everything possible to hold the defendants accountable for their illegal conduct and to examine all possible avenues, no matter how remote, to recoup any and all monies lost."

According to the indictment, Buchan and Tan are principals in World Marketing Direct Selling, Inc. (WMDS Inc.) and its affiliate, One Universe Online Inc. (1UOL) with offices in Canton, Attleboro and Boston.

The case is still under investigation and is being prosecuted by Assistant U.S. Attorney Jack W. Pirozzolo of the Economic Crimes Unit.

Accused In West Quincy Slaying Pleads Innocent

Deryck J. Long, 37, of Mattapan pleaded innocent in Quincy District Court last week to one count of murder in the gunshot slaying of Jamal Vaughn, 32, of Dorchester outside a West Quincy apartment building.

He was ordered held without bail for a probable cause hearing Feb. 10.

Witnesses told police that Vaughn was visiting a woman's home on Franklin Street on the evening of Jan. 9 when someone threw a rock through the window of the apartment.

Vaughn went outside and confronted a man identified as Long and engaged in a fist fight with him. Vaughn won the fight, witnesses said.

The action then moved to 145 Willard St. where Vaughn was visiting another friend.

When Vaughn went out to get cigarettes from his car and he was shot twice in the neck and back, killing him. Long was arrested Tuesday in Boston on unrelated warrants and charged with murder that night.

The Quincy Sun inadvertently reversed the names of the principals in the slaying in last week's edition. The Sun regrets the error.

Peer Advocates Ask Council: 'What's Your Anti-Drug?'

A group of 12 peer advocates from the Broad Meadows Middle School recently engaged the City Council in a brief discussion of the question: "What's Your Anti-Drug?"

Wearing uniquely designed shirts with the school colors (royal blue and gold) and in collaboration with Impact Quincy revealed their personal "anti-drugs" to the councillors.

The most common anti-drug among the youngsters was some form of sports but each revalation concluded with the question to the councillor: "What's your anti-drug?"

The most common response was "family."

Alejandro Rivera, the program director of Impact Quincy, concluded the interaction with a description of the importance of raising awareness of substance abuse. particularly underage drinking, in Quincy.

Peer advocates develop media messages directed to their peers and distribute monthly messages promoting healthy lifestyles, including correcting common substance abuse misconceptions.

Barbara Fenby, the health educator at Broad Meadows, is the peer adviser and supervises the group's activities.

REAL ESTATE

During Last Quarter Of 2005 In Norfolk County

Volume Down 9% But Average Sales Price Up 17%

Norfolk County Register of Deeds William P. O'Donnell reports quarterly real estate activity for October through December 2005 shows the total dollar volume of real estate sales in Norfolk County for the period was $1.99 billion, down 9 percent from the last quarter of 2004.

A total of 4,632 deeds were recorded at the Norfolk Registry during the quarter, down 9 percent from the fourth quarter of 2004. However, the average sales price reported in deeds over $1,000 (both residential and commercial properties) was $686,909, up 17 percent by comparison with last year's fourth quarter. That average was also higher than the immediately preceding quarter of 2005 (July-September).

Mortgage activity was down in terms of numbers of filings, but up sharply in dollar volume. There were 13,480 new mortgages recorded in the fourth quarter, showing a total dollar amount of $7.16 billion.

The number of new mortgages was down 9 percent by comparison with the fourth quarter of 2004, but the total dollar amount was up 66 percent from $4.3 billion in mortgages recorded October through December of 2004.

"It is important to note that mortgage filings do not necessarily represent a change in overall indebtedness. Many mortgages refinance existing debt, or secure equity credit lines that may not be drawn in their entirety," O'Donnell said.

The Registry of Deeds is the principal office for real property records in Norfolk County. The Registry is a basic resource for homeowners, title examiners, mortgage lenders, municipalities and others with a need for secure, accurate and accessible land record information.

Quincy Community Action Free Homebuyer Workshop

Quincy Community Action Programs invites potential real estate buyers to a free three-session workshop to learn about buying a home.

Sessions will be held from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m. on Wednesday, Feb. 1, and Monday, Feb. 6 and 13, at the Thomas Crane Public Library, 40 Washington St., Quincy.

Speakers are real estate professionals.

Participants receive a workbook with valuable reference material and a certificate, which is a prerequisite for favorable soft second mortgages, Mass Housing mortgages and downpayment closing cost assistance.

For more information and to register, contact Kathy Pratt at 617-479-8181 ext. 119, or visit QCAP's website: www.qcap.org.

Did You Know?

Whether you're adding a second dishwasher to your kitchen or upgrading the shower or bath, remember this: when you update appliances that use hot water, the demand for hot water in your home will likely increase.

In order to meet changing lifestyle demands, a comprehensive selection of A.O. Smith Water Heaters is available from professional contractors nationwide. To learn more, visit www.hotwater.com.

TIPS FOR HOMEOWNERS

(NAPS) – While there are many choices in roofing materials, an increasing number of homeowners are opting for the stability of metal roofs. To choose a metal roofing system for your home, the Metal Roofing Alliance suggests finding a trained contractor. Ask for referrals and written estimates. Make sure your contractor uses products manufactured by MRA members. For more information, visit www.metalroofing.com.

As energy costs continue to rise and as we become increasingly aware of the importance of energy conservation, saving energy at home is an essential part of keeping our environment healthy and our pocketbooks full. Luckily, making smart choices about using electricity is easier than you think. Learn more at www.marriott.com.

Since more than 50 million people suffer from allergies, it's likely one of your friends or family members might be allergic. Deep cleaning your carpet will help everyone breathe easier, but make sure you use products with a proven track record. For instance, Johns Hopkins University found that the CaptureCarpet Cleaning Total Care Kit effectively reduces allergens – such as dust mites, pollen, mold, mildew and pet dander – up top 70 percent more than just vacuuming alone. For more information, visit www.captureclean.com.

To protect your home and family, you should be aware that any heater or motor that burns gas, coal, kerosene, diesel fuel or charcoal can leak carbon monoxide. If not vented properly, carbon monoxide, which is odorless and invisible, can build up inside your home, car or truck and cause illness and possibly death.

Keep Warm Without Breaking The Bank

(NAPS) With fuel costs so high, many Americans are facing the tough choices of turning down their thermostats and enduring a little chill rather than paying more to keep their homes toasty. However, don't unfurl the stadium blankets just yet. You may be able to keep your home cozy without breaking the bank by performing a few basic upgrades around the house.

"Homeowners can save a lot of money this winter just by taking steps to keep the warm air in and the cold air out," says home maintenance expert Keith Hahn of a leading home improvement contracting company. "Drafty windows and doors, for example, can increase a homeowner's heating costs by as much as 20 percent."

Hahn advises homeowners to check each of their windows and doors at least once a year to find energy-sapping drafts. Once located, drafts can be minimized with some basic do-it-yourself skills.

The simplest and most common solution, says Hahn, is using caulking cord to seal windows from the outside. Caulking cord is available at most home improvement stores. Just unroll the cord and use your fingers to press the cord into the creases between the sash and the window casing.

Exterior plastic sheeting is another option for sealing windows. While this option is not as aesthetically pleasing, plastic sheeting is very effective at insulating windows and DIY kits are widely available. "If you're uncomfortable on ladders, you should consider hiring a pro to install sheeting," cautions Hahn.

Around doors, check the weather stripping on the inside of the door frame to ensure that it is still providing a tight seal. If you see gaps or if the weather stripping is stiff, it's time for replacement, but this job is a little more difficult. Hiring a professional might be a wise option, he says, "especially considering all the money you'll save by keeping your house sealed tightly."

Don't forget the spaces around exterior electrical outlets and faucets. Both caulking cord and canned foam insulation work well for sealing these spaces. Installing roll-in insulation between the basement and the first floor is also an easy way to keep the chill at bay.

Finally, Hahn advises homeowners to have their home heating systems serviced regularly. "If you're not having your furnace cleaned and your filters changed annually, you're still losing money no matter what else you do to keep your home warm this winter," he says.

Keith Hahn is the chief operating officer of Handyman Connections, a nationwide network of home improvement and repair contractors.

Cleaning Tips

(NAPS) Cleaning up after a party, entertaining guests or simply eating dinner with the family doesn't have to be a chore. Try these simple tips:

• Use certified professionals. When a cleaning service comes to your home, you deserve the highest caliber of professionalism. It is a good idea to use certified professionals for carpet, rug, hard surface or upholstery cleaning.

• Do research. Before hiring professionals, confirm their licensing insurance and certification in the type of service to be performed. Also, get an estimate and receive a written contract or invoice confirming the local amount and any guarantees.

The above tips are from experts at the Institute of Inspection, Cleaning and Restoration Certification (HCRC). To locate HCRC-Certified Firms in the area, visit www.certifiedcleaners.org or call 1-800-830-4624.

Snow-Shoveling Tips

We're in the depths of winter now, and while some areas of the country are already knee-deep in snow, others are expecting a good deal of it anytime now. If you're new to the snow-shoveling game, or just haven't done it in awhile, keep a few things in mind before heading outside to clear the driveway.

—Dress in layers: You'll warm up as you shovel, but when you break out in a sweat your clothing will get damp and quickly cool off. Then you'll get chilled, and won't be able to continue. So instead, wear an inside layer of "wicking" clothing (like thermal underwear), a second layer of street clothes, a wool sweater or fleece jacket, and a water-resistant heavy coat. Wear a warm hat, and water-resistant gloves and shoes.

—Warm up before starting: While still inside the house, get your blood pumping a little bit by stretching out, jogging in place, or other exercise for about five minutes. This seemingly unimportant step can prevent muscle pulls and even heart attacks during shoveling.

—Prep your equipment: Depending on conditions, in addition to a snow shovel you might need a spade or a hoe to break up compacted snow, a heavy-duty broom to sweep off steps, and a sand/ice-melt mixture to scatter over an icy walk. Spray a light coating of lubricating oil or plain old cooking oil along the edge of your snow shovel, so that snow slides on and off the shovel more easily.

—Have a plan: Decide exactly where you'll begin shoveling, what areas you will tackle first, where and when you will end, and where you will place the snow as you shovel it.

—Don't load the shovel: When you begin shoveling, remember to fill the snow shovel only about halfway. Filling the shovel will tire you out quickly and make you vulnerable to injury.

—Don't "throw" the snow: Rather than lifting the shovel high and tossing the snow several feet, save your energy by lifting it only a few inches and moving it to the right or left of the path. Your arms and back will thank you.

—Recognize the symptoms of cold injury: Monitor yourself and helpers continually for signs of developing hypothermia, frostbite or other dangerous injuries caused by cold. If you're cold and just can't get warm despite the work, go indoors immediately. If exposed skin feels "weird" — numb, tingling, itching, burning or cold — or has a white or frozen appearance, get indoors immediately and contact a doctor for advice.

8-0 Presidents Defeat Lynn-English

ICE HOCKEY

By CHRIS POISSON

The Quincy High School hockey team continued its remarkable season Monday afternoon when it coasted to a 7-2 victory over a young Lynn English squad at Quincy Youth Arena.

The Presidents, who only won a game last year, improved to a perfect 8-0 with the win, 6-0 in the Atlantic Coast League.

"Sure, I'm surprised," said head coach Bob Sylvia of his team's unblemished record. "Any time you win eight games, especially when five out of the eight are on the road, it's special. This was a team last year that won one game but they were a young team."

Quincy played at Nauset Wednesday and will travel to Sandwich Saturday night at 7:30 and host Somerville next Monday at 3 p.m.

Although the offense has received most of the notoriety — and deservedly so with the likes of senior sharpshooters Mike McKeon and Matt Giordani (co-captain) — the defense has been just as impressive.

The blue line group raised some concerns entering the season, but the unit quickly meshed three experienced seniors with the underclassmen to develop a six-man rotation. So far, the defense along with senior goalie Alex Smith has posted two shutouts.

"In the beginning of the year, I thought our defense was suspect," said assistant coach Ted Walsh. "But they've worked hard in practice and slowly gained our confidence to the point where we have them out on a regular rotation. You don't have to worry about who is out there now."

The defense includes seniors Mike McPherson (co-captain), Jim Dunn and Steve Graham along with junior Jonathan Conso and sophomores Kyle Craig and Matt Bresnahan. Freshman Scott Vallatini also sees some time.

In Monday's game, the first line (gray line) once again powered the offense with McKeon recording a hat trick with an assist and Giordani (two assists) and senior Steve Bythrow (assist) also pocketing goals.

The second line (green line), though, also contributed with junior Mike Leone and sophomore Ted Walsh each tallying a goal with an assist and sophomore Casey Conley notching an assist.

"We're looking for balanced scoring," Sylvia said. "We can't just lean on one line. I think green is going to start to come on now. They're young kids. They play very well together and they move the puck. Now they're starting to relax and they're getting good quality shots. That's what we're looking for the rest of the way."

Sylvia played his third line (orange) consistently against Lynn English and senior Mike Gibbons, junior Anthony Gilbody and freshman Mark Gilbody held their own.

"If you asked me to point out one thing about the game that I was enthused about it was the play of the orange line," Sylvia said. "This was definitely their best game. We have to have a third line. You're not going to go anywhere, postseason or what have you, if you don't have a third line. We've learned that the hard way through the years."

Quincy struck first when Leone shot high on a breakaway, but the puck caromed off the board in front to Ted Walsh, who knocked it past the Lynn English goalie at 9:54.

McKeon netted an unassisted power play goal while on a two-man advantage to give Quincy a 2-0 lead with 48 seconds left in the opening period.

In the middle stanza, Lynn English closed to within a goal when it slipped behind the defense for a breakaway goal midway through.

The Presidents answered with a pair of goals in just over two minutes. Giordani converted a feed from McKeon at 10:15 and McKeon pressured Lynn English into a turnover and glided in alone for another unassisted tally at 12:20.

Lynn English made the game interesting when it scored just before the end of the period. Quincy failed to clear the puck out of its zone in the final seconds and a Lynn English player gathered control of the puck and beat Smith top shelf to make it 4-2.

Quincy quickly killed any momentum Lynn English had from that goal when Bythrow scored just 49 seconds into the final frame. Leone and McKeon closed out the scoring with goals coming 1:35 apart.

"Lynn English went out there and gave us a game," Sylvia said. "We stayed consistent in the third period, and that has to be our best period every game or we're not going to where we hope we want to go. Alex played well and the snipers came through again. When you get Giordani and McKeon in close, they're going to find a way and they did."

Quincy's Marie Poulin Honored As a 'Hero Among Us'

Marie Poulin of Quincy was recently honored by the Boston Celtics and the Massachusetts State Lottery as a local hero, as part of the team's "Heroes Among Us" program.

Poulin, who is developmentally disabled, has been in need of help for many years. But her zeal for volunteering is such that she refuses to let herself be confined or limited by her disability.

Her weekly Meals on Wheels deliveries is just one of the many activities that crowds Poulin's volunteer schedule. There are the lunches she serves at Rosie's Place, a shelter for homeless women in Boston. There are the dogs and cats she cares for at the Milton Animal Shelter. There are the gift packages for needy children she puts together at Cradles to Crayons.

Poulin is a living example of someone who will not let their disabilities limit their ambitions.

Poulin was congratulated at center court at the TD Banknorth Garden by Boston Celtics captain Paul Pierce, Massachusetts Lottery representative Edward Jenkins and Dallas Mavericks forward Dirk Nowitzki.

The "Heroes Among Us" award is presented to an individual or individuals who, through their unique commitment and humanitarian spirit, have made exceptional and lasting contributions to our community.

At each home game since the program's inception, the Celtics and their fans have saluted the exemplary efforts of these citizens during a special in-game presentation on the team's legendary parquet floor. To date, more than 350 individuals have received the "Heroes Among Us" Award.

Red Raiders Drop Pair, Host Sandwich Wednesday

The North Quincy High School hockey team kicked its win-one-lose-one season habit last week — although it dropped a pair of games on the Cape rather than record consecutive victories.

The Red Raiders suffered a 2-1 setback at Barnstable last Monday and an 8-4 loss at Falmouth last Wednesday before scrimmaging Auperville North of Chicago last Saturday at Ulin Rink in Milton.

North Quincy (3-4 overall, 2-3 Atlantic Coast League) hosted Sandwich Wednesday (7:10 p.m.) and will trek to Dennis-Yarmouth Saturday night at 7.

Despite the outcome against Falmouth, there were a couple of notable individual achievements as junior forwards Chris Burke (two goals) and Matt Lawlor notched their first varsity goals. Freshman forward Brandon Gilmore scored the other.

Playing on the third and fourth lines for most of the season, Burke and Lawlor have seen an increased amount of playing due to the injuries to senior Chris Tufo (hamstring) and senior tri-captain Andrew Donovan (ankle).

Youth Hockey Highlights

MITES

Lydon's played Joe Finn Club. Brian O'Callaghan and Cameron White recorded hat tricks. John Quinn, Mike Finn, Kevin McDonald, Mike Devane, Mike Kostka, Elizabeth Bell and Matt McDonald also scored. Kay O'Connor and Garret Cronin were in net.

Doherty & White played Granite City Self Storage. Scoring were Dillion Bellotti, Matthew Fox, Steven Ross, John Ryan, Troy Shepherd, Bobby Hines and Dylan McGowen. In net were Zach Lantini and Mike Porter.

North Quincy Bounces Quincy, Hosts Falmouth Friday

By CHRIS POISSON

How do you explain the North Quincy High School girls' basketball team's 46-39 victory at cross-town rival Quincy when it shot below the freezing mark from the free-throw line, even missing 11 straight at one point?

There's only one rational explanation: it played the game on Friday the 13th.

"We made it interesting by not making our foul shots, didn't we," said North Quincy head coach Doug MacFarlane, whose team shot 29 percent (8-of-28). "How many foul shots did we miss? Eleven in a row at one point. Oh my God.

"I turned to my brother and said we should be up 20 if we made some of them. Foul shooting has been our Achilles' heel. I thought it was going to come back and get us. I told my brother that and he said, 'Will you shut up.'"

North Quincy (4-5 overall, 3-1 Atlantic Coast League) played at Brockton Tuesday and will host Falmouth Friday night at 6:30.

Quincy (5-3 overall, 2-2 ACL) played at Falmouth Tuesday and will travel to Dennis-Yarmouth Friday night at 6:30.

The Red Raiders' suffocating defense also had something to do with their win. They held senior co-captain and forward Jessica Page to just 13 point thanks to the Stille sisters, junior Lauren and sophomore Mary Kate.

Page was coming off a monster game last Monday against Weymouth in which she totaled career highs in points (36) and rebounds (19).

"We played great defense," MacFarlane said. "We did a diamond-and-one on her and the two Stille sisters were awesome. Page has been averaging 20 something. She's hard to cover. She's a good player and we did a great job on her."

"We struggled on offense," said Quincy head coach Jeff Bretsch. "Page had a hard time getting the ball in good position. They double-teamed her every where she went on the floor."

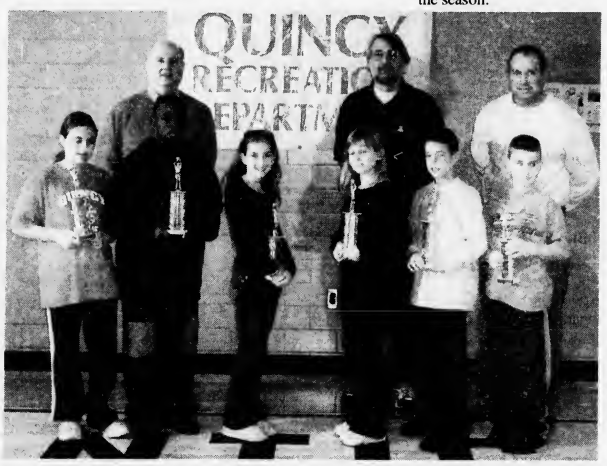
North Quincy, led by sophomore forward Rebecca Goreham's nine points, jumped to a 13-4 lead in the first 10 minutes of the game as Quincy struggled to find its rhythm on offense.

"We talked before the game about how the team that comes out and wins the first six or seven minutes of the game is in good shape," Bretsch said. "It took us a while to get going, probably something to do with jitters. We were a little tentative and they built a pretty good lead. They're too good of a team to fall behind like that."

The Presidents trailed 19-14 when the Red Raiders missed the first of 11 straight free throws. When the drought ended, though, Quincy still found itself down five points (35-30) as each team scored 16 points during that stretch.

North Quincy pulled away with a quick 6-0 run for a 43-31 lead with six minutes remaining in the game. Senior tri-captain and forward Kayla Lenane made 3-of-4 at the line down the stretch to secure the win.

Goreham turned in a dominating all-around game with 21 points, five assists and seven rebounds. Lenane took some of the pressure off Goreham with 11 points and seven rebounds. Senior tri-captain and center Elyse O'Connell grabbed 11 boards.



"That's a big win," MacFarlane said. "I thought this was a key night for us, psychologically. If we didn't win, it would've been hard for us to bounce back. It's such a big rivalry.

"I can't tell you how proud I am of the kids. This is the best group I've ever had, in terms of working hard all the time. I've had great groups in the past. These don't kids don't have the talent like the other teams, but they work hard and hard work pays off."

"We were a little nervous," Bretsch said. "We have a young team. It's an intense game. For the young players, it's a learning experience for them. This is going to make us better. We'll see them again at the end of the season."

Six Youngsters Win Elks Free Throw Contest

Advance To Circle District Event

Over the recent school vacation week, six Quincy boys and girls took a step closer to becoming national champions by winning the Quincy Elks "Hoop Shoot" Free Throw Contest.

The winners are: Alyssa Lydon and Colins Evans in the 8-9 age group; Michelle Connolly and Ryan Evans, 10-11 age group; and Kathleen Calnan and David Westerman, 12-13 age group.

They advanced to the Circle District Event last Saturday at Marshfield High School.

In this nationwide competition, over 3 million boys and girls are involved in the first level of shooting. The first level includes 25 free throws with the best shooters moving to the next round.

The Quincy event was sponsored by the Quincy Lodge of Elks along with supervision from the Quincy Recreation Department.

John McHugh, exalted ruler of the Quincy Elks, along with Bob Evans, commissioner of the Park and Recreation board, presented trophies to all the champions and finalists.

In thanking McHugh, Recreation Director Barry Welch also praised the Quincy Lodge "for its commitment to the youth in our city."

"The free throw contest is just one example of the membership of the Quincy Elks reaching into the community to contribute to the quality of life of youth growing up in Quincy. We are always thankful of their generosity," he said.

The runners-up were: Feenish Mulkerrins and Sean Holleran in the 8-9 age group; Rachel DeMelin and Andrew Minton, 10-11 age group; and Bridget Durkin and Jesse Collins, 12-13 age group.

Third-place trophies went to Meghan MacDonald and John Grasselli in the 8-9 age group; Siobhan Flynn and Madison Barnwell, 10-11 age group; and Megan Leahy and Tom Cooper, 12-13 age group.

Other boys and girls who participated in the contest were:

Ages 8-9: Libby Doyle, Molly Minton, Stephanie Paulino, Nolan Flynn, Tommy Wahlberg, Anthony Green, John Carlos Barbosa, Ananya Kaul, Jacob Smith, Cornelius Koch, Ryan Higgins, Joey Critelli.

Ages 10-11: Annie Dow, Jaclyn Merchant, Ashley Saunders, Leah Prasinos, Mike Haley, John O'Callaghan, Colin Edgerly, Tim McDonald, Kyle Richardson, Joe Critelli.

Ages 12-13: Jennifer Adduci, Amanda Brodeur, Austin Tobin, Paul Gould, Daniel Green, Brendan Neenan, Eddie McDonough, Keenan Daniels.

Welch praised the recreation leaders who supervised the shooting at each championship at 13 different schools and Ed Miller of the Quincy Elks who serves Hoop Shoot chairman.

Quincy's Buzzer Beater Caps Victory Over North

By CHRIS POISSON

Inside the Quincy High School boys' basketball team locker room, head coach Bob Fisher pointed to the message board where someone had scrawled "Defense wins championships!" during halftime.

"I'm not sure who wrote that, but it's great to see," said an emotionally spent Fisher following Quincy's dramatic 41-38 victory over neighboring North Quincy last Friday night at a packed Munroe MacLean Gym.

"The difference was our defense. I thought our defense was spectacular. I thought we confused them. We have to play again, so the tables could be turned. We took care of home court and we did it with our defensive rebounding."

Defense may have been the difference, but the Presidents wouldn't have emerged victorious if weren't for the heroics of their best player, senior tri-captain Lavell Johnson.

The 6-foot-1 all-star forward, who has been struggling with his shot all season, drained a 3-pointer from the left corner to give his team a 40-38 lead with 9.8 seconds remaining — sending the Munroe MacLean Maniacs and the rest of the fans into a frenzy.

"I said the ball is in your hands and this is the one you're going to make," Fisher said. "We set the play up in the huddle and he buried it. He easily could've missed it, but he buried it."

"On the bench the coach told me I had it," Johnson said. "I'm the leader of the team so I felt good about it. I had a smile on my face and felt positive about it. I caught the ball, had my feet set and just hit it.

"I think its the greatest win I've ever had. I have to thank my teammates. They really stepped in for me. I've been struggling all season. I think this is going to help me overcome my struggles."

Quincy (8-1 overall, 3-1 Atlantic Coast League) played Falmouth Tuesday and will host Dennis-Yarmouth Friday night at 6:30.

North Quincy (6-4 overall, 3-1 ACL) played at Barnstable Tuesday and will journey to Falmouth Friday night at 6:30.

The Presidents, usually a man-to-man team, used a 1-3-1 zone defense to take North Quincy all-star point guard Kyle Costa out of the game. He scored two points.

"The job we did on Costa by (senior guard) John Orlando in our 1-3-1 defense was outstanding," Fisher said. "We couldn't match up man-to-man the whole game with them. We had to confuse them. We kept them away from the basket with our zone so we could get the rebound. If we played man too much, we wouldn't have been able to rebound."

"They beat us on the boards," said North Quincy head coach Jim Rendle. "That hurt us. They were very aggressive. We didn't box them out as well as we should have and they got more offensive rebounds and putbacks than us."

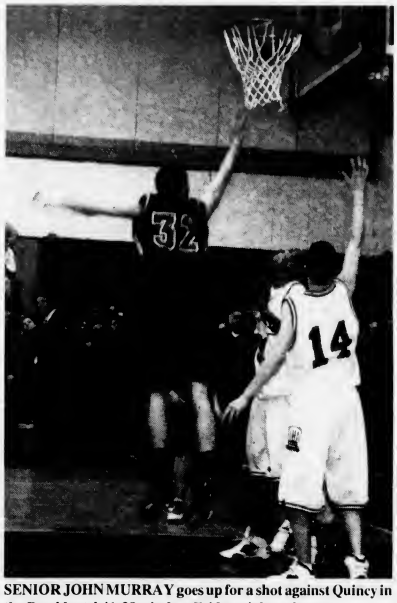
The Red Raiders surged to a 17-9 lead in the first eight minutes of the game. Senior guard Imad Elkatrib scored eight of those points, four of them coming when he stole the ball near midcourt and swooped in for layups.

After Fisher called a timeout, the Presidents found a little offensive rhythm. Freshman point guard Doug Scott buried a 3-pointer to cut the deficit to 25-20 at halftime.

Momentum carried over into the second half when the Presidents opened with a 13-2 run to take a 33-27 lead with about nine minutes remaining.

Orlando, a tri-captain, nailed a 3-pointer to pull his team within one. After an Elkatrib jumper, Johnson — who didn't play much in the first half with three early fouls — banked in a trey from the top of the key to knot the score at 27.

Senior tri-captain and center Joe Griffin scored on an offensive putback and Orlando knocked down two consecutive baseline jumpers.



"Not only did Orlando contribute defensively, he made some big baskets," Fisher said. "That's his best game for us. He's just a smart academic student and a smart basketball player."

The Red Raiders responded when they held Quincy to two points over a seven-minute stretch, allowing them to regain the lead, 38-37, on senior forward Joe Howlett's jumper with 3:35 remaining.

The score didn't change until Johnson's clutch shot. Orlando stole North Quincy's inbounds pass and Scott added a free throw with 1 second left before North Quincy's final shot came up short at the buzzer.

"For us to beat a senior team is humongous," Fisher said. "They are a very good basketball team. We beat a very good basketball team; kids that have played together for so many years. We're young at spots."

"It's probably the best victory I've had since I've been here," he added. "The kids just played their hearts out. I'm thrilled. This is just a great win. It doesn't beat the state championship (with Rockland), but this is big for this time of year. We're 8-1 with a young team and one starter back from last year."

Denise Gurshin Running Boston Marathon For Liver Foundation

Denise Gurshin, a Quincy native, will run in the Boston Marathon on behalf of the American Liver Foundation (ALF).

Gurshin, who donated part of her liver to her loved one last March, is running as a thank you to the entire staff at New England Medical Center and to bring awareness to living organ donation.

Gurshin is a member of the ALF's Run for Research team and joins more than 230 runners from across the country raising funds through sponsorships to help fight liver disease.

There are more than 100 diseases that affect the liver. Currently, there are more than 17,000 patients in the United States who are on the liver transplant waiting list. Living liver donation grew out of experience with cadaveric donations, specifically the use of "reduced" or "split-liver" donations using just a portion of the liver. Physicians learned only a portion of a donated liver was needed.

The first living transplant was from an adult to a child performed in Australia in 1989. The procedure is now common at major pediatric centers. More recently, techniques have been developed for adult-to-adult donation, which requires a larger portion of the donor liver. The first such donation occurred in 1995.

These recent strides in research have been significant, allowing dramatic steps forward in understanding the complexities of the liver and the ability to prevent, treat and cure all liver diseases.

The funds raised by the Run for Research team members are used to help fund this critical research, as well as support education and advocacy programs throughout the country.

Donations can be made online by visiting www.liverteam.org and clicking the "sponsor a runner" link. Next, click "sponsor a runner online." A list of names will appear. Click Denise Gurshin.

Donations can also be made by mailing a check to: American Liver Foundation, New England Chapter, 88 Winchester St., Newton, MA 02461. Write Denise Gurshin on the memo line. The foundation will notify her of all contributions.

Building Up Your Flu Season Immunity

(NAPS) Getting a flu shot is recommended for older adults or anyone with a health problem that might put them at a greater risk of complications. But there's a limit to what flu shots can do. A vaccine won't protect you from every virus.

In an average year, five to 20 percent of Americans get infected with some form of influenza.

For many people that means a loss of work, pneumonia and even hospitalization.

Fortunately, there are other steps you can take to boost your immune system and prevent the onset of the disease. The following tips may help keep you healthy this flu season:

• Wash your hands. Wipe down your desk and phone. Avoid crowds, especially the crowd in your doctor's waiting room, if at all possible.

• Teach your children to cough into the crook of their elbow rather than cover their mouth with their hand. This helps prevent the spread of germs via handshaking or touching things.

• Bulk up your immune system by eating a diet rich in fruits and vegetables.

A preliminary laboratory study found that components in cranberries can prevent certain type A and type B flu viruses from attaching to host cells and causing subsequent infections setting the stage for more research in the area.

In the fight against the flu, it is just as important for the public to be concerned with good nutrition as with getting a flu shot. Cranberry juice cocktail should not be used as a treatment for infection, but may be an effective part of a prevention routine. Remember, as with any infection, a health care provider should always be consulted.

The First Step Is Identifying It

Combating Depression

(NAPS) Nearly 20 million Americans suffer from depression. The good news is that depression-even when it's chronic or debilitating-can be treated successfully.

In fact, more than 80 percent of people who seek treatment for depression show measurable improvement. Sadly, many people resist treatment because they are embarrassed to admit their despondency.

They should know that they are not alone. Depression is the most common mental illness, effecting as many as one in every 20 adults and one in every 10 children and teens.

Depression can occur in anyone, and can be triggered by a traumatic experience or it can develop gradually over time. Often it strikes for no obvious reason.

The first step toward treating depression is identifying it. Typical symptoms of depression include:

• Persistent sad, anxious or "empty" moods

• Sleeping too much, too little or just plain tossing and turning

• Reduced or increased appetite that leads to weight loss or weight gain

• Loss of pleasure and interest in once enjoyable activities

• Restlessness, irritability and persistent physical symptoms that do not respond to treatment such as chronic pain or digestive disorders

• Difficulty concentrating, remember or making decisions

• Noticeable fatigue or loss of energy

• Thoughts of suicide or death

While not everyone with depression will have all of these symptoms, one or more, often are tell-tale signs. If you are someone you know spot any of these symptoms, don't hesitate to see a doctor.

Treatment for depression varies with each individual. The most common types of treatment are talk therapy, antidepressant medication or a combination of these two options.

Close attention must be paid to any treatment regiment for depression. Careful monitoring by a doctor or caregiver, and the individual undergoing treatment is important to knowing whether the treatment is working or whether a different one should be tried.

Treating depression takes time, but it can be controlled to the point where patients can enjoy life. Leaving depression unnoticed and untreated, however, is a risk.

Remember, identifying depression and taking positive action is the first step on the path to getting it under control and, perhaps, even curing it.

Learning More About Your Symptoms Can Help You Improve:

Families for Depression Awareness, a non-profit mental health organization, offers a confidential mood questionnaire on their website to help you determine whether you may have a mood disorder.

The group has also worked with clinicians to develop an Adult Depression Monitoring Toolkit, which helps patients and their families keep track of day-to-day emotions and behaviors. This can better inform health care providers about whether treatment is working and can also provide warning signs if a depressed patient is feeling suicidal.

For information, or to get the kit, go to www.familyaware.org or call 781-890-0220.

Stronger Legs Help Stabilize Knee Joints

Q. My doctor recommended that I do some exercises to strengthen my legs to help improve my knee pain. Although I exercise at a gym with cardiovascular machines, my experience with strength training is limited. What type of exercises would help me strengthen my leg muscles?

A. Keeping the muscles surrounding your knee joint strong and stable is extremely important. The muscles in the front, back and side of your thigh should be part of a total exercise routine.

The basic muscles that need to be strengthened are the hamstrings, quadriceps, adductors, abductors and glutes. Due to your lack of experience with strength training, starting out with weight machines may help you build confidence and lower your risk for injury. Consult a fitness professional for the proper technique and set-up on the machines for each exercise or muscle group mentioned.

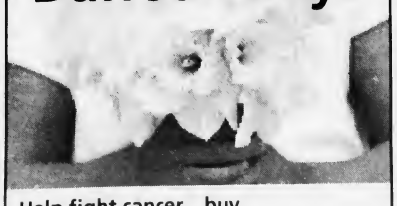
• The leg extension machine is designed to strengthen the quadriceps muscles in the front of your thigh by extending the leg.

• The leg curl machine focuses on the hamstring muscles, which are in the back part of your thigh, by bending your leg at the knee joint. There are sitting, standing and lying versions of this machine. If a standing version is available and can be safely performed, I would recommend this version.

• Adductor and abductor machines work the inner and outer thigh muscles, respectively. These machines are important for the integrity and stability of the knee joint. There are different variations of these machines; ask your doctor or fitness professional for the safest choice for you.

• The gluteus muscles are often overlooked when strengthening the muscles around the knee. The stability of the glutes around the hip joint can directly affect the knee joint, making strengthening this muscle group extremely important. Speak with the fitness professional at your gym, since not all fitness centers have a machine to isolate just the glutes.

Begin each of these exercises with light weights and complete one to three sets and 10 to 15 repetitions each set. You should be able to complete each set without compromising your technique or experiencing pain.



There are many exercises both with and without machines that can strengthen your leg muscles. Once you feel more comfortable with strength training, consult a professional to explore additional options.

DENTISTRY for the 21st Century

by Steven A. Brustin, D.M.D.

A CHIP OFF THE OLD TOOTH

If you chip a tooth, the dentist can easily repair a small chip with white resins (bonding) in a single visit. A larger chip, on the other hand, may require a crown that fits over the remainder of the damaged tooth. This will require at least two trips to the dentist – one to take an impression of the tooth and insert a "temporary" and another to fit the permanent crown. If the chip exposes the dentin or pulp, there is a good chance that bacteria in the mouth will infect the pulp. The trauma itself may also cause damage. In cases where the pulp is not viable, a root canal must be performed to remove the pulp and replace it.

Do you have a chipped tooth? Let us help you regain your dazzling smile that can ignite a room, project an image of self-assurance and high personal esteem. A good experience with dentistry is based on making the right choice in a family dentist and in taking steps to keep dental costs at a minimum through self-care at home between visits. If you don't have a dentist at this time, we're currently accepting new patients. Please call 617-479-6220 to schedule an appointment. We're located at 44 Greenleaf Street. We offer the services of anesthesiology with a fully trained and qualified anesthesiologist. Visit us on the web at www.quincydentist.com.

P.S. If a tooth is knocked out of position, visit the dentist immediately. If the tooth is not badly displaced, it may be gently moved back into its proper position.

A Job Well Done

By LT. DAN MINTON
Quincy Police Crime Prevention Officer

On Jan. 4, at approximately 8:30 a.m., Officers William Lanergan, Dan Francis and Paul Jackson were dispatched to the lower numbers of Willard Street for a "Possible Breaking and Entering in Progress."

As Officer Lanergan approached the area, he interviewed a man who had been chasing the suspect. The man said his wife spotted a suspicious male hovering behind a motor vehicle in a secured parking garage. She then went back to her apartment and advised her husband, who went into the garage to confront the suspect. He found the suspect attempting to get into a vehicle that had a broken window.

LT. DAN MINTON

When the witness approached, the suspect attacked him by hitting him in the face. The witness tried to detain the suspect as the altercation moved further into the garage. The suspect pulled out a screwdriver and stabbed the witness in the left hand, then fled onto Stedman Street, with the witness in pursuit.

Officer Lanergan advised the other units the suspect was fleeing down Quarry Street towards an area of Robertson Street. He also provided a description of the suspect and warned the responding units that the suspect had used a screwdriver as a weapon.

Additional units, including Officers Elmes, Miller, Leuchte, O'Donnell, Sergeants Igo, Sorgi and McNeil combed the area, assisted by Norfolk County Sheriffs K-9 Officer Bersani, where a perimeter was set up.

Numerous calls came in from citizens who spotted the suspect hiding and then running. Officer Elmes located the suspect running down Stedman Street behind several homes in the Ballou Street area.

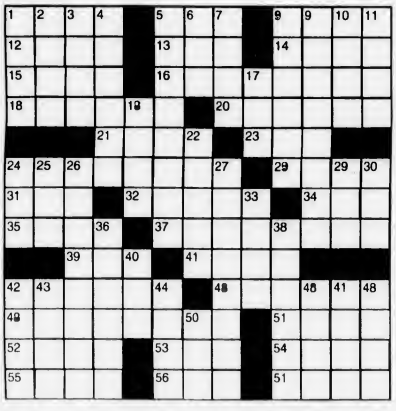
The units converged on the area and Officers Miller and Jackson caught up to the suspect, and after a struggle, were able to handcuff him. An ambulance crew checked out the witness/victim, who declined to be transported to the hospital.

A check of the area was made but the screwdriver could not be found; however, a brick located on the ground next to the car's broken window was taken as evidence. Inside the car, the ignition was damaged in what Officer Lanergan described as "an attempt to override the ignition and start the car without a key." Officer Jackson contacted the owner.

The suspect, a 24-year-old male from Quincy, was charged with "Breaking and Entering into a Motor Vehicle, Assault and Battery, Assault and Battery with a Dangerous Weapon (screwdriver), Attempted Larceny of a Motor Vehicle and Resisting Arrest." Nice Work!

It is important to note in this case that while the Quincy Police Department appreciates the efforts of the witness, we do not support the manner in which he acted. Confronting a suspect at any time, especially in a secluded area, subjects the well-intended citizen to peril. He was fortunate that he did not receive any further stab wounds. The first action should have been to call "911" and, if possible, take up a safe position to monitor the suspect.

Conversely, when the witness's wife first saw something suspicious, she immediately fled the danger zone and reported the incident to her husband and the police. She also entered the garage being aware of her surroundings, as I have discussed in the past, and she was able to retreat unnoticed.



The Quincy Police Department also thanks all those who called us with information as to the suspect's whereabouts, which led to his apprehension.

Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Aspects call for care in preparing material for submission. Although you might find it bothersome to go over what you've done, the fact is, rechecking could be worth your time and effort.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) The week is favorable for Bovines who welcome change. New career opportunities wait to be checked out. You might also want to get started on that home makeover you've been considering.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) You might have to be extra careful to protect that surprise you have planned, thanks to a certain snoopy someone who wants to know more about your plans than you're willing to share.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Family ties are strong this week, although an old and still-unresolved problem might create some unpleasant moments. If so, look to straighten the situation out once and for all.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Although the Lion might see it as an act of loyalty and courage to hold on to an increasingly shaky position, it might be wiser to make changes now to prevent a possible meltdown later.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Your gift for adding new people to your circle of friends works overtime this week, thanks largely to contacts you made during the holidays. A surprise awaits you at the week's end.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Don't hide your talents. It's a good time to show what you can do to impress people who can do a lot for you. A dispute with a family member might still need some smoothing over.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Be open with your colleagues about your plan to bring a workplace matter out into the open. You'll want their support, and they'll want to know how you'll pull it off.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Trying to patch up an unraveling relationship is often easier said than done. But it helps to discuss and work out any problems that arise along the way.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) While your creative aspect remains high this week, you might want to call on your practical side to help work out the why and wherefore of an upcoming decision.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Dealing with someone's disappointment can be difficult for Aquarians, who always try to avoid giving pain. But a full explanation and a show of sympathy can work wonders.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Getting a job-related matter past some major obstacles should be easier this week. A personal situation might take a surprising but not necessarily unwelcome turn by the week's end.

BORN THIS WEEK: You can be both a dreamer and a doer. You consider helping others to be an important part of your life.

SCOTT DEWARE

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Someone once said that the strength or weakness of our country lies in the homes because the home is the beginning point of everything. Honesty begins at home. Respect for law and order begins at home. Love begins at home. A sense of duty begins at home. Respect for people of other colors and creeds begins at home. And religion has its first beginnings in the home.

Yes, a home is far more than a residence; home involves the character of living that does on inside the house.

"A house is no home unless it contains food and fire for the mind as well as for the body." – Margaret Fuller Ossoli.

"Homes are like banks – they go broke if you take out more than you put in it." – Author Unknown

"It takes a heap of living and a lot of loving to make a house a home." – Edgar Guest

All comments or thoughts from your home to our home are always appreciated...

Richard Allen Certified Funeral Service Practitoner

Richard S. Allen, CFSP - CPC of the Keohane Funeral Home in Quincy has qualified for recertification of the designation of Certified Funeral Service Practitioner (CFSP), by the Academy of Professional Funeral Service Practice (APFSP).

CFSP is a funeral service's national individual recognition. The Academy of Professional Funeral Service Practice, since its 1976 founding, has three goals:

• To recognize those practitioners who have voluntarily entered into a program of personal and professional growth;

• To raise and improve the standards of funeral service; and

• To encourage practitioners to make continuing education a life-long process in their own self-interest, the interest of the families they serve; and the community in which they live.

To initially receive this award, the practitioner must complete a 180-hour program of continuing education activities and events. In addition, the practitioner is required to accumulate 20 hours per year to recertify.

Credits are awarded by the Academy for work leading to personal and/or professional growth in four areas:

• Academic activities

• Professional activities

• Career review (for retroactive credit)

• Community and civic activities

Certification is for individuals only.

Docket No. 05E0150-PP1

To Paul Arthur Miller of 89 Manet Ave., Quincy, MA; and Homecoming Financial of P.O. Box 890036, Dallas, TX; and to all other persons interested.

A petition has been presented to said Court by Elizabeth O'Brien of 49 Spring Street, Quincy, MA in the County of Norfolk representing that she hold as tenant in common an undivided part or share of certain land lying in Quincy, MA in said County of Norfolk and briefly described as follows: A certain parcel of land, with the buildings thereon, known and numbered as 89 Manet Avenue, Quincy, MA 02169, situated in that part of said Quincy called Hough's Neck, being Lots 48 and 49 in Section 1 as shown on a plan by H.T. Whitman, Engineer, dated July 1890, recorded with Norfolk Deeds Paln Book 13, plan 581; bounded and described as follows:

NORTHERLY by Manet Avenue, 100 feet;

EASTERLY by Newton Street, 100 feet;

SOUTHERLY by Lots 67 and 68, as shown on said plan, 100 feet; and

WESTERLY by Lot 50, as shown on said plan, 100 feet.

AREA 10,000 square feet of land.

Said premises are also shown as Lots 48 and 49 on a plan recorded with Norfolk Deeds at the end of Book 668; and also shown as Lots 14 and 15 on a plan recorded with Norfolk Deeds, Book 594. page 508, said last two plans being the plans referred to in the title deeds. There is expected from the above described premises so much thereof as was taken by the City of Quincy for the layout of Newton Street, as set forth in instrument recorded with Norfolk Deeds. Book 2568, page 201. Also another parcel of land situated in said Quincy, called Hough's Neck, opposite said Lots 48 and 49, and bounded and described as follows;

SOUTHERLY by the northerly line of Manet Avenue;

WESTERLY by the westerly line of said Lot 49 extended to the low water mark;

NORTHERLY by Quincy Bay; and

EASTERLY by the middle line of Newton Street extended northerly to low water mark.

The above described land is conveyed subject to and with the benefit of easements and restrictions of record, it any there be, insofar as the same may be now in force and applicable.

Setting forth that they desire that – all – of said land may be sold at private sale for not less than $575,000 dollars and praying that partition may be made of all the land aforesaid according to law, and to that end that a commissioner be appointed to make such partition and be ordered to make sale and conveyance of all, or any part of said land which the Court finds cannot be advantageously divided, either at private sale or public auction, and be ordered to distribute the net proceeds thereof.

Buying a Computer

Whether it's your first computer or your fourth, doing your homework before making a computer purchase can save you money now and down the road.

The first thing to consider is what you'll do with a computer. Even if you have one and plan to upgrade, the initial step is the same: Decide what you need a new computer to do. Any computer needs to handle the software you'll run now and in the future.

Decide on a budget, but be willing to go over it by a few hundred dollars if you come across the right deal.

Research the models and brands that are available. Learn the lingo. Get clear on RAM, ROM, CD, DVD, disk drive and memory.

Plan to take several trips to stores to look at computers, especially if it's your first one. The more familiar you become with computers in general, the easier it will be to identify the system that's right for you.

Ask questions at the store. Does the price include a keyboard, mouse and printer? How long is the warranty, and what does it cover? Is an extended warranty worth the expense? Are there any rebates, and are they mail-in or taken at the register?

A basic computer that will likely do everything you need for a number of years has the Microsoft Home edition operating system, 80GB hard drive, 2.8 GHz processor or Athlon equivalent, and 512 MB of memory. Opt for an LCD monitor, preferably 17-inch, and a CD-RW DVD-R drive. Computers come Internet-ready now.

To save money at time of purchase, don't load up on software. Instead, put extra money into the system itself by increasing the size of the hard drive or the memory.

Call the tech support of any computer you consider buying. Do you get a tech in the United States? Is the tech support free, or is there a per-incident charge?

Be wary of low-cost computers that require you to sign up for Internet services. You'll likely be hooked into a contract for several years, even if you don't like the service.

And finally, don't leave the store until you look at the paperwork: Do you have the warranty information as well as the rebate forms?

Tea Cart

Q. I have a tea cart that was made in Grand Rapids by the Paalman Furniture Company. It was originally painted black, but has been stripped and refinished. I would like to know more about it. — Teresa, Ancramdale, N.Y.

A. During the first three decades of the past century, Grand Rapids, Mich., was home to at least a dozen companies that specialized in the manufacture of furniture and accessories. Your tea cart was probably made during the 1920s, and from your photo appears to be crafted of oak.

Prices vary from region to region. To find out how much your tea cart might be worth, I suggest you contact antique- and used-furniture dealers near where you live.

A good reference book that can provide you with general information about furniture from this period and the companies that produced pieces such as your tea cart is Furniture of the Depression Era: Furniture & Accessories of the 1920s, 1930s, & 1940s by Robert W. and Harriett Swedberg (Collector Books, $19.95).

Q. My husband started collecting salt and pepper shakers in 1936. He now has about 120 sets and would like to sell them. — Frances, Carbondale, Ill.

A. There are at least three dealers who buy and sell salt and pepper shakers, including Helene Guarnaccia, 52 Coach Lane, Fairfield, CT 06430; Carol Silagyi, P.O. Box 151, Wyckoff, NJ 07430; and Larry Carey, The Salt and Pepper Man, P.O. Box 329, Mechanicsburg, PA 17055.

Q. I have a large collection of mail-order catalogs. Does anyone collect them? — Steve, Waco, Texas

A. Judith Hesson buys and sells Christmas mail-order catalogs, especially ones issued by such major companies as Sears, Montgomery Ward, Penney and Spiegel. Write to her c/o Hesson Collectibles, 1261 South Lloyd, Lombard, IL 60148.

That's 1.2 million votes more than George W. Bush got! Eight hundred fifty workers got a raise," said Hurd.

Dr. Robert Edger, general secretary for the National Council of Churches, agreed with MLK's words:

"We are faced with the fact that tomorrow is today. There is such a thing as too late. It's not too late for us to take back the agenda of this nation," said Edger. "I think God is calling."

The campaign opened with a performance by the New England Conservatory Millenium Gospel Choir, members originating from church choirs throughout the greater Boston area.

Also present at the campaign rally were Charlie Clements, UUSC president and CEO, Rev. Herman Hamilton, pastor of Roxbury Presbyterian Church, Mayor William Phelan and Congressman William Delahunt.

KILROY'S IS THERE in Hawaii! - Sharon Marsh of Quincy (right) recently visited Hawaii and toured the U.S.S. Missouri at Pearl Harbor. At the food court, located near the area for the Missouri shuttle bus, she noticed a food stand called Kilroy's Chow Line which displays the famous Kilroy moniker which originated at the Fore River shipyard during World War II. James Kilroy was a wartime rivet inspector at the Fore River Shipyard who began scribbling the phrase "Kilroy was here" on bulkheads to prove that he had performed the inspection. Warships often left the Yard for ports around the world with the mysterious words still visible. The two food court workers were not familiar with the real story of Kilroy but Marsh was more than happy to explain it to them.

Asks ZBA To Be Sure Applicants Qualify

Phelan Seeks Hard Look At Zoning Variances

Mayor William Phelan has asked the Zoning Board of Appeals to take a hard look at all applications to make sure they meet the hardship exemption needed to obtain a zoning variance.

He asked the ZBA to report to him the specific reasons relating to soil, shape or topography that would permit a variance and any changes in those conditions since the applicant purchased the property.

"The wrong development can irreparably harm a neighborhood," said the Mayor.

"Though I am proud of the work that our current Zoning Board does, there have been variances approved in the past that have been detrimental to the neighborhoods of Quincy.

"I will work with the current Zoning Board to ensure that the zoning code is strictly upheld and our neighborhoods are protected."

The ZBA is a volunteer board of citizens, appointed by the mayor, that meets twice a month to decide if an applicant for a variance to the zoning code faces real hardship due to soil, shape or topography of the parcel.

Phelan plans to form a "Smart Zoning Committee" to investigate ways that the city can better address quality of life issues through city ordinances and the existing zoning code.

The committee will be made up of representatives of the Zoning Board, the Planning Board, the City Council and the Phelan administration.

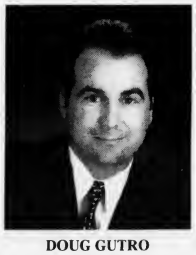
"The overall strength of our great city lies within the quality of the individual neighborhoods," said Phelan.

"We must ensure that we preserve the characteristics of our neighborhoods that made people choose Quincy as their home.

"By directing development to locations that can handle it; by addressing issues such as cleanliness, zoning issues, streets and sidewalks, and parks and playgrounds; and by soliciting direct input from the neighborhoods, we will strengthen our great city."

Keenan, Davis, Coughlin Get Top Appointments

Gutro Names City Council Committee Chairmen, Members



City Council President Doug Gutro has named his chairmen, vice chairmen and members of the City Council committees for 2006-2007.

The three nine-member committee chairmanships went to Councillor at-large John Keenan, Ward 4 Councillor Jay Davis and Ward 3 Councillor Kevin Coughlin.

Keenan continues as Finance Committee chairman with new Ward 6 Councillor Brian McNamee vice chairman.

Davis will head the Ordinance Committee with Councillor at-large Joseph Finn as vice chairman.

Coughlin will chair the Oversight Committee with Ward 1 Councillor Leo Kelly as vice chairman.

DOUG GUTRO

Four committees were expanded from three to five members: Downtown and Economic, Veterans, Housing, and Library & Historic Places.

The Environmental Committee was expanded to include public health issues.

"I am confident that the councillors who will serve in leadership positions will work effectively to advance the interests of the people of Quincy," Gutro said Tuesday in announcing the committees.

"Committee chairmen will be responsible for ensuring an open, honest and thorough debate of the matters before them and I am confident that they are up for the challenge."

The other committee appointments:

Public Works: Finn, chairman; McNamee, vice chairman; Davis, Coughlin, Kelly.

New, Brighter Lights On Hancock Street, Ross Parking Garage

New LED lights have been installed in traffic signals along Hancock St. and in the Ross Parking garage in Quincy Center.

Mayor William Phelan said the new lights provide better lighting and are more cost efficient.

Those using the Ross Parking Garage will notice a dramatic change in the lighting. The new LED lights are much brighter and provide for better safety at the location.

"Not often can you improve a situation and save money," Phelan said. "The new Led lights provide a higher level of safety and more welcoming atmosphere in our downtown parking garage. In addition, the efficiency of the new bulbs will result in the city recapturing our investment in just their second year. This project is a true win-win for Quincy."

The new Led bulbs have also been installed in traffic signals all along Hancock Street from the Neponset Bridge down through Quincy Center. All of Quincy's traffic signals will be fitted with the new bulbs by Fall 2006.

LED is an acronym for light-emitting diode. The light-emitting diode has been developed over the past 50 years with major enhancements in its use and efficiency in the past 10 years.

The current project was proposed by Phelan and approved by the City Council in 2005.

"We will continue to seek ways to improve the way we operate as a government," said Phelan. "This is a blending of productivity and efficiency improvements that my administration seeks to bring to all aspects of local government. I appreciate the council's support of this project."

Five Liquor Establishments Face License Suspensions

By MARIE D'OLIMPIO

Five liquor establishments charged in a police "sting" with selling to minors face license suspensions.

Five received three day suspensions, tow days suspended and one day to be served at Tuesday's License Board meeting.

Two other establishment Jazz Moon, 217 Quincy Ave., and Tedeschi's Food Shop, 751 E. Squantum St. had their cases continued..

Lt. Peter Turowski, liquor inspector for the License Board reported the following establishments for selling liquor to underage persons on Dec. 29.

A the D & D Package Store, 101 Liberty St., Turowski said the underage person they sent in the store to purchase liquor did not have an ID and was asked for identification. She was not able to purchase any liquor,

However, as Turowski was exiting the store he noticed a young person with a 24 pack of beer. She turned out to be 16 years old and had shown a fake ID which has a presidential seal .

Turowski said these kind of ID's should be a "dead give away" and should be familiar to most liquor establishments. He said employees have been made aware of them during the TIPS training.. However, the server thought was it was real. Turowski said a new TIPS program will be held throughout the city that shows what to look for in a fake ID.

At Granite Discount Liquors, 299-301 Quincy Ave. with Mark Brewster, manager. an underage person with a marked ten dollar bill was sent in the store and was able to purchase a 6 pack of Bud Lite and was never asked for an ID. When Turowski asked the clerk why he didn't asked he said he had "no excuse". Brewster told the board he will make sure that that kind of behavior "does not happen again."

At the International Buffet, 237 Quincy Ave. the underage person was found sitting at a table in the restaurant with a bottle of beer. The clerk told Turowski that the person "looked over 21"

At the Five Spices Restaurant, 1250 Hancock St.. The owner's wife Angela Thuong explained to the board that she was not the bartender that night and had just sold a bottle of beer to a customer, who she said "looked mature." Owner Derek Thuong apologized to the board calling it a "mistake."

At the Wollaston Supreme Liquors, 615 Hancock St., Turowski said he noticed a limousine parked and a young male coming out of the store with a 36 pack of beer. The clerk said the person said he was 21 but said he had no ID. However the clerk remembered seeing his ID and told the police that she remembered his date of birth to be Dec. 1985. After police arrived at a home in Adams Shore, they found the fake ID.

Owner Tom Cifrino told the board "we are not in the habit of serving minors...this is very embarrassing."

Chairman Joseph Shea said all violators have five days to appeal to the Alcohol Beverage Control Commission.

In other business, the board postponed until a later date a request of William Palmer doing business as Henry's root Beer Stand, 68-84 Newport Ave. for a common victualer license.

Also postponed a hearing regarding the status of Krabby Joe's, 307 Victory Rd. Sean Conroy, manager. Shea said Ward 6 Councillor Brian McNamee asked for the postponement until he can get more information.

Ward 1 Democrats To Caucus Feb. 4 At Houghs Neck Center

Registered Democrats in Quincy's Ward 1 will hold its caucus at the Houghs Neck Community Center, Saturday, Feb. 4 at 1 p.m. to select 11 delegates and two alternates to attend the 2006 Massachusetts Democratic Party Endorsement Convention.

The Houghs Neck Community Center is located at 1193 Sea St.

Delegates and alternates will be divided equally between men and women.

The Convention will be held Friday, June 2 and Saturday, June 3 at the DCU Center in Worcester, 50 Foster St. At that time Democrats from across the state will gather to endorse candidates for the office of Auditor, Treasurer, Attorney General, Secretary of the Commonwealth, Lt. Governor, Governor and U.S. Senator.

The names of those candidates who receive 15 percent of the state convention vote will be placed on the Sept. 19 Democratic Primary ballot. The caucus is open to all registered Democrats in Ward 1.

Candidates for delegates or alternate must consent to nomination in writing and must be present at the caucus. All candidates may make a two minute statement and may distribute materials on their behalf. All ballots will be written and secret.

Those not elected as delegate or alternate, who meet the qualifications, may apply to be add-on delegates in the following categories: youth, minority and disabled.

Discrimination on the basis of race, sex, age, color, creed, national origin, religion, ethnic identity, sexual orientation or economic status in the conduct of the caucus is strictly prohibited.

Challenges to the delegate selection process can be filed with the Massachusetts Democratic Party, 56 Roland St., Suite 203, Boston, MA. 02129, no later then 10 days after the caucus date.

For more information on the Quincy Ward 1 Caucus, contact Michael J. Berry, Ward Chairman at 617-479-2787.

Information on the Caucus and Convention is also available on the Web at http://massdems.org, or contact the Democratic State Committee at 617-776-2676.

City Receives Over $400,000 For Communications

New Radios, Dispatch Systems For Police, Fire Departments

Older portable and mobile radios in the police and fire departments will be replaced with brand new radios purchased with federal grant money.

Mayor William Phelan said the city, working with the Boston Urban Area Strategic Initiatives (USAI) will receive more than $400,000 in communication and programming without local matching moneys required.

"Communication is the most vital component of emergency response and I am proud that we are able to provide our public safety personnel with the communication equipment they need to best respond in times of trouble," said Phelan. "I want to thank the Boston UASI program and the City of Boston for their work in this initiative."

The Fire Department will receive 65 portable or "hand-held" radios, 26 mobile radios and a new communication dispatch radio system.

The Police Department will receive 250 new portable radios and a new communication dispatch radio system.

The new radios will replace aging radios that are up to 12 years old.

"I am proud that we have been able to make such a significant improvement in our public's safety without impacting our local taxpayers," said Phelan. "We will continue to locate outside funding sources in an effort to improve the quality of life in our city and limit any impact on our taxpayers."

The city is one of nine communities that participate in the Boston Urban Area Strategic Initiative. Quincy has received close to $1 million in training, equipment, and communications grants since the program began in 2003.

The UASI program was designed by the Federal government to create a comprehensive approach to planning, training, and response to a major emergency incident. Along with Quincy, the citizens of Boston, Cambridge, Revere, Chelsea, Somerville, Everett, Winthrop, and Brookline participate in the Boston UASI program.

"Participation in the UASI program has resulted in major improvement in our training levels across the public safety spectrum," said Phelan. "We have also received vital homeland security equipment and have participated in valuable drills and exercises. In addition, the regular exchange of ideas and communication between the top public safety officials in the region has been extremely productive."

New QHS Not Affected By School 'Building Freeze'

By TOM HENSHAW

The lead story on Page 1 of the Boston Sunday Globe may have caused momentary consternation among those Quincy residents who await nervously each new word on progress toward a new Quincy High School.

The headline said: "State freezes aid on school construction."

"It has nothing to do with the situation in Quincy," said Alison Mitchell, spokesman for State Treasurer Tim Cahill, whose office supervises the School Building Authority.

"The freeze is just on the state's share of increases in the cost of the construction over the original cost when the School Building Authority was created in 2004."

"Is it too late for me to refinance?"

(The surprising answer? Probably not!)

If you just go by what you hear or read in the mainstream media, you might think that the refinancing "window" has slammed shut. But that's a simplification that's simply not true. Here are the facts: Mortgage rates are still bouncing around near 50-year lows. So if you want to refinance for whatever reason – to be mortgage-free before you retire, to pay for tuition, to consolidate other loans and debts or just to lock in a low rate before the window does close – you still have time. But possibly not much. So don't wait. Come see us or call 617-471-0750.

The Next Republican ??

Frank McCauley, the Republican Lone Ranger, has rode off into the retirement sunset.

That now leaves no Republican in municipal, county, or local state elective office.

McCAULEY

The only other local Republican elected in recent years was Christine Cedrone who stepped down from the school committee in 2003.

That left McCauley as the one and only Republican in local office until he closed out his distinguished 32-year political career in December including four terms as mayor.

The question now is how long will it be before another Republican is elected? It could be quite awhile.

Democrats virtually own the political landscape.

Take a look.

Mayor William Phelan is a Democrat. The nine city councillors and six school committee members are Democrats – unless there's a closet Republican there somewhere.

PHELAN

MORRISSEY

MARIANO

AYERS

TOBIN

Congressman William Delahunt is a Democrat. So is state Senator Michael Morrissey. So are state Reps. Bruce Ayers, Ron Mariano and Steve Tobin.

So, too, are Sheriff Michael Bellotti, Dist. Atty. William Keating, County Commissioner John Gillis, Register of Probate Patrick McDermott, Register of Deeds William O'Donnell.

A far cry from the 1930s and 1940s when the GOP elephant roamed the city and county as king of the political jungle.

Back then things were the other way around, Republicans held every municipal, county and local state office. Democrats were outside looking in.

Here in Quincy there were so few Democrats the joke was that they could hold a rally in a telephone booth.

So Republican that Alf Landon even carried Quincy against Franklin D. Roosevelt.

It wasn't easy being a Democrat candidate back then. And it isn't easy being a Republican candidate now.

The city started turning Democrat with the coming of John F. Kennedy.

Today, Quincy has 54,899 registered voters. Of which 25,490 are Democrats, 22,422 unenrolled and 6,598 Republicans. The remaining 479 are scattered among several small parties.

The unenrolled seem to be inching up in number on the Democrats. But it appears unenrolled are more apt to vote Democrat than Republican but depending on the candidates.

And, speaking of the designation "unenrolled," that's one of my pet peeves. It irks me and I'm sure it does others.

Makes you feel like you are not even registered as a voter. I liked it when we were known as "independents."

Then, Ross Perot, running for president in 1992, put a capital "I" on independent and it became an Independent party with a handful of members here and not many anywhere else.

Maybe Perot should have stuck to looking under the hood and cleaning out the barn.

I think Asst. City Clerk Maureen Hallsen has the right idea. "Instead of unenrolled, make the designation undeclared," she says.

HALLSEN

But getting back to Republicans, are they going to continue tossing in the towel each election year? Or are there some energetic, young Republicans out there to spread some needed political Turfbuilder on the thinning GOP grassroots? Hopefully, there are.

What we don't need is one party in control of everything.

CONGRESSMAN Bill Delahunt is hosting a reception for new City Council President Doug Gutro Thursday, Feb. 2, 5 to 7 p.m. at the Fuji Restaurant, Hancock St., Quincy Center.

GUTRO

Suggested donation: $200, $100 or other.

Gutro, of course, holds the Ward 5 seat, which has been a sort of springboard to higher office.

BURKE

Delahunt himself started his political career there and went on to district attorney and Congress.

George Burke also started in Ward 5 and became state representative and district attorney.

HANNON

Walter Hannon was Ward 5 councillor when he ran for and was elected mayor when James McIntyre left to become state Senate counsel.

And long before them, Myron Lane who held the seat, became district attorney. He was a Republican.

Something for Gutro to think about?

Roche Receipts To Benefit NQHS Senior Stay-Out

Roche Brothers Supermarket plans to donate 5 per cent of the total cash register receipts collected between the hours of 5 and 8 p.m., on Thursday, Feb. 2, to the North Quincy High School Senior Stay-Out.

Volunteers from the NQHS Senior Stay-Out Committee will be on hand at the store, 101 Falls Boulevard, Quincy, on that day and time to collect receipts from shoppers.

Gift certificates purchased during the fundraiser will also be credited to NQHS Senior Stay-Out, a party that is held annually after the spring prom.

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS MARCH 1919 postcard is a view of workers at the Fore River shipyard in Quincy Point. This was one of a series of postcards showing the different types of work done to produce ships at the yard at the time. Here, a riveting gang is at work on deck plates. This was dangerous work even for experienced riveters, but notice how young some of these fellows look. They didn't hire women riveters until World War II. After a cold winter working at the yard, a young man boarding on Baxter Street sent this postcard to a lady friend in Hubbardston reminding her to write. Ward 4 Democratic Caucus Feb. 4

The Quincy Ward 4 Democratic Committee will host a caucus at the Ward 4 Community Center, 100 Brooks Ave., South Quincy, on Saturday, Feb. 4 at 10 a.m. to elect delegates to the 2006 State Democratic Convention, will be held June 2-3 in Worcester.

All residents registered to vote as Democrats in Ward 4 are eligible for nomination.

Five female delegates and four male delegates will be elected, along with one female and one male alternate.

Participants should arrive no later than 9:45 a.m. for registration.

For more information, call Bryan Connolly at 617-479-7543.

The state convention will be held Friday, June 2 and Saturday, June 3 at the DCU Center in Worcester. At that time, Democrats from across the state will gather to endorse candidates for the office of Auditor, Treasurer, Attorney General, Secretary of the Commonwealth, Lt. Governor, Governor and U.S. Senator.

The names of those candidates who receive 15 percent of the state convention vote will be placed on the Sept. 19, 2006 Democratic Primary Ballot.

COA To Plan Coming Events

The Quincy Council on Aging will meet, Jan. 26 at 2 p.m. in the Park and Recreation Hall, one Merrymount Parkway.

COA Chairman John Noonan urges all members to attend and participate in planning events for the coming year.

Noonan also said that beginning in February, Don McCusker will provide free tax assistance and also training to seniors.

Volunteers will provide free tax assistance until April 15.

Volunteers are now wanted to receive training to do the IRS/AARP tax-Aide Program. This has been an on-going program conducted by COA to help Quincy seniors with low or middle incomes file their Federal and State tax returns.

Any Quincy senior interested in volunteering for the training program is asked to call the COA at 671-376-1246.

She Wants Dog Owners To Unite

Why have I read no responses from other dog owners about the impending fines we face for socializing and exercising our dogs in Quincy?

I have owned a home here for 15 years and have had dogs all that time. My dogs are licensed, and I pay hefty taxes here, but the open spaces apparently belong to people with children, not people with dogs.

While I understand it is a problem when people do not clean up after their dogs, why punish all dog owners? Why not fine owners who do not clean up after their dogs?

Dogs need cardiovascular exercise, play-time and socializing. It keeps them healthy and friendly. The majority of city backyards are not large enough to exercise dogs, and some people cannot walk their dogs because of age, a disease or a handicap.

We support the local parks with our taxes, and we should have access to them, also. So why can't Quincy set aside an area for a dog run? It's not a big expense, and can be partly funded by increasing the cost of dog licenses. Maybe the powers that be need to hear from us! We owe it to our pets and our community!

Council, School Committee Clash Over NQHS Land Taking

Jan. 25-31
31 Years Ago

The School Committee's vote to take 11 homes for expansion of North Quincy High School came in direct opposition to a vote of the City Council that authorizes a $12.5 million bond that prohibited land taking.

Mayor Walter Hannon, however, thought that "this modest land taking" could gain council approval. He and other city officials had met with state Secretary of Education Paul Parks, who noted the "council bond" might not receive 65 percent state reimbursement.

Council President Arthur Tobin labeled the taking of homes on Hunt and Oliver streets "cruel" and scheduled a special meeting of the council to address the issue.

150 ATTEND CHRISTMAS AWARDS NIGHT

One hundred and fifty people attended the annual Christmas Festival Awards Night at Peter's Landing on the Southern Artery.

Spirit of Spain Visits Sacred Heart School

AARON LARGET-CAPLAN (above) brought his "Spirit of Spain" program recently to Sacred Heart School. This program explored the culture and music of Spain. Aaron introduced the children to a variety of classical Spanish guitar music and they explored the sounds, rhythms and stories of this fascinating country. The renowned flamenco dancer La Conja (right) performed for the students and demonstrated some of the techniques of flamenco dancing. The children listened attentively and responded with a rousing "ole" to the final whirling performance of La Conja and the distinctive music of Aaron. This program was sponsored by the Sacred Heart PTO as part of it's commitment to providing additional enrichment programs to all of the students at this school.

Quincy Reads Together Returns To Crane Library

The Thomas Crane Public Library is hosting its second annual community reading program, this time focusing on the popular literary genre of mystery fiction instead of on a single book

All are invited to participate in Quincy Reads Together: Mystery By The Book by reading the featured selections, joining a book discussion or attending a special event.

The program run from February through April and is funded by a grant from the Bill Flynn Foundation.

Although mystery fiction is often considered to be an escapist genre, it actually tells the reader a great deal about the real world. The kind of crime, the novel's setting and characters, the detective's social class, gender and style all reveal the realities of the society in which the author lived. Mystery fiction is also a favorite genre for recreational readers of all ages.

The centerpiece of this year's Quincy Reads Together is a six-part reading and discussion series for adults entitled "Crime and the Cultural Landscape." Related special events include appearances by popular New England mystery authors Jane Langton, Rick Tapply, and Katherine Hall Page, crime scene investigation and mystery writing programs for children and adults, and a Mystery Movie Marathon for kids of all ages.

In his weekly Patriot Ledger column "City Seen," Bill Flynn was the first person in the city to endorse the library's initial community reading project. After his untimely death in January 2004, the library dedicated Quincy Reads Together to him. The Flynn family vowed to continue their support annually, through the Bill Flynn Foundation

Kristin Mason Receives Special Recognition At Nichols

KRISTIN MASON

Kristin Mason, a Quincy resident and Nichols College junior, has earned recognition for her academic and extracurricular accomplishments, including high honors on the Nichols College dean's list, a status she has held since her arrival in the fall of 2003.

Mason is double majoring in Human Resource Management and Management with a cumulative GPA of 3.7.

She is president and member of the Executive Advisory Board for the Student Government Association, and the first to serve in this role as a Junior at Nichols College.

Mason is president, captain and coach of the Nichols woman volleyball team. She is a member, and former vice president of the Campus Activities Board.

Mason was inducted into Alpha Zeta Phi, an elite academic group, last spring. She has volunteered for the American Red Cross blood drive, and volunteers as a tour guide to prospective Nichols students.

Mason is a teacher's assistant for the Professional Development Seminar, and a student orientation leader.

Mason will be applying this January to start a five year MBA program at Nichols College.

Marie's Kitchen

BY MARIE D'OLIMPIO

Potato Patties

This recipe is good for anytime. It's what you can do with that couple of cups of mashed potatoes sitting in the refrigerator.

Potato Patties

2 cups cold mashed potatoes
1 slightly beaten egg
1/4 cup chopped onion
salt and pepper
flour for dipping
2 tablespoons cooking oil and 1 tablespoon butter (optional)

Mix altogether until well blended. Shape into six patties. Dip in flour (I used Wondra flour) it's finer and makes for a better coating.

In hot oil, place each patty and brown slowly (about five minutes on each side.

If you are not going to eat them immediately, keep them in a warm oven until ready to serve.

Storyteller - Folksinger Features Languages At Library

Storyteller and folksinger Tim Van Egmond will present traditional stories and songs from around the world on Sunday, Jan. 29 at 2 p.m. at the Thomas Crane Public Library, 40 Washington St.

You Say Potato, I Say Pomme de Terre explores the fascination of language in a program suitable for adults and children aged seven and older. A variety of folk traditions and languages will be represented, including Shona, Bengali, Irish, Italian, Chinese, Seneca, and Spanish.

Van Egmond creates performances for a wide range of topics and themes, but feels especially drawn to the subject of this program. He has an ear for languages, having earned his college degree in Romance Languages, spent a semester studying in France, and traveled widely. Since 1978, he has been appearing at schools, libraries, and community centers, as well as various folk festivals and on a number of television and radio programs. A resident of Montague, he is a featured artist in the Massachusetts Cultural Council's Education Program and its Touring Program.

This free program is one of a series of programs highlighting the library's collections by its classification system, the Dewey Decimal System. Discover It @ your library— in the 400's section this month, sponsored by the Friends of the Thomas Crane Public Library.

For more information about this or other library events, call 617-376-1301 or visit thomascranelibrary.org.

Written In Concentration Camp

Children To Perform Opera At Eastern Nazarene College Jan. 28

Brundibar, a short children's opera written in the Terezin concentration camp by composer Hans Krasa in 1939, will be performed Saturday, Jan. 28 at 4 p.m. at Eastern Nazarene College.

The performance, part of ENC's Musica Eclectica Concert Series, will be presented at the Mann Student Center Auditorium, 23 East Elm Ave., Wollaston.

The performance will be followed by a discussion and reception with Holocaust survivor Edgar Krasa, jointly sponsored by the ENC History Department.

Brundibar, a moving story of two siblings seeking milk for their sick mother, will be performed in English by children ages five and up under the direction of Barbara and Ralf Gawlick and the Dalcroze Center for Music and Movement.

At 40 minutes long, children of all ages are welcome to attend.

A $5 donations will be accepted.

The discussion with Edgar Krasa will immediately follow the performance.

More information, including directions, may be found at www.musica-eclectica.org, www.enc.edu, or by calling 617-745-3715.

The ENC campus is a ten-minute walk from the Red Line (Wollaston stop/ Braintree train). Parking is free.

The Musica Eclectica concert series exists to enrich the cultural life of Boston, the South Shore, and the ENC campus by presenting musical performances drawn from a wide range of styles, said Delvyn Case, Artistic Director and founder of the series. Case is an assistant professor of music at ENC and a visiting professor at Boston College.

Upcoming concerts include rock, classical, jazz, and gospel music.

Quincy Lunar New Year Festival At North Quincy High School Feb. 19

Final preparations are underway for the 18th Annual Quincy Lunar New Year Festival to be held Sunday, Feb. 19 at North Quincy High School.

This celebration of the Asian New Year will begin with Opening Ceremonies at 11 a.m. and will continue until 4 p.m.

Free parking is available across the street at the North Quincy MBTA station.

The festival is a free event presented by Quincy Asian Resources, Inc. (QARI) under the leadership of event chairman David Zou.

"This year's Lunar New Year Festival promises to be the biggest to date," said John Brothers, executive director of QARI. "Since moving much of the festival into a larger area of the school, we have been able to invite more exhibitors and accommodate more visitors to what has become not just an event for the Asian community but for the whole city."

The Asian Lunar New Year is celebrated at the end of the annual cycle of new moons and each New Year is named for one of the 12 animals According to ancient legend, the Lord Buddha once summoned all animals to come to him. When only twelve came, he rewarded them by naming each year for them. 2006 is the year of the Dog.

Lunar New Year celebrations are held in Asian communities throughout the world. Traditionally, the New Year is a family holiday. Families come together to visit, share meals and present gifts of "lucky" red envelopes to children. Quincy's celebration will reflect this tradition.

"The New Year Festival is a great family event," said Richard Hung, president of the QARI Board of Directors. "It represents the involvement of many different groups including students of the North Quincy High Thomas Jefferson Forum; two Grand Sponsors, Mohegan Sun and Sunshine Travel, QARI institutional members like South Shore Elder Services and Quincy Community Action Programs and volunteers from the community, all working to bring together several generations of the community to celebrate the new year."

As a family event, the festival offers entertainment for all ages. There will be performances of Chinese, Filipino and Vietnamese music and dance and exhibits featuring the work of local Asian artists. The festival will also feature the Lion Dance, Japanese Taiko Drumming and Chinese opera in the senior citizen area.

There will be a children's area with Asian games and crafts. Local restaurants will serve different types of Asian cuisine including Chinese and Vietnamese foods.

More than one hundred local businesses, government and social service agencies and individuals will be participating in the Lunar New Year Festival. The Grand Sponsors of this year's festival are Sunshine Travel and Mohegan Sun.

Quincy Asian Resources Inc. is a not for profit organization dedicated to promoting the development of the Asian-American community.

For more information about the Lunar New Year Festival or QARI, contact QARI at 617-472-2200 or visit www.qari.info.

MORE THAN 100 local businesses, government and social service agencies and individuals will participate in the 18th annual Quincy Lunar New Year Festival set for Sunday, Feb. 19 at North Quincy High School from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Sign Language Program For Babies Jan. 28

Sheryl White will conduct an introductory workshop on the use of American sign language for babies and toddlers Saturday, Jan. 28, at 10:30 a.m. at the Thomas Crane Public Library, 40 Washington St.

The program, which involves instruction in 52 signs, is for families with very young children and stresses the benefits of teaching a hearing baby how to communicate before they learn to speak.

No registration is required. The program is sponsored by the Friends of the Thomas Crane Public Library.

Sheriff Bellotti Donates $10,000 To High School Student Programs

Norfolk County Sheriff Michael G. Bellotti recently donated $10,000 to the Quincy School Department to help keep two important student programs running at Quincy and North Quincy high schools.

Bellotti was joined by Mayor William J. Phelan, School Supt. Richard De Cristofaro, Assistant Supt. Carmen Mariano, Quincy High Principal Frank Santoro and North Quincy High Principal Louis Ioanilli at the mayor's office where the city contingent accepted the Sheriff's donation.

The money will be split equally to support Quincy High School's Project SCORE and North Quincy High School's Saturday Detention program.

"Youth development is one of the priorities of my administration," Bellotti said. "Programs like these make a difference, and I'm proud to support the mayor and all the fine school administrators in Quincy who are truly dedicated to the student population."

Project SCORE is a student-based mediation program at Quincy High in which students help their peers resolve disputes without violence. The program notes that conflicts usually start with rumors, name-calling, theft and threats that can escalate to verbal and physical arguments.

The Saturday Detention program at North Quincy High is an effective alternative to out-of-school suspension that keeps students in the school environment and requires them to do school work and take part in other self-improvement opportunities.

Bellotti acknowledged the mayor's and school administrators' "forward thinking" and praised them for finding creative, effective ways to keep students committed while improving their skills academically and socially.

"Keeping kids in school is the key," Bellotti said. "And when students become part of the function of their own environment, that leads to greater success."

The sheriff runs a youth development programs at his Braintree facility. The Sheriff's Youth Leadership Academy and the After School Program are two flourishing examples of his commitment to youth. He also recently added the Future Captains Basketball Academy which will begin its second year this summer.

For more information about Sheriff Bellotti's youth programs, call the Youth Division at 781-751-3577.

Free Tax Preparation Service Offered At Crane Library

The Thomas Crane Public Library will be an AARP Tax-Aide site, providing free tax counseling and preparation services in English and Cantonese for low and middle income taxpayers, especially those over the age of 60.

IRS-certified volunteers will be available to assist eligible taxpayers from Feb. 15 to April 12 at the main library, 40 Washington St., Quincy.

The service will be provided by appointment only on Wednesday evenings from 6 to 8 p.m. and Saturdays from 10 a.m.-3p.m.

Tax returns will be limited to e-filing only, for both federal and Massachusetts returns.

Beginning Feb. 1, sign up for a time slot with AARP volunteer at the reference desk on the top floor of the main library. No appointments will be made over the phone.

Taxpayers are asked to arrive at least 15 minutes early for their appointment and to bring necessary documents with them. A list of required documents is available at the reference desk.

For more information about the free service, call 617-376-1316 or visit thomascranelibrary.org.

Jewish War Veterans To Honor Five Students

The Quincy Jewish War Veterans will honor five high school students at their 51st "Classmates Today, Neighbors Tomorrow" breakfast meeting Sunday, March 5.

The breakfast will be at 9:30 a.m. at Beth Israel Synagogue, 33 Grafton St., Quincy Point.

The five students selected for exemplifying brotherhood in their daily activities are:

Greg Loranz Amarra, Quincy High School.

Roberta Phelan, North Quincy High School.

Christopher Nielson, Weymouth High School.

Jacob Augenstern, Hull High School.

Maggie Karoff, Hingham High School.

Past Commander Harvey Solomon is chairman of the Brotherhood Program. Serving on the committee with him are Barnie Schnaper, Carl Goodman, Richard Korb and Herb Fontaine.

Winter Torah Lecture Series At Hingham Quincy-Chabad

The Hingham Quincy-Chabad, 1356 Quincy Shore Drive, will present a Winter Torah (Bible) lecture series, each text-based class exploring different themes in the Bible and how they can be applied to the here and now.

The series' Monday evening dates, all at 7:30 p.m., and their subjects include:

Jan. 30 - Did the Egyptians have a choice?

Feb. 7 - The Ten Sefirot, corrupted as the Ten Plagues: Ten ways to destroy your life.

Feb. 27 - Exodus: The Four Factions.

March 6 - The breakthrough: Adventures of Sinai.

The suggested donation for the entire series is $36.

The Friday night service Feb. 1 at 6:30 p.m. will be followed by Mexican Shabbat Food. It is open to the entire community.

Reserve for both events at sbronstein@gmail.com or call 617-850-5935.

Robotics Team Can Drive Feb. 11

The Quincy Public Schools Robotics Team Hyper will hold a bottle and can drive Saturday, Feb. 11 from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Returnables can be brought to the Quincy High East, formerly the Center for Technical Education loading dock, 107 Woodward Ave., across from the YMCA.

Proceeds benefit students attending the first Robotics Regional Tournament in Boston, and the National Robotics Championships in Atlanta Georgia in April.

For further details, contact Jerry Quintiliani at 617-984-8749 or Don Long at 617-984-8839.

FIRE SAFETY

by Captain Tom Lyons
Fire Prevention Bureau
Quincy Fire Department

Juvenile Firesetters

I'd be remiss if I didn't take some time to highlight a program spearheaded by Lt. Servaes of the Quincy Fire Department in partnership with the Norfolk District Attorney's office and 24 other local agencies.

The name of the program is the Norfolk Firewall Partnership Juvenile Fire Setters Intervention Program. It offers services for children who have been involved in fire setting incidents. This assistance comes from a comprehensive work plan that is administered through the partnership's, "Fire Safety School" and is designed to recognize, educate and provide treatment resources for children and their families who have been involved with a fire setting incident.

The school, conducted by Lt. Servaes, is designed to help those children understand the behavior that led to the fire setting incident, the hazards of such behavior, while offering alternatives to that behavior.

Prior to the implementation of this program, a fire setter would typically be brought to a fire station, spoken with, and an attempt would be made to convince the child not to do so again. However, fire setting behavior can be as much indicative of more serious issues, reasons for that behavior.

While too often children have fallen through the cracks concerning these incidents with few options offering to families to deal with them, Lt. Servaes' program recognizes the problem and is structured to minimize the occurrence no matter what the reason for the behavior. But there are other reasons for conducting such a program.

Fires set by children currently in this program alone, account for $9.75 million dollars in property damage. Ten percent of these fires resulted in housing loss. These 93 fires destroyed 157 units and left 537 people without a home. The displacement of these people cost $7,500 per person, adding another $4 million to the total cost of these set fires. Every child now in the program who previously set a fire where there was a housing loss, set at least one previous fire. The average cost per fire has increased 11 percent in the past year to $7,821 while the average cost per intervention is $380.

Years ago, when I first came to Fire Prevention, I recognized the opportunity to make a difference for others while building upon each attempt to do so. That doesn't happen without the expended energy of the many who have come and gone from this office and contributed to what we attempt to accomplish here to prevent fire. Lt. Servaes' contribution in educating the public and offering remedial alternatives to the juvenile firesetting issue is just another example of those contributions. It is truly an honor to be a part of this ongoing effort.

Meanwhile, if you know of a child or family needing intervention for a firesetting problem, or would like more information on the program, you are welcome to contact Lt. Servaes at the Quincy Fire Prevention office.

High School Interact Clubs Ring Bells For Salvation Army

The Quincy High School and North Quincy High School Interact Clubs recently rang bells for the Salvation Army. Together, the two schools raised more than $793.

Below are photos of the bell ringers:

The two schools were also active with other charitable endeavors during the holidays. Students delivered more than 70 Christmas stockings to the American Red Cross for needy families. They bought and filled the stockings themselves.

Also, a group of 20 Interact Club members helped Cerebral Palsy with their annual Christmas Party. They set up, served food, delivered presents, took photos with Santa and cleaned up. The party was held in the North Quincy High School cafeteria.

Important Information On Recent Telemarketing Scams

By LT. DAN MINTON
Quincy Police Crime Prevention Officer

During the past week, citizens of Quincy and surrounding communities have received telephone calls from a woman offering money from a grant, up to $5,000. The victim is instructed to send a processing fee ($296) and provide personal information.

The victims I have spoken with state the woman has an Indian (India) accent and often turns the phone over to "her supervisor" when the victim becomes suspicious. The supervisor is more forceful and states he needs the person's social security number, bank account number and routing number in order to transfer the grant money into the victim's account.

Another citizen called to tell me he received a call from a man with a heavy accent from "Advantage America," stating they represent the federal government's Resurgence Department (no such agency) and they needed the potential victim's bank name and account number to forward $12,500 in tax returns. After hearing about the above incident, the citizen contacted me.

If you want more information about this company and complaints against them, go to Google.com and punch in the telephone number (1-866-503-7345) of "Advantage America."

The best action to take when solicited by a telemarketer is to "just hang up." Unfortunately, too many people listen to the offer, then succumb to the pressure tactics, giving personal data and/or money.

If you can't just hang up, the Quincy Police Department Crime Prevention Unit recommends the following measures be taken against telemarketers:

• Never give out personal information, such as date of birth, social security number, bank account number or routing number.

• Ask for literature from the company. This will provide time for you to assess the company's offer. Illegitimate telemarketers rarely have literature to send.

• Check with the Better Business Bureau or Attorney General's Office.

• One of the best actions to take against telemarketers is to register with the Federal Trade Commission's "Do Not Call Registry." The process is simple. Call 1-888-382-1222 and follow the instructions. You must be calling from the phone that you removed from the list. This has been very effective for my home telephone. You can also register online at www.donotcall.gov.

If you have received calls similar to those described, contact me at the Quincy Police Department Crime Prevention Unit at 617-745-5719.

A Job Well Done

By LT. DAN MINTON
Quincy Police Crime Prevention Officer

On Tuesday, Jan. 10, at approximately 4:24 a.m., Sergeant Mark Kennedy and Officer Chuck Landry were working a detail in the area of 363 Hancock St. when they observed a male pushing a CVS shopping cart northbound.

LT. DAN MINTON

The officers observed the male make quick eye contact and look away, which is referred to as a furtive gesture. The officers approached the male, looked inside the shopping cart and saw a new large black amplifier with wires attached inside the shopping cart.

Further examination showed a car radio/stereo with wires exposed and a faceplate for the stereo in the cart. The male said he found it in a dumpster down the street and that "some guy said I could take it."

The officers' suspicion increased since it was dark and it would be difficult to search through a dumpster and, secondly, that "some guy" would be at the dumpster giving permission to take discarded items.

Sergeant Kennedy checked out the identity of the male (suspect) and learned the name and social security number did not match. Since the suspect was intoxicated, he was placed into protective custody, then transported to the station by Officer Kevin DiMattio. The items in the shopping cart were taken as evidence, even though the officers could not find a victim.

Once in the station, the suspect provided false information as to his identity. His finger prints were taken and submitted to the FBI, which provided his actual identity along with six aliases. There was also an outstanding warrant, requiring the suspect to be held for court the next day.

At approximately 8:21 a.m., Officer James Sullivan was dispatched to Eastern Nazarene College to investigate the breaking and entering of a motor vehicle. According to the victim, she had locked her car the night before and came out to find the window had been smashed and a small garden shovel used to force the door. The car stereo and amplifier were both missing.

Communications Dispatcher Jamie McAvoy, who reviews the calls for service on a daily basis, contacted the owner of the radio/amplifier, and she subsequently identified the property as hers. After photos were taken of the stolen property for court purposes, the items were returned to the owner.

The suspect, a 39-year-old Dorchester resident, was taken off the street by alert officers before he could commit another crime. There is now a warrant for his arrest on the charge of "Receiving Stolen Property over $250." Although it is likely that he broke into the car, the chances of a conviction are greater by charging him with possession of the stolen property. Nice work!

Household Emergency Calls for Fast Action

At any time of year, mishaps and breakdowns create situations that require immediate attention. The scenarios below should be dealt with as fast as possible to prevent expensive repairs, injury or death.

—Steam rising from a closed hot-water tap: The hot-water heater is overheating. Immediately turn on all the hot-water faucets in the house. Go to the circuit panel and switch off power to the hot water tank. Leave the water supply on. When the house faucets begin running cold water, turn them off. Call a plumber.

—During freezing weather, water doesn't come out of a faucet: A pipe is probably frozen. Leave the cold-water faucet open. If you can access the pipe run, try to locate the frozen section (run your hand along the pipe to feel the coldest spot). If you see water on the floor in that area, the pipe has probably burst. If not, try to thaw it out by wrapping a towel soaked in hot water around it, and pouring hot water over the towel periodically. If the pipe has burst or you can't thaw it, call a plumber.

—Smoking or sparking appliance: Don't touch it! Run to the circuit panel and shut off the main switch immediately. Unplug the appliance when all house power is off, and then have it repaired by a professional. If an appliance or an outlet is on fire, get everyone out of the house and call the fire department. If the fire is very small, shut off the main switch and attempt to put it out with a household extinguisher after calling the fire department. If getting to the circuit panel or putting out the fire is too dangerous, just get out of the house.

—A strong smell of gas is in the house: Have everyone leave the house immediately, and call the fire department. Do not turn on any lights or strike a match. Go to the main gas supply valve (at the meter) and close the shutoff valve. (Note: It's a good idea to tape an inexpensive wrench to the gas meter near the valve at your first opportunity, before a gas leak occurs, so you can shut the valve off with no problems.)

Rebuilding, Saving Energy In A Flood's Aftermath

(NAPS) Every year, flooding causes more than $2 billion of property damage in the United States. In a high risk area, a home has a 26 percent chance of being damaged by a flood during the course of a 30-year mortgage, compared to a nine percent chance of damage from a fire.

Flooding occurs from a range of causes and conditions, and not just in high-risk areas. Inland flooding can occur when a storm stalls in a single location-potentially hundreds of miles from a coastline. Plus, the failure of dams, impoundments or other water regulatory systems can result in flooding. Flash flooding may even occur in arid parts of the country.

In the aftermath of a devastating flood, energy efficiency may not seem like a high priority during rebuilding. But after the walls dry out, homeowners can realize savings by rebuilding to reduce future damage. When homeowners and builders take advantage of energy efficient materials, equipment and rebuilding methods, it becomes possible to:

• Reduce vulnerability to future flood damage and disruption;

• Potentially lower home flood insurance rates; and

• Reduce monthly energy bills and increase home comfort.

Reconstruction Techniques

In the interest of increasing energy efficiency, the U.S. Department of Energy recommends looking at the following areas when rebuilding a flood-damaged home:

• Furnace/Air Conditioner- If these units are damaged or are near the end of their service life, replace them with ENERGY STAR units and put them on a raised platform, or on the second floor, or in the attic to keep them above potential flood levels. Since it is likely your home will be more energy efficient after reconstruction, it may be possible to downsize the system.

• Ductwork- Replacement ducts should be relocated to the attic, or above a dropped ceiling or in the space between the floors of two-story houses. After it has been repaired, cleaned, and sanitized, ductwork should be sealed with mastic and insulated to R-8 if it is in the attic.

• Water heater- Instantaneous (tankless) gas water heaters may be a desirable option versus relocating a tank type gas water heater to the attic. A tankless water heater occupies less space and it is much more efficient than a tank type gas water heater.

• Wall Insulation- Walls subject to flooding should be insulated with a closed cell foam insulation material. This material doesn't soak up water so it doesn't have to dry out after being flooded.

For more information about energy efficient building reconstruction techniques and practices, visit www.energysavers.gov.

Plan A Stress-Free Move

POINTS FOR HOMEOWNERS

(NU) Moving is considered one of life's most stressful events.

Only a small percentage of all moves are handled by professional movers. The majority of people take the do-it-yourself route. Fortunately, modern conveniences are taking much of the anxiety out of the process.

If you're looking at your soon-to-be-packed belongings with a sense of dread of what is to come, you should know that you have a wide range of services at your disposal. Pak Mail centers, located around the country, specialize in packing, crating and shipping- even the most awkward, hard-to-pack items.

The centers do everything from providing moving supplies to shipping the contents of an entire house. Every major shipping service can be accessed from your local Pak Mail location, so you can compare shipping prices without having to run from place to place.

If you would rather sell your furniture and other bulky items so that you don't have to move them, online auction sites such as eBay give you a larger pool of potential buyers. You also may find that it's much easier to sell your belongings on eBay than haul them to the front yard for a garage sale and later have to dispose of what you don't sell. Pak mail centers will pack, crate and ship virtually anything, so you can feel comfortable sending your antique headboard and exercise equipment anywhere in the world.

Even with today's conveniences, some traditional packing know-how still comes in handy. The professionals at Pak Mail provide these tips for those who are packing up and moving out:

• Stay organized. The more organized you are, the less stressful the move will be. Plan to pack well in advance of your moving day.

• Pack jewelry, important documents, irreplaceable photos and medications in a bag that you plan to carry with you.

• Place your items in new boxes that are sturdy and not too large.

• Wrap items in bubble wrap or foam wrap, not newspaper.

• Use protective tape and bubble wrap on glass-framed pictures and artwork.

• Do not pack flammable items. They might overheat or explode.

For more moving advice and to find a Pak Mail location near you, call 800-778-6665.

Sunshine: The Invisible Homewrecker

(NU) A trend in home building today is larger windows and more of them. Windows not only reduce the need for artificial lighting, the increase a home's "curb appeal" and value. Yet there is a hidden cost to all that sunlight: Irreversible damage to indoor furnishings.

Upholstered furniture, hardwood floors and carpets are at risk whenever they are exposed to sunlight shining through a home's windows.

"Our customers have been in their homes on average 11 years, so they are very aware of the fading damage caused over time by sunlight," said Mike Gilkey, president of Gilkey Window Company in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Ultraviolet radiation in sunlight is largely responsible for this damage. Even the latest low-E (low-emissivity) glass technology for residential windows fails to provide adequate UV protection. That's because the portion of ultraviolet radiation called UVA passes right through low-E glass, causing fading and deterioration to furniture, floors and more.

The damage is irreversible, but it is possible to stop damaging UV radiation from penetrating your home's windows with a new glass technology from Guardian Industries called ClimaGuard SPF. This technology blocks more than 99 percent of all UV radiation without any visible change in day lighting.

"The best way for homeowners to deal with damaging UV radiation is to stop it before it enters the home through their windows," said Tim Singel, director of residential glass products for Guardian Industries.

In the past, window glass that was coated to protect against UV radiation also usually blocked some visible sunlight, or the coating made the glass shiny like a mirror. This left the homeowner with a choice between performance and appearance. ClimaGuard SPF, however, will virtually eliminate harmful ultraviolet rays without interfering with natural daylight or compromising that familiar clear glass look.

"ClimaGuard SPF is the first residential glass technology to offer this level of UV protection without the undesirable tradeoffs," Singel said.

ClimaGuard SPF is a coating that is applied to the interior glass surface of a double-paned window unit. Since the coating is not exposed, there's no reason to be concerned about scratching the coating or which cleaning solutions to use; just wash the window as you normally would. And since the coating is applied by the glass manufacturer, there's no concern that the coating will wrinkle or peel after the window is installed.

A Clean Sweep Helps Defeat Allergens

(NAPS) – A good cleaning can be a great way to give airborne allergens and germs the cold shoulder.

Here are some tips on how to get started:

Deep Clean the Countertops. Clean countertops with an antibacterial wipe, so the counter is both cleaner and healthier.

Roll out the Welcome Mat. Most dirt that comes into your house comes from the bottom of shoes. To keep dirt away from your floors and carpets, invest in a large, eight to 10-foot welcome mat or rug – the idea size for letting guests take at least six strides before hitting your floors.

Capture the Dirt in Your Rugs. Since more than 50 million people suffer from allergies, it's likely one of your friends or family members might be allergic. Deep cleaning your carpet will help everyone breathe easier, but make sure you use products with a proven track record.

For instance, Johns Hopkins University found that the Capture Carpet Cleaning Total Care Kit effectively reduces allergens – such as dust mites, pollen, mold, mildew and pet dander – up to 70 percent more than just vacuuming alone.

Attack Airborne Allergens. Give airborne allergens and germs the cold shoulder by having air ducts cleaned out to remove built-up dirt, allergens, dust, and/or pollen.

Hit the Sheets. Nothing combats a cold winter night like cozying up under a warm blanket. Take your comforters, quilts and bedspreads to the cleaners.

Put Your Best Plate Forward. If the water temperature in your dishwater doesn't reach 140 degrees, you can kill germs on dishware by adding half a cup of bleach to your dishwasher load.

Raid, Review and Revive the Refrigerator. Get your fridge in tip-top shape by throwing away old leftovers – when in doubt, throw it out!

Awesome Appliances. Freshen up the interior of your microwave by mixing three tablespoons of lemon juice and one cup of water in a microwave-safe bowl. Let it boil for two to three minutes, remove the bowl and wipe the interior out with a clean cloth.

Window Wonderland. Clean the windows inside and out with a mixture of vinegar and water along with a squeegee or lint-free cloth. Don't forget to dust off the blinds and/or gently vacuum the curtains.

Neighborhood Housing Homebuyer Workshop

Neighborhood Housing Services of the SouthShore, in conjunction with Citizens Bank, will host a First Time Homebuyer Workshop Monday, Jan. 30 from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m., and Saturday, Feb. 4 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Citizens Bank, 1200 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

Arrive at 8:45 a.m. on Saturday for coffee and registration.

Attendance at both workshops is mandatory to receive a homebuying certificate.

All potential first time homebuyers are encouraged to attend the educational workshop. Participants will have an opportunity to be pre-qualified by a lender.

Topics covered include mortgage options, legal aspects of the home buying process, how a home inspection works, and other presentations from real estate related professionals.

Participants must complete the workshop to qualify for grant programs.

There is a $15 fee per person. Breakfast and lunch will be provided.

For more information, call 617-770-2227 ext. 31.

Quincy Community Action Homebuyer Workshop Starts Feb. 1

Quincy Community Action Programs invites potential real estate buyers to a free three-session workshop to learn about buying a home.

Sessions will be held from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m. on Wednesday, Feb. 1, and Monday, Feb. 6 and 13, at the Thomas Crane Public Library, 40 Washington St., Quincy.

Speakers are real estate professionals.

Participants receive a workbook with valuable reference material and a certificate, which is a prerequisite for favorable soft second mortgages, Mass Housing mortgages and downpayment closing cost assistance.

Presidents Defeat D-Y, Tourney Bound

BOYS' BASKETBALL

By CHRIS POISSON

The "We want Pacho" chants began to bellow from the stands with about five minutes remaining and the Quincy High School boys' basketball team well in control last Friday night against Dennis-Yarmouth.

"Oh, I heard them," said head coach Bob Fisher. "I hear it at a lot of games. They all love Dan Pacho. He's a fan favorite. He's great. He's a senior and just happy to be on the team."

Fisher granted their wish with about two minutes left and Pacho didn't disappoint. The 5-foot-8-inch guard drove to the basket and buried a rainbow shot over the giants as he was fouled.

It was that type of game. All 15 players got on the court and 10 of them scored in a 62-39 victory that clinched a berth in the state tournament for the second straight season. A surprising accomplishment considering the Presidents returned only one starter from last year's Atlantic Coast League North Division championship team.

"I got to play all the kids and that was nice," Fisher said. "Everybody got involved in the game. It's nice to get the tournament out of the way. It's great for these kids. Hopefully we can keep winning and get home court. But that's not our focus. Our focus is to take one at a time. We have to take each league opponent as it comes."

Quincy (10-1 overall, 5-1 Atlantic Coast League) played Nauset Tuesday and will travel to Silver Lake today (Thursday) at 6:30 p.m. in a rematch of its thrilling 75-73 double-overtime victory in the Dec. 16 season opener.

Trailing 29-22 at halftime, the Dolphins scored two quick buckets to begin the second half to make things a bit uncomfortable.

"I knew they would hang around," Fisher said. "This was a tough game for us because we were coming off two good teams, first-place Falmouth and rival North Quincy. This was a trap game."

But freshman point guard Doug Scott (team-high 14 points) drilled a 3-pointer to ignite a 16-3 run for a 45-29 advantage with 11 minutes left.

The game was out of reach for the Dolphins, particularly when the Presidents dialed up their defensive intensity and held them to 17 points in the second half.

"I thought our kids played very hard on defense," Fisher said. "The last three games we've held teams to 17 or under in the second half. I'm pleased with the way our kids are playing. We just don't stop. Thirty seconds to go and (backup junior center) Kinsin Theorodis is diving for a ball out of bounds. That says a lot about our team."

Senior forward Lovell Johnson scored 11 points, senior guard John Orlando nine and senior center Joe Griffin seven.

Fisher said junior guard Tom Hazelhurst, sophomore guard Paris Amado and sophomore forward Deshawn Matthews played well off the bench.

"We have more kids from the bench point of view that are getting better and we can go to them," Fisher said.

He also praised the efforts of junior forward Steve Connolly, who was a pest on the boards with 12 rebounds.

"Connolly is immense on the boards, relentless," Fisher said. "If he doesn't get it, he gets a hand on it. Without question, for his size, pound for pound, inch for inch, he can rebound with anybody in eastern Massachusetts. He has made a huge difference for us with his physicalness and relentlessness in getting the ball."

Last Tuesday, Quincy earned a 58-43 home win over Falmouth, the ACL South Division leader. The Presidents trailed 27-26 at intermission but cranked up their defensive intensity in the second half, holding them to 16 points.

Griffin helped contain the Clippers' leading scorer, 6-6 center Justin Pulver, to nine points. Johnson also excelled on the defensive end, pulling down 10 rebounds and taking four charges.

"We stepped up defensively in the second half," Fisher said. "We scored the first basket of the second half to take the lead and never looked back. They were blowing teams away, averaging close to 70 points. We played tenacious defense and rebounded well against a bigger team."

Quincy received balanced scoring from its five starters. Johnson and Scott each scored 13 points. Connolly added 10, Griffin nine (nine rebounds) and Orlando eight.

Pee Wee C-1 Travel Team Wins Waterville Valley Tournament

The Quincy Pee Wee C-1 travel hockey team edged KP-Walpole, 6-5, to win the recent Deep Freeze Tournament championship in Waterville Valley, N.H.

Sean Patrick Hannon scored the game-winner with 1:20 left to play in sudden-death overtime.

Quincy advanced to the final by capturing 13.5 points out of a possible 15 with wins over the Coastal Stars (7-1), KP-Walpole (3-2) and Norwood (5-0).

Strong performances were turned in by goaltenders Trevor McCarthy and Matt Glynn, who shared duties between the pipes.

Defensemen Bob Kozlowski, Domenic Collarusso, John O'Callaghan, Paul Mulvey and Harry Maxfield provided outstanding blue line execution.

Offensive firepower was furnished by forwards Kevin Garity, Vincent Cameron, Hannon, Matt McGuire, Dave O'Connell, Jarred Shiels, Nick McGaughey and Mike D'Andrea.

Quincy Doubles Up Somerville, 8-4

BOYS' ICE HOCKEY

It took only 50 seconds Monday afternoon for the Quincy High School hockey team to show how it would respond to losing its first two games of the season last week on the Cape.

Junior forward Mike Leone knocked home a rebound for the first of four opening-period goals as the Presidents cruised to an 8-4 victory over Somerville of the Greater Boston League at Quincy Youth Arena.

Quincy (9-2 overall, 6-2 Atlantic Coast League) played at Rockland Wednesday and will host Plymouth South Saturday night at 8. It notched a 7-4 victory over the Panthers in the Dec. 14 season opener.

After beginning the season with eight straight wins, Quincy was pushed off the unbeaten pedestal with a pair of 4-2 defeats, at Nauset last Wednesday and at Sandwich last Saturday.

"We really needed to bounce back because I think our confidence was getting a little shaky," said head coach Bob Sylvia. "You start off winning eight games in a row and we got a false sense of security. I'm as much to blame as the kids. I don't know who was more enthusiastic. It brought us right down to earth. The Cape teams are very tough in their own rink."

"It was two of our weakest games on defense all year," said assistant coach Ted Walsh. "We've been doing a good job until we got down there. I don't know if we were over confident or what, but it seemed like we forgot how to make the first pass out of the zone. I don't know if it was a good job by the Cape teams or if it was us. I think it was a little of both."

The Presidents corrected their mistakes Monday, although it wasn't against a superior team. But they were able to play everyone as they're still searching for players to solidify the third line. Currently, there are about six kids fighting for the three spots.

"We weren't playing a super tough team but it gave us a chance to really get a look at all of our kids," Sylvia said. "Right now we need to find a third line. We're juggling players. We have to get a third combination that the very least can give us a blow."

After Leone's quick strike, senior forward and co-captain Matt Giordani deposited a feed from senior forward Mike McKeon just over a minute later.

At 7:25, the third line tallied a goal when freshman forward Mark Gilbody centered a pass from deep in the right corner to senior forward Mike Gibbons, who flicked the puck past the goalie from the slot.

Giordani, who entered the game as the state's 10th leading scorer (14 goals, 15 assists), netted a power-play goal at 11:24 to give Quincy a 4-0 lead.

In the second, McKeon scored a breakaway goal less than two minutes into the frame.

Somerville got on the board 17 seconds later with a power-play strike to make it 5-1.

At 4:12, McKeon extended the lead to 6-1 with an assist from Giordani.

Somerville notched its second goal with just under eight minutes showing, but the Presidents scored with 26 seconds left when sophomore forward Ted Walsh stuffed the puck past the goalie through the five-hole.

Somerville added two power-play goals in the final frame to pull within 7-4. Senior defenseman and co-captain Mike McPherson closed out the scoring when his blast from the point deflected off a defenseman and into the cage with 1:42 remaining in the game.

Freshman Jeff Giordani and junior Bo Craig, the backup goalies, shared duties for the final period and a half.

THREE-VEHICLE HOUSEHOLDS

Have you ever wondered why three-car garages have become so popular? It is because nearly three out of ten American driveways are filled with three cars, up 27% since 1999. According to Edmunds.com, there are now 278 different models of automobiles on the road, a 26% increase from a decade ago. What is fueling this boom? To begin with, zero-percentage deals in recent years have made new cars irresistible to some. In addition, automobile makers have designed specialty vehicles that appear to just about any kind of lifestyle, including convertibles, minivans, SUVs, light trucks, sport coupes, crossover vehicles, performance sedans, gas-sipping economy cars, pick-ups, and full-fledged trucks. There is a niche vehicle to fit every need and desire.

This informative column was brought to you by LEO & WALT'S SUNOCO. The employees here, at 258 Quincy Ave., E. Braintree, know automobiles and have the extensive knowledge to help you with any car needs you may have. We are your local source for propane for grills, motor homes, and converted vehicles. Whether you need service or advice, you can count on us. If you ever have any questions please call 781-843-1550 as soon as possible. Sunoco and most major credit cards honored. Open Mon.-Fri. 6am-9pm, Sat. 7am-9pm, Sun. 9am-5pm. We are "A Place Where Your Car Can Live Longer."

HINT: Nearly one in five new homes today has a three-car garage, almost double the rate of ten years ago, according to the National Association of Home Builders.

Hot Second Half Lifts North Past Falmouth

GIRLS' BASKETBALL

By CHRIS POISSON

The North Quincy High School girls' basketball team played one 32-minute game, but it seemed like two separate games last Friday night against Falmouth at home.

The Red Raiders shot an icy 26 percent from the floor and 42 percent from the line in the first half against the Clippers and trailed 20-17 at halftime.

The locker room, however, must have been a sauna because they sizzled offensively in the second half with 67 percent shooting from the floor and 88 percent from the line en route to a 48-45 victory.

"It was like two different games," said head coach Doug MacFarlane. "We woke up in the second half. Our shots started falling and the pressure from our press bothered them. We pulled it together against a good team and kept it under control in the second half."

North Quincy (5-6 overall, 4-1 Atlantic Coast League) played Sandwich Tuesday and will head to Nauset Friday at 6:30 p.m.

With 30 seconds left in the game, senior forward and tri-captain Kayla Lenane hit two free throws to give her team a five-point lead.

The Clippers cut the lead to two points with a desperation 3-pointer with five ticks left. After a timeout, sophomore forward Rachel Goreham beat the press by firing a long pass to junior guard Lauren Stille, who was fouled and made one of two free throws to seal the win.

Goreham just missed a triple-double with 20 points, 10 rebounds and eight assists. Stille turned in an nice all-around game with seven points, four assists and two steals and Lenane shot 5-of-5 from the floor for 15 points and five rebounds.

"Kayla is really coming to life," MacFarlane said. "She's averaging 8.4 points per game. It's a big turnaround from the beginning of the season. It helps a lot. It takes the pressure of Elyse (O'Connell) and Rebecca to be the big scorers."

It was a huge victory for the Red Raiders as they were coming off their worst loss of the season, a 72-33 debacle last Tuesday at Brockton. They also dropped a 65-49 decision to them Dec. 16. Good news, though: Both those games do not count towards the tournament.

O'Connell scored a team-high 12 points to go along with five assists and Lenane added 10 points.

"We didn't play them well and I thought we could've been down more," said MacFarlane of the team's 34-20 halftime deficit. "We just completely fell apart in the second half. We made just five baskets from the floor. It was just a complete letdown."

"We played them more for experience," he added. "We need to play tough teams to get ready for the tournament."

Quincy Rebounds With Pair Of Road Wins

The Quincy High School girls' basketball team followed up a disappointing Jan. 13 defeat to North Quincy with two huge league victories on the road last week.

Of course, senior forward Jessica Page had something to do with it. The co-captain scored the go-ahead points in a 33-32 win over Falmouth last Tuesday and poured in 20 points in a 51-36 win over Dennis-Yarmouth last Friday.

"Those were two really big wins for us," said head coach Jeff Bretsch. "It's always tough going down to the Cape. We talked a lot about preparing ourselves mentally for that challenge. Thankfully, we responded to it last week."

Quincy (7-3 overall, 4-2 Atlantic Coast League) played Nauset Tuesday and will host Norwell today (Thursday) at 6:30 p.m. It dropped a 41-34 decision to them Dec. 27.

Against D-Y, the Presidents jumped out to a 33-10 lead at halftime and never looked back. Bretsch said sophomore guard Meagan Tobin, who scored all 13 of her points in the first half, set the tempo.

"She really set the tone for us in terms of pushing the ball, being aggressive and looking to get points in transition," he said. "In truth, we had control of the game the entire time. I thought we were very successful in our full-court press. We were much more aggressive."

Page, the ACL's leading scorer with 20.2 points per game, also had nine rebounds and five steals. Junior forward Brighid Kyle chipped in 12 points, including eight straight points in the second half.

In the Falmouth game, the Presidents trailed 19-15 at the break, but they tightened their half-court defense even more in the second half to pull out the win. Page converted a three-point play in the final minute to put her team on top.

"It was a big win," Bretsch said. "They were in first place in the South Division. It was a tight game. We struggled in first half to get things going. Both teams played great defense. Every basket was earned for both clubs. In the second half we improved the intensity in our half-court defense. We struggled to score but our defense was able to win the game for us."

Page finished with 14 points, Kyle eight, Tobin six and sophomore guard Marybeth Torpey five.

Raiders Split Two On Cape

BOYS' BASKETBALL

By CHRIS POISSON

Many enjoy their stay on Cape Cod, but the North Quincy High School boys' basketball team had a so-so time there last week.

The Red Raiders split a pair of games, knocking off Barnstable, 77-67, last Tuesday before falling, 68-60, to Falmouth last Friday night.

"It was a tough week with two games down the Cape," said head coach Jim Rendle.

North Quincy (7-5 overall, 3-2 Atlantic Coast League) played Sandwich Tuesday and will host Nauset Friday at 6:30 p.m.

Against Falmouth, the Red Raiders were plagued by a 9-of-24 shooting performance from the foul line.

"It was a disappointing loss," Rendle said. "We really had a tough time. We shot poorly when we had an opportunity to get back in the game. When it was a four-point game with five minutes left, they made all their foul shots and we didn't shoot well."

North Quincy also had to deal with senior guard Imad Elkatrib and sophomore guard Dennis Martin fouling out early in the second half. "That hurt us tremendously," Rendle said.

The Red Raiders had a difficult time containing sharp-shooting guard Adam O'Donnell, who scored 33 points, including 10-of-10 from the free-throw line.

Senior point guard Kyle Costa scored a team-high 15 points, Martin and senior forward Kevin Donovan added 13 points apiece and Murray tallied 10 points, 11 rebounds and three blocks.

In the Barnstable game, North Quincy built a 36-21 halftime advantage and maintained that lead throughout the second half.

Costa delivered a sensational game with 16 points, nine rebounds, seven assists and five steals. "That was a big-time game," Rendle said.

Senior center John Murray poured in 28 points to go along with seven boards and three blocks. Elkatrib added 10 points, five rebounds, three steals and a block.

At Least 25 Teams Expected To Compete

Quincy Kiwanis Hockey Tournament Feb. 20-26

At least 25 teams from Greater New England will compete in the 33rd annual Quincy Kiwanis International Youth Hockey Tournament scheduled for Feb. 20-26 at Quincy Youth Arena, 60 Murphy Memorial Drive.

There are five divisions: Mites (ages 8 and under), Squirts (ages 9-10), Pee Wees (ages 11-12), Bantams (ages 13-14) and Girls, just the second time in tourney history girls' teams will participate.

In addition to local teams from Quincy, Braintree, Weymouth and Milton, teams from New England and across the country will also participate.

"The Kiwanis Club of Quincy has sponsored this youth hockey tournament for the past 32 years with all the proceeds being used to support our charities," said Kiwanis President Jean McCarty.

"Every Kiwanis member, past and present, should be congratulated for all the effort they have contributed over the years to make this tournament one of the finest in the area. We look forward to another successful tournament this year and offer a warm, Quincy-style welcome to the players, coaches and parents."

The tourney begins Monday, Feb. 20, and concludes Sunday, Feb. 26, with the championship games. Those seeking more information about schedule or participation may call Michelle Stenberg at Quincy Youth Arena at 617-479-8371.

Quincy Kiwanis is a part of Kiwanis International, a worldwide group that serves a mission that works to improve the quality of life for children and young people around the world.

Tips To Make Your Tank Of Gas Go Further

(NAPS) Unpredictable gas prices got you down? You're not alone. Drivers are increasingly interested in getting the most for their money when it comes to gasoline and automobiles and are studying up on how to become more fuel-efficient drivers.

The Internet hosts a wealth of information and tips on saving money on gasoline while also preventing excessive wear and tear on your vehicle. Summed up below are some of the best quick-fix gas-saving tips.

First, maintain your vehicle to ensure it is running its best. Perform simple maintainance tasks yourself such as replacing your air filter and inflating your tires. Take your vehicle to an automotive technician for scheduled tuneups to ensure everything is in proper conditions. Use only the necessary octane gasoline and the proper weight of oil.

Other good advice is to reduce the number of trips you take. Carpooling is not only great for getting to work, but also to the grocery store, to school or other events. Plan your day and run errands on the way home that are in the same area instead of making multiple trips. One-stop shopping at stores that have it all-food, toiletries, hardware-can elp you cut down on trips. Instead of going out for meals, eat food you have at home or order out.

If you have more than one car, drive the more fuel-efficient one. This may mean a smaller vehicle, but a big cut in your fuel costs. Take unnecessary items out of your vehicle to lighten the weight the engine has to push.

It's also a good idea to reevaluate your driving tactics and take it easy on the roads-aggresive driving can rrin efficiency. Revving your engine, accelerating quickly and traveling at very high speeds can all reduce your miles per gallen substantially. Use cruise control to keep RPMs level. And remember that timing is everything. Try to be on the roads outside of rush hour and peak shopping times if possible, as stop-and-go traffic and crowded roads are fuel-burners.

Finally, you may be ready to look for a more fuel-efficient vehicle. Automotive sites such as AutoTrader.com make it easy to both post your car for sale, as well as simplify the search process if your're in the market for a new or used car. The site's Power Search allows users to look for vehicled by body style, gas mileage, engine size, and type of fuel the vehicle uses, making it easy to find vehicles that run more economically. If you want to buy or sell for a fixed amount or within a certain geographical area, the Web site offers options for these criteria as well.

Bathroom Scale Can Deceive

Q. I've been hearing lately that I should no longer use a scale to determine how fit I am, but instead should go by my body composition. It was easy to keep track of my weight on my bathroom scale, but I'm not sure how to track my body composition, or even how to measure it.

A. This change came about because of a need to identify the real reason for the rise in conditions such as obesity, cardiovascular disease and diabetes. Although the weight of a person as seen on a scale can be useful, it is more important to know a person's body composition, which is more representative of what is going on on the inside.

Many people have become disillusioned about their health status by relying on just the numbers from a scale. For example, a 30-year-old woman who is 5 feet 7 inches tall may see on the scale that she weighs 125 pounds and think she is fit and healthy and doesn't need to exercise or change her eating habits. However, if body-composition measurements showed her body fat was 35 percent, she could be at risk for certain medical conditions, since the recommended percentage for a women her age should not exceed 25 percent.

We call this being "apparently healthy." The outside may look OK, and the scale may make you believe you are OK, but your body composition tells a different story. Find out what your body is really telling you by knowing your body composition and using it to keep healthy and fit.

Body composition includes body-fat percentage, lean muscle mass and circumference measurements. These factors can identify the risks that a person may face if they are not within the recommended guidelines.

—Body fat can be calculated at your doctor's office, fitness center or by a body-fat scale you can purchase for the home. This calculation gives you the percentage of fat your body is carrying. The goal is not to have zero percent body fat — there is essential fat needed for your body to function properly. The goal is to maintain a healthy balance of essential fat while minimizing the non-essential.

—Lean muscle mass is just that, the amount of lean muscle your body is carrying. The more lean muscle mass you have, the more you protect your joints and the better your body can function both internally and externally. This often translates into a great-looking outer package. You can maintain or increase your lean muscle mass through proper nutrition, consistent and safe resistance training and multiplanar exercises.

—Circumference measurements record girth at several places around your body using a tape measure. These normally include the upper arm, chest, abdomen area, hips, thigh and calf. The larger measurements in the abdomen and chest area can indicate health risks, making this a great tool to help monitor progress.

Quit Smoking, Manage Stress, Start Exercising

New QMC Cardiac Program Focuses On Prevention, Wellness

Looking for ways to manage your stress, weight and high blood pressure?

Want to quit smoking (and stick with it) and start an exercise program (and stick with it)?

Have a family history of heart disease and want help to reduce your personal risk?

Quincy Medical Center is accepting referrals for a new Cardiac Wellness Program. The three-month program is designed to improve heart health and set the course for a healthy, active lifestyle.

The program focuses on patients who do not have heart disease (coronary artery disease), but do have positive risk factors, such as hypertension (high blood pressure), smoking, obesity, and a family history of heart problems.

"The Cardiac Wellness Program is designed for individuals who have cardiac risk factors, but have not had a heart attack, coronary intervention or bypass surgery," said Mary Callahan, DO, a Quincy Medical Center cardiologist in practice at Granite Medical.

"While other programs – such as Quincy Medical Center's Cardiac Rehabilitation Program – focus on improving heart health after a heart attack or cardiac event, this program is designed to get people on track for good heart health and, ideally, reduce their personal risk of a cardiac event," said Ann McGroarty, RN, director of Quincy Medical Center's Cardiac Wellness and Rehabilitation Program.

The three-month multidisciplinary wellness program combines exercise, individual nutritional counseling and group workshops. Participants attend one-hour, supervised exercise sessions, three times per week.

In addition, participants attend one-to-one meetings with a dietitian to discuss their individual nutritional health, as well as weekly group sessions focused on stress management, smoking cessation, medication management, weight management and nutrition concerns.

A Maintenance Program is offered for participants who have graduated from the Program but wish to continue the supervised exercise and receive continue support from the Cardiac Wellness Program.

The Cardiac Wellness Program at Quincy Medical Center requires a physician referral and is covered by most insurance programs.

To learn more about the program, call Ann McGroarty, RN, Cardiac Wellness/Rehabilitation Program, at 617-376-5580.

Quincy Medical Center is a 232-bed acute care community-teaching hospital providing South Shore residents with comprehensive medical and surgical services. The medical center's Alliance for Quality with Boston Medical Center (BMC), formed in 1999, brings academic medicine to the community.

At Quincy Medical Center, physicians from Boston Medical Center direct the departments of medicine, surgery, anesthesia, emergency medicine, and psychiatry. Additionally, physicians from BMC who are board-certified in a range of medical and surgical specialties work side-by-side community physicians to ensure the continuity of care.

Immune-Boosting Tips For Optimal Health

(NAPS) Staying healthy is a challenge. Hectic schedules, work-life demands and lack of sleep can negatively impact the immune system. Luckily, there are simple steps we can take to naturally preserve health all year long.

"The immune system is the body's warrior- it defends us daily from potential invasion or attack. Most people, however, only think about their immune system when winter arrives," says Christine Evans, Nature Made consumer education nutritionist. "But immune systems support should be a year-long concern. In fact, recent studies show that approximately 35 percent of adults need immune support during early fall, spring and summer."

According to Evans, the foundations of a healthy lifestyle include eating a well-balanced diet, getting plenty of rest and exercise and supplementing with a daily multivitamin. Evans also recommends the following natural immune-boosting tips:

• Get Your C's: Studies reveal vitamin C is critical for proper immune system function. It is found in citrus fruits and vegetables such as green and red peppers, tomatoes and spinach. Can't eat enough fresh fruits and vegetables? Try Nature Made Vitamin C- the tablets are now smaller and easier to swallow.

• Don't Smoke! Smoking and even secondhand smoke negatively impact the immune system. It dries nasal passages and paralyzes cilia, the delicate hairs in the nose and lungs that help keep germs out of the body.

• Try Herbs: Science has shown Echinacea, garlic and Andrographis paniculata, one of Sweden's top-selling herbs, help stimulate the body's natural defenses. Luckily, you don't have to go to Sweden to try Andrographis. Just pick up a box of Nature's Resource TriMune, which also contains immune-boosting Echinacea, vitamin C and zinc.

• Stay Hydrated: Drink at least 64 ounces of water daily. Green tea, milk and low-sugar juice are also good choices.

• Reduce Alcohol Intake: Alcohol consumption decreases the liver's ability to filter toxins from the body.

• Wash Your Hands: Send germs down the drain by washing with soap and warm water for at least 20 seconds. Wash after touching your eyes, mouth, nose, and doorknobs, keyboards and other shared items.

A VITAMIN FOR HEALTHY GUMS?

Recent research indicates that people with higher levels of Vitamin D may be less likely to develop gum disease. When researchers analyzed data from a U.S. health survey, they found that teenagers and adults with the highest blood levels of vitamin D were 20 percent less likely than those with the lowest levels to show signs of gingivitis (a milder form of gum disease characterized by swollen, bleeding gums). As of now, scientists can only say that there is an association between vitamin D consumption and healthier gums, not that vitamin D necessarily is responsible. Still, it is a good bet that the vitamin known for healthy bones and a healthy immune system might also fight inflammation.

At your next appointment we'll be happy to discuss periodontal disease in detail with you. We are a highly qualified and experienced team of professionals who want you to look and feel your best. Today's technology enables us to make your teeth better looking than ever before. When is the last time you had a complete dental exam? A Thought For The Week

We all have in our minds a broad outline of what we expect to accomplish on any given day. But so often the unexpected disrupts our carefully laid plans and we have to revise those plans. We have to decide what is most important, less important, and relatively unimportant. We establish our priorities according to our values, and therefore each person has a different set of priorities.

One might ask – wouldn't life be so much less complicated if all we had to choose between was the good and the bad – if every thing were black and white? But there are always varying shades of gray, the variables and the imponderables. Choices are often between the good things and the better things; between the better and the best; or between our best and God's best. And yes, sometimes we have to make our choices between the lesser of two evils. There are so many things that compete for a place in our thoughts and in our lives. If one were to engage is a little self-analysis, one might ask themselves, what occupies most of my time – what do I talk about most of the time? . . . Wouldn't today be a good day to take stock of our lives and reorder our priorities, if necessary?

Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Single Lambs looking for romance could find Cupid especially accommodating this week. Paired partners also find their relationships benefiting from the chubby cherub's attention.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Keep your keen Bull's eye focused on your target, and shake off any attempt to turn your attention elsewhere. You should get some news later in the week that might answer some questions.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Your early enthusiasm for a project might have been somewhat premature. Although you feel positive about it, you might need more information in order to make an informed decision.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Taking on a new responsibility might seem like the politically correct thing to do. But even with the promise of support, was it the wisest? Consider reassessing your upcoming decision.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Apply yourself to completing your task despite all the distractions that might be interfering with your work. Then reward yourself with a weekend of fun shared with people who are close to you.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) A business agreement from the past might need to be looked at again. Use this unexpected development to check out other matters related to it. A weekend venture proves to be rewarding.

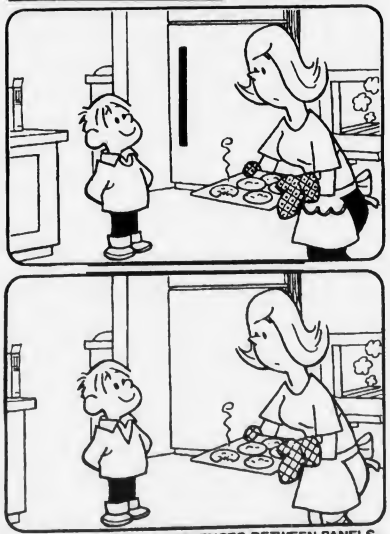
LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Don't ignore that uneasy feeling about making a commitment. It could be a case of understandably cold feet, or a warning that something isn't as right as it should be.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) A colleague could be more supporting of one of your efforts. But it's up to you to make the case for it, and that could mean opening up a secret or two, which might be a problem for you.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Expect some good news about a relative you've been worried about. But don't expect the full story to be told — at least not yet. A workplace matter might face shifting priorities.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Despite some anxious moments, you could have good reason to be pleased with how things are turning out. An end-of-the-week call might hold some interesting information.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) A long-overdue expression of appreciation could be offered soon. But admit it: You never really expected it would ever happen, right? Meanwhile, keep your weekend options open.



PISCES (February 19 to March 20) It's a good time to dive right into a new challenge, whether it's learning a computer program or how to drive a stick shift, or making a new friend. Whatever it is, good luck.

BORN THIS WEEK: You see the wisdom in honesty, and you help others appreciate your vision.

John Cutting Regional Lending Manager At Bank Of Canton

James D. Egan, President and Chief Executive Officer of Bank of Canton, announces John Cutting has joined the company as a regional lending manager.

Cutting will work at Bank of Canton's corporate office, located at 490 Turnpike St. in Canton, where he will be servicing the residential lending needs of consumers throughout the South Shore from Bridgewater, Brockton and Whitman to Milton, Dedham and Medfield, as well as all surrounding towns.

Cutting is a banking industry veteran with more than 24 years of professional experience. Before joining Bank of Canton, he most recently was residential mortgage officer at Plymouth Savings Bank, where he worked for seven years.

"Bank of Canton is a progressive mortgage banker that also has a history of providing great customer service that dates back to its founding in 1835," Cutting said. "The community bank mentality of providing exceptional service allows me to service my clients in an expeditious manner with the best products to meet their specific needs."

JOHN CUTTING

"Bank of Canton and its customers will profit from John's extensive background and dedication to his customers," Egan said. "We look forward to working with him in our Residential Lending Division."

Cutting has a B.S. in public administration from Suffolk University, Boston. He received honorable discharge from the U.S. Army in 1971 and he lives in Randolph with his wife of 38 years, Gerrie. They have four grown children and five grandchildren.

Bank of Canton, with offices in Canton, Quincy, Randolph, Brookline and Hyannis (to open Winter 2006), lends throughout the state. Established in 1835, Bank of Canton is a Massachusetts-chartered mutual savings bank that offers its consumer, business and commercial customers access to a full array of deposit, loan, investment and convenience service options.

"I am grateful that my council colleagues last week unanimously supported my initiative to ensure that all council committees are comprised of a majority of councillors," Gutro said, referring to the council's vote to expand four committees from three to five members.

"These changes reflect this council's commitment to revitalizing Quincy Center, expanding affordable housing, respecting the growing needs of our veterans during a time of war and ensuring that our historic places and library services play an important role in efforts to boost tourism and educate our citizens, respectively."

He also thanked the council for unanimously approving his proposal to expand the scope of the Environmental Committee to include public health issues.

timate was $79,125,000 and it remains that even though the price of construction materials has gone up in the meantime.

The city's problem is how much change can be made in the proposal to build on the chosen location on Faxon Field while retaining the 90 per cent state reimbursement.

The new high school in Quincy is still one of the 428 similar projects that are on a waiting list for state funding which may take as long as 10 years.

Those cities and towns whose costs have risen since the original estimate would have to make up the difference themselves without state aid.

For Outstanding Community Service

George White Sun Citizen Of Year

George F. White, who has volunteered 40 years as a member and chairman of the Quincy Christmas Festival Committee, is The Quincy Sun Citizen of the Year for 2005.

White was selected by a panel of judges from among 35 nominees submitted by Quincy Sun readers. He is the 21st recipient of the annual award for outstanding community service.

White has been a member of the Christmas Festival Committee since 1967 and is now in his 25th year as chairman.

The committee plans and coordinates the parade which features over 90 units including floats, marching bands, color guards and other units and attracts a crowd of many thousands.

Reached at his winter home in Jupiter, Fla., and informed of his selection by Sun Publisher Henry Bosworth, White said he felt honored.

"I think it's great. I feel honored just to have been considered. It's a prestigious award when you look at the outstanding past recipients."

"I want to also congratulate the other nominees," Bosworth said. "To be nominated is an honor in itself."

White received two nominations for the award.

In his nomination, John Noonan, chairman of the Quincy Council on Aging, said: "As chairman of the Quincy Christmas Festival Committee, he has been involved in bringing happiness to generations of children for the past quarter century."

Noonan called White the "sparkplug" that ignites the Christmas holiday spirit climaxed by the Christmas parade. Crowds along the three-mile parade route along Hancock St. regularly numbers in the hundreds of thousands."

Patricia Downey of New York City, a 1949 graduate of North Quincy High School, said, White has long been deserving of the award "for all the years of service and dedication for the Christmas parade that thrills so many, year after year. It's one of the city's greatest events."

Besides viewing it, the public is involved in the parade by being invited to submit suggestions for the theme of the parade each year.

And elementary school students in Quincy's public and parochial and private schools are invited to participate in the poster contest which is based on the parade theme for that year. The invitations result in hundreds of parade themes and thousands of posters.

Other holiday activities of the Christmas Festival Committee include the arrival of Santa by parachute at Pageant Field, the turning on of the Christmas lighting and Santa's mailbox at City Hall, and the ecumenical Christmas pageant.

White started out as an "office boy" at The Patriot Ledger after graduating from Quincy High School in 1947 and worked his way up to retail and national advertising director before retiring in 1994.

In between he served two years with the Army , 14 months in Korea during the Korean War, and was on the sales staff at the Boston Herald Traveler.

In addition to the Christmas Festival Committee he has been active in other civic causes and in the business community.

He was the first chairman of First Night Quincy, Flag Day Committee chairman, a member of the Senior Olympics Committee, past chairman Quincy Center for Technical Education Advisors Board, a past Carney Hospital Foundation director and active member of the Quincy Lodge of Elks and recipient of its "Citizen of

With Neighborhood Concerns Survey

45,970 Census Forms In Mail

By TOM HENSHAW

Residents who respond to the 2006 city census will not only stand up and be counted for federal funding but will be able to spell out their neighborhood concerns for City Hall as well.

The city census forms that will go into the mail today (Thursday) to 45,970 households in Quincy, annually are an important step in the city's continual quest for federal aid.

Information derived from the one-page form can help in calculating the city's federal aid, establish a jury list, determine voter status and simplify E911 emergency response.

But this time the envelope with each census form will also contain a two-page "Neighborhood Improvement Survey" added by Mayor William Phelan to identify neighborhood concerns and issues.

The purpose of the survey is to solicit initial citizen input into Phelan's "Strengthening Neighborhoods Initiative" that was outlined in his 2006 third term inaugural address.

The survey asks residents to identify their concerns, describe what they feel are the positive aspects to life in Quincy and solicit ideas on how best to improve the individual neighborhoods.

"The cornerstone of my administration's efforts will be the strengthening of our great neighborhoods," said Phelan.

"At every neighborhood meeting the concerns expressed most often deal with the quality of life in our neighborhoods.

"We have listened to the residents and we will work with them to preserve the great character of our neighborhoods."

The city will collect the survey results and begin a series of neighborhood meetings to share the results, add more input and propose potential solutions.

"Each neighborhood is unique and I encourage all residents to share their

New Ordinance Calls For $50 Fine

Clear Snow, Ice From Non-Residential Buildings Sidewalks

By MIKAELA SLANEY

Failing to remove snow and ice from sidewalks in front of non-residential buildings will result in $50 fines, and possible eventual court action, under a new city ordinance.

The City Council's Ordinance Committee voted 7-0 Monday night to amend the present ordinance.

Councillors Joseph Finn and Brian McNamee were unable to attend.

Final approval of the amendment is expected at next Monday's regular council meeting.

According to the amendments, if snow stops falling within the daytime hours of 7 a.m. through 8 p.m., the property owner is given five hours to remove it. If it stops between the hours of 8 p.m. and 7 a.m., the owner is given until 1 p.m., the following day.

"It's not just store owners who are responsible," said city solicitor Monica Conyngham. "We don't want to end up with only a store owner liable while a commercial owner next door is not responsible."

"It's a quality of life issue. They need to clear the snow," said Conyngham.

In the instance that ice and snow is so dense that removal would ruin the sidewalk itself, fines will not be enforced. However, the property owner should shovel to the best of their ability, and use sand or other snow melting substance, to prevent slippage.

"My only concern is that people will say, 'I've taken care of my responsibility, I'll throw on some snow-melt, instead,'" said Ward 3 councilor Kevin Coughlin.

Restaurant Gets 30-Day License Suspension For Selling Liquor To Minor

By MARIE D'OLIMPIO

The License Board issued a 30-day suspension to Jazz Moon, 217 Quincy Ave. for serving alcohol to a minor, their third violation in 20 months.

Liquor Agent Lt. Peter Turowski told the board that during a 'sting' conducted on Dec. 29, 2005, a 20 year old male was sent into Jazz Moon with a marked $10 bill to purchase liquor. When Turowski and his associate entered the building, the male was sitting at the bar with a 12 ounce bottle of beer.

When Turowski asked why owner Jeff Chen did not ask for an ID, he explained that when a customer comes into the restaurant, they usually rent a room in which to sing Karaoke. Chen asked the male if he was going to rent a room, and the male said he was and was waiting for some friends.

Atty. Chris Harrington, counsel for Jazz Moon said they had no dispute with Turowski's report, but said the first violation was when a friend of Chen's was allowed to take a case of beer out to the car, in which he received a three day suspension.

Harrington said he thought that was "harsh" for a first offense.

The second violation was when on Thanksgiving night, customers were allowed to remain after the 1 a.m. closing. Jazz Moon was issued a seven day suspension

Harrington appealed to the board to issue a 10 day suspension.

Police Chief Robert Crowley divulged that Chen had been on probation from an incident in Chicago involving gambling.

Although Harrington objected to Crowley's statements concerning Chen's past, Chairman Joseph Shea said "to be caught three times in 20 months" is not a good thing, and said Crowley's statements were permissible.

Shea said if that information were known to the board, a license would not have been issued to Jazz Moon.

Atty. Michael Riley, an associate of Harringtons appealed to the board and said a harsh sentence could "devastate the Chen family" as they have invested hundreds of dollars to achieve their "American dream."

Crowley said he voted against the concept to the Karaoke from the onset, and then made a motion to revoke the beer and wine license, There was silence by the board. The motion did not receive a second.

Health Commissioner Drew Scheele then made a motion to suspend the license for 15 days, but also did not receive a second.

He then made a motion to suspend for 30 days and that motion carried with a 4-0 vote with Crowley voting against the motion.

Harrington then asked the board to stay the suspension until an appeal was made to the Alcohol Beverage Control Commission, but Crowley denied the stay ;which received a 5-0 vote.

LICENSE BOARD BRIEFS

The License Board took the following action at Tuesday's meeting.

•Granted a pledge of license of AET Group, doing business as Rag's Tavern, 375 Washington St. Mr. Edward Cochrane.

•Granted a change of managers at SSB Realty, LLC, 1776 Heritage Drive from Mary Ann Marion to Carol Pehl.

Method To Make Oxygen Underground

Former Quincy Man's Company Develops Aid For Trapped Miners

By TOM HENSHAW

A chemical engineer who grew up in Quincy is the point man for an Ohio company that has developed a method of making oxygen underground — like in a coal mine.

Had it been ready by now it might have saved the lives of the 14 men who died in the recent West Virginia mine disasters.

"We have proved out the essential elements to make oxygen from carbon dioxide," says Dr. Christopher Papile, vice president of strategic business for NexTech Materials Ltd. of Lewis Center, Ohio, a small fuel cell company.

"But we haven't built the final device. There is no market for it."

Well, not yet. But Papile has detected a revival of interest in emergency breathing supplies, particularly by the governor of nearby West Virginia where the 14 miners died of asphyxiation in calamities two weeks apart.

Right now, miners carry personal self-contained, self-rescue (SCSR) devices on their belts into which they breathe to create about an hour's worth of oxygen through a chemical reaction.

The NexTech method of creating oxygen basically involves passing an electrical current through carbon dioxide, a byproduct of mine explosions, or water vapor, depending on what is available.

Further development of the process also depends on the mining industry's acceptance of "safe" breathing locations in mines since the NexTech system requires no oxygen storage to create a threat in case of an explosion.

DR. CHRISTOPHER PAPILE

Still to be determined is a way to put enough cells together to service an entire mine crew, each of whom needs to breathe three liters of oxygen a minute, and how best to deliver the electric current to them.

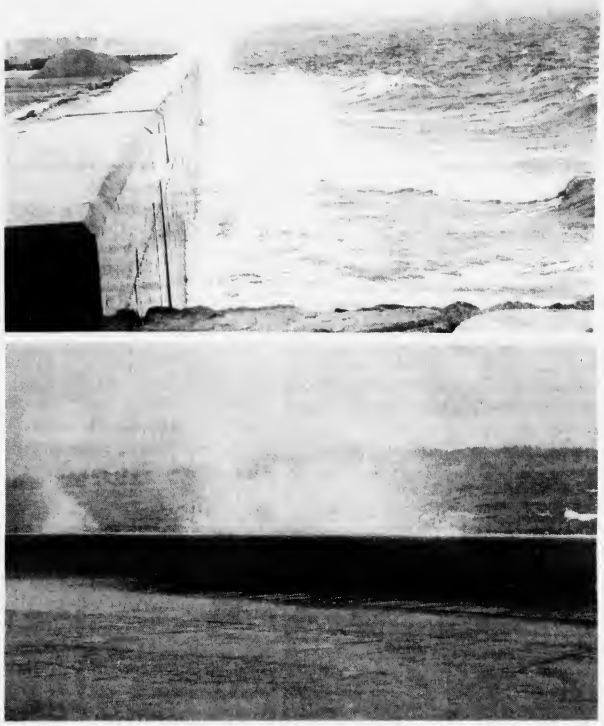
NexTech, which has less than 50 employees, is seeking investors, too. If they don't get some financial assistance, says Papile, it might be years before the product is ready for the market.

Papile, 43, who lives in Columbus but still regards Quincy as his home, is the son of former Quincy assessor James Papile.

He was turned on to a career in chemical engineering at Archbishop Williams High School, where he won the Bosch and Lomb Award for science.

He went on to Worcester Polytechnic Institute, attracted by its "very innovative programs" and obtained his doctorate in chemical engineering from the University of Delaware in 1989.

Prior to joining NexTech as vice president for new ventures, Papile was one of the founders of Nuvera Fuel Cell Company of Cambridge, building the business from 18 to 200 employees.



He is also a founder of Boston-based Catalyte LLC, an international company that has designed water plants in South America and consulted with companies around the world.

He has been a senior consultant for Arthur D. Little , Inc., co-chaired the Army Research Office Workshop 2000 on Fuel Cells, and has several patents pending in the field of fuel processing.

Once Papile and NexTech have convinced mine owners and their government safety regulators that theirs is the way to go in the creation of oxygen underground, they already have their next project staked out.

"We have a contract with NASA to create breathable oxygen on Mars," said Papile. "This is no pie in the sky.

"The atmosphere on Mars is 90 per cent carbon dioxide. Our cells can get a lot of oxygen out of that."

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On Feb. 5, 1883, the Southern Pacific Railroad completes its transcontinental "Sunset Route" from New Orleans to California. Termed "the Octopus" for its stranglehold on the California economy, the Southern Pacific inspired Californians to create some of the first strong public regulations over railroads in U.S. history.

• On Feb. 2, 1912, the world's first movie stuntman performs for a newsreel when Frederick Rodman Law jumps off the Statue of Liberty with a parachute. Later that year, Law performed a similar stunt off the Brooklyn Bridge.

• On Feb. 4, 1938, Hollywood talent agent Myron Selznick (brother of producer David O. Selznick) is banned from the 20th Century Fox lot. The studio felt that Selznick was undermining the industry by inflating actors' salaries.

• On Feb. 3, 1948, the first Cadillac with tailfins is produced, signaling the dawn of the tailfin era. General Motors increased the size of the Cadillac's "tail feathers" every year throughout the 1950s.

• On Feb. 1, 1958, Elvis Presley records his last single, "Wear My Ring Around Your Neck," before joining the Army. While serving in the Army, Presley's monthly salary dropped from $100,000 to $78.

• On Jan. 30, 1969, the Beatles make their last public performance, giving an impromptu concert on the roof of their London recording studio. After neighbors complained about the noise, police broke up the concert.

• On Jan. 31, 1990, the Soviet Union's first McDonald's fast-food restaurant opens in Moscow. Throngs of people lined up to pay the equivalent of several days' wages for Big Macs, shakes and french fries. The arrival of McDonald's in Moscow was a small but certain sign that change was on the horizon. Less than two years later, the Soviet Union ceased to exist as a nation.

Adams Out From Jefferson's Shadow

John Adams has been slighted by history for a couple hundred years.

But no longer.

Thanks to David McCullough 2001 Pulitzer-prize winning biography, John Adams and the current excellent documentary John And Abigail Adams on PBS (Ch. 2) "The American Experience which he hosts.

McCULLOUGH

History had long placed Adams in Thomas Jefferson's shadow. But McCullough has taken him out from behind that shadow and moved him to the front – where he rightfully belongs.

JOHN

ABIGAIL

Interestingly, when McCullough came to Quincy to research material for his book it was going to be about the friendly-thorny relationship between Adams and Jefferson.

But, the more he researched, the more he found himself leaning toward Adams as the major figure and thus it became the highly acclaimed biography of the second president with Jefferson in a lesser role.

Speaking at a fundraiser for the library's new addition in 2000, when he was writing the book, McCullough said of Adams:

"A man of extraordinary energy and a life-long passionate patriot. He was a man of the people."

Adams was the son of a farmer, Jefferson a Virginia aristocrat with salves. Both played key roles in the birth of this nation.

Jefferson wrote the Declaration of Independence at Adams' request because he felt Jefferson was the better writer.

Adams was pretty good at writing himself. He later wrote, here in Quincy, with Samuel Adams and James Bowdoin, the Massachusetts Constitution which became the model for the U.S. Constitution.

But, without Adams the Declaration of Independence might have been just a piece of paper with lofty words on it.

As McCullough points out, it was Adams who "drove it through a reluctant Congress." Jefferson himself called Adams "the colossus of freedom."

McCullough also notes that it was Adams who nominated George Washington as commander-in-chief of the Continental Army who proved to be the right man for the job.

"And most importantly," McCullough said, "John Adams was the husband of Abigail Adams."

Abigail is usually remembered as being the wife of one president and the mother of another, sixth President John Quincy Adams – an honor she held alone but now shares with Barbara Bush. But unlike the latter, she did not live to see her son become president.

Abigail was a remarkable woman in her own right and one ahead of her time.

Born in Weymouth, she had no formal schooling. But through tutoring by her father, Rev. William Smith, a Congregational minister and her mother, Elizabeth Quincy Smith and reading, she became a well-known writer of letters.

She was an early advocate of women's rights.

In one of her famous letters to her husband, she wrote:

"In the new code of laws which I suppose it will be necessary for you to make, I desire that you would remember the ladies and be more generous and favorable to them than your ancestors."

To which she added:

"Do not put such unlimited powers into the hands of the husbands. Remember, all men would be tyrants if they could."

There are more than 1,000 letters written between John and Abigail that have been preserved. They, along with diaries, help chronicle the birth of this nation and its early struggles.

Abigail was a strong and brave woman. Often left alone for long periods of time to care for the children and run the farm below Penn's Hill while her husband was away in the service of the young nation.

Those periods could be very long. Early in their marriage when he was in Franc trying to develop strong ties with that country, Abigail sailed to Paris to meet him. It was the first time they were together in five years.

Adams and Jefferson, who had been good friends became bitter political enemies and Jefferson defeated him in his bid for a second term in a vicious election campaign.

Adams was so furious he refused to stay in Washington for Jefferson's inaugural in 1801.

Abigail later helped patch things up between them through letters to Jefferson and the pair reconciled.

Ironically, both died on the same day, July 4, 1826 – the 50th anniversary of the Declaration of Independence. Among Adams' final words as he lay dying at the Adams Mansion were: "Jefferson survives."

He thought Jefferson had outlived him. But Jefferson had died earlier that same day at his home in Virginia. News didn't travel like it does today.

Thanks to McCullough's biography and the PBS documentary, John Adams has been reborn in history.

A COUPLE OF major milestones are coming up for Arthur Tobin, former mayor and now clerk magistrate of Quincy District Court.

TOBIN

Sunday will mark the 25th anniversary of his appointment as clerk-magistrate by Gov. Edward King in 1982.

And Monday, the 28th anniversary of his "baptism as mayor" – the "Blizzard of '78," just 34 days after taking office and got the city through it.

Tobin proudly notes he has marched in every Quincy Police Memorial Parade since 1966. And, has good reason to: seven members of the family are in law enforcement:

Brothers Tim, Quincy Police retired and the late Tom Tobin, Highway Patrol in California. Twin sons, Brian, Quincy police lieutenant and Bruce, State Police trooper assigned to the Norfolk County district attorney's office. Nephews Kevin Tobin, Quincy police lieutenant and Paul Tobin, Weymouth police sergeant; and son-in-law Donald Greenwood, Quincy police lieutenant.

That, you might say, is a real law abiding family.

AND, TOM GALVIN is marking an anniversary of his own: starting his 13th year with his popular feature, "Scenes From Yesterday" in the Sun.

GALVIN

The scenes, as readers know, are old postcards of old Quincy landmarks, some of which are still with us and some that are gone. This week's is a 1960 postcard of the old Bethany Congregational Church when it was at Hancock and Chestnut Sts. in Quincy Sq. built in 1870. The site is now the Bank of America, formerly the Granite Trust building.

Galvin gets a lot of fan mail especially from out-of-state readers who formerly lived in Quincy and remember "the good old days."

Congratulations, Tom. And keep those postcards coming.

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS 1906 POSTCARD is a view of the old wooden Bethany Congregational Church that was on the corner of Hancock and Chestnut Streets in Quincy Square. Founded in 1832 as the Evangelical Congregational Society their first church was on the corner of Hancock Street and what is now Revere Road. The church shown here was built in 1870 and was a landmark in Quincy Center for almost 60 years. It was demolished in 1927 when Theophilus King bought the property to build the Granite Trust Company building that is now used by the Bank of America. The church used the money from the sale of the property to help build their present building on the corner of Spear and Coddington Streets. The new church is Gothic-style, complete with gargoyles, and is made of Weymouth seamface granite. To contact Tom Galvin, e-mail tmgalvin@verizon.net.

Gertrude Halloran First Woman Judge At Quincy Court

This Week
1938
68 Years Ago

Gertrude R. Halloran was officially seated as the first woman justice in the history of Quincy District Court and easily handled her first case involving a missing pair of men's trousers.

Vincent Moscardelli of South Quincy claimed he sent his $45 suit to the cleaners, which lost the pants, thus wiping out the value of the suit which would not be a suit if he had to wear odd trousers.

Judge Halloran awarded him $15.

WELFARE HEAD FIRED

A rumored major shakeup in the administration of Mayor Thomas S. Burgin failed to materialize when only Welfare Commissioner Alvin S. Wight was ousted and replaced in the $2,400 job by WPA Administrator Anthony J. Venna.

"I have nothing personal against Mr. Wight," said Burgin, "but I believe it's desirable at this time to make a change in the administration of the Welfare Department."

Wight called his dismissal "political expediency."

Re-appointed were Ezekiel C. Sargent, public works commissioner at $4,000; Harold P. Newell, treasurer at $3,300; John D. Smith, solicitor at $3,000; N. Gorman Nickerson, assessor chairman at $3,250.

SALARY CUT VETOED

Burgin vetoed a City Council order that would have cut the salary of newly named City Purchasing Agent George Bonsall from $3,500 to $2,500 a year.

"We pay lucrative salaries to beginners," said Councillor Aldo Della Chiesa. "Let us pay this purchasing agent $2,500 a year. If he does his work well he can expect a raise."

FEVER EPIDEMIC

Health Commissioner Dr. Richard M. Ash, noting 416 reported cases of scarlet fever since September, declared an epidemic was sweeping the city, particularly in Wards 5 and 6.

"Call a doctor in any case of sore throat," warned Dr. Ash, adding there was a great danger of serious complications from even the slightest case.

Live Owls Coming To Crane Library Feb. 11

Have you ever seen a live owl up close?

You can Saturday, Feb. 11 when naturalist Marcia Wilson presents a slide show and six lively owls at the Thomas Crane Public Library, 40 Washington St., Quincy Center.

The interactive program for adults and children aged seven and older will begin at 10:30 a.m.

Wilson will introduce owls of New England and beyond, and their unique adaptations, with a slide show of photos by her husband, wildlife photographer Mark Wilson.

Some owls, such as Great Horned Owls, Barred Owls, and Eastern Screech-Owls, are more common than many think. Others, such as short-eared Owls and Great Gray Owls, are a rare sight here.

Wilson will share the field marks, signs and naturalist's skills to use to find wild owls without disturbing them, while introducing those attending to six live owls up close. There will be a hooting lesson, as well as tips on how to attract and protect owls.

Wilson has over 30 years of experience in natural history and field emithology. She grew up in southeastern Massachusetts and became entranced by birds at an early age. After earning a B.S. in Biology, she moved to Nantucket, where she worked with rare Piping Plovers and Least Terns for The Trustees of Reservations. Now, she and her husband travel throughout New England teaching children and adults about the natural world using live owls.

The program is one of a series of programs highlighting the library's collections by its classification system, the Dewey Decimal System. Discover It@your library-in the 500's section this month. Sponsored by the Friends of the Thomas Crane Public Library.

For more information about this or other library events, call 617-376-1301 or visit thomascranelibrary.org.

'Pain Free' Piano Playing Workshop Feb. 15

Instructor Frank Dunne will teach his "Learn-To-Play-Piano-In-Three-Hours" workshop with the Quincy Adult & Continuing Education program, Wednesday, Feb. 15, from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m., at the North Quincy High School.

Dunne is a professional pianist and organist whose performances range from pop/easy listening in lounges to private parties and weddings.

Dunne's method differs from traditional piano studies.

"While most piano teachers stress precision and discipline in piano playing, I stress having fun. And while precision is vital for classical music, this pain-free method is more suitable for playing pop music of all kinds, from Broadway to Rhythm & Blues."

Only a bare minimum of music background is required, many students take the workshop with no prior piano experience. Students will learn how to use chords instead of the traditional note-for-note music reading.

FRANK DUNNE

They'll learn to use sheet music in a completely new way that is extremely simple, and Dunne promises that after his workshop, each student will be able to play any pop tune with both hands using this system.

Those interested in taking the workshop may send for a free pamphlet titled "How to Read Music Notation in Just 30 Minutes!" Send a self-addressed stamped envelope to Pop Piano Workshop, 56 Endicott St., Quincy, MA 02169.

For more information or to register, contact the North Quincy High School at 617-984-8888 or 617-984-8890.

Registrations Start Monday For Library Kids' Programs

Registrations for three different programs for children will begin Monday, Feb. 6, at 9 a.m. at the Thomas Crane Public Library, 40 Washington St.

Mad Science of Greater Boston will present "Mad Messages" Saturday, Feb. 18, at 10 a.m. for Quincy residents ages 7 and older and 11:15 a.m. for ages 4-6.

Youngsters will learn how to send messages using special codes and the use of observational skills to solve the mystery in special messages and secret formulas.

The program is sponsored by the Friends of the Thomas Crane Public Library.

Whodunit?, a "Quincy Reads Together: Mystery by the Book" program will be held Wednesday, Feb. 22, at 10 a.m. for Quincy residents ages 6-9 and 11 a.m. for ages 10-13.

The program explores techniques used by crime scene investigators, such as observational skills, logic, biology and chemistry to determine the culprit in a crime.

The Quincy Reads Together program is sponsored by the Bill Flynn Foundation.

Barn Babies, featuring some 20 baby animals to pet and learn about, will be held Saturday, Feb. 25, at 9:30, 10, 10:30 and 11 a.m.

The program is for families with very young children up to 5 years old.

Five sessions have been scheduled to give each child an opportunity to handle the animals, which include a diapered goat, a potbellied pig, and lots of bunnies, chicks, puppies and kittens.

Each child may register for one session only and must be a Quincy resident.

The program is sponsored by the Friends of the Thomas Crane Public Library.

Environmental Treasures Stargazing Programs Feb. 5

The Quincy Park Department's Environmental Treasures program will host a program on stargazing, Sunday, Feb. 5 at 7 p.m.

Rolf Egon, an astronomer with over 45 years experience and a member of the South Shore Astronomical Society, will give a slide show presentation about the solar system, deep space and comets. His extensive collection of meteorites including a piece of the planet Mars and a tiny piece of the moon, will be displayed.

Following the presentation, participants will have the opportunity to view the craters and mountains of the first quarter moon, as well as Saturn, Jupiter and the Orion Nebulae, through telescopes set up in Merrymount Park.

The program is free and open to the public. The Koch Complex is at 1 Merrymount Parkway, if the weather is cloudy, the program will take place Feb. 7 at 7 p.m.

For more information call 617-472-0799.

'Year Of The Dog' Celebrated At Library

The Year of the Dog, with traditional Asian music, will be celebrated Saturday, Feb. 4 from 1:30-4:30 p.m. at the Thomas Crane Public Library, 40 Washington St., Quincy Center.

Featured performers will include musicians and singers from the Sum Sing Music Association and folk dancers from the Vietnamese Samantabhadra Buddhist Center in Braintree. Other performers will include Kylin (dragon) dancing and erhu (Chinese violin) playing. Free refreshments will be provided by Quincy Dynasty Chinese restaurant.

The free event for all ages is sponsored by the Friends of the Thomas Crane Public Library. South Shore Elder Services, and Quincy Dynasty restaurant. For more information about this or other library events, call 617-376-1301 or visit thomascranelibrary.org.

Father Bill's Place Dinner Dance To Aid Homeless Women

Father Bill's Place will host the Open Your Heart Dinner Dance and Auction Friday, Feb. 10 at Lombardo's in Randolph.

Proceeds will benefit the agency's programs and services for homeless women across the South Shore.

Now in its third year, the evening begins with a cocktail hour at 7 p.m. and continues with dinner, dancing and a live and silent auction. Magic 106.7's Gay Vernon will be mistress of the ceremonies. Tickets are $65 each or $100 per couple.

Auction items include a cocktail party for eight people in your home prepared by Paul Walberg, chef at Bridgeman's Restaurant, an overnight stay at the Four Season's Hotel Boston; specialty children's items; jewelry and a morning in the studio with 105.7's Loren & Wally.

In addition, Father Bill's Place will once again present the Loretta Oliva Award to a young woman who has been served by Father Bill's Place and has made a commitment to bettering her life.

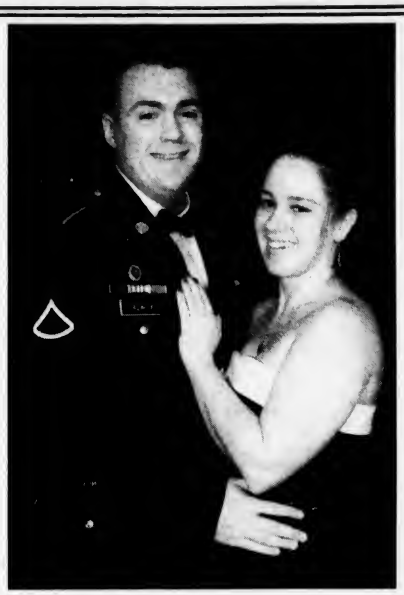
This year's recipient, Crystal, came to Father Bill's Place a little more than a year ago suffering from a variety of disorders and having had a number of family conflicts. Since that time she has gotten her disabilities under control and has made significant changes in her life.

After just three months at the shelter, Crystol moved into a room in a one of the agency's properties. She has worked hard to regain her independence, securing full time employment and taking driving lessons so that she can get her drivers license. In addition, Crystal has gotten off of her SSDI (Social Security Disability Insurance) due to her full time employment and will soon be taking classes at Quincy College.

Crystal has shown that Father Bill's Place can make a difference in the lives of those committed to change and the agency is proud to present her with this award.

The dinner dance is sponsored by Bennett Mortgage and Investment Company, Electro Switch Corporation, Bank of America and Watch All Post Management.

Tickets can be purchased online at www.fatherbillsplace.org or by calling the agency's Development Office at 617-376-2255.



Father Bill's Place is an interfaith housing facility providing permanent solutions to the problem of homelessness, founded in 1984 as an emergency shelter.

Its mission is to help homeless people obtain a home by giving temporary shelter and food, finding safe and affordable housing, and providing permanent housing with supportive services. It helps people who are homeless, or at risk of homelessness, to achieve self-sufficiency.

Point Webster Youngsters Learn To Shop At Roche Bros.

Shades of Donald Trump and Martha Stewart!

Eighty apprentice entrepreneurs from the fifth grade at the Point Webster Middle School visited Roche Brothers supermarket for a little hands-on experience in shopping and planning a meal.

The students had to create a meal for their classmates, including an appetizer, starch, vegetable, bread, entree, drink and dessert, then record the price, staying with a budget.

After that, on a map of the United States, the youngsters were required to locate where the items they selected were grown or produced.

The kids also got a tour of the store, learning about the exotic fruits and vegetables, tasting the prepared foods and decorating in the bakery sheet cakes which were brought back to the school for the enjoyment of the students and staff.

The learning experience was organized by Lawrence Baxter, store manager of Roche Brothers, which is a participant in the Quincy School Community Partnership.

FOOD PRICES are checked by, left to right, Bianca Pereira, Veralis Parilla and Vicky To, fifth graders at the Point Webster Middle School, on a learning visit to Roche Brothers Supermarket.

"I has to be something different," said Baxter. "It has to be something that supports the school's curriculum and that the children enjoy, and future Point Webster fifth graders will want to participate in this experience."

The students were accompanied on their visit by teachers Lorie Hammerstrom, Julianne Hickey, Sheila Driscoll and Meghan Sullivan.

The visit was the subject of a discussion that night at a PTO meeting by Principal James McGuire and the parents.

"He reminded them that a school is not just a building but the people in it and a child's education is all the experiences they encounter during their school years.

Roche Receipts To Benefit NQHS Senior Stay-Out

Roche Brothers Supermarket plans to donate 5 per cent of the total cash register receipts collected between the hours of 5 and 8 p.m., on Thursday, Feb. 2, to the North Quincy High School Senior Stay-Out.

Volunteers from the NQHS Senior Stay-Out Committee will be on hand at the store, 101 Falls Boulevard, Quincy, on that day and time to collect receipts from shoppers.

Gift certificates purchased during the fundraiser will also be credited to NQHS Senior Stay-Out, a party that is held annually after the spring prom.

Scott Campbell Sworn In As State Deputy Treasurer

Scott Campbell of Quincy will be sworn in today (Thursday) as deputy state treasurer to oversee the Information Technology and Financial Education Department and the Massachusetts School Building Authority.

Campbell, a lifelong Quincy resident, has worked with Treasurer Tim Cahill since 2001, serving as campaign director in the election of 2002 and joining the Cahill administration in 2003.

He served as Director of Operations as well as the treasurer's representative on the Board of Banks and the Emergency Finance Board and oversaw the Deferred Compensation Department.

Prior to joining the state government, Campbell spent six years in the telecommunications industry.

He is a graduate of Quincy College and is studying for a degree at the University of Massachusetts. He lives with his wife, Julie, and their daughter, Caroline, in Quincy, where he is active as a youth football coach.

Winter On-Street Parking Regulations

The Public Works Department reminds residents of regulations for parking on streets this winter:

• Overnight parking is prohibited without a residential parking permit which is available from the Police Department (617-479-1212).

• Resident parking permits are void during snow emergencies.

• Parking on a snow emergency artery during a snow emergency is prohibited. All main streets in the city are posted with signs identifying them as emergency arteries.

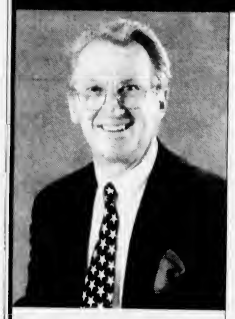
• This year, parking is allowed during a snow emergency on the odd-numbered side of non-emergency streets.

• Your car will be towed if it is in violation of these winter parking rules. The average tow and storage fee is $100.

If bad weather is expected, call 770-SNOW or listen to WJDA 1300 or to television to learn if there is a snow emergency. WJDA will have snow emergency updates.

If you have problems or questions related to snow removal, call the snow hotline: 617-376-1943.

Friendly Visitors Sought At COA



The Quincy Council on Aging is seeking volunteers to call on the elderly who live alone and would welcome a friendly visitor.

The COA is also seeking seniors who live alone and would like a friendly visit themselves.

Call the COA at 617-376-1508 and ask to speak with the friendly visitor coordinator.

The Council is mandated by law to do background checks on all volunteers.

Steffanie Roche Graduates Air Force Military Training

STEFFANIE ROCHE

Air Force Airman Steffanie A. Roche has graduated from basic military training at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas.

During the six weeks of training, the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization, and military customs and courtesies; performed drill and ceremony marches, and received physical training, rifle marksmanship, field training exercises, and special training in human relations.

In addition, airmen who complete basic training earn credits toward an associate degree through the Community College of the Air Force.

Roche is the daughter of Dennis and Kimberly Roche of Yardarm Lane, Quincy.

She is a 2002 graduate of Quincy High School.

USS Salem Volunteer Open House Feb. 12

The USS Salem will host its annual volunteer open house Sunday, Feb. 12, from 12 noon to 2 p.m. on board the ship, berthed at 739 Washington St. by the Fore River Bridge.

The volunteers, who handle many of the chores in the Salem's museums, are recognized each year with an open house, which includes tours of the ship and other activities.

"Our volunteers are the life's blood of the ship," said Michael Condon, the executive director of the ship, which recently received a new 10-year lease from the MBTA.

The 716-foot retired heavy cruiser has just celebrated the 10th anniversary of its return to Quincy, where it was built 60 years ago, and the establishment of the U.S. Navy Shipbuilding Museum

"We are fortunate to have so many wonderful people donate their time to preserving our shipbuilding heritage," said Condon.

"Things are pretty busy around here in the spring, summer and fall so we try to recruit new volunteers in the winter months so they can figure out what interests them and still have time to be trained before we get really busy."

Anyone interested in volunteering in any capacity should call the Salem at 617-479-7900 or visit www.usssalem.org.

Volunteer opportunities include jobs as tour guides, ship's restoration personnel, fund-raising and special events.

Emblem Club To Meet Feb. 8

The Quincy Emblem Club will meet Wednesday, Feb. 8, at 7 p.m. in the Elks Lodge, 254 Quarry St., Quincy.

Deli Style Restaurant For Quincy Center

The License Board granted a common victualer license to Kevin Worley, who will now manage the new Heritage Cafe, 1429 Hancock St. the former Wanna Bagel.

The new restaurant, under the Lighthouse Food, LLC., will be open from 6 a.m. to 8 p.m. and have six tables .

Atty. Robert Dolbec said the restaurant will be a deli syle with sandwiches, bagels and open for breakfast, lunch and dinner with meals to go.

Dolbec said the meals will range from lazagna to various other pasta dishes.

Chairman Joseph Shea read a letter of approval from Ward 5 Councilor Doug Gutro.

Registration At Library For Children's Programs

Registrations for three different programs for children will begin Monday, Feb. 6, at 9 a.m. at the Thomas Crane Public Library, 40 Washington St.

Mad Science of Greater Boston will present "Mad Messages" Saturday, Feb. 18, at 10 a.m. for Quincy residents ages 7 and older and 11:15 a.m. for ages 4-6.

Youngsters will learn how to send messages using special codes and the use of observational skills to solve the mystery in special messages and secret formulas.

The program is sponsored by the Friends of the Thomnas Crane Public Library.

Whodunit?, a "Quincy Reads Together: Mystery by the Book" program will be held Wednesday, Feb. 22, at 10 a.m. for Quincy residents ages 6-9 and 11 a.m. for ages 10-13.

The program explores techniques used by crime scene investigators, such as observational skills, logic, biology and chemistry to determine the culprit in a crime.

The Quincy Reads Together program is sponsored by the Bill Flynn Foundation.

Barn Babies, featuring some 20 baby animals to pet and learn about, will be held Saturday, Feb. 25, at 9:30, 10, 10:30 and 11 a.m.

The program is for families with very young children up to 5 years old.

Five sessions have been scheduled to give each child an opportunity to handle the animals, which include a diapered goat, a potbellied pig, and lots of bunnies, chicks, puppies and kittens.

Each child may register for one session only and must be a Quincy resident.

The program is sponsored by the Friends of the Thomas Crane Public Library.

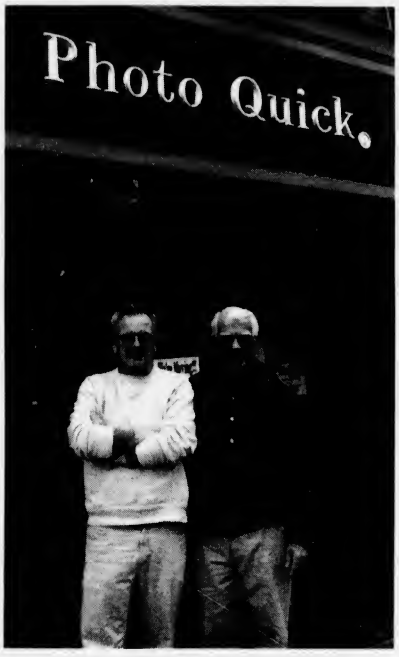
By TOM HENSHAW

"We were the first to open," said Bill Fitzgerald.

"And the last to stay," added Glenn Caterer.

With that, the partners closed the door Tuesday for the final time on their Photo Quick store at 1263 Hancock St., the last of the "mom and pop" one-hour photo finishing shops in Quincy.

They were, they agree, victims of the rising cost of processing equipment and the new-fangled digital photo craze in which a photographer can process his pictures in minutes on his home computer.



Their 24-year partnership dissolved, Caterer, 58, is moving upstairs to smaller quarters on the second floor of 1259 Hancock Street to continue with such tasks as restoring old pictures and transferring film to video.

Fitzgerald, 70, is going home to South Boston "to play with my three grandchildren."

Both Fitzgerald and Caterer swear that its was the coming of Proposition 2 1/2 that was responsible for their business venture.

Both were teachers in the Boston public school system when the measure was passed that slashed municipal budgets drastically.

"Teachers were getting laid off all the time," said Caterer, who taught in the system for 35 years before his retirement in 2005. Fitzgerald retired in 1985 after 18 years.

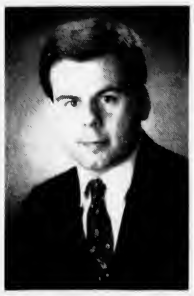
GLENN CATERER and BILL FITZGERALD
First to open, last to go.
Quincy Sun Photo/Robert Bosworth

"We started looking into getting our own business," said Caterer. "Since I lived in South Weymouth and Bill lived in South Boston, we looked for something in the middle ground, like Quincy.

About this time, Photo Quick, then a nationwide franchise, went bankrupt and their shop in Quincy became available. It was the right place at the right time for Fitzgerald and Caterer, who had a home darkroom of his own.

"Photo finishing was a six-hour job then — in by 10, out by 4," said Caterer. "We were just starting as one-hour processing was coming in."

"We were the first in Quincy," said Glenn Caterer.



"And the last to go," added Bill Fitzgerald.

Mass. Energy Head To Speak At Montclair/Wollaston Assn.

Larry Chretien, former Quincy city councillor, now executive director of Mass Energy, will be a guest speaker at the Montclair/Wollaston Neighborhood Association Consumer Alliance meeting on Thursday, Feb. 2.

The meeting will take place at 7:30 p.m. at the Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd, the corner at Harvard and West Squantum Sts.

Mass Energy is a non-profit organization with the mission of making energy affordable and environmentally sustainable. Along with being an advocate for pro-consumer, pro-environment energy policy, Mass Energy operates buyer's groups fro discount heating oil and renewable energy, serving about 15,000 households in Massachusetts and Rhode Island.

LARRY CHRETIEN

Chretien will speak about rising energy prices and the impact of energy on our economy, public health, national security, and environment.

For more information about Mass Energy, visit www.massenergy.com.

Eastern Nazarene College Choral Union Seeks Members To Sing Mozart's Requiem

The Eastern Nazarene College Choral Union, a 60-voice mixed choir comprised of students and community members, is seeking new members to join the group for the spring semester.

Rev. William English, the only priest now serving three parishes (Our Lady of Good Counsel in Merrymount, St. Boniface in Germantown and Most Blessed Sacrament in Houghs Neck) with the ease and sense of togetherness. "Fr. English has successfully brought together a new parish community under the new name of Holy Trinity Parish. This was accomplished due to his tremendous Catholic faith and his faith in people, along with his wonderful Irish wit and humor." Nominated by Carol Lee Wilson.

Daniel J. Flynn for spearheading the drive to raise $1 million for the victims of Hurricane Katrina and many charitable events. Nominated by Stephen DesRoche.

P.J. Foley -- "He has proven what one man can do to change the environment of Quincy. His work has been recognized by city, state and federal officials. His work has made Quincy better for all of us." Nominated by Patrick F. Joyce, Jr.

Tom Galvin – "After a business career spanning many decades here in Quincy, Tom now spends his retirement as a constant promoter of Quincy, in business groups, through historical presentations, and via political involvements." Nominated by Greg Robertson.

John Gillis, who has a "compassion and concern for others that is rivaled by very few individuals. He has done so much for the City of Quincy and its residents over the years. John is a humble person who makes you smile. Nominated by William O'Donnell.

Sean Hannon, Quincy Outback Restaurant, who donates food, barbecue equipment and staff to many free events for the children and citizens of Quincy. Nominated by Jim Flahive, Quincy Police Student Academy.

The Rev. William C. Harding, III, pastor of Bethany Congregational Church and a chaplain in the U.S. Army who is on deployment to Iraq. "He is a good citizen in every aspect of his life – his family, his friends, his church, the Quincy community, the United States and the world." Nominated by Jean Ann Phinney.

Nicholas Leone, who after being nearly killed by a repeat drunk driver, went to the State House and told his story to senators, representatives, the governor and lieutenant governor urging passage of Melanie's Law. "When he did this, not only did he keep his city safe, but all Massachusetts citizens." "Maybe ne could even be considered for a junior Citizen of the Year Award where he is only 10 years old." Nominated by Christine Leone.

Jennifer Logue, the (former) director of the Discover Quincy (tourism) is having the moveable Vietnam Wall brought to Quincy in June 2006. Nominated by Leonard Morris.

Theresa Lord-Piatelli, Esq., for the outstanding work she has done to resolve the long-standing problems which have negatively impacted the reputation of Quincy College. She is a 'profile in courage.' Nominated by the "grateful friends of Quincy College."

John (Butch) Mahoney, for all the great work he has done for the veterans of Quincy: World War II, Korea and Vietnam. He also accomplished much while working for the Quincy school system. Nominated by James F. Walsh.

Frank McCauley for his outstanding duty and dedication to Quincy, Massachusetts and the United States. He is a wonderful man and friend. (McCauley received the award for 2004). Nominated by Christopher Carroll.

John Mezzetti, owner and operator of O'Lindy's Bowling Alley, for his business commitment to youth, through his patience, kindness and dedication to the O'Lindy's Junior All Star bowling league. "These children not only learn the art of bowling, but also develop life skills . . . he never stops doing for the kids." Nominated by Robin Ciccone.

James J. Morgan, a letter carrier in Quincy for 32 years and retired last August. "He has aided and assisted the homeless with winter coats and eye glasses and has also started the Quincy Letter Carrier food drive and has saved senior citizens lives. Nominated by Kevin Wilson.

Vin Moscardelli, for his work with the Quincy High School 1950s Alumni Fund Committee. Vin is secretary of the group that provides scholarships for QHS graduates and raises funds for other worthy causes including $20,000 to help the family of a person who has been in a coma since being hit by a car seven years ago. The committee has also bonded with North Quincy High School in special events. Nominated by Marty Finnegan.

Gloria Noble - "She has dedicated her life to making the City of Quincy a better place to live. Both she and her husband, Bob, have volunteered countless hours." Nominated by Mary Weafer.

Margaret (Peggy) O'Connor, known affectionately as the "Mayor of Houghs Neck" because "if you needed something done, Peggy was always called on and usually the first person to volunteer her assistance and get the job done behind the scenes." She is very involved in the Houghs Neck Community Council and is also a volunteer for the Meals on Wheels and a communicant of Most Blessed Sacrament Church. Nominated by Don Uvanitte.

Heikki Pakkala for his dedicated service to his community and country while serving with the Massachusetts Army National Guard. He recently returned to Quincy after completing a 15-month deployment with the 1-102nd FA. He received the Joint Service Commendation Medal for his outstanding performance as the Movement Control NCO in support of coalition troops at FOB Abu Ghraib. Nominated by Marc Connolly.

Henry's Root Beer Stand Coming To Quincy

By MARIE D'OLIMPIO

In about four months, you will be able to enjoy freshly made root beer and enjoy a lobster roll, hamburger or a hot dog when Henry's Root Beer Stand opens on Newport Ave.

The License Board Tuesday issued a common victualer license to owners William and Kim Palmer. They also own a stand in Cohasset and one in Taunton.

Atty. Michael Hanley told the board that the Newport Ave. site is the former Zoot's Cleaners and had been a bank before that. It is located across from the Super Stop & Shop.

Henry's has been featured on The Phantom Gourmet three times as a "hidden jewel" and as having the best drink in 2005.

Henry's was also on Channel 5 Chronicle as "one of the best eight places to get a hamburger."

When they purchased the stand in Taunton, the owner before them had been there since the 1940's and sold it to the Palmers six years ago. Last year they opened the Cohasset stand right off the center of Cohasset Village.

They won the Reader's Choice Award in the Taunton Daily Gazette for the best hamburger and was runner up for the best ice cream.

One abutter, Howard Crowley said his concerns were the traffic at 68-84 Newport Ave. and asked if there was adequate parking.

Palmer said he hoped to be able to seat 60 patrons, but if the parking is a problem, he would decrease the number of tables.

Chairman Joseph Shea said a few years back a Dunkin Donuts was refused a license because of the drive-through and the traffic if would incur.

However, he said this concept is different in that the Palmers are not seeking a drive-through.

Shea read a petition with 60 persons voting in favor of the stand.

Palmer said he will present a clean and modern facility and be an "asset to the community."

Shea also read a letter from Paul DelGreco, president of the Wollaston-Montclair Association. He said he favored the stand only if there was not a drive-through.

Ward 3 Councillor Kevin Coughlin sent a letter stating that although he wished the space could be utilized by a law office, then suggested that there would be a right turn only sign after exiting the restaurant.

Police Chief Robert Crowley asked the owner to have a sign posted to say" No Left Turn."

The Palmers said they were going to employ about 35 people, mostly high school students to work at the stand. Four of their children now work at the stands plus many nieces and nephews. They said they expect more than 200 patrons a day.

They said they make root beer every day and will sell all kinds of sandwiches, salads in addition to the hamburgers, hot dogs and lobster rolls.

They will also serve ice cream, shakes and other soft drinks.

They will be open seven days a week from 11 a.m. to 11 p.m., and hope to be open by mid May.

Black History Month To Be Celebrated In Germantown Feb. 16

The Germantown Neighborhood Center will celebrate Black History Month with an evening of African-American culture and crafts Thursday, Feb. 16, from 6 to 8 p.m. at the Center, 333 Palmer St.

Families are invited to bring their favorite dishes for a potluck dinner. There will also be poetry, dance, food, raffles and crafts with an African flavor. Proceeds will go to the Christina Transtamar Scholarship Fund.

Persons needing transportation or who would like to reserve a seat on the van should call 617-376-1384.

Quincy Police H.E.L.P. Program

The Quincy Police Department has established an innovative program available to citizens of any age who may have a tendency to wander from their home, community program or medical facility in Quincy.

Possible reasons for wandering are Alzheimer's disease, dementia and autism. The program is also available to those with other medical issues as well as the mentally challenged.

The purpose of the program is to assist the police and other emergency personnel in locating and returning these citizens home safely.

The H.E.L.P. program is free and it is simple to register. An officer will set up an appointment with the individual to take a digital photo and then complete the application. Each individual will receive a gray rubber bracelet with the inscription "H.E.L.P. 617-479-1212."

With this information, the police department could locate the missing person quicker by distributing the individual's picture and information to patrol officers and emergency personnel.

Ideally, a citizen, recognizing that an individual is having a problem and locates the bracelet, would call the Quincy Police. Officers will be able to cross-reference the information and safely return the individual to their home or medical facility.

To set up an appointment, contact either Lt. Dan Minton at 617-745-5719 or Carol Flynn at 617-745-5700.

A Job Well Done

By LT. DAN MINTON
Quincy Police Crime Prevention Officer

On Jan. 16, at approximately 3:25 p.m., Officer Joseph McGunigle was dispatched to 17 Greenleaf St., an apartment complex, for a "Robbery in Progress" call.

LT. DAN MINTON

As Officer McGunigle neared the address, dispatch informed him the suspect vehicle, a green Explorer, with three occupants, just left the area headed east. Officer McGunigle immediately headed towards the quickest exit from the city — Quincy Shore Drive, where he caught up to the suspect vehicle.

The driver, accompanied by two passengers, said he was coming from Hingham, then recanted by saying Quincy Center. During this time, other officers arrived at the scene of the crime and interviewed the victims.

The female tenant (victim #1) said she and her boyfriend (victim #2) were at home waiting for his friend, Randy, to pick him up. After buzzing Randy through the outer door, there was a knock on the partially opened apartment door, followed by a hard push of the door that struck victim #1.

Suspect #1 entered the apartment first wearing a hoodie covering his face, followed by suspect #2 wearing a black ski mask with eyeholes cut out. Since neither masked suspect appeared to be the expected friend, the female tenant (victim #1) nervously asked what they wanted. Suspect #1 said, "Give me the money. Where's the safe? Give me the money."

At this point, the boyfriend (victim #2) entered the room. Both suspects had their hands inside their coats appearing to be holding a concealed weapon. Victim #1 pulled out her cell phone and called "911."

The suspects then walked out of the apartment into the hall where suspect #2 started to take off his mask. Victim #1, who had walked to the hallway while on the cell phone, observed suspect #2's uncovered face. Suspect #2 then put the mask back on and they fled out of the building, followed by victim #2, who was also on the cell phone to the police.

Victim #2 then watched as the two suspects got into a green Explorer, which was owned and operated by his friend Randy. As the vehicle sped away, victim #2 gave the police the partial plate and direction of travel.

Officer Mark Millane assisted Officer McGunigle in searching the suspect vehicle. He found a gray hoodie in the back seat where suspect #2 was sitting. Officer James Sullivan retraced the possible paths of the suspect vehicle and found the black ski mask with the eyes cut out on Southern Artery.

The three suspects were transported back to the scene of the crime and the victims identified them: one as the friend, one by face because he briefly took off his mask and the third suspect by clothing and association. They were placed under arrest on charges of "Unarmed Robbery" and the vehicle was towed away.

Suspect #1 is a 25-year-old male from Hingham. Suspect #2 is a 31-year-old male from Weymouth and Randy, the third suspect, is a 33-year-old male from Hingham. Usually the story ends here, but not in this case!

Less than eight hours later, victim #2, the male party, came to the police station to report suspect Randy called him and said, "If you show up in court tomorrow, I'm gonna have your legs broken."

The victim said he received three consecutive calls at 10:15 p.m. from Randy. The victim was advised that additional charges of "Intimidating a Witness" and "Threats to Commit a Crime" would be filed against the suspect in the form of a warrant because he had already been released on bail.

Sergeant Duggan reviewed the arrest sheet and noted Randy had a cell phone number so he called him to let him know that he could come to the station to pick up his towed vehicle. Randy said he would be "down right away" and when he entered the lobby of the station, Officer Denis Keenan was there to arrest him on the new charges. Nice work!

Something Special For Your Valentine!

Hot Jewelry Trends For Valentine's Day

(NU) While this season's fashions are slim and feminine, jewelry has gone clunkier, chunkier and even a little retro.

Everything from a winter sweater to a little black dress can shine with the help of a few select pieces. So what can we expect to see at Valentine's Day parties?

According to Ross-Simons Jewelers, long, layered necklaces that hit the waist are a must. Also big are those that can be wrapped around numerous times at varying lengths so that the same necklace can be used for different looks at different times of the day.

Likewise, beads are back and bigger than ever, the jeweler says. You can wrap your neck or wrist in stunning strands and create an eye-catching accent.

Here are some other trends that can be expected for Valentine's Day:

• Green in all shades, especially olive. Yellow gold also is back in vogue.

• Necklaces of different shapes and sizes- worn at the same time. Each "layer" is a different length and of a different type. For example, one necklace might be beaded, another might be longer with charms, and the third might be longer still with a large pendant.

• Cameos that add a level of sophistication to the neutral or natural colors and flowing soft fabrics of this season's clothes. They can serve a dual purpose by acting as pins or pendants.

• Bracelets, oversized and stacked, that mix and match textures and colors. Charm bracelets also are making a comeback from the 1970s. In fact, the more abundant and heavily charmed they are, the better. Layering different charm bracelets on one wrist is another popular look.

• Rings that are big, bold and accented by diamonds. Stackable rings in tri-gold (white, rose and yellow) can be mixed and matched for an individual look.

• Dangling earrings with beads. In a nod to the '80s, these accents are bohemian yet feminine and romantic.

For more information, visit www.ross-simons.com or one of the company's retail stores.

'Art Matters' At Marina Place

Jane Blair will give a presentation on "Art Matters" Monday, Feb. 6, at 2:30 p.m. in the community room at Marina Place Assisted Living Community, 4 Seaport Drive.

Marc Widershein will perform on the violin and piano Tuesday, Feb. 7, at 2:30 p.m. in the living room at Marina Place.

Cornea specialist Dr. Goodman will lead a "Learn & Lunch" seminar on dry eye disease and the aging eye followed by a light lunch Thursday, Feb. 9, at 12 noon.

All events are free and open to the public.

'The Science Of Love' Lecture At Eastern Nazarene

The "world's leading theologian of love" will be at Eastern Nazarene College in time for Valentine's Day.

Author Tom Oord will lecture Tuesday, Feb. 7, at 7 p.m. on the topic of "The Science of Love."

Dr. Oord has published numerous books, including "Science of Love: The Wisdom of Well-Being," and his most recent work "Relational Holiness: Responding to the Call of Love." He has also lectured extensively around the world on the topic of love.

Oord will offer a wide-ranging examination of how new scientific insights are enriching traditional religious understandings of love. In contrast to the often-combative relations between science and religion, Oord will show that the latest cutting edge science provides encouraging support for Christian theology in the area of love.

The lecture will take place in Shrader Hall on ENC's campus. The event is free of cost and open to the public.

Love Letters Workshop Feb. 9

Karen Flood will present a workshop on "Love Letters: First Love, Second Chances & Having the Last Word" for seniors Thursday, Feb. 9, from 1 to 3 p.m. at the Koch Recreational Center, One Merrymount Parkway.

The cost is $5 per person.

Pre-registration is required. Call the office of the Council on Aging at 617-376-1506 to reserve a place.

Free Movie For Seniors

The Council on Aging will show the movie of the month free to seniors on the third Thursday of every month at the River Bay Club, 99 Brackett St.

The movie is provided by West Coast Video at no charge. Refreshments will be provided. Call Ann at 617-376-1506 to reserve a seat.

'City of Presidents' NARFE Meeting Feb. 13

The NARFE "City of Presidents," Chapter will meet Monday, Feb. 13 at 1:30 p.m. at the Torre Dei Passeri Club, 252 Washington St., Quincy.

Guest speaker will be Dr. Joel Chariton, D.P.M. Diplomate, American Board of Podiatric Surgery, whose practice is in Randolph and Quincy.

Refreshments will be served.

Line Dancing For Seniors

The Quincy Council on Aging will hold a line dancing class for seniors every Thursday at 10 a.m. at the Fore River Clubhouse, 16 Nevada Rd., Quincy Point.

Marie's Kitchen

BY MARIE D'OLIMPIO

Valentine's Day Specials

When I was asked to prepare a Valentine's Day recipe, I didn't want to print a heart shaped cake or pink cupcakes. And so when I spoke to two of our daughters on the telephone about it, they each offered great ideas.

The one our daughter Rita gave is one for pink risotto, and is one of the most delicious rice dishes we have ever had: the other recipe from Nancy is one husbands can surprise their wives and prepare the night before, and may serve it to their wives for breakfast in bed? Or if he is an early riser, he can make it in the morning. We had it recently at a brunch and it is fantastic!

Rita's Pink Risotto

1/3 cup finely chopped onion
1 clove garlic
2 tablespoons unsalted butter
2 tablespoon olive oil
1/2 cup white wine
1 1/2 cups Arborio rice (available in all markets)
5 cups hot chicken stock plus 1/4 cup reserve set aside (canned chicken soup if not homemade)
1 bunch beet greens finely chopped
1/3 cup freshly grated parmesan cheese
salt and pepper to taste

On medium heat, sauté the onion and garlic in oil and butter until soft - do not brown.

Add the rice and stir well to coat with the oil and butter. Add the wine and stir for two minutes.

Begin adding the chicken stock one cup at a time, stirring continuously until each addition evaporates slightly and the rice mixture thickens, careful not to burn.

After about 18 minutes or so, test the rice for tenderness (should be al dente). Remove from heat and stir in the beet greens, the parmesan cheese, and the 1/4 cup chicken stock you saved.

Serve the beautiful pink risotto immediately on a white plate with any meat or fish, For that finishing touch, Rita suggests "garnishing the dish with an edible flower for added effect!" How romantic!

Here is the other recipe for the frittata

Nancy's Elegant Frittata

9 eggs
1/2 cup cheddar cheese
6 slices bacon, ham or any breakfast meat
1 pint light cream
6 slices white bread (cut in cubes)
1/4 stick butter (melted)
salt and pepper to taste

Cook the bacon or any other meat and set aside. Beat the eggs real well, add the cheese, cream and the meat together. Add half the cut up bread in the mixture and blend well.

Pour in a greased quiche pan or round pan and top it with the rest of the bread cubes. Drizzle the butter on top just before baking.

Bake in a 350 degree oven for about 40 minutes. It will look like a beautiful soufflé and will only shrink a bit.

Happy Valentine's Day!

PS If you prepare this dish the night before, don't put the reserved bread crumbs or the butter until ready to bake.

Disastrous Honeymoon Proves Lucky After All

(NU) A honeymoon is supposed to be the celebration of a couple's new life together, but Lynn and Steven Curran's honeymoon was more like an episode of "When Animals Attack."

The newlyweds from Chester, MD., had enough close encounters with wild critters to fill the storylines of several "Nature run amok" movies. Because of their beast-plagued honeymoon, the couple recently won the grand prize in Thrifty Car Rental's 10th annual Honeymoon Disasters Contest.

Things started off mundanely enough for the Currans on their trip to Cancun, Mexico: They got the usual sunburns. That's when the couple decided that a moonlit swim in the ocean might be the perfect antidote for their lobster-red skin.

"No one was looking," said Lynn, "so off went the bathing suits." As the skinny-dippers frolicked in the water, it wasn't long before they realized they had company. Soon, the couple found themselves wrapped in the loving arms of a large jellyfish.

"We ran out of the water screaming," said Lynn, "which told everybody on the beach, 'Hey look at the idiots running naked on the beach!'"

The day trip to the zoo was not much better. Swimming through a cavern, the newlyweds took a wrong turn and missed the "closed for repairs" sign. That's when they found themselves in a pool of algae, surrounded by alligators.

"One swam right past me," said Lynn. "we had to climb up a 30-foot ladder to get out of the water, and we were covered in goo." That night, the couple ate dinner and went to bed without speaking to each other.

The next morning, when Steven woke up with a bad case of Montezuma's revenge, Lynn was forced to go snorkeling alone. A first-time snorkeler, she was entranced by the beauty of the underwater landscape. Then, from out of nowhere, she encountered a barracuda and the boat's drivers had to rescue her from her new swimming companion.

Lynn played it safe by swimming in the hotel pool the following day. When she snuck up on her husband to goose him on the backside, however, she soon realized that it wasn't Steven; It was another man wearing identical swimming trunks. The couple later decided to cancel a scuba trip when they found out Steven's "double" would be accompanying them.

"The only thing we did from that point on was sit around and eat," said Lynn. "I gained 10 pounds in one week and came home with a lot to talk about."

For surviving their postnumptial trauma and winning the grand prize in the Honeymoon Disasters Contest, the Currans received roundtrip airfare to a destination of their choice in the continental United States, three night's hotel accommodations, a four-day car rental from Thrifty Car Rental and $500 in spending money.

To enter next year's contest online or to read about other honeymoon disasters, visit www.honeymoondisasters.com or www.thrifty.com

THIS IS A HAMMER

Removing Stain From Wood Table

Q: I have red dye from a candle on my oak end table. I tried the suggestions of toothpaste and a cloth and hot iron, but neither one worked. Is there any way to get rid of the red dye? This is dye and not wax. Thank you! — Gen

A. Believe it or not, rubbing an eraser (the kind on the back of a pencil) along the grain of the wood may remove the dye. However, if the stain has set well, you may have to go with more drastic steps.

A finished/varnished table may need to be stripped and refinished. On an unfinished table, you could try bleaching the stain. Chlorine bleach is effective on dyes (oxalic acid or peroxide bleaches will probably not work in this case). You can try household-strength bleach or make a stronger solution from a swimming-pool bleach called calcium hypochlorite, which is sold dry at pool-supply stores. Mix it with a small amount of water to make a saturated solution.

The bleaching process may take a couple of applications or more. Dab the bleach directly onto the stain and let it sit for a few minutes, then blot it up and check how much the stain has lightened. You may need to lengthen the amount of time the bleach sits on the stain from a few minutes to as long as overnight. Each case is different, however, so proceed carefully.

The stain may bleach completely away, but not always — and you must consider that the wood in the stain area needs to stay close to the same color as the surrounding wood. So, if a full day's bleaching only lightens the stain a bit, go ahead and clean the area with a damp cloth, let it dry thoroughly, and sand the surface with fine-grit sandpaper, which may take a bit more of the stain out.

You might attempt another bleaching session to try and finish removing the stain. Follow the same steps and sand at the end.

To minimize future damage from dyes or other spills, treat the unfinished wood with linseed oil.

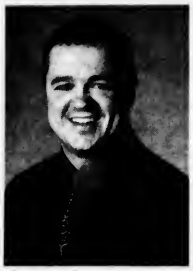
Mary Collins, Richard McLaughlin Top Agents At Century 21 Annex Realty

Realtors Mary Collins and Richard McLaughlin were recently recognized as the top selling sales agents for 2005 at Century 21 Annex Realty, Inc. in the company's Quincy and Hanover offices respectively, announces Broker/Owner Art Foley.



The distinction is awarded based on the agent's ability to provide superior sales throughout the South Shore and greater Boston area.

Additionally, Century 21 Annex Realty announces the top-selling agents for the fourth quarter of 2005. This award is based on the total number of successful transactions an agent closes each month.

The following agents achieved winning sales figures for October through December:

MARY COLLINS

RICHARD McLAUGHLIN

October: Mary Collins (Quincy office) and Kathy Burke (Hanover office) led their offices in sales transactions.

November: Kathy Burke and Richard McLaughlin (Hanover office) and John Heaney (Quincy office) were honored for superior sales in November.

December: Ged Phelan (Quincy office) and Eric Sugrue (Hanover office) were recognized for outstanding sales performance in December.

"Mary, Richard and all our fourth quarter top producers show consistently high sales figures. Their combined knowledge of the greater Boston real estate industry and their superior client service paid off for everyone: the company, the Realtors and especially our clients," Foley said.

Century 21 Annex Realty, Inc., has offered comprehensive real estate services to the South Shore since 1978. A staff of more than 50 professional Realtors serve the South Shore community.

For more information about Century 21 Annex Realty, Inc., or its services, including sales, rentals, appraisals, property management, continuing education programs and free notary services, call the Quincy office at 617-472-4330 or toll-free 800-345-4614, the Hanover office at 781-829-4210 or toll-free 800-207-8647 or log on to www.C21Annex.com.

Computer Seminar At Norfolk Registry Feb. 16

Register of Deeds William P. O'Donnell will host an informational seminar on computer assisted land records research at the Registry of Deeds in Dedham Thursday, Feb. 16 from 4:30 to 5:30 p.m.

The seminar is intended for both real estate professionals and the public.

The program will include a brief presentation (at 4:30 and again at 5 p.m.), written reference materials, and hands-on exercises.

There will be opportunities for both basic and advanced questions and answers.

Computer assisted land records research is available both at the Registry and on the Internet at www.norfolkdeeds.org.

"These services have proven valuable tools for our customers," O'Donnell said, "and we hope that this seminar will be helpful and informative."

There is no charge for the seminar, but persons planning to attend are asked to register by phone (781-461-6116) or email (registerodonnell@norfolkdeeds.org).

The Registry of Deeds, located at 649 High St., Dedham, is the principal office for real property in Norfolk County. The Registry receives and records hundreds of thousands of documents each year and is a basic resource for homeowners, title examiners, mortgage lenders, municipalities and others with a need for secure, accurate and accessible land record information.

For more information visit www.norfolkdeeds.org or call 781-461-6116.

Easy Ideas To Update Your Home Decor

(NAPS) Every year, homeowners spend an average of nearly $4,000 on a new decor for their homes. From elaborate whole-room furniture ensembles to simple decorative accents, these important details make a big impact on the overall look and feel of a room. In fact, most American homeowners believe decor is what makes a house a home.

Unfortunately, keeping up with new trends and style directions on a yearly basis can be a costly venture. That's why, before you throw out things that were trendy yesterday, you should see if they can be quickly updated for tomorrow.

Personalization is another reason to revamp existing pieces before buying new. There are many great home products available today in different styles, colors and materials. Updating an item is a good way to make it more unique, a true personal design statement that sets you and your piece apart from your neighbors'.

Here are some quick and easy projects that can be accomplished in a matter of hours and a few coats of paint:

• Oversized mirrors that sit on the floor have become staples in modern homes. Reinvent any basic shape or style, no matter what the material, by spray painting the frame with stripes of alternating colors of an attention-grabbing hue. For even more graphic appeal, stencil an interesting geometric pattern, a whimsical saying or an inspirational quote directly onto the mirror surface using a specialty Frosted Glass spray paint.

• Floating shelves are all the rage. While these typically come in standard colors, such as white, dark brown and black, the trend in 2006 is expected to be spray painting a pair in an unexpected texture to give weight and substance to these otherwise airy accents. An alternate design idea is to add character to a shelving unit with a weathered, distressed or crackle finish.

• Small collections of black-and-white photography grouped together and framed in matching neutral-toned frames, or in all black, are definitely "in." For 2006, keep the timeless look but update it by simply showcasing the photos in frames all spray painted the same bold color, varying the intensity from light to dark tones. Another idea is to spray paint each frame with an antique finish to add even more warmth to the photography.

• Sophisticated backless benches in different sizes, shapes and materials are showing up everywhere in the home-in living rooms as extra seating, as replacements for traditional chairs in dining rooms and as storage at the foot of many beds. Give these chic furnishings a new look for 2006 by spray painting the legs and bases different color and adding a personal, artistic touch with small, hand painted details, such as flowers for a bench in the hallway, the name of herbs for a piece in the dining room or kitchen, and whimsical group of different-sized "Z's" in the bedroom. New American Accents Paint Pens from Rust-Oleum make adding these details fun and easy.

• Organizers of all kinds, from bins to boards, are big on the home front. In 2006, make these utilitarian pieces a lot bigger. Take a cool new approach to organization by transforming an entire wall into a giant message and memory board-innovative paint technologies, such as Rust Oleum's exclusive Magnetic Paint, make this possible.

Neighborhood Housing Homebuyer Workshop Begins Feb. 21

Neighborhood Housing Services of the SouthShore, in conjunction with Brockton Housing Partnership, will host a First Time Homebuyer Workshop Tuesday, Feb. 21 from 6 to 8 p.m., and Saturday, Feb. 25 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Rockland Trust, 100 Belmont St., Brockton.

Arrive at 8:45 a.m. on Saturday for coffee and registration.

Attendance at both workshops is mandatory to receive a homebuying certificate.

All potential first time homebuyers are encouraged to attend the educational workshop. Participants will have an opportunity to be pre-qualified by a lender.

Topics covered include mortgage options, legal aspects of the home buying process, how a home inspection works, and other presentations from real estate related professionals.

Participants must complete the workshop to qualify for grant programs.

There is a $15 fee per person. Breakfast and lunch will be provided.

For more information, call 617-770-2227 ext. 31.

Think Of Insulation When Rebuilding Weather-Damaged Homes

(NAPS) As homeowners clean up after storms, it's important to remember that the decisions you make today will last the life of your home. Now is the time to make your home as energy-efficient as possible.

While you may not often think about insulation, repairing or rebuilding after storms gives you the chance to increase the energy efficiency of your home dramatically. Even a home built as few as 10 years ago probably has much less insulation than today's minimum code requires. Insulation provides numerous benefits including energy conservation, increased comfort and better sound control.

"When rebuilding after storms, it's wise to think about all the benefits insulation provides. Don't just add the bare minimum required by the local code. Remember, the greater the R-value, the greater the insulating power," says Ken Mentzer, president and CEO of the North American Insulation Manufacturers Association (NAIMA). "Take advantage of the opportunity to make your home more comfortable and more energy efficient."

Wet Insulation

Homeowners in storm-ravaged areas may have wet insulation. All insulation that has been wetted as the result of rising flood waters should be removed and replaced since the water may be contaminated, say experts at the American Red Cross and Federal Emergency Management Administration.

However, if fiber glass batt insulation is wet from a clean water source, such as a potable water pipe, it can be removed, dried out and reused. All lose fill insulations that become wet should be removed and replaced, since they can lose their insulating properties or B-value when wet.

Insulation Pays

Your state or local utility may offer tax incentives or rebates for increasing the energy efficiency of your home with thermal insulation. NAIMA's Web site offers links to these programs at www.SimplyInsulate.com.

Insulation is an investment that pays for itself many times over. The initial costs to install insulation are typically recouped in the first 3 to 7 years depending on how much you already have and how much more you add. Fiber-glass insulation continues to save energy and lower bills for the life of your home. Savings may vary. Find out more in the seller's fact sheet.

Adding Insulation

Most homeowners will benefit from adding an R-30 to their existing insulation. For new construction, most homes need an R-38 or R-49. Check out NAIMA's recommendations at www.SimplyInsulate.com. Homeowners will also find numerous free resources to help them make informed insulation choices.

Food Ideas

Certain fresh foods, such as citrus fruits, provide essential nutrients that can help fight disease and help meet dietary needs.

Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) The week continues to encourage the forming of new personal relationships and the shoring up of those that might be weakening. New contacts also dominate the workaday world.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) While the bold Bovine might want to move quickly to deal with sudden plan changes, it might be best to wait until you can come up with some solid facts behind the unexpected turn of events.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) It's a good week to consider how you'll move on matters both personal and professional. In either case, the more you know about them, the more likely it is that you'll make the right decisions.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Although you might find more colleagues ready to support your plans, some of them could ask for changes you don't approve of. Be ready to defend your position if necessary.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) This is a good time for Leos and Leonas to think about opportunities that might be outside your usual interests. You could be surprised to find something well worth your consideration.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) You can turn a troublesome workplace issue to your advantage by prompting that Virgo penchant for preciseness to take over where all else has failed. An old friend makes contact.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) A friend's unexpected work-related news could be a wake-up call to get you to reassess your position. See if you need to make changes to strengthen your position at this time.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) You might want to review a decision to work alone on a project. You might see it as efficient and prudent, but some might see it as unnecessary secretiveness, even for a Scorpio.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Don't be put off by a lukewarm response to a recent effort. Perhaps you didn't present a strong enough argument. Rebuild your case with more facts, and try again. Good luck.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) A surprise development in the early part of the week could be linked to an ongoing situation. Before you decide to take further action, consider calling for a group discussion.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Your sensitive side helps you work through an emotionally difficult situation with a minimum of bruised feelings all around. A welcome change blows in by the week's end.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) While the week still favors new pursuits, some things from the past also make a claim for your attention. The weekend is open for good times with some of the people closest to you.

BORN THIS WEEK: You have a wonderful gift for seeing the best in people.

At Quincy Medical Center

Sleep Disorder Center Brings Restful Nights

Do you feel excessively tired all day, yet can't seem to fall asleep at night?

Have loved ones commented that you snore loudly and, at times, stop breathing during sleep?

The new Quincy Medical Center Sleep Disorders Center is designed to evaluate, analyze, and treat the range of sleep disorders that prevent many South Shore residents from getting a good night's sleep.

The Center utilizes state-the-art recording equipment to monitor brain wave activity, breathing movements, oxygen levels, heart rhythm, eye movements and body activity helping order to assist in the diagnosis and, subsequent, development of a treatment plan for complex sleep disorders including sleep apnea, insomnia, restless legs syndrome, periodic limb movement disorder, and narcolepsy.

Serving as Medical Director of the QMC Sleep Disorders Center is Sanford Auerbach, MD, a board certified sleep specialist who also is director of the Sleep Disorders Center at Boston Medical Center.

"Sleep is the downtime our brain and body needs to rest, restore and refresh so that we can lead a healthy and productive life," said Dr. Auerbach. "During sleep, hormones and brain chemicals are replaced and balanced. Sleep keeps us sharp, alert, balanced and functioning smoothly."

About 70 million Americans suffer from a sleep problem and nearly 60 percent have a chronic disorder, according to National Institutes of Health research. In the short-term, sleep deprivation can lead to memory loss, mental confusion, morning headaches, irritability, decreased ability to concentrate, and feelings of anxiety and depression.

If untreated, sleep disorders can cause long-term health effects including high blood pressure, heart failure, diabetes, stroke, weakened immune systems, and obesity.

The Quincy Medical Center Sleep Disorders Center's four private rooms are designed to be comfortable and home-like. Patients can control their own sleeping environment, including lighting, temperature, and bed position. Each room has its own private bathroom, and a shower facility is available.

Sleep studies require a physician referral, so talk with your physician if you experience problems related to sleep.

For more information about the Quincy Medical Center Sleep Disorders Center, call 617-376-5710.

Quincy Medical Center (www.quincymc.org) is a 232-bed acute care community-teaching hospital providing South Shore residents with comprehensive medical and surgical services.

The medical center's Alliance for Quality with Boston Medical Center (BMC), formed in 1999, brings academic medicine to the community. At Quincy Medical Center, physicians from Boston Medical Center direct the departments of medicine, surgery, anesthesia, emergency medicine, and psychiatry.

Additionally, physicians from BMC who are board-certified in a range of medical and surgical specialties work with community physicians to ensure the continuity of patient care.

Blood Drive Feb. 6 At Milton Hospital

The American Red Cross will sponsor a blood drive Monday, Feb. 6 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the Nangeroni Center at Milton Hospital, 92 Highland St., just off Route 28.

According to the American Red Cross, someone needs blood in the United States every two seconds. However, only five percent of those eligible donate blood in a given year, and there are no substitutes or alternative sources for blood. Most people have blood to spare, yet there is still not enough to go around.

The American Red Cross' blood donation website, www.givelife.org, notes that blood is needed for emergencies, and for treatment of cancer, blood disorders, sickle cell anemia and other illnesses. Nearly 5 million people depend upon blood transfusions every year.

Appointments can be made by calling 1-800-448-3543, or by visiting www.givelife.org.

For more information, contact the Milton Hospital Public Relations Department at 617-696-4600, extension 1220.

Blood Pressure Clinics Free For Seniors

Weekly blood pressure screenings for elders will be held every Monday from 10 to 11 a.m. at the Council on Aging office, 83 Saratoga St., North Quincy.

Gail Crawford, a registered nurse, will donate her time and talents to assisting senior citizens in having their blood pressure taken weekly.

Appointments can be made but walk-ins also are accepted. For more information, call 617-376-1506.

Exercise Classes For Seniors

The Quincy Council on Aging will hold a safe senior exercise program every Monday and Wednesday at 10 a.m. at the Fore River Clubhouse, 16 Nevada Rd., Quincy Point.

Why Exercise Muscles That Look Good?

Q. I tend to skip exercises for my calves and hamstrings when strength training because I think they look fine and seem to be strong. But a friend says I need to work all of my muscles — even if I am happy with their appearance. Why should I train these muscles if I already like the way they look? Shouldn't I spend more time on the muscle groups that I feel I need to improve?

A. If you are a bodybuilder, then the answer may be yes. However, for the general population, I would have to answer no.

It is not enough to rely just on the appearance of your muscles to determine whether or not they are strong and functioning properly. Muscles that are tight can "appear" to be strong, yet actually be weak. The tightness really indicates the body's contraction of the muscles to compensate for lack of strength and/or stability. Completing a workout that includes the total body within each plane of motion will enable you to keep strong muscles strong and also improve the strength of weaker ones.

Your muscles work together as a team, and as with any successful team, everyone has to work together to win. Each muscle group has a responsibility within the body to perform a certain function. Although each group may work fine independently, if they cannot function efficiently and synergistically with the other muscle groups, your body cannot work to its fullest potential.

When developing a well-balanced workout program, it is important to focus on the muscle groups that are weaker and keep you from moving effectively through their range of motion. But it is equally important to maintain or improve the flexibility, strength and control of all other muscles.

Exercisers often work what they can see and what is noticeable to other people. Since the calves and hamstrings aren't as popular as abdominals, biceps and triceps, they often get neglected. Regardless of the muscle's appearance, it cannot get stronger or remain strong if you are not exercising it.

There is another important factor to consider. Even though we are growing stronger when exercising, this strength also works to stabilize our joints. The more balanced each muscle group is, the more stable your joints can be. For example, strengthening the muscles of your hamstrings will help support your knee joint. Lack of support in that area could potentially lead to future physical issues.

Keep in mind that you want your body to not just look strong, but to actually be strong.

Always consult a physician before beginning an exercise program. Andrea Renee Wyatt, M.S.S., C.S.C.S., is a certified personal trainer with an extensive background in strength and conditioning as well as therapeutic recreation. DENTISTRY for the 21st Century
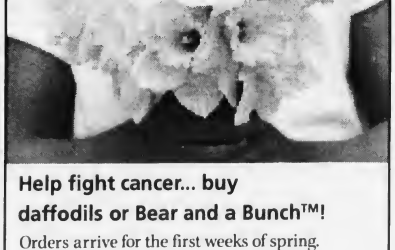
by Steven A. Brustin, D.M.D.
TREATING GUM DISEASE



For most adults, gum disease presents a greater potential than tooth decay for tooth loss. With this in mind, dentists recommend that patients floss daily to remove the bacteria-laded plaque that sticks to teeth. Otherwise, the gums may become swollen and inflamed, which are usually the first indicators of gum problems. Regular professional dental cleaning can help remove built-up plaque that causes this inflammation. Without these regular cleanings, plaque may harden into a substance called tartar (calculus), which requires "scaling" for its removal. This procedure involves using sharp instruments to scrape away tartar deposits below the gumline. In the event that gum disease progresses beyond the ability of scaling to remove tartar, "flap surgery" may be necessary.

With proper care, gum disease can often be prevented. Even if it does start, it can usually be treated and arrested if you catch it in the early stages. We can perform many procedures to enhance your smile, your self-esteem, and your personal success. We invite you to call 617-479-6220 to schedule an appointment for experienced and comprehensive dentistry. We're located at 44 Greenleaf Street, where we provide the very best care with state-of-the-art technology. If you don't have a dentist at this time, we're currently accepting new patients. We offer the services of anesthesiology with a fully trained and qualified anesthesiologist. Visit us on the web at www.quincydentist.com.

P.S. As the name implies, "flap surgery" involves cutting flaps into the gums so that the dentist can reach built-up tartar below the gumline.

North Quincy Tied Up By Archies, 3-3

ICE HOCKEY

By CHRIS POISSON

The North Quincy High School hockey team was just over a minute away from ending a five-game losing skid and winning its first game since Jan. 7.

The Red Raiders were clinging to a 3-2 lead Monday afternoon at Quincy Youth Arena when Archbishop Williams pulled its goalie for an extra attacker before a faceoff in North Quincy's end.

AW (6-4-3) won the faceoff and a player flicked a wrist shot from straight on that found its way through a sea of bodies and past senior goalie Frank Sorrento for the equalizer with 59 seconds remaining.

A hard-fought game North Quincy seemed destined to win quickly turned into a 3-3 stalemate.

"They're disappointed and I love to see that," said head coach Bob Doyle. "They're not taking it as a moral victory; the one point against a Catholic team. They wanted to win and I thought they deserved to win. It was just a solid group effort. They were out there grinding with them, skating with them shift for shift.

"I'm real proud of the guys. We've been reeling with several losses. To go up against an opponent like this without having a hockey game Saturday, I was curious to see what type of team was going to show up.

"I thought we played with a lot of class. We played a real tough game. We skated with one of the premier teams. They're having a good season. Hopefully, it's a step in the right direction for us."

North Quincy (3-7-1 overall, 2-5 Atlantic Coast League) played Plymouth South Wednesday and will travel to Whitman-Hanson Saturday at 2:50 p.m.

Although not officially eliminated from tournament play, the Red Raiders need 13 points in the final nine games if they want to extend their season into March.

"It's kind of an uphill climb," Doyle said. "We learned a valuable lesson that we can play when we want to. We'll see if we can string some wins together. Hopefully it's not too little, too late."

"The bottom line is we're a young team," he added. "I thought we'd come together a little bit quicker. I'm surprised by some of the outcomes. Every night is a dog fight. There were only a couple of games where I thought we didn't show up. Other than that we've competed."

Sorrento played a sensational game between the pipes with 26 saves, several of the spectacular variety. He may have been his best in the second period, turning back 12 shots as North Quincy took a 2-1 lead.

"I can't say enough about my senior captain goaltender," Doyle said. "Sorrento played a phenomenal hockey game. He deserved a much better fate. My heart goes out to him. He played an unbelievable game and then to have that goal scored off the faceoff like that kills him. He feels like the goal was kicked in. I just know that he was screened. There were four or five sets of legs there. The kid made a great shot."

A scoreless opening period, AW struck first with a power-play goal at 5:30 of the second. It remained on the attack for the next several minutes before North Quincy answered in a big way with a pair of goals in a 32-second span.

Freshman forward Brandon Gilmore pocketed a goal in front with juniors Jimmy Fitzpatrick and Ted Finnegan assisting at 9:05 and junior forward Nash Winters potted a partial breakaway goal at 9:37 with senior captain Andrew Donovan and junior forward Josh McKeon assisting.

Sorrento came up with a couple of huge stops early in the third to preserve the 2-1 lead, but AW knocked home the tying goal nearly midway through the period.

At 9:57, Fitzpatrick flipped a pass to Gilmore, who outskated a defender for a breakaway and beat the goalie stick side to put the Red Raiders on top, 3-2.

"He's just an unbelievable player," Doyle said. "He's a freshman and logging a ton of ice time for me. He's scoring big, big goals. He's leading the team right now in points. Him and the Winters kid."

Last Wednesday, North Quincy suffered a stinging 5-4 loss to Nauset at home.

Freshman defenseman Matt Furey tied the game at 4 with two minutes left in the game, but the Warriors tallied the game-winner on a rebound with 56 seconds remaining.

Gilmore, Winters and Finnegan each recorded a goal with an assist. Donovan notched two assists and Fitzpatrick one.

At Least 25 Teams Expected To Compete

Quincy Kiwanis Hockey Tournament Feb. 20-26

At least 25 teams from Greater New England will compete in the 33rd annual Quincy Kiwanis International Youth Hockey Tournament scheduled for Feb. 20-26 at Quincy Youth Arena, 60 Murphy Memorial Drive.

There are five divisions: Mites (ages 8 and under), Squirts (ages 9-10), Pee Wees (ages 11-12), Bantams (ages 13-14) and Girls, just the second time in tourney history girls' teams will participate.

In addition to local teams from Quincy, Braintree, Weymouth and Milton, teams from New England and across the country will also participate.

"The Kiwanis Club of Quincy has sponsored this youth hockey tournament for the past 32 years with all the proceeds being used to support our charities," said Kiwanis President Jean McCarty.

"Every Kiwanis member, past and president, should be congratulated for all the effort they have contributed over the years to make this tournament one of the finest in the area. We look forward to another successful tournament this year and offer a warm, Quincy-style welcome to the players, coaches and parents."

The tourney begins Monday, Feb. 20, and concludes Sunday, Feb. 26, with the championship games. Those seeking more information about schedule or participation may call Michelle Stenberg at Quincy Youth Arena at 617-479-8371.

Quincy Kiwanis is a part of Kiwanis International, a worldwide group that serves a mission that works to improve the quality of life for children and young people around the world.

Marybeth Torpey, Meagan Tobin Chosen For Women In Sports Day

Quincy High School sophomores Marybeth Torpey and Meagan Tobin have been chosen to participate in the Massachusetts celebration of National Girls and Women in Sports Day Friday from 10 a.m. to noon at Faneuil Hall.

Sponsored by New Agenda Northeast, Massachusetts Interscholastic Athletic Association and the National Association for Girls and Women in Sport, the ceremony is held annually to honor female athletes in the Commonwealth.

The athletes were chosen because they're positive, contributing members of both their teams and the school. Torpey plays volleyball, basketball and softball and Tobin plays volleyball and basketball.

Denise Desautels, a former Hingham High School and Springfield College athlete and a member of the 1980 U.S. Olympic Field Hockey Team, is slated to deliver the keynote address.

The MIAA Girls and Women in Sports Committee will present the Massachusetts Women in Athletics Distinguished Service Award to: Donna Brickley, athletic director, Notre Dame Academy; Amy Health, wellness coordinator and coach, Newbury High School; Karen McCarthy, coach, Avon Middle/High School; and Brenda Sullivan, teacher and coach, Maynard High School.

RUN THE AC IN WINTER?

It may seem like absurd advice to recommend that vehicle owners run their air conditioning in the winter. In fact, however, running a vehicle's AC unit may help prolong the life of its most expensive component. The compressor's job is to compress and pressurize the refrigerant. Residing within the compressor are internal gaskets, which, if the AC is not used for long periods of time, may dry and crack. While it may take some time for this deterioration to take place, if it does occur, it can lead to big repair bills. To avert this problem, run the air conditioning in your vehicle at least once a week (even during the winter) to keep the gaskets in good shape.

By simply running the AC, even briefly, at least once a week you can effectively prevent your AC system from breaking down. Consult the ASE Certified mechanics at LEO & WALT'S SUNOCO for even more preventative auto care tips. If you need service, bring your car to 258 Quincy Ave., E. Braintree. We believe that regular maintenance can end up saving you money over the life of your car. To make an appointment, please call 781-843-1550 today. Sunoco and most major credit cards honored. Open Mon.-Fri. 6am-9pm, Sat. 7am-9pm, Sun. 9am-5pm.

HINT: It makes sense to run your vehicle's air conditioning even in the winter to rid the cabin of condensation.

First-Place Presidents Defeat Nauset, Silver Lake

BOYS' BASKETBALL

By CHRIS POISSON

The Quincy High School boys' basketball team can no longer hide behind the "youth" label.

With only one starter back from last year's league championship unit, it was thought the Presidents would need some time to develop before it chases another title.

Well, after sandwiching six-game winning streaks around its only defeat, a one-point loss at Plymouth North, Quincy is the one being chased.

"Now we have the bull's eye out there," said head coach Bob Fisher. "We're not that talented that we can take teams for granted. When we play teams more talented than us, hopefully we'll have more heart."

Quincy (6-1 league), which holds a one-game lead over cross-town rival North Quincy (5-2) in the Atlantic Coast League North Division, played Sandwich Tuesday and will host Plymouth South Friday at 6:30 p.m.

One of the biggest assets Fisher believes his team has going for itself is its approach to practice.

"The beauty of this team is it's a good practice group," Fisher said. "They don't wait for the games to play their best. They play their best at practice. They're committed to practice."

Last week, the Presidents glided to a 66-33 victory at Nauset Tuesday and pulled out a 55-44 win at Silver Lake Thursday.

"Those are two big wins on the road for us," Fisher said.

In the Silver Lake game, Quincy found itself trailing, 15-9, early before it caught fire with an 18-2 run over the final 8:30 of the first half to grab a 27-17 lead at the break.

"Everything was keyed by our defense and we just seemed to get energized," Fisher said.

Junior forward Steve Connolly (eight rebounds) sparked the resurgence, scoring 12 of his 14 points in the first half, including two 3-pointers during the momentum-changing run.

"He was very much responsible for what happened in that stretch," Fisher said.

Senior forward and tri-captain Lovell Johnson netted a game-high 18 points and held one of Silver Lake's leading scorers to only two points.

Senior center and tri-captain Joe Griffin added 12 points and eight rebounds. Senior guard and tri-captain John Orlando and freshman point guard Doug Scott played solid defense.

In the Nauset game, Johnson and Connolly scored 13 points apiece. Sophomore Deshawn Matthews scored nine points and grabbed seven rebounds. Griffin (nine rebounds) and sophomore forward Giovanni Cesare each scored eight.

"The game was never in doubt from the opening tip," Fisher said. "We had a chance to play a lot of kids. Eleven players scored. Once again, our defense led to our victory."

North Quincy Drops One, Rebounds Against Nauset

GIRLS' BASKETBALL

By CHRIS POISSON

The North Quincy High School girls' basketball team remains stuck in its lose-win pattern for another week.

The Red Raiders, who have won consecutive games once this season, dropped a 62-48 decision last Tuesday at Sandwich before crushing Nauset, 46-26, last Friday on the road.

"This is the Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde team," said head coach Doug MacFarlane. "We play well one game and then we don't play well the next game."

That eight-game trend has North Quincy hovering near the .500 mark with a 6-7 overall record (5-2 Atlantic Coast League). It played Dennis-Yarmouth Tuesday and will host Plymouth South next Tuesday, Feb. 7, at 6:30 p.m.

After the long trip to Nauset, the Red Raiders were in control from the get-go as the Warriors committed 33 turnovers against a suffocating defense.

"We pretty much had a double-digit lead most of the game," MacFarlane said. "They were missing some players, a couple of starters. I wasn't impressed with their guard play before that and I thought we could press them all along. They didn't handle it every well."

Sophomore forward Rebecca Goreham tallied a double-double, scoring a team-high 12 points and dishing out 10 assists to go with four steals on the defensive end.

Junior guard Lauren Stille netted 11 points and had five steals. Senior tri-captains Kayla Lenane (forward) and Elyse O'Connell (center) chipped in seven points apiece.

Against Sandwich, the Red Raiders dug themselves an early hole and trailed 35-19 at halftime. They started to play their game in the second half, but ran out of time to complete a comeback.

"We were starting mid-terms the next day so I think the girls were thinking about that instead of basketball in the first half," MacFarlane said. "We started playing better in the second half. We woke up a little bit and played with more intensity. We cut the lead to 10 a couple of times but it was too late."

A big difference in the game came at the foul line. The Blue Knights connected on 14-of-17 attempts in the second half while the Red Raiders hit only 13-of-27 for the game.

"What are you going do?" MacFarlane said. "You just can't stay in games if you can't make free throws. We attack very well but we can't finish it off. It's been a problem all year."

O'Connell scored a team-high 13 points, Lenane registered a double-double with 10 points and 10 rebounds, and Goreham contributed eight points and 11 boards.

Red Raiders 'Rob' Sandwich, Nauset

The Cape teams of the Atlantic Coast League would probably like to charge senior Imad Elkatrib with robbery for last week's performances.

The 5-foot-11-inch guard had six steals in last Tuesday's 64-37 win over Sandwich and swiped nine more in last Friday's 62-33 victory over Nauset, both games at home.

They could also make their case for an additional charge of assault as he poured in 20 points against the Blue Knights and netted 11 against the Warriors, including his seven-point outburst in a minute.

"Thank heavens for Imad Elkatrib," said head coach Jim Rendle following the Nauset game. "Nine steals. That's phenomenal. He's starting to step up and score a little bit more too."

North Quincy (9-5 overall, 5-2 Atlantic Coast League) played Dennis-Yarmouth Tuesday and will host Bridgewater-Raynham Friday at 6:30 p.m.

In the Nauset game, the Red Raiders held an 11-10 lead before outscoring Nauset, 20-5, in the final nine minutes for a 31-15 lead at the break. During that run, Elkatrib scored all 11 of his points which featured consecutive steals for layups.

In the second half, North Quincy opened with a 14-2 run to put the game out of reach and allow the bench to get on the floor for the final 10 minutes.

"They're not a very strong offensive team and we knew that," Rendle said. "They lost one or two of their scorers. But I'm very pleased with our defensive effort. We did a pretty good job on the boards. And it was nice to get a lot of kids some playing time, too. That's very helpful.

The Red Raiders also had one of their better nights at the free-throw line, shooting 17-of-22.

"If we shot that well all year long, we'd have only two losses," Rendle said.

Senior point guard Kyle Costa scored 12 of his game-high 22 points and buried three of his five 3-pointers in the second half.

"They didn't have an answer for him," Rendle said.

Senior center John Murray scored nine points and senior forward Kevin Donovan grabbed seven rebounds. Sophomore Marcellus Lee came off the bench to pull down eight rebounds to go with four points.

Against Sandwich, Elkatrib led the way with Donovan delivering a strong all-around game with 15 points, six rebounds and five steals and Costa adding seven points, eight assists and six rebounds.

"It was another good win and we got a lot of players in," Rendle said. "We let up 37 and 33 points last week, so I'm pleased with the defense. We're still making some adjustments and making some changes. Some things are starting to look better for us. We're continuing to improve. Two 30-point wins, I'll take that."

Quincy Routs Norwell For Fourth Straight Win

By CHRIS POISSON

Norwell would be the first to tell you how far the Quincy High School girls' basketball team has come along in the past month.

The Presidents avenged a 41-34 loss Dec. 27, their worst game of the season, with a 67-36 rout of the Clippers last Thursday night at home to extend their winning streak to four games.

"They were playing without their leading scorer, Katelyn Stravinsky," said head coach Jeff Bretsch. "She's an all-star, 1,000-point scorer, who broke her hand recently. She was a big part of what they do. They had a difficult time without her on the floor.

"But we had a score to settle. The last time we played them I think we played our worst basketball of the year. We were really flat and we weren't happy with our effort. We had a little something to prove. The kids came out with a different defensive intensity than we showed the last time we played."

Quincy (9-3 overall, 5-2 Atlantic Coast League) played Sandwich Tuesday and will host Archbishop Williams today (Thursday) at 5 p.m.

Senior forward Jessica Page continued her sensational play, netting 23 first-half points to help Quincy build a 35-17 lead at the break. The co-captain finished with 33 points and 10 rebounds, despite sitting out the final 8:47 of the game.

"She was just dynamite, right from the beginning," Bretsch said. "She has gotten very good at sensing when she's going to be able to take over. She kind of reads the situation of the defenses.

"She realized that they didn't have a lot of big kids in the lane and she just decided to work down low. And she stepped outside a couple of times and buried threes and they just didn't know how to defend her."

Sophomore point guard Marybeth Torpey also had a memorable game, breaking her own school record with 11 assists while also tossing in 12 points, including two 3-pointers.

"She had a breakout performance," Bretsch said.

Quincy stormed out of the gates for an 18-4 lead in the first nine minutes as Page dominated the paint and the defense stifled the Clippers' offense.

It also jumped out with a 12-2 spurt to begin the second half to dispel any notion of a Norwell comeback. Ahead 47-19 with 10 minutes remaining in the game, the bench gained experience with plenty of time on the court.

Junior forward Hope Collins scored five points and pulled down nine rebounds and sophomore guard Sasha Smith had four points and six rebounds. Junior starting forward Brighid Kyle dished out six assists to go with four steals.

"We had some great efforts off the bench," Bretsch said. "Hope Collins had five boards in the first half in limited minutes. Sasha Smith stepped in and got her first points. Julie Kisielius did a nice job off the bench. She played under control and made some nice passes and nice shots."

Last Tuesday, the Presidents rolled to an easy 56-37 home victory over Nauset despite Page sitting the final 10 minutes of the first half with three fouls.

"We made a big run in her absence," Bretsch said. "That's when Kyle and (sophomore guard Meagan) Tobin stepped up to fill the role of scoring. We extended a three-point lead to 14 in that time.

"It's a good sign for us. You're always afraid how your team is going to react when you lose your go-to player. To see them not miss a beat shows that we're growing and maturing as a team and getting more confident."

Kyle drained 14 points on 7-of-10 shooting, Tobin chipped in 13 and Torpey seven. Page scored 13 of her 16 points in the second half and grabbed 12 rebounds.

WINTER CAR CARE

Flush Out Engine Failure

(NU) Want to avoid getting stranded by an overheated engine? Take a few minutes to perform a few quick cooling system maintenance activities.

Cooling system failure is a leading cause of engine-related breakdowns; however, a simple cooling system flush and fill or top-off can drastically minimize your risk. The task is especially important to perform before the cold weather months hit.

A flush and fill is crucial for your engine because it removes the dirt, dust and sediment that may damage the water pump and clog the engine water jacket and radiator. It takes just minutes to drain, flush and refill the cooling system, and the task can avoid unnecessary headaches in the long run.

"Proper preparation for cold weather ensures that you do not end up in a dangerous situation down the road," said Richard Courtney, director of Prestone Products Research & Development and Technical Services.

Prestone manufactures a formula of antifreeze/coolant that can be used in all makes and models of cars and light trucks and mixes with any color antifreeze/coolant. The universal formula, Prestone Extended Life Antifreeze/Coolant, eliminates confusion by taking the guesswork out of choosing the right product for your vehicle's cooling system.

For drivers who have recently filled their antifreeze reservoirs, the only necessary task to prepare your cooling system for cold weather may be a quick top-off. Motorists looking for the easiest top-off method can benefit from the Prestone 50/50 Pre-diluted Extended Life Antifreeze/Coolant, which can be poured directly into the cooling system for protection in between your regularly scheduled flush and fills.

The Prestone team also recommends that all drivers consult their vehicle owner's manual and follow the manufacturer's recommendations on the proper maintenance procedures and changeover intervals for their vehicle.

"Keeping your cooling system in top condition is vital for both your own personal safety and for the health of your engine," Courtney said. "New antifreeze/coolant will add fresh life to your engine and helps keep you on the road.

For more information on cooling system maintenance, visit www.prestone.com.

Winter Driving Tips

(NAPS) Winter driving can be dangerous. Here are some tips to make it over the river and through the woods safely:

• Speed kills. On ice and snow it's all downhill. Watch for an Advance Warning sign, so you can stop before a railroad crossing.

• Know your braking system. If you have anti-lock brakes, do not pump them, but brake with firm pressure. Otherwise, pumping the brakes as you head into a slide will help you regain control of the car.

Always stop at least 15 feet before a railroad crossing. Be especially careful on icy roads to make sure you will not slide onto the tracks.

• Mind lights and controls at railroad crossings. If they seem to be broken, call the 1-800 number listed at or near the crossing to notify the railroad.

• If your vehicle gets stuck on a railroad crossing, quickly exit and move away from the track. Your car or truck can be replaced, but you can't.

Operation Lifesaver is a national, non-profit safety education group tthe goal of which is to eliminate deaths and infuries at railroad crossings and along railroad rights of way.

Auto Ideas

(NAPS) – New car shopping can be a lot of fun, especially if you're a car enthusiast. But others can find the experience stressful and tedious. Either way, there's a lot to think about.

Wise car buyers know the total cost of a vehicle includes more than just the price they agree to at the dealership, and are sure to shop around for auto insurance and find out how costs compare.

They also know to visit an independent insurance agent or broker, who can check with several companies to find the best combination of coverage and price.

To find an agent or broker, visit www.driveinsurance.com.

SCOTT DEWARE

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

February marks the birthdays of two of the world's great figures; George Washington, who gave us our nation, and Abraham Lincoln, who preserved it for posterity.

Let us remember that they captured the imagination of the world by their characters, their principles, their philosophies and profound achievements. Their names are forever linked with man's eternal struggle for freedom.

As we pay homage to these great Americans – Washington and Lincoln – let us remember that they more than any others embodied and exhibited our distinctive civilization. We honor them for the virtues that made them great. We honor them for their unswerving loyalty and patriotism. Both represented the cause of freedom. It is with deep respect and admiration for their leadership that we pay tribute to them in this month that marks their birthdays.

One does not recall that any nation in history produced two men 87 years apart, who indubitably determined the nation's destiny. America was indeed very lucky to have produced two such towering men in the compass of a century . . .

South Coastal Bank Community Giving Program Awards $500 To Wollaston School PTO

South Coastal Bank recently presented the Wollaston Elementary School PTO in Quincy a $500 grant from its South Coastal Bank C.A.R.E.S. community giving program.

Committed to enriching the lives of children in the communities it serves, South Coastal Bank specifically designed C.A.R.E.S. to help local not-for-profit groups promote and encourage a sense of Community, Achievement, Responsibility and Excellence in children through exposure to the arts.

Serving students from kindergarten through grade five, the Wollaston Elementary School PTO works to enhance the children's educational experience by raising funds to subsidize cultural arts programs not provided for by the school budget.

The PTO used its C.A.R.E.S. grant to provide a dramatic arts workshop for the school's second grade classes. Under the guidance of Nan Rumpf, a professional puppeteer and mask-maker with 16 years of experience running creative arts programs, the children created and manipulated their own artwork – puppets, masks, props and scenery – to dramatize the Chinese folktale Dueling Dragons for presentation to their schoolmates and parents.

For more information on South Coastal Bank C.A.R.E.S. or to download an application, visit South Coastal Bank's Web site, www.southcoastalbank.com, or contact community liaison Susan Lincoln at 781-681-7206.

Established in 1868, South Coastal Bank, a full-service financial institution, operates five branches throughout the South Shore, including Quincy.

To Paul Arthur Miller of 89 Manet Ave., Quincy, MA; and Homecoming Financial of P.O. Box 890036, Dallas, TX; and to all other persons interested.

A petition has been presented to said Court by Elizabeth O'Brien of 49 Spring Street, Quincy, MA in the County of Norfolk representing that she hold as tenant in common an undivided part or share of certain land lying in Quincy, MA in said County of Norfolk and briefly described as follows: A certain parcel of land, with the buildings thereon, known and numbered as 89 Manet Avenue, Quincy, MA 02169, situated in that part of said Quincy called Hough's Neck, being Lots 48 and 49 in Section 1 as shown on a plan by H.T. Whitman, Engineer, dated July 1890, recorded with Norfolk Deeds Paln Book 13, plan 581; bounded and described as follows:

NORTHERLY by Manet Avenue, 100 feet;

EASTERLY by Newton Street, 100 feet;

SOUTHERLY by Lots 67 and 68, as shown on said plan, 100 feet; and

WESTERLY by Lot 50, as shown on said plan, 100 feet.

AREA 10,000 square feet of land.

Said premises are also shown as Lots 48 and 49 on a plan recorded with Norfolk Deeds at the end of Book 668; and also shown as Lots 14 and 15 on a plan recorded with Norfolk Deeds, Book 594. page 508, said last two plans being the plans referred to in the title deeds. There is expected from the above described premises so much thereof as was taken by the City of Quincy for the layout of Newton Street, as set forth in instrument recorded with Norfolk Deeds. Book 2568, page 201. Also another parcel of land situated in said Quincy, called Hough's Neck, opposite said Lots 48 and 49, and bounded and described as follows;

SOUTHERLY by the northerly line of Manet Avenue;

WESTERLY by the westerly line of said Lot 49 extended to the low water mark;

NORTHERLY by Quincy Bay; and

EASTERLY by the middle line of Newton Street extended northerly to low water mark.

The above described land is conveyed subject to and with the benefit of easements and restrictions of record, it any there be, insofar as the same may be now in force and applicable.

Setting forth that they desire that – all – of said land may be sold at private sale for not less than $575,000 dollars and praying that partition may be made of all the land aforesaid according to law, and to that end that a commissioner be appointed to make such partition and be ordered to make sale and conveyance of all, or any part of said land which the Court finds cannot be advantageously divided, either at private sale or public auction, and be ordered to distribute the net proceeds thereof.

thoughts about their own particular neighborhood in the survey," said Phelan.

"Working together will the City Council , I hope we can realize true solutions to the problems that our neighborhoods face.

"One of our main goals is to maintain our small town atmosphere despite being a large urban area."

For those who fail to respond to the census and survey in a timely fashion and for folks living in apartment buildings of eight or more units there will be a follow-up telephone call.

The last time the city census was taken 87,755 people were counted, 270 less than the 88,025 found in the federal census of 2000 and a retreat from the magic number of 90,000.

City Clerk Joseph Shea said the cost of the city census will be approximately $30,000 with $24,000 spent for postage, including prepaid return envelopes.

Clear Snow, Ice From Non-Residential Buildings Sidewalks

Shoveling responsibilities still pertain to non-residential property-owners of vacant lots.

Property owners of sidewalks, that are usually shoveled by the city, should be aware that if their sidewalk is not shoveled for them, they are not exempt from fines. Examples of these streets include properties that are bordering city-owned properties, such as schools.

Instances where non-residential property is owned by a landlord but used by a tenant, it is their responsibility to decide who has shoveling duties, and who is responsible to pay the fines. The fines themselves are addressed to the land site, and not a specific person.

Fines and enforcement will be carried out by the police department. Under the direction of Ward 4 councillor James Davis III, there will be discussion to increase enforcement, and enforcement-funding.

"We have a great need in this city for enforcement of code violations," said Davis. "I just read the other day that we've put 1.7 million into schools. Wouldn't it be worth while to have the mayor look at spending a couple thousand dollars on enforcement officials?"

Community police are there to do police work, not there for snow and ice," said Davis.

Fines are not enforced on residential property owners, because some may have health issues, or elderly residents may not have the physical ability to accomplish the task.

With Love From St. Mary's

A 'HEARTY' HELLO - Students of St. Mary's School in West Quincy recently made valentines for U.S. service men and women in Iraq. As part of the effort of the group, "4 the Troops," the students were proud to support our brave men and women in Iraq. Front row (from left) are: Bridget McAdams (grade 3), Nicole Flora (grade 1), Andy Rizzitano (kindergarten). Second row: Katelyn Layden (grade 6), Michelle Garofalo (grade 8), Kara Ciardelli (grade 7), Michael Augustine (grade 5) and Julia Goyette (grade 4).

Phelan: 'We Must Work To Keep Our Neighborhoods Strong'

'Smart Zoning' Committee Named

Mayor William Phelan has formed a "Smart Zoning" Committee to address and review existing city ordinances and the zoning code to enhance and improve the quality of life in the city.

The committee is part of Phelan's "Strengthening Neighborhoods Initiative."

Appointed to the committee thus far are: City Councillors Kevin Coughlin, Joseph Finn and Leo Kelly, Zoning Board members David Portesi and Jack Garland, City Solicitor Monica Conyngham, Planning Director Dennis Harrington and Director of Inspectional Services Jay Duca.

Representatives from the Planning Board and the general public will be added.

"The Smart Zoning Committee can help make recommendations driven by our neighborhood survey results and the persistent quality of life issues that we face as a city of our size," Phelan said.

WILLIAM PHELAN

"We must work to keep our neighborhoods strong and this initiative will be an important component of a multi-pronged thrust to maintain the quality of life in our neighborhoods."

The committee will begin meeting later this month. It is hoped the recommendations will be reported back to the mayor later this spring.

Added Phelan: "The impact of this committee will be significant. I hope that we can collectively come to realize the areas that need to be strengthened and improved in our existing laws. We are setting the future direction of our city and I am excited about the energy and shared enthusiasm that I have heard from our members."

Phelan has included a "Neighborhood Improvement Survey" in this year's census mailing to better understand the concerns of each specific neighborhood. Phelan said he has launched a "Strengthening Neighborhoods Initiative" to address quality of life issues in an effort to strengthen and preserve Quincy's neighborhoods.

Mayor Reappoints 40, Two Notables Absent

Mayor William Phelan reappointed 40 members of his administrative staff — with two notable exceptions.

Treasurer-Tax Collector James Chiccino and Information Technician Ron Donovan were not among those who were sworn in by City Clerk Joe Shea Monday.

There was no explanation of their absence.

For the rest. Phelan had a word of admonition for each of the department heads and other managers on the appointment list.

"It is important that we remember the basic mission of public service," he said.

"We are tasked with the awesome responsibility of serving the public and upholding the faith and trust that they have placed in us.

"It is most important that we fulfill that trust by being driven by the values of service, integrity and excellence."

The appointments included:

Thomas Fabrizio, Director of Constituent Services.
Linda Stice, Constituent Services Associate.
Kristen Keohane, Program Manager, Park Department.
Laurie Allen, Purchasing Agent.
Rosa Sansevero, Secretary to the Fire Chief.
Gary DiNardo, Financial Manager, Police Department,
Michelle Raimondi, Secretary to the Police Chief.
Barry Welch, Recreation Director.
Monica Conyngham, City Solicitor.
Marcia Golden, Secretary to the City Solicitor.
Robert Quinn, First Assistant City Solicitor.
Jonathan Green, Assistant City Solicitor.
Owen Kane, Assistant City Solicitor.
Les Brown, Operations Manager, Traffic & Parking.
Hank Bradley, Veterans Services Director.
Stephen Roche, Assessor.
Heather Sargent, Conservation Enforcement Officer.
Brian Carlisle, Superintendent of Sewer, Water & Drain.
Stephen O'Donnell, Commissioner of Public Works.
Michael Ryan, Director of Building, Construction & Maintenance.
William Griffin, Operations Manager, Public Works.
Fred Happel, Program Manager, Public Works.
Thomas Clasby, Council on Aging Director.

Lower Tax Interest Rates On Seniors Deferred Taxes

By MIKAELA SLANEY

The city council has lowered interest rates on deferred taxes for seniors, FY 2007.

An order, submitted by Mayor William Phelan, will decrease current interest rates by two percent, or establish them at eight percent, whichever is lower.

The interest rate will be fixed for the remainder of the deferral.

Ward 3 Councillor Kevin Coughlin introduced a similar order which will serve as a "companion piece."

It will include interest rates on deferred water bills, and was specifically designed to provide financial relief for seniors.

The order was designed to aid senior citizens, after many met with Coughlin complaining their tax interest rates were "excessive."

The order will be reviewed by the finance committee.

An order with similar intent was initially submitted as a homerule petition, in January of 2004. It was approved by the council and signed by the mayor, but died at the end of that session.

The order was reintroduced as a homerule petition in 2005, and amended as a senior circuit breaker law.

It was then brought to the council for the establishment of an appropriate interest rate.

Post Office Open Sunday For Passports, Postal Boxes

The Quincy Post Office, 47 Washington St., will be open Sunday, Feb. 12, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. for passport applications and post office box rentals only.

All windows will be open and dedicated to processing passport applications.

Two forms of identification, one a picture ID, are needed to rent a post office box.

Boxes come in three sizes and all sizes are available.

For more information, call 617-773-6641.

Wide Range Of Entertainment

10th Annual Presidents' Day Celebration Set For Feb. 20

The City of Presidents" 10th annual Presidents' Day Celebration will be held Monday, Feb. 20, announces Mayor William Phelan.

Entertainment for the event, to be held from noon to 4 p.m. in Quincy Center, will include presidential and historical reenactments, magic shows, live music, hay rides, ice sculptures and other activities. Admission is free.

The entertainment schedule:

CITY HALL COUNCIL CHAMBERS

Noon and 1 p.m. — Meet Dorothy Quincy Hancock

Was the vote for the Declaration of Independence unanimous? Who married the richest man in colonial Boston? Come see! Join Dorothy Quincy Hancock, daughter of Quincy and the wife of the famous signer of the Declaration. Children and adults are encouraged to participate as actress Belinda West recounts dramatic tales from the Revolutionary era.

2 to 3 p.m. — Benjamin Franklin "Made in Boston"

Emmy-winner Bill Meikle portrays one of America's most recognizable figures in an interactive performance spanning the life and times of a man known as Founding Father, scientist, inventor, writer, statesman, philosopher and postmaster, whose 300th birthday was celebrated last month.

3 to 3:30 p.m. — A question and answer session with Mr. Franklin.

NEW CITY HALL, ATRIUM

1 and 2 p.m. — Peter Panic

No stranger to Quincy, Peter Panic returns with his exciting, skillful and thoroughly entertaining juggling show for Presidents' Day. Panic has been juggling professionally since 1987. He has delighted audiences throughout the 50 states and has performed internationally in Canada, Ireland, Germany, Spain, Holland and New Zealand.

All day — Honest Abe's Hat Decorating Store

Kids can decorate their own hat and join in the patriotic and colonial fun.

UNITED FIRST PARISH CHURCH

Noon and 2 p.m. — Abigail Adams

First Lady, mother of a president, financial manager, farm manager and advocate for women's rights, as she stated in her letters to husband John Adams, "Remember the ladies, and be more generous and favorable to them than you ancestors." Meet Abigail as she describes her Revolutionary experience and much more from the home front perspective.

1 p.m. — John Quincy Adams: A Spirit Unconquerable!

In a portrayal by Quincy resident Jim Cook, native son and sixth president is seen in the last 10 years of his long life. Asher: 'Getting Harder And Harder For A Stand Alone Station'

WJDA's Departure Seen As Loss To City

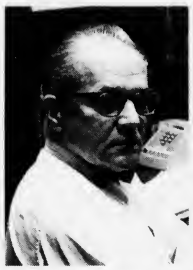
WJDA STUDIO was around long enough to become a landmark on Brackett Street in Quincy.
Quincy Sun Photo/Noreen O'Shea

By TOM HENSHAW

The same financial virus that has struck mom and pop stores everywhere has silenced the 59-year-old Voice of the South Shore.

Quincy's radio station, WJDA, 1300 on Your Dial, and its sister station, WESX in Salem, were sold last week to Principle Broadcasting Network for $4.5 million.

When the deal is closed this spring, the call letters WJDA, the studio on Brackett Street and the Quincy news and talk that permeated homes and offices throughout the area will be no more.



"It's getting harder and harder to make it as a stand alone station," said Jay Asher, the president and CEO of WJDA and the son of its founder.

"We're not going out with our tail between our legs. We still do a good job. But the business has changed. We're one of the few stations in the Boston area that stands alone."

He said Principle Broadcasting, which is described as a Christian-oriented music and talk network of stations, started the deal in motion by coming to him with a proposal.

"The buyer came to us," said Asher. "It didn't come as a complete shock. We've had similar proposals before. But this one was different.

"They were looking to build a group of stations. They wanted a couple of signals around Boston. They came to us with proposal that was fair to both of us."

JAMES D. ASHER SR. (WJDA) was in at the beginning.

JAMES D. ASHER JR. (Jay) was in at the end.

The City Council voted Monday night to send a letter to Otto Miller, president of Principle Broadcasting, urging the new owners to continue local news coverage.

"I personally find it to be a blow to the Quincy that I grew up with, the Quincy that I rely on," said Council President Doug Gutro, who introduced the measure.

"There's certainly a tremendous void that is going to be created in the city of Quincy," said Ward 3 Councillor Kevin Coughlin.

"It's like losing a member of the family," said Ward 1 Councillor Leo Kelly.

The purchase price includes the license, which is up for renewal in April, as well as the studio on Brackett Street and the WESX property in Marblehead, both of which will be expendable under the new regime.

The important thing is the license, which is granted by the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) and specifies the frequency used by the station, the amount of power it is allowed and the area covered by the signal.

All the deal needs now is approval by the FCC, the studios will be consolidated and moved, possibly to Chelsea, and by summer all that will remain of the former WJDA will be memories and the transmitting tower in Germantown.

Asher described WJDA's format as news, talk and "soft oldies" music. "I'm not familiar with their programming," he said, "but I know it's different from they way we do it." One of their stations, in Bridgeport, Conn., specializes in gospel music.

Right now, said Asher, the focus is on the future of the stations' employees, eight full-time in Quincy and five in Salem.

"It's not likely that they will go with the new owners," he said. "With a small company like ours, five years from now most of them will be better off for the long haul."

Asher isn't certain what the future holds for him, except that he and his sister, Joan Asher, who lives in New York City, will be dividing up whatever the government leaves of the $4.5 million.

"There are a lot of things I want to do," he said. "I've wanted to spend less time on daily tasks. I'm involved in a lot of non-profit organizations."

James D. "Jay" Asher Jr. has been involved with the family-owned radio station for almost a half century, starting as a 12-year-old youngster emptying waste baskets for his father.

WJDA, whose call letters are the initials for James Dudley Asher Sr., went on the air at 6 a.m. Sept. 13, 1947, with Asher and his partner, Joseph Tobin, pre-

Is that adjustable-rate Home Equity Line of Credit starting to make you nervous?

Now that interest rates have started moving up, the payment on your adjustable-rate home equity line will start moving up too. It's that simple. In fact, if you have an adjustable-rate home equity line or balances on your credit cards, the window might be closing soon on your chance to consolidate that debt into a fixed-rate, guaranteed fixed-payment loan. With Colonial Federal's 10-Year Fixed Home Equity Loan, you lock in a great deal at a rate that's still historically low. You get the security of fixed monthly payments. And you won't have to worry anymore about getting squeezed by rising interest rates. Sound good? Come see us or call Cathy or Eileen at 617-471-0750.

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On Feb. 6, 1820, the first organized immigration of freed slaves to Africa from the United States, partially funded by the U.S. Congress, departs New York harbor on a journey to West Africa. Between 1822 and the Civil War, some 15,000 African-Americans settled in Liberia.

• On Feb. 11, 1858, in southern France, Marie-Bernarde Soubirous, a 14-year-old French peasant girl, first claims to have seen the Virgin Mary in a grotto near Lourdes. After years of mistreatment at the hands of the authorities, she was finally allowed to enter a convent, where she died of ill heath at the age of 35.

• On Feb. 12, 1915, Lorne Greene, the actor who played Ben Cartwright on the immensely popular television Western "Bonanza," is born in Ontario, Canada. "Bonanza" was the first network Western to be televised in color.

• On Feb. 8, 1924, the first execution by lethal gas in U.S. history is carried out in Carson City, Nev. The executed man was Tong Lee, a member of a Chinese gang who was convicted of murdering a rival gang member.

• On Feb. 10, 1941, the first highway post-office service is established along the route between Washington, D.C., and Harrisonburg, Va. Mail was transported in buses equipped with facilities for sorting, handling and dispatch of mail.

• On Feb. 9, 1950, Sen. Joseph McCarthy, R-Wisc., claims he has a list with the names of more than 200 members of the Department of State who are "known communists." McCarthy never produced any solid evidence that there was even one communist in the State Department.

• On Feb. 7, 1964, the Beatles arrive at New York's Kennedy Airport. It was the first visit to the United States by the British rock-and-roll quartet, who had scored their first No. 1 U.S. hit just six days earlier with "I Want to Hold Your Hand."

Fr. Downey: 'A People's Priest'

Fr. Joseph Downey, as anyone who was fortunate to have had him come into their lives knows, was a "people's priest."

FR. DOWNEY

He was always there when you needed him. Sometimes before you realized you needed him.

He is remembered for spending a good part of each day visiting parishioners at the then Quincy Hospital, nursing homes and shut-ins in their own homes.

And for speaking out on church and community issues. And, inspiring others to the priesthood.

And those who knew him also fondly remember him as a lovable jokester and prankster with a little rascal-like sense of humor.

Fr. Downey died Jan. 28 at the North End Rehabilitation Center in Boston. He was 86.

Both sides of him – the priestly priest and the funster – were quite evident at his funeral Mass at St. Joseph's Church in Quincy Point where he served 20 years of his 60-year priesthood as pastor and liked to come back to visit and say Mass after his retirement.

The esteem in which he is held was quite obvious.

Archbishop Sean O'Malley celebrated the Mass with 10 designated concelebrants. Among them, Fr. Vincent Doolan, present pastor, and Fr. Kevin Sepe, now at St. Francis Assisi parish in Braintree who was both associate and close friend to Fr. Downey at St. Joseph's.

All together, there were 30 priests participating. And, the church was crowded with family, parishioners and friends.

Fr. Sepe was selected to give the eulogy and paid tribute to Fr. Downey's dedication to his church and to the people – always treating them equally regardless of their personal status in life.

Fr. Downey no doubt would have appreciated the tributes. But probably would have enjoyed even more the ripples of laughter through the church as Fr. Sepe recalled his humorous side.

A few anecdotes:

He and Fr. Downey were in Rome in line with other priests to meet Pope John Paul II.

When they reached the pope, Fr. Downey said to him: "This is my 75th'."

The pope looked at him and sort of shook his head. "No," he said, "50th."

"No," said Fr. Downey. "75th."

Fr. Sepe moved in to straighten things out. "He means," he told the pope, "his 75th birthday."

The pope had thought Fr. Downey was saying he was ordained 75 years and he knew it could not have been more than 50.

"And there he was," Fr. Sepe said, "standing there arguing with the pope!"

A function was being held in the parish hall and Fr. Downey, walking to it from the rectory, spotted a youngster on a skateboard and borrowed it.

He made a grand entrance at the parish hall, balancing himself riding down the aisle on the skateboard.

He was pretty nimble in those years.

He could do pratfalls – even down stairs – scaring the dickens out of bystanders who thought he must be seriously injured. He would then pick himself up smiling.

And there was the Christmas Eve Fr. Downey called out for help in the rectory.

Fr. Sepe raced down the stairs and found him trying to stuff pillows and himself into a Santa Claus suit.

Fr. Sepe managed to get him and the pillows into the suit and Fr. Downey said "Let's go." He had some things to deliver to needy families.

"So there I am," Fr. Sepe recalled, driving down the street and it's snowing with Santa Claus beside me in the front seat."

Stopping at houses with gifts, Fr. Downey would ring the doorbell, thinking all dressed up as Santa he wouldn't be recognized.

But as each door opened, the occupant greeted him with "Hi, Father!"

The Santa Claus suit didn't fool them.

Everyone at the Mass could probably share a personal anecdote or two attesting to Fr. Downey's humor.

And after the Mass, they were sharing them with one another.

One recalled the time Fr. Downey visited her mother and presented her with a bouquet of flowers, saying "I bought them for you."

She thought the flowers looked familiar. And, they were. He had plucked them from her flower garden on the way in. After awhile, he owned up to it with a mischievous grin.

I remember that sense of humor, too.

He would drop in at The Sun office whenever he was in the area.

One day he came in wearing a little red hat.

"I just got back from Rome," he announced. "They made me a Cardinal!"

Well, he never got to be a Cardinal.

But he did get to be Someone Very Special to the many whose lives he touched as a humble priestly priest – with an infectious sense of humor.

Winter On-Street Parking Regulations

The Public Works Department reminds residents of regulations for parking on streets this winter:

• Overnight parking is prohibited without a residential parking permit which is available from the Police Department (617-479-1212).

• Resident parking permits are void during snow emergencies.

• Parking on a snow emergency artery during a snow emergency is prohibited. All main streets in the city are posted with signs identifying them as emergency arteries.

• This year, parking is allowed during a snow emergency on the odd-numbered side of non-emergency streets.

• Your car will be towed if it is in violation of these winter parking rules. The average tow and storage fee is $100.

If bad weather is expected, call 770-SNOW or listen to WJDA 1300 or to television to learn if there is a snow emergency. WJDA will have snow emergency updates.

If you have problems or questions related to snow removal, call the snow hotline: 617-376-1943.

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS IS AN old postcard view of the Atherton Hough School built in 1911 at the corner of Manet Avenue and Sea Street in Houghs Neck. Shown here with its original four rooms the school only cost $18,000 to build. Later additions were completed in 1915, 1929 and 1949 bring the total to 21 rooms plus an auditorium. Before this school was built Houghs Neck students had to go to Quincy Square to the Coddington School. The school is named for Atherton Hough who, early in the 17th century, was the recipient of a colonial land grand that included most of what is now Houghs Neck, also named for him. Coal Shortage Hits The City

Feb. 9 - 15
1923
83 Years Ago

Coal was so short in Quincy that Fuel Commissioner John F. Scott confiscated a ton that was delivered to a home in Atlantic "under false pretenses" and ordered it redistributed to the needy.

Five tons of coal was sent to Houghs Neck to be sold to the residents in 100-pound bags and Quincy coal dealers sent representatives to Boston to check rumors that several carloads were sidetracked there.

A barge with 1,500 tons of coal, overdue at the City Fuel Co. wharf, was reported sighted off Sandwich on Cape Cod, fighting headwinds and heavy seas.

HIGH SCHOOL STALLED

Work on the new high school on Coddington Street was halted when the contractors, Coblo and Griffin, were unable to pay their workers. The $576,336.90 contract was about 50 percent fulfilled.

John Coblo, one of the contracting partners, said the company was "caught in an increased market," then amended that to say, "We're pinched for funds at the present time . . . We're broke."

Public Works Commissioner Crocker requested the bonding company to assume its liability and complete the high school project, the largest contract ever awarded by the City of Quincy.

SUPERINTENDENT REINSTATED

Bill Jones was reinstated as superintendent of streets for Quincy a few hours after his petition of a writ mandamus was received by the Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts.

Jones, who was fired Jan. 2 by Mayor Bates "for political activity and for the good of the service," claimed his ouster was made outside the Mayor's authority.

He claimed $8 in pay for each day that he was out of work.

Get Junk Food And Soda Out Of Schools

It seems every day we read articles warning of the major public health problems of overweight and obesity. This epidemic puts our children at high risk for diabetes, asthma and depression.

Health professionals and parents agree that a contributing cause of these diseases is children eating and drinking too much junk food and soda. With our nation facing an obesity crisis, we all need to do more to improve children's diets and health.

As a public health nutritionist and diabetes educator, I am very familiar with the results of poor eating habits. I would like to make your readers aware of proposed legislation in the House of Representatives, H.4442 "An Act to Promote Proper School Nutrition."

Our legislators can take a stand in support of our children's health by voting to get junk food and soda out of Massachusetts schools. While receiving a good education, our children should be eating well. We need to urge our representatives to support this common sense proposal.

Salvation Army Grateful To Donors, Kettle Volunteers

I want to take the opportunity, on behalf of the Salvation Army and those we serve, to express deep gratitude for the generous support of donors from greater Quincy.

Once again our faithful supporters came through in our Christmas fund-raising. Our kettles had another successful season. This enabled the Salvation Army to assist 18 percent more families for Christmas in 2005 than in 2004.

We also appreciate the 390 volunteers who gave nearly 1,100 hours of volunteer service during the holiday season. Our volunteers and our donors truly are the army behind the Salvation Army. May we continue to work together to improve the lives of the less fortunate in Quincy.

God bless you!

Praises Bush On Supreme Court Nominations

During the confirmation hearings of Judge Samuel Alito for the U.S. Supreme Court, he was perceived differently by different senators. Some senators understood him to be conservative, and some wanted him to be perceived philosophically, in the middle between the liberals and the conservatives, the mainstream.

Having listened carefully to the confirmation debates, I have concluded that Judge Alito is neither a liberal, nor a conservative, nor a mainstream swinger. Judge Alito's view is qualitatively something else. Judge Alito's view is through and through American, and through and through Christian. He holds a traditional American view that the Americans have held for 200 years. That view has been held by Americans before and after Roe v. Wade. That view holds that life is the most precious possession and that life begins at conception.

President George W. Bush deserves the highest praise for having nominated three Super-Americans: John Roberts, Harriet Miers and Samuel Alito for the American Supreme Court.

Noted Pianist And Baritone To Perform At ENC Concert

Baritone Lawrence Indik and pianist Charles Abramovic will perform Franz Schubert's song-cycle Winterreise ("A Winter's Journey") Saturday, Feb. 11 at 8 p.m. in the Mann Student Center Auditorium on the campus of Eastern Nazarene College.

One of the country's leading pianists, Abramovic has performed throughout the world with dozens of famed instrumentalists, including violinist Sarah Chang. He has recorded for EMI Classics, Bridge, and CRI.

Indik, a graduate of Harvard College, is a noted singer who has performed classical and contemporary music internationally. Indik and Abramovic are on the faculty of Temple University in Philadelphia.

Schubert's Winterreise is a series of romantic songs written on the poetry of Wilhelm Muller. Rarely heard in its entirety, Winterreise is a magical journey through a wide range of emotional states, from ecstatic joy to deep despair.

"The Musica Eclectica concert series exists to enrich the cultural life of Boston, the South Shore, and the ENC campus by presenting musical performances drawn from a wide range of styles," said Delvyn Case, Artistic Director and founder of the series. Case is an assistant professor of music at ENC and a visiting professor at Boston College.

Upcoming concerts include rock, classical, jazz, and gospel music.

"This spring's lineup of concerts is spectacular by any measure, and it is unmatched by any small college in the Boston area," said Prof. Lambert Brandes, Chair of the ENC Music Department. More information on the series may be found at www.musica-eclectica.org.

Tickets for the Indik-Abramovic performance are $5. Students will be admitted free. For more information call 617-745-3715.

Upcoming Musica Eclectica Concerts:

Thursday, Feb. 16: Beth Wiemann, multimedia composer and performer, works with electronica sound, video and live woodwind, Mann Student Center Auditorium, 7 p.m. Admission free.

Thursday, Feb. 23: Amaryllis Chamber Ensemble. Music for flute, harp, and strings by Mozart, Dowland, and Berlioz, Mann Student Center Auditorium, 7:30 p.m.

General admission, $8, seniors and students, $5. For more information visit www.amaryllisboston.com.

Sovereign Bank Grant Funds Quincy Asian Resources' English Program

Sovereign Bank recently presented a $10,000 grant to Quincy Asian Resources. Inc. (QARI) to support its English for Speakers of Other Languages (ESOL) program.

The grant will allow QARI to expand the ESOL program and help more Asian-Americans develop the language skills necessary for daily living and employment.

"We're thrilled to have the opportunity to help QARI expand their program so they can serve even more members of the Asian-American community," said Scott Thimann, Sovereign Bank's regional executive for the South Shore. "It's important that everyone has access to the tools they need so they can lead successful lives."

The grant follows an initial grant of $2,500 from Sovereign which QARI used to launch its ESOL program in 2005. The program has grown dramatically and now offers three classes and a volunteer tutoring program.

The program is a wholly community based endeavor which would be unable to survive without the contributions of volunteers and financial benefactors.

"Sovereign Bank has once again demonstrated their commitment to the Asian-American community," said QARI President Richard Hung. "Through this generous grant, QARI will be able to expand the ESOL program and reach more people in need of language classes."

The Sovereign Bank Foundation, through its "Spirit of Your Neighborhood Campaign," supports non-profit organizations with charitable grants, thereby making a difference in youth and educational programs, community and economic development initiatives, health and human services as well as arts and culture.

Last year more than 800 community organizations received over $3.6 million through the Sovereign Bank Foundation.

Quincy Asian Resources Inc. is a non-profit social service agency dedicated to promoting the development of the Asian-American community to benefit the wider community. In addition to ESOL classes, QARI also offers information and referral services, sponsors educational seminars, the Quincy Lunar New Year Festival and the Quincy August Moon Festival.

For more information about this program or to register for classes, contact QARI at 617-472-2200.

Quincy College Promoting Dangers Of Drinking - Driving

Quincy College is partnering with area agencies to promote the dangers of drinking and driving.

The campus-wide initiative that started last fall under a grant funded program sponsored by the Department of Justice through the Governor's Highway Safety Bureau will continue this spring.

The program is designed to raise awareness of the dangers of drinking and driving, particularly among college age students.

The college is spreading the message:

"You Drink And Drive, You Lose... Think Again!"

College President Sue Harris said, "Quincy College has made it a priority to raise awareness about the dangers of drinking and driving in an effort to keep our students safe, responsible, and informed."

To increase awareness of the serious issue, the college has partnered with several local agencies including Bay State Community Services, South Shore Recovery Home, Inc., Massachusetts State Police, Alcoholics Anonymous Central Service Office, WJDA, and the Quincy Police Department.

In its most recent partnership, Quinsy College has joined IMPACT Quincy in selecting "peer advocates" to lead two focus group discussions with underage students. The result will be used by IMPACT Quincy this spring to help inform the development of social marketing themes targeting both underage drinkers and those who provide them with alcohol.

The student outreach on campus has included a demonstration of the effects of alcohol on drivers by members of the Quincy Police Department at the college's Drinking & Driving Reality Fest. At the event, officers had volunteers wear "beer goggles" which replicated the impairments a drunk driver will experience under the influence of alcohol. Students performed simple tasks such as "walking the line" and catching a tennis ball with little success while wearing the goggles. Earlier in the fall, a panel discussion was held at the college with representatives from Alcoholics Anonymous Central Service Office sharing their stories with students.

In addition to the many students who attended these events, several participated in a photo shoot used in the production of a postcard and on-campus posters communicating the widespread problem of drinking and driving among college students. According to studies, nearly one out of four college students will drink and drive, while 1700 will be killed due to alcohol-related injuries, including motor vehicle crashes, this year.

Quincy College is continuing to plan events in support of its drinking and driving awareness initiative this semester, particularly for April, National Alcohol Awareness Month.

QUINCY COLLEGE IS partnering with the Quincy Police Department and other agencies to raise awareness of the dangers of drinking and driving. From the left are Greg Holland, volunteer; Lt. Dan Minton, Lt. USS Salem Volunteer Open House Sunday

The USS Salem will host its annual volunteer open house Sunday, Feb. 12, from 12 noon to 2 p.m. on board the ship, berthed at 739 Washington St. by the Fore River Bridge.

The volunteers, who handle many of the chores in the Salem's museums, are recognized each year with an open house, which includes tours of the ship and other activities.

"Our volunteers are the life's blood of the ship," said Michael Condon, the executive director of the ship, which recently received a new 10-year lease from the MBTA.

The 716-foot retired heavy cruiser has just celebrated the 10th anniversary of its return to Quincy, where it was built 60 years ago, and the establishment of the U.S. Navy Shipbuilding Museum

"We are fortunate to have so many wonderful people donate their time to preserving our shipbuilding heritage," said Condon.

"Things are pretty busy around here in the spring, summer and fall so we try to recruit new volunteers in the winter months so they can figure out what interests them and still have time to be trained before we get really busy."

Anyone interested in volunteering in any capacity should call the Salem at 617-479-7900 or visit www.usssalem.org.

Volunteer opportunities include jobs as tour guides, ship's restoration personnel, fund-raising and special events.

Seasonal Employment At Adams National Park

Adams National Historical Park (Adams NHP) is accepting applications for seasonal employment opportunities as Park Guide and Visitor Use Assistant through Feb. 10.

The announcements for these positions have been posted on the internet and will remain open until midnight on Feb. 10, for seasonal employment (April 10-Nov. 10, 2006). Applicants for Park Guides and Visitor Use Assistants must apply online Nov. 10, 2006). Applicants for Park Guides and Visitor Use Assistants must apply online at either of the two official job sites at: http// www.usajobs.gov or http:// www.sep.nps.gov.

Adams National Historical Park includes the birthplaces of Presidents John Adams and John Quincy Adams; the "Old House," home to both presidents and their families and descendants; a Visitor Center, and an Orientation Center.

Park Guides research and develop interpretive tours and programs, conduct tours through the historic structures, participate in interpretive activities and special events, and perform other duties as assigned. They may conduct formal curriculum-based school programs and formal and informal education programs and presentations tailored to school-age and adult audiences that may include first-person dramatic historical interpretation.

Visitor Use Assistants staff the Visitor Center and Orientation Center, answer visitor questions, assist visitors with tour planning, collect fees for tours, and sell thematically-related books and materials at the Park's Cooperating Association's bookstores and gift shop. All positions require excellent customer service skills and a positive attitude.

To be eligible for seasonal employment, applicants must be U.S. citizens and must submit their applications on-line; Applications for Park Guide and Visitor Use Assistant positions may be submitted at http:// www.usajobs.opm.gov or http:www.sep.nps.gov. Applications must be completed and received by midnight on Feb. 10 to be considered. Do not mail applications directly to Adams NHP.

For more information contact the Adams NHP Personnel Office at 617-773-1177, Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. or the Seasonal Employment Program at 877-554-4550 or visit the Official Job Site of the United States Federal Government at www.usajobs.opm.gov. Adams National Historical Park, National Park Service is an equal opportunity employer.

To register for the orientation or receive an informational packet, call Literacy Volunteers at 617-376-1314.

Elected Democrat Delegates 85% Uncommitted Here

Charles Phelan, chairman of the Democratic City Committee, whose view goes back to the days of Gov. Michael Dukakis, says he has never seen anything like it.

"The delegates are about 85 per cent uncommitted," he said after tallying up the results of the six Democratic ward caucuses from last Saturday.

"It's the most I've ever seen and I've been around since the 1980s. There is no ground swell for anybody, even compared to four years ago."

CHARLES PHELAN

The caucuses were called to select the city's delegates to the Democratic State Convention June 2-3 at the DCU Center (formerly the Centrum) in Worcester.

Contesting for the party's nomination for governor are Attorney General Thomas Reilly and Attorney Deval Patrick of Milton, neither of whom attracted many Quincy delegates.

Elsewhere in the state, Patrick appeared to be an easy caucus winner over Reilly, who lost ground when his choice for lieutenant governor, Rep. Marie St. Fleur, turned up with money problems.

A candidate needs the support of 15 per cent of the delegates to the Worcester convention in order to get on the ballot for the Democratic primary in September.

Four years ago the excitement in the caucuses was provided by the fight for the nomination between State Treasurer Shannon O'Brien and Senate President Tom Birmingham. O'Brien won.

In Quincy, each of the six wards chose either 10 or 11 delegates, depending on the Democratic registration, divided equally between males and females with one or two alternates.

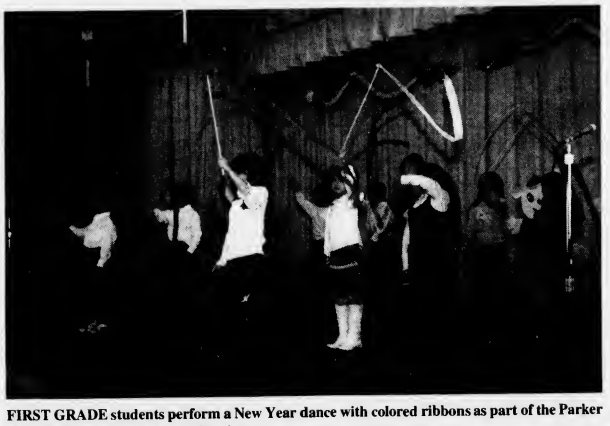
Parker School Celebrates Lunar New Year

LION DANCE, a tradition at Chinese and Vietnamese Lunar New Year festivals everywhere, is performed by teacher Linda Lee's English as a Second Language students to welcome in the Year of the Dog during the celebration at the Parker School.



KATLIN PERRY, a fourth grader, acts as principal for the day, and Sam Jarpe, a member of the kindergarten class, portrays her assistant at the Lunar New Year celebration at the Parker School. Quincy Sun photos/Robert Noble

OLIVIA LEUNG,, a fourth grader, welcomes celebrants to the Parker School's Lunar New Year festival while Austin Chow, her fellow master of ceremonies and also a fourth grader, patiently awaits his turn.

FIRST GRADE girls perform a New Year dance, waving red fans with yellow flowers at the Parker School's Lunar New Year celebration.

FIRST GRADE students perform a New Year dance with colored ribbons as part of the Parker School's Lunar New Year celebration.

PROVERB SKIT from Vietnam is acted out by Trang Nguyen's second grade English as a Second Language students to show link between Eastern and Western cultures.

TWIRLING umbrellas were a feature of the dance performed by first grade students at the Parker School's Lunar New Year celebration.

AUDIENCE is enthralled as they listen to fourth grader Katlin Perry, the principal for the day, at the Lunar New Year festival at the Parker School.

WATER BUFFALOS of paper played a role in the Vietnamese proverb skit "Today's Small Mistake; Tomorrow's Great Sorrow," at the Parker School's Lunar New Year celebration. At left is Joseph Shuris-Puller; at right, the Soohoo twins, Michael and Matthew, all second graders.

SCOTT CAMPBELL (left) of Quincy is worn in as deputy state treasurer by Gov. Mitt Romney (right) as his wife, Julie, and daughter, Caroline, and State Treasurer Tim Cahill look on.

With Praise From Cahill

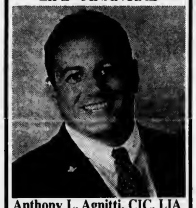
Scott Campbell Sworn In As State Deputy Treasurer

State Treasurer Tim Cahill has singled out a Quincy man, Scott Campbell, as "instrumental in the successes of my administration over the last three years,"

"I look forward to his continued contributions as we move forward," he said as Campbell was sworn in as deputy treasurer by Gov. Mitt Romney.

In the past, Campbell has served as Director of Operations, a member of the Board of Banks and the Emergency Finance Board and the Deferred Compensation Department.

As deputy treasurer, he will over see the Treasury's Information Technology and Financial Education Departments and the School Building Authority.



"I am truly honored." said Campbell, who was campaign director for Cahill in the election year of 2002. "I look forward to working with the treasurer and our entire team in my new capacity."

Prior to his government service, Campbell spent six years in the telecommunications industry.

He is a graduate of Quincy College and is completing a degree at UMass-Boston. He is active in the community as a youth football coach.

He lives in Quincy with his wife, Julie, an elementary school teacher, and their daughter, Caroline. He is the son of Al and the late Carol Campbell and the son-in-law of Paul and the late Claire McCloskey, all of Quincy.

Quincy Lodge of Elks Donate $5,000 To Help Hungry Households In Quincy

Quincy Community Action Programs, Inc. announces it has received an unprecedented $5,000 donation from the Quincy Lodge of Elks No. 943 to support the organization's Emergency Food Center.

This grant came from the fraternal organization's Centennial Celebration Fund.

"I am so grateful for this donation," said Beth Ann Strollo, QCAP's executive director. "This will go a long way in helping us reach our $90,000 Emergency Food Center fundraising goal for this year.

"I thank the Elks for their generosity and dedication to making sure low-income Quincy households do not go hungry. Local support, such as this is critical to our success in providing low income households with emergency food and nutrition assistance," Strollo added.

Since 1983 QCAP has been providing emergency food assistance from its Southwest Community Center located in Brewers Corner in Southwest Quincy. The Emergency Food Center (EFC) is the only Quincy food pantry open 5 days per week, year round. It is available to help someone in crisis who hasn't eaten in days, as well as the family who relies on a food order at the end of each month so they can get by until the next paycheck. A walk-in refrigerator and freezer allow QCAP to distribute fresh produce, meats and dairy products, along with the usual non-perishable food items. Clothing, diapers, toiletries and other household goods are also available to EFC clients.

For the fiscal year ending June 30, 2005 QCAP's EFC:

- Served 1,010 unduplicated households consisting of 2,418 people.
- Collected, stocked and sorted 211,447 pounds of food, and prepared and distributed 4,046 food orders.
- Purchased most food for $.18 per pound at the Greater Boston Food Bank stretching every dollar received.

QCAP operates its food center on a slim budget, with just one full-time and two part-time staff, and a team of volunteers who donate about 6,000 hours per year. The organization must raise funds from the private sector, including residents, businesses, foundations, and organizations to keep the EFC running.

Quincy Community Action Programs, Inc. (QCAP) is the leading human services provider targeting low-income families and individuals in Quincy and surrounding communities. Since 1965 QCAP has been dedicated to improving the quality of life and providing opportunities for self-sufficiency through a range of services designed to meet changing community needs.

For more information about QCAP's Emergency Food Center and other programs visit the agency's website at www.qcap.org or call (617) 479-8181

The Quincy Lodge of Elks No. 943, which celebrated its 100th year in 2005, is a nonprofit, fraternal organization. The Elks provide local high school seniors with scholarships, support high school sport teams, and hold an annual Flag Day Celebration and annual Christmas dinner for Quincy seniors. The Elks have a particular commitment to veterans, and regularly visit hospitalized veterans.

FIRE SAFETY

by Captain Tom Lyons
Fire Prevention Bureau
Quincy Fire Department

Safety Using Oxygen In Your Home

There are residents within the city who use supplemental oxygen cylinders or systems within their home for medical use.

Although I must trust that medical personnel, care givers and oxygen system suppliers educate home users as to the potential hazards associated with oxygen use, I'd like to convey the Fire Department's opinion here as well.

Our atmosphere is made up of 21 percent oxygen. You know the rate of speed that a match, for instance, will burn within atmospheric air. If that same match were lit within an oxygen-enriched atmosphere, that same air induced with a higher percentage and volume of oxygen, the match would then burn at a substantially higher rate of speed and with much more intensity. Any fire then, within an oxygen-enriched atmosphere, will burn with far greater intensity, and rapidity, which is why the environment is seen as so potentially hazardous.

Oxygen can saturate clothing and bedding material leaving it far easier to ignite while it would burn far quicker than in normal atmospheric conditions. Even flame-retardant clothing can burn when the oxygen content increases.

Therefore:

• NEVER smoke or light a match while using oxygen!

• Keep all flame and heat sources away from containers and systems.

• Do NOT ALLOW SMOKING inside a home where oxygen is used. Even though oxygen might not be in use at a given moment, the home is still an oxygen-enriched environment and a fire can get out of hand quite quickly.

If you anticipate the use of oxygen within your home:

• Post a sign at the entry door specifying: NO SMOKING- OXYGEN USE.

• Be mindful of the potential hazards of heat and flame with oxygen use.

• Make certain the home is equipped with working, properly located smoke detectors.

• Be familiar with your evacuation options from your room, house or apartment.

• Call 911 to summon help if needed.

The office of the State Fire Marshal conveys that since 1997, 17 people have died and 30 individuals have suffered severe burns while smoking and using home oxygen. It has therefore been suggested that if an occupant is unwilling to quit smoking, the risk of fire can outweigh the benefits of oxygen therapy. Please be mindful of the risks of home oxygen use and be safe while using it.

Quincy Lunar New Year Festival At North Quincy High School Feb. 19

Final preparations are underway for the 18th Annual Quincy Lunar New Year Festival to be held Sunday, Feb. 19 at North Quincy High School.

This celebration of the Asian New Year will begin with Opening Ceremonies at 11 a.m. and will continue until 4 p.m.

Free parking is available across the street at the North Quincy MBTA station.

The festival is a free event presented by Quincy Asian Resources, Inc. (QARI) under the leadership of event chairman David Zou.

"This year's Lunar New Year Festival promises to be the biggest to date," said John Brothers, executive director of QARI. "Since moving much of the festival into a larger area of the school, we have been able to invite more exhibitors and accommodate more visitors to what has become not just an event for the Asian community but for the whole city."

The Asian Lunar New Year is celebrated at the end of the annual cycle of new moons and each New Year is named for one of the 12 animals According to ancient legend, the Lord Buddha once summoned all animals to come to him. When only twelve came, he rewarded them by naming each year for them. 2006 is the year of the Dog.

Lunar New Year celebrations are held in Asian communities throughout the world. Traditionally, the New Year is a family holiday. Families come together to visit, share meals and present gifts of "lucky" red envelopes to children. Quincy's celebration will reflect this tradition.

"The New Year Festival is a great family event," said Richard Hung, president of the QARI Board of Directors. "It represents the involvement of many different groups including students of the North Quincy High Thomas Jefferson Forum; two Grand Sponsors, Mohegan Sun and Sunshine Travel, QARI institutional members like South Shore Elder Services and Quincy Community Action Programs and volunteers from the community, all working to bring together several generations of the community to celebrate the new year."

As a family event, the festival offers entertainment for all ages. There will be performances of Chinese, Filipino and Vietnamese music and dance and exhibits featuring the work of local Asian artists. The festival will also feature the Lion Dance, Japanese Taiko Drumming and Chinese opera in the senior citizen area.

There will be a children's area with Asian games and crafts. Local restaurants will serve different types of Asian cuisine including Chinese and Vietnamese foods.

More than one hundred local businesses, government and social service agencies and individuals will be participating in the Lunar New Year Festival. The Grand Sponsors of this year's festival are Sunshine Travel and Mohegan Sun.

Quincy Asian Resources Inc. is a not for profit organization dedicated to promoting the development of the Asian-American community.

For more information about the Lunar New Year Festival or QARI, contact QARI at 617-472-2200 or visit www.qari.info.

Lydon Funeral Home Renews Lofty Oaks Affiliation

Lydon Funeral Home of Quincy has renewed its affiliation with Lofty Oaks Association, a New Hampshire Organization, dedicated to reforestation and conservation efforts in Massachusetts.

The firm arranges to have a tree planted to each service that they perform to provide a living memorial in honor of the deceased and to renew the forest life of Massachusetts.

The memorial trees are planted in the spring and fall. This program is part of an endeavor, to restore the landscape and the environment with the eternal beauty of living trees.

After each service, close family members and friends are informed that the memorial tree has been arranged for by Michelle and John J. Lydon Jr., of the Lydon Funeral Home. When a certified nurseryman has planted the tree, the designated people will receive a certificate of planting suitable for framing and keeping in the family's history.

Special Ed Advisors To Meet

The Quincy Parent Advisory Council to Special Education will meet Thursday, Feb. 16, at 7 p.m. in the Hunting Room, adjacent to Quincy Public Schools Administrative Annex.

Contact 617-688-1797 with any questions.

Vision Deprived Meet To Learn New Skills

Seniors and others with limited vision meet twice a week Tuesdays and Fridays at 10 a.m. at the Fore River Clubhouse, 16 Nevada Rd., to learn new skills from each other.

For more information, call the Council on Aging at 617-376-1506.

Something Special For Your Valentine!

Hearts Come In All Shapes And Sizes

By DONNA ERICKSON

Have a "heart to heart" talk with your kids this week to brainstorm all the cool ideas you can come up with for Valentine's Day fun!

Here are some easy, heart felt ideas coming to your in all shapes and sizes:

SEALED WITH A HEART

Once your children have signed and inserted their valentine cards into envelopes, they can seal them with a kiss- and even their thumbs! It's fun and easy. Show your child how to press her thumb onto an inkpad and then onto the closed flap of the envelope of a valentine card with the first print angled to the right. Make a second thumbprint to the left to create a one-of-a-kind heart shape.

Tip: If you don't have an inkpad handy, make your own. Pour a small amount of liquid nontoxic red or pink poster paint on a small, clean household or makeup sponge. Set it in a dish and use as an inkpad for this activity.

STAINED-GLASS-COOKIE HEART

When you bake a batch of sugar cookies, use a large heart cookie cutter for each cookie. Then use a tiny heart-shaped cookie cutter to cut out the center of each one. Arrange the large cookies on cookie sheets. Meanwhile, one of your kids will love putting red hard candies in a strong plastic bag and pounding them into small bits with a hammer. Sprinkle the bits in the tiny heart centers of each cookie. As the cookies bake, the candy will melt and fill the space to create a heart window.

Tip: To hang them by a string near a window, poke a straw through each cookie before baking to form a hole for stringing once the cookies cool.

PLACE HEARTS

Before guests arrive for a Valentine's Day dinner, make a paper heart for each person. Tear or cut each heart in half in zigzags. Write a riddle or rhyme on one of each of the halves. Write a corresponding verse or answer on the matching half. Place one of the halves at each plate. Give guests the other half and let them find the match at their plate.

If it's only your family around the table, let your school-age child make the place cards for the rest of the family to enjoy!

Something Special For Your Valentine!

A Love Affair With Roses 100 Million Of Them

NAPS) A Valentine's Day classic, roses have symbolized love, friendship and beauty across cultures throughout time. More than 100 million roses in more than 1,000 different varieties are sold each year on this special holiday.

Whether one's taste leans towards the subtle, the flamboyant or the delicate, there is a rose to please. Red roses, however, are symbols of romantic love and dedication, and continue to be the most popular choice for Valentine's Day.

The floral experts who can be found at 1-800-FLOWERS offer the following tips to help extend the life of your roses this Valentine's Day:

• If your roses are delivered in a box, open it immediately and place them in water. If this cannot be done, place the entire box in a cool, dark place.

• To arrange the roses, fill a deep vase with lukewarm water and mix in the floral preservative provided by the florist.

• Remove any leaves that may fall below the waterline when the roses are placed in the vase.

• Use a sharp knife or shears to cut an inch from the bottom of each stem while holding it under water.

• Place roses loosely, yet evenly spaced in the vase.

• Place the vase in a cool spot, away from direct sunlight, heating and cooling vents and appliances that give off heat.

• Add warm water to the vase every day, always keeping it full. Change the water and re-cut the flower stems every three or four days.

• Give roses a face-lift by gently removing discolored or drooping petals to give them a fresh appearance even after several days.

Valentine's Day Social At Marina Place Feb. 14

The Marina Place Assisted Living Community will hold its annual Valentine's Day Social Tuesday, Feb. 14, at 7 p.m. at 4 Seaport Drive, North Quincy.

Trisha Gervais will perform musically along with desserts and cocktails. RSVP to 617-770-3264..

Dr. Jerri Goodman, a cornea specialist, will be on hand at Marina Place today (Thursday) at 12 noon to discuss with seniors dry eye disease and the aging eye.

A light lunch will follow. RSVP to 617-770-3264 as soon as possible since only the first 25 reservations can be accommodated.

Multicultural Night At Central Feb. 16

Central Middle School will hold a Multicultural Night at the school Thursday, Feb. 16 from 7 to 9 p.m.

A multicultural family quilt will be on display made by the students. A number of groups will perform including Irish Fiddle Players Congress, Dulcimer Music, The Mongolia Sister, The Forbes School of Irish Dance, Boston Chinese Folk and Classical Dance Group and students from Central. There will also be a World Fashion Show with Central Students and food from around the world.

There will also be a number of items being raffled including four tickets to Starbridge Village, dinner at Phillips in Dorchester, and teacher raffle items. The grand prize raffle is one night stay at the Providence, RI Marriott including dinner and breakfast for two donated by 8th grader Dylan Roche's father, Mark. The money raised will help defer costs of field trips for the students.

At Quincy City Hall

First Time Home Buyer Workshops March 28, 30, April 6

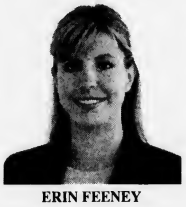
Those interested in learning about buying a home are invited to a free three-session workshop sponsored by Quincy Community Action Programs, Inc.

Sessions are open to everyone regardless of income, credit rating or downpayment availability.

The workshops will be held at Quincy City Hall, 1305 Hancock St., Quincy Center, on Tuesday, March 28, Thursday, March 30 and Thursday, April 6 from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m.

Workshop speakers are practicing real estate professionals. Participants receive a workbook with valuable website and other reference material.

Participants who attend all sessions obtain a certificate at the end of the course, which is a prerequisite for downpayment closing cost assistance, as well as favorable soft second and Mass Housing mortgages.



To obtain a schedule or future programs or for more information, call Kathy Pratt, housing assistant, at (617) 479-8181 ext. 119, or visit www.qcap.org.

NEIGHBORHOOD HOUSING SERVICES of the South Shore, based in Quincy, received a $10,000 check from Bank of America in support of the NeighborWorks America Homeownership Centers. Bank of America's Community Commitment Program offers 100 percent financing with reduced rate mortgages to eligible homeowners. Neighborhood Housing Services has agreed to provide the educational piece for the program. From left are Tom Preston, sales manager and Paul Anghinetti, senior vice president, Consumer Real Estate, both of Bank of America; Janice Tucker, HomeOwnership Center Director; and Normand Grenier, executive director, Neighborhood Housing Services of the South Shore. For more information contact the HomeOwnership Center at 617-770-2227.

Flavin & Flavin's Erin Feeney Earns Accredited Buyer Representation Designation

Erin Feeney, of Flavin & Flavin Real Estate in Quincy, has been awarded the Accredited Buyer Representation (ABR®) designation by the Real Estate Buyer's Agent Council, Inc. of the National Association of Realtors®.

ERIN FEENEY

"Today's real estate agents want to provide a full menu of service for their clients, whether they are buyers or sellers," said Terrence McDermott, president and CEO of REBAC. "The ABR® designation, the benchmark of excellence in real estate buyer representation, demonstrates to clients that the agent has taken steps to continue their education in the area of buyer representation, and has the proven experience and training to deliver ethical and professional service to real estate buyers."

Feeney joins more than 30,00 real estate professionals in North America who have earned the ABR® designation. All were required to successfully complete a comprehensive course in buyer representation and an elective course focusing on a buyer representation speciality, both in addition to submitting documentation verifying professional experience.

Currently, Feeney is one of only two Quincy real estate professionals to have earned the ABR® designation.

For more information or to contact Feeney, call 617-905-4499, e-mail homes@erinfeeney.com, or visit www.erinfeeney.com.

THIS IS A HAMMER

By Samantha Mazzotta

Cost-Effective Shelving

Q. I rented a small studio near my college that has very little storage space, especially in the kitchen, which has only a couple of cabinets under the counter. My landlord gave the OK to put in cabinets, but I have no budget for that. Do you have any other ideas? — Jack in New Hampshire

A. The best option for your wallet would be to add shelves to the kitchen. This can be done in place of cabinets, and later, should you or the landlord decide to upgrade, the shelves can easily be removed.

Home-improvement stores carry a fairly wide assortment of ready-made shelving, ranging from the most basic particle-board kits to attractive custom-designed materials. You'll want to go with the former, which can be purchased for just a few dollars and need only basic tools to assemble and mount.

But before heading to the store, dig out the measuring tape, pencil and paper. Sketch out a rough design of how you want the shelves laid out. Think about what you want to put on them — heavier items require sturdier supports. Measure the space where the shelves will go. Once all this is written down, carry your notes to the store and pick the materials that fit your budget.

Shelves consist of three basic items: standards, the vertical supports that attach directly to the wall; brackets, which fit into the standards and hold the shelves; and the shelves themselves. A bracket-standard assembly every 24 inches should support a shelf, and the shelf should never extend more than 8 inches past the last bracket.

Standards should ideally be screwed into wall studs to provide maximum support. You can locate the studs by knocking along the wall; a hollow sound means you are between studs (they are typically 16 inches apart). A stud locator can help pinpoint their exact placement. Mark the studs with a pencil, and figure out how many standards to place. Pre-drill holes into the studs (slightly smaller than the screws that will be used), then attach the standards.

Even placement of the standards is important, so that the brackets will line up correctly — if they aren't straight, the shelves won't be either. So use a level as you set the standards to make sure they are plumb, both vertically and horizontally. Once the standards are in place, you can snap in the brackets and set the shelves atop them.

Christopher Foley Sales Associate At Century 21 Annex

Phyllis Rudnick, broker/owner of Century 21 Annex Realty, with offices in Hanover and Quincy, announces Christopher Foley has joined the company as a sales associate.

Foley is based in the company's Quincy office.

He has practiced real estate since graduating from Annex Real Estate School and obtaining his license in 2004. His father, Art Foley, who is a Century 21 Annex Realty owner, broker and licensed appraiser, sparked his son's interest in the industry at an early age.

CHRISTOPHER FOLEY

"Two fundamental skills for a real estate agent to have are the ability to listen and to understand that no two customers have the same needs," Foley said. "I am looking forward to building a solid career in the region that I am proud to call home."

Foley is a lifelong resident of North Quincy. When he is not working, he enjoys being outdoors and fishing.

Century 21 Annex Realty, Inc., has offered comprehensive real estate services to the South Shore since 1978. A staff of more than 50 professional Realtors serve the South Shore community.

For more information about Century 21 Annex Realty, Inc., or its services, including sales, rentals, appraisals, property management, continuing education programs and free notary services, call the Quincy office at 617-472-4330 or toll-free 800-345-4614, the Hanover office at 781-829-4210 or toll-free 800-207-8647 or log on to www.C21Annex.com.

2006 Brings Fresh Takes On Casual, Traditional Design

(NU) What are the hottest trends in kitchen and bath design? For 2006, expect fresh takes on casual and traditional styles.

Casual Redefined

For the bath, think subtle textures and soft, soothing accents.

"The look is going very organic for the bath," said Judy Riley, Moen's vice president of design. "Natural elements, including light woods and sandstone, as well as colors such as slate and rich brown, are expected to be very popular."

The idea is to design a space that eliminates any hard or obtrusive lines.

"For fixtures, rounded edges and brushed finishes continue to rule the day," Riley said.

Moving into the kitchen, the casual trend has a slightly different look, referred to as "Cottage Casual." But don't think of rustic barn woods and dried floral arrangements. This trend is sophisticated country chic, with pieces that are clean and simple. Finishes are weathered and time-tested, like Moen's Oil Rubbed Bronze or Copper.

Traditional Takes A Luxurious Turn

When most people define traditional style they think conventional and mainstream. But in 2006, traditional means glamorous, feminine and sophisticated. Look for timeless pieces inspired by deco and nouveau styles from the 1920s and 1930s. You'll be seeing flowing lines with a hint of sparkle on everything from wall treatments to fixtures to flooring.

"Our Vestige kitchen and bath faucets are a perfect example of this trend," Riley said. "Stylistically, it has a very traditional, classic feel, but little details make it more luxurious. A geometric base and curved flowing spout provide a touch of sophistication."

Adding to the glamour of the trend is the use of microtiles in both the kitchen and bath. These small, shiny gems of color create a mosaic effect on walls and backsplashes. Couple this look with worn finishes like antique nickel or high-shine finishes like chrome.

Purposeful design is also important, with space considerations, given for every kitchen task. This means larger sinks in configurations that allow for everything from washing vegetables to chilling beverages to cleaning dishes.

"Pullout and pull-down faucets, like Moen's Aberdeen faucet, provide a sense of style and function that is key to this trend," Riley said.

And what about the details? Try vintage touches like art nouveau-inspired scrolls, or leathers that reveal their natural textures and patterns. These can serve as a surprising accent on cabinetry, wall treatments or accessories.

A Job Well Done

By LT. DAN MINTON
Quincy Police Crime Prevention Officer

On Jan. 28, at approximately 2:30 p.m., Officer Mike Brandolini, the walking beat officer assigned to Quincy Square, was on the library grounds when he observed a red Toyota Camry speed by the Post Office southbound on Washington Street.

He estimated the rapid speed increase to have reached 60 mph, then saw the vehicle jam its brakes on, leaving smoke and rubber as it turned right onto Foster Street. Officer Brandolini ran over to the intersection and saw the vehicle speed off.

LT. DAN MINTON

He then walked around the area looking for the car and as he approached the intersection of Cottage Avenue and Hancock Street, he could hear yelling. As he neared, he saw the suspect vehicle and the sole occupant being screamed at by a pedestrian.

Officer Brandolini was about 15 yards away when the vehicle sped off, taking an illegal left turn onto Hancock Street southbound, driving recklessly on the wrong side of the road, passing six cars. The officer pulled out his binoculars and was able to positively identify five of the six plate digits.

The teletype operator at the station was able to match the plate to the car and determined the car had been stolen in Methuen five days earlier. Numerous patrol units flooded the area in search of the vehicle but were unable to find it.

At approximately 4:15 p.m., Officer Steve Elmes, who had been involved in the search of the stolen vehicle during his day shift, was driving home when a vehicle passed him on Southern Artery at an estimated speed of 70 mph.

Officer Elmes, in plain clothes, cell-phoned the dispatcher, stating he wanted the suspect vehicle, a red Toyota, stopped and gave the dispatcher updates on the direction of travel. He also stated he believed the vehicle was the stolen vehicle involved in the reckless operation earlier.

Officer Elmes was able to catch up to the vehicle, which was stopped in traffic at the lights at Southern Artery and Washington Street. The driver, the sole occupant, apparently did not want to wait for the light and drove over the cement island, then to Curtis Avenue, where the driver parked and went into a house.

Officer Elmes conducted surveillance and waited for responding units to arrive. Officers Bruce Tait, Steve Kelly and Peter Curley established a perimeter and Officer Bill Plant, in an unmarked car, took over the surveillance for Officer Elmes.

After an hour of waiting, a man matching the description provided by Officer Elmes returned to the vehicle. As the vehicle pulled away and turned onto Pray Street, Officer Tait put his blue lights on and stopped the vehicle from traveling forward, while Officer Plant boxed him in from the rear. Officer Kelly then came in from the side and the driver was arrested without incident.

As the suspect was being placed in a cruiser, he began yelling, "My friend told me to take it for a ride." When asked who the friend was, the suspect refused to answer. The defendant, a 42-year-old Quincy resident, was charged with "Receiving a Stolen Motor Vehicle." Nice work!

If you have children who have access to the Internet, a web site worth checking out is www.netsmartz.org. This site provides an opportunity for you and your child to learn about the potential threats that exist online.

From their home page, Netsmartz states, "The goal of the NetSmartz Workshop is to extend the safety awareness of children to prevent victimization and increase self-confidence whenever they go online. These goals include how to:

- enhance the ability of children to recognize dangers on the Internet
- enhance the ability of children to understand that people they first "meet" on the Internet should never be considered their friend
- encourage children to report victimization to a trusted adult
- support and enhance community education efforts
- increase communication between adults and children about online safety"

Quincy Police H.E.L.P. Program

The Quincy Police Department has established an innovative program available to citizens of any age who may have a tendency to wander from their home, community program or medical facility in Quincy.

Possible reasons for wandering are Alzheimer's disease, dementia and autism. The program is also available to those with other medical issues as well as the mentally challenged.

The purpose of the program is to assist the police and other emergency personnel in locating and returning these citizens home safely.

The H.E.L.P. program is free and it is simple to register. An officer will set up an appointment with the individual to take a digital photo and then complete the application. Each individual will receive a gray rubber bracelet with the inscription "H.E.L.P. 617-479-1212."

With this information, the police department could locate the missing person quicker by distributing the individual's picture and information to patrol officers and emergency personnel.

Ideally, a citizen, recognizing that an individual is having a problem and locates the bracelet, would call the Quincy Police. Officers will be able to cross-reference the information and safely return the individual to their home or medical facility.

To set up an appointment, contact either Lt. Dan Minton at 617-745-5719 or Carol Flynn at 617-745-5700.

Spotlight On Health & Fitness

Milton Hospital, Beth Israel Deaconess Center Unveil Co-Branded Image

Milton Hospital and Beth Israel Deaconess Medical Center have unveiled a new co-branded image.

A result of an agreement signed in November with Beth Israel Deaconess Medical Center, the co-brand is represented in Milton Hospital's new logo, which depicts the affiliation while updating the image of the growing hospital.

The logo will appear as the focus as an advertising campaign, as well as in some campus signage at the hospital.

"With our recent affiliation and the new joint clinical programs it will bring, as well as our upcoming expansion and renovation project, this is the ideal time to update our image," said Milton Hospital President Joseph Morrissey. "Our new logo represents our forward-looking approach that will take community health care to the next level."

The affiliation agreement calls for Milton Hospital and BIDMC to operate joint clinical programs using resources from both institutions to bring new and expanded high quality services to Milton and surrounding towns.

Two BIDMC physicians will now see patients at Milton Hospital as a result of this agreement, including OB-GYN Sandra Dayaratna, M.D., and orthopedic hand surgeon Tamara Rozental, M.D.

The logo was created by Commonwealth Creative Associates, a Framingham-based marketing agency.

Beth Israel Deaconess Medical Center is a patient care, teaching and research affiliate of Harvard Medical School, ranking fourth in National Institutes of Health funding among independent hospitals nationwide.

Milton Hospital has 250 physicians on staff, representing primary care and 22 different medical specialties, from pediatrics to geriatrics. The 113-bed community hospital is affiliated with Beth Israel Deaconess Medical Center and provides a wide range of inpatient and outpatient surgical specialties, emergency medicine, critical care, neurology and cardiology.

The hospital has free on-site parking and is accessible by Routes 93, 3 and 95.

Fitness Is More Than a Flat Stomach

Q. As part of my New Year's resolution, I have been exercising and eating pretty well for the past month, but I haven't seen any significant physical changes. How do I know if I'm on the right track? Should I stick with the plan I am following of exercising three times a week, or is it time to make changes so I can see results?

A. Knowing when and how to make changes to your exercise program can often be confusing, but the answer to a simple question can help you identify if your current workout is keeping you on the right path.

Ask yourself, "What are my ultimate long-term fitness goals?" Before you can know if your workout is working, you must figure out your goals. Without setting a goal to strive toward, it can be difficult to identify results. We often focus on the areas of our body that we want to change the most and sometimes overlook other changes that are happening right under our nose.

Yes, we all would like a flatter stomach, firmer arms and a tighter butt, but also consider goals such as improved sleep habits, increased activity levels, decreases in pain throughout your body, and how you feel after a long day of work. These may seem like small or irrelevant goals, but they tell you a lot about how your body is responding to exercise and becoming more fit. You know your exercise and eating habits are working if you see improvements in these areas.

Saying you're not seeing a "significant" physical change in your body means that there is some change. No matter how small this change may be, that is something to be proud of. Please don't get caught in the hype of the presto change-o body transformation you see on television ads and in magazines. Remember, the goal is to live a long and healthy life.

We all know that exercising, eating healthy and making positive lifestyle choices are never-ending. Once we reach our fitness goals, we must continue to keep our bodies in that condition. This will require maintaining a healthy lifestyle each day.

Hang in there with your workouts and be sure to complete a well-rounded workout program with cardiovascular and strength training while continuing to eat properly.

Always consult a physician before beginning an exercise program. If you have a fitness or training question, e-mail Andrea at letters.kfws@ hearstsc.com or write her in care of King Features Weekly Service, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475.

Put Your Best Face Forward:

Tips For Healthier Skin

(NU) Acne may have shown its true colors in your teenage years when hormones kicked in, or in your adult years when stress became a way of life. Either way, this condition can seem impossible to manage at times.

But there are ways to help prevent and teat it. Here are some tips to encourage healthier skin and help stop acne in its tracks:

• Exercise, drink water and take multivitamins. What goes in your body shows on the outside. Exercise increases oxygen to the tissues which keeps skin looking healthy. Water hydrates the skin, banishing dead skin cells and unclogging pores. And a good diet that includes fruits, vegetables and essential vitamins will keep your skin looking great.

• Treat your skin with a natural acne fighter. Whether your skin is oily or dry, there are some new, natural acne treatment products on the market that are not harsh on the skin, such as Nature's Gate Organics Natural Results Acne Treatment System.

This three-step, at-home treatment- containing a corrective cleanser, toner and controlling lotion- pairs salicylic acid, known for its exfoliating properties, with Oligopeptide- 10, a blend of 15 naturally occurring amino acids found to be effective at rapidly thwarting acne-causing bacteria. According to Nature's Gate, it also helps heal the skin and prevent new pimples from forming.

• Stay out of the sun. When that is not possible, use a sunscreen that is SPF 15 or higher. Excessive sun exposure leads to hyperpigmentation (brown spots on the skin) and can encourage pimples, redness and uneven skin.

• Remember, everything in moderation. Stay away from smoke, excessive alcohol and stress. All have been shown to contribute to skin irritation and premature aging.

For more information and skin-care tips, log on to www.natures-gate.com or call 800-327-2012.

BAD BREATH PREVENTION

If you have bad breath, you may be able to put a stop to it by scraping your tongue with a device designed especially for the task. Tongue scraping mechanically eliminates the bacteria that accumulate at the back of the tongue that contribute greatly to bad breath. In addition to this and regular brushing and flossing, you may also want to try eating more yogurt. New Japanese research suggests that live bacteria in yogurt can suppress levels of bad-breath-causing bacteria. In most cases in one study, two common bacteria in yogurt (Streptococcus thermophilus and Lactobacillus bulgaricus) lowered levels of "bad" bacteria and their malodorous by-product (hydrogen sulfide) by more than half in subjects with confirmed halitosis.

Talk to us if your concerns go beyond morning breath. As your dental professional, we pride ourselves on providing the highest quality dental care for you and your family, in a relaxing and comfortable environment. A good experience with dentistry is based on making the right choice in a family dentist and in taking steps to keep dental costs at a minimum through self-care at home between visits. Please call 617-479-6220 to schedule an appointment. We're located at 44 Greenleaf Street. We offer the services of anesthesiology with a fully trained and qualified anesthesiologist. Visit us on the web at www.quincydentist.com.

P.S. It also helps to use a tongue scraper in the fight against bad breath.

Tourney-Bound Raiders Eye Home Playoff Game

By CHRIS POISSON

BOYS' BASKETBALL

The North Quincy High School boys' basketball team had plenty to celebrate last Friday night at home.

Not only did senior tri-captain Kyle Costa score his 1,000th career point, the Red Raiders also qualified for the state tournament with their 67-52 victory over Bridgewater-Raynham.

With six games left in the regular season, North Quincy (11-5, overall, 6-2 league) has its sights set on a possible home game in the postseason.

"We still have six regular season games to go," said head coach Jim Rendle. "We'd like to do well in those games and possibly with 16 or 17 wins we might get a home game for the tournament. That's our main focus."

What about catching Quincy (14-1 overall, 8-1 league) for the Atlantic Coast League championship?

"One league game at a time," Rendle said. "We would like it to come down to that final game. That would be a great night. This place would be incredible."

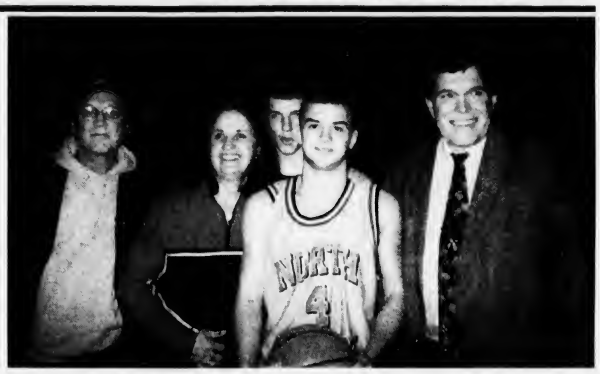
North Quincy played Plymouth South Tuesday and will travel to Whitman-Hanson Friday at 6:30 p.m. Next week, it hosts Plymouth North Tuesday and Quincy Friday to finish league play.

Against B-R, the Red Raiders held a slim 28-27 lead at halftime as everyone seemed on edge in trying to make sure Costa reached his milestone.

"We were a little bit tight," Rendle said. "I think Costa felt the pressure and forced a couple of shots. We didn't execute offensively all that well and we didn't pressure them as well as we should have."

Needing only three more points for 1,000, Costa buried a long-range 3-pointer 1:20 into the second half. Soon after, North Quincy seized control of the game, outscoring the Trojans, 20-9, over the next six minutes to grab a 58-44 lead.

"He hit that shot and that really did loosen it up and we took control of the game," Rendle said. "I think it was a burden on everybody. He was relieved, I was relieved, we all were relieved. We knew it was going to come but we also wanted it to come at home because he deserved that. A lot of the kids at school supported him, which is nice to see."



Costa finished with 23 points, including four 3-pointers, to go along with five assists, five rebounds and four steals.

Senior guard Imad Elkatrib turned in another dazzling defensive night with eight steals. He also scored 18 points and grabbed six rebounds.

"Eight steals is starting to be his average," Rendle said. "When we put that pressure of them, him and Kyle are very good at it. We can't do it an entire game because they'll get into foul trouble. We have to pick our spots and when we do it we've been pretty effective."

Senior tri-captain and center John Murray added 15 points, five rebounds and two blocks and senior tri-captain Kevin Donovan chipped in four points, seven rebounds and five assists.

Last Tuesday, the Red Raiders cruised to a 66-44 triumph at Dennis-Yarmouth. Elkatrib turned in another remarkable two-way game with 12 steals and 16 points. Costa scored a team-high 20 points with five steals, five assists and two blocks.

SENIOR KYLE COSTA became the fifth boy in North Quincy High School history to score 1,000 points when he scored 23 in a 67-52 win over Bridgewater-Raynham last Friday at home. From the left are his father Russ, mother Ann, brother Tyler and head coach Jim Rendle.

Fifth Red Raider To Reach Milestone Mark

North's Kyle Costa Nails 3-Pointer For 1,000th Point

Kyle Costa's 1,000th career point couldn't have been scripted any better — his signature 3-pointer from way beyond the arc.

Needing 15 points entering last Friday night's game against Bridgewater-Raynham, the senior point guard netted 12 in the first half to leave no doubt he was going to reach the milestone that night in front of the home crowd.

A 1:20 into the second half, Costa, who had just missed a pair of free throws, grabbed an offensive rebound, passed to a teammate and quickly got the ball back, where he squared up and nailed a deep bomb from two feet behind the line.

With the student fans serenading him with "He's a legend," the game stopped briefly as Costa held the game ball and posed for pictures with his family and head coach Jim Rendle.

"Relief," Costa said following North Quincy's 67-52 win. "I'm so relieved. It didn't really hit of how much it meant until I heard the crowd and everyone came to hug me and the coaches gave me the ball. That's when it really kicked in."

Costa became the fifth boy in school history to crack 1,000 points, joining Doug Grutchfield, Sean Donovan, Brian Ross and Phil McGillicuddy in the exclusive club.

His accomplishment is even more special because the Red Raiders also clinched a berth in the state tournament with the win.

"Yeah, it is," Costa said. "I was pumped, especially against a team like that. I've played them since I was in fourth grade."

Costa finished the game with 23 points on 7-of-11 shooting, including four 3-pointers, while also filling out the stat sheet with five assists, five rebounds and four steals.

Rendle, who became coach of the team Costa's freshman year, said he's been a consistent sharpshooter but an even stronger defender and ball handler over that time.

"He's got a 1,000 points and the amazing thing about it is he hasn't been our major scorer over that course of time," Rendle said. "He sets other people up. His main responsibility for us is his defense and bringing the ball over half court. He's just the best I've ever seen at it. So when you get a 1,000 points when we don't look at him as a scorer, that's pretty amazing. That's really amazing. He's a special player.

"We knew he was going to be special his freshman year. We knew it right off the bat. His ball handling skills, right from the beginning, were incredible. We never thought about the scoring aspect. He wasn't a scorer at all. I mean he did score, but it was all secondary stuff. He wasn't really part of the offense. He just took what they gave him and he got a few points, not a lot. His sophomore year he started scoring a lot more. His junior year he scored a lot more than he is now for us."

Costa, who'll never forget how he scored his 1,000th point, remembers the details of his first varsity points.

"We were away at Taunton," he said. "Coach Rendle wasn't putting me in because I was a freshman and it was against a big team. We were down by about 12 with like four minutes left in the first half. Coach was like, 'All right Kyle, go in there' because my brother was telling him to put me in. I came out and I put a floater in over Sampson. I remember his name too. I scored 13 points and I started the very next game."

Presidents Win 8th Straight

The Quincy High School boys' basketball team extended its winning streak to eight games with two more victories last week at home.

The Presidents rallied for a 54-43 win over Sandwich last Tuesday and demolished Plymouth South, 82-41, last Friday.

Quincy (14-1 overall) rests in first place in the Atlantic Coast League North Division with an 8-1 record, but faces three difficult league matches to close out the season.

After playing Tuesday at Whitman-Hanson, which is two losses behind them in the standings, the Presidents host Plymouth North Friday at 6:30 p.m., the only team to beat them so far, and close next Friday against rival North Quincy, which is only a game behind.

"As we head into the stretch, we're playing well," said head coach Bob Fisher. "We just have to maintain that because there's no margin of error in this league. The title race is very tight."

Against Plymouth South, Quincy built a 42-27 advantage at the break before blowing the game wide open in the second half by outscoring the Panthers, 40-14.

"We played very strong defense," Fisher said. "They weren't one of the stronger teams around but they've competed successfully. Our kids just played inspired and they exploded in the second half. Everyone got to play in both halves.

Senior tri-captain and forward Lovell Johnson drained 21 points, including five 3-pointers, and senior tri-captain and center Joe Griffin scored 12 points with eight rebounds.

Sophomore forward Deshawn Matthews turned in a strong game with 11 points and eight rebounds off the bench.

"He's getting better and better and better," Fisher said. "He's feeling more comfortable with his surroundings."

Junior backup center Kinsin Theorodis played his best game of the year with 11 points and seven boards. Sophomore backup guard Paris Amado added seven points.

"A lot of the younger kids are getting better as time goes on and they gain more experience," Fisher said.

In the Sandwich game, the Presidents found themselves training 23-16 at the intermission before tying the game in the second half and then pulling away when they engineered a 19-0 run.

"That was a nail-bitter in the first half," Fisher said. "We shot the ball poorly as we had problems attacking their 1-3-1 zone. But we solved it at halftime."

Johnson tied the game at 27 with three foul shots and then he canned four 3-pointers during the outburst. He finished with a season-high 26 points.

"Lovell is getting on track and shooting much better," Fisher said. "He's defending well, he's rebounding well and he's shooting well. He's doing a great job for us being the focal point of our offense."

Junior forward Steve Connolly scored 11 of his 13 points in the second half and also snatched 10 rebounds.

"Connolly and Griffin are doing really well as a tandem underneath in terms of defense, rebounding and scoring," Fisher said. "(Freshman) Doug Scott, even though he's not scoring as much as early in the year, is playing much more like a true point guard. He had 18 assists in two games last week."

JUST SKIMMING THE SURFACE

Driving too fast on wet surfaces dramatically increases the risk that your automobile with hydroplane. This term refers to the circumstance when the car is going too fast for the tires to channel moisture away from the center of the tread. As a result, the tire will be lifted off the road by the water, and all traction will be lost. Aside from slowing down in the rainy weather, it is also imperative that drivers not use their cruise control in the rain. Cruise control is not able to discern between different road surfaces and driving conditions. Thus, if the tires were to lift off the road and continue to accelerate, the risk of a skid is markedly increased.

Hydroplaning is a dangerous risk of driving on wet roads. To limit the chance of hydroplaning bring your car to LEO & WALT'S SUNOCO. Our ASE Certified mechanics can check your tires, suspension, and alignment to ensure good handling on wet terrain. Located at 258 Quincy Ave., E. Braintree, we have all the modern diagnostic tools to help maintain and repair your vehicle. If you have questions regarding your vehicle please call 781-843-1550. "A Place Where Your Car Can Live Longer."

HINT: To avoid hydroplaning, tires must be of sufficient tread depth, and water-evacuating grooves must be incorporated into the design of the tread.

A DIVINE SIGN — This billboard near Fenway Park shows three North Quincy friends, from the left, Dennis Thomson, Joe Fitzpatrick and Neal Gavin, celebrating with Trot Nixon after he hit a game-winning home run in the 2003 ALDS. Dennis and Maureen Thomson believe it's a sign from their son Dennis, who was killed by an alleged drunken driver in 2004.

Red Sox Billboard Touches Lives Of Quincy Family

Twenty-eight months after Trot Nixon belted a walk-off home run in extra innings to help the Red Sox beat the A's in Game 3 of the 2003 ALDS, the memory has come back to touch the lives of a Quincy family.

An enlarged image following that game is captured on a Red Sox billboard on Brookline Avenue between Lansdown Street and Yawkey Way. Nixon is shown celebrating with three excited fans: North Quincy friends Dennis Thomson, Joe Fitzpatrick and Neal Gavin.

For Dennis and Maureen Thomson, the only way they can explain why that picture was chosen to promote ticket sales for this upcoming season, is that it's a divine sign from their son Dennis, who was killed in 2004 at age 20 after sustaining injuries from an alleged drunken driver in Mississippi.

"It's a sign from him," said his father, a retired Boston police officer. "There's no other way to explain it. He's saying, 'Dad, don't worry. I'm OK up here.' We had no idea he was going to be on it. It was a shock to see it. It's kind of looking over Fenway Park and he loved baseball."

Dennis is the one on the left, wearing a bright red T-shirt, a rally cap and an infectious expression of joy. Fitzpatrick is in the middle, holding Nixon's home run ball he caught, and Gavin is on the right, glowing in the moment. Childhood buddies, the three of them graduated in 2002 from North Quincy High School.

Dennis, a three-sport star in baseball, football and basketball at NQHS, joined the Air Force in 2003 and planned to become a police officer after his service.

After visiting friends in Biloxi, Miss., Dennis was driving back to Tyndall Air Force Base in Panama City, Fla., when the tragedy struck Oct. 30, 2004 — the same day of the Red Sox World Series victory parade. He was in a coma and died Nov. 22.

A scholarship fund has been established in his name at Bank of America to help those NQHS graduates who best represent the qualities Dennis had academically, athletically and socially. Donations can be made to the Dennis Thomson Fund and mailed to his parents at 68 Freeman St., Quincy, MA 02170.

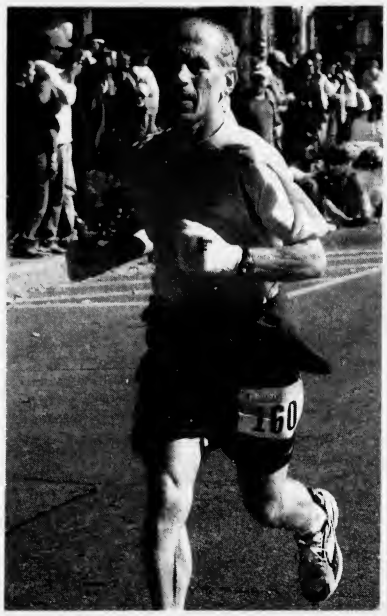
Plans To Run Boston To Hopkinton - Then Hopkinton To Boston On Patriots Day

Quincy's Hassan Haydar Doubling Marathon Pleasure

Hassan Haydar of Quincy plans on making his sixth Boston Marathon even more challenging than it already is.

The 55-year-old has set his sights on completing the marathon not once, but twice in the same day.

"What I am planning on doing on Boston Marathon day could be a story that might inspire others to take up running and improve their physical condition," he said.



"As I have read in one of the magazines recently: 'Running is more than just the run. It is a vehicle that can influence positive change.'"

Haydar will begin the 52.4-mile trek at the finish line around 6 a.m. and run to Hopkinton, where he will join 20,000-plus runners at noon for the official start of the race. He estimates it should take him nine to 10 hours to complete.

A member of the L Street Running Club in South Boston, Haydar will prepare for his task by doing 40- and 45-mile runs during February and early March as part of his training.

"I am lucky to have some members at the L Street Running Club that are willing to come out and run longer with me, despite the fact they are only doing the 26.2 miles on April 17," he said.

Haydar will also have company on race day as he will be joined by Robert Walter of Natick and Mark Iscool of Richard, Va. Haydar, who has run with Walter before, received an e-mail from Iscool after he posted his plans on L Street's web site.

HASSAN HAYDAR, 55, of Quincy will run his sixth Boston Marathon, twice in the same day, in hopes of inspiring others to take up running and improve their physical condition.

"He e-mailed me to inform me that he did the 'in-and-out' last year with three other people and is thinking about doing it again," he said.

Haydar, who has finished 11 previous marathons all in under four hours, first started to run when his daughter was in middle school.

"I used to run with her for real short distances and then for weight control and the sense of feeling good," he said.

And then he began to take running serious when he joined the L Street Running Club in 2001.

"I would run here and there until a friend got me an application to join the L Street Running Club," he said. "For $35 a year membership, how could anyone beat that?

"My advice to anyone who wants to take up running is to join a running club. Trust me, you will not do it on your own. It is always easy to find an excuse not to run if there is no structure and mean to force you to get up and meet with others for various runs."

Third Try The Clinching Charm For Quincy

By CHRIS POISSON

The Quincy High School girls' basketball team clinched a tournament berth in its third try last week.

After suffering a 61-51 loss at Sandwich last Tuesday and a 71-64 setback to Archbishop Williams at home last Thursday, the Presidents pulled out a 56-34 victory the following night at Plymouth South.

"That one put us in," said head coach Jeff Bretsch. "It's the fourth year in a row we're in the tournament and we're very excited about that. Last year we had to win our last two games by less than two points to squeak in. So we're pleased to get that behind us and now focus on finishing the season strong and improving our seed."

Quincy (10-5 overall, 6-3 Atlantic Coast League) played Whitman-Hanson Tuesday and will travel to Plymouth North Friday at 6:30 p.m.

Against Plymouth South, the Presidents struggled early as they only had a 26-20 lead at halftime against the 1-12 Panthers.

"We had a rough week last week as we played a couple of tough teams," Bretsch said. "I think we were feeling frustrated about that and it carried over in the beginning of the game. In the second half we really turned it around. The first five or six minutes we opened up."

GIRLS' BASKETBALL

Senior co-captain and forward Jessica Page poured in 33 points, her fourth 30-point game of the season, and also grabbed 8 rebounds. She's first in the Atlantic Coast League in scoring and sixth in the state with 21.8 points per game.

Sophomore guard Marybeth Torpey scored nine points and junior forward Hope Collins added five points and sophomore guard Sasha Smith four off the bench.

Against AW, the Presidents faced a 39-26 halftime deficit as they couldn't get the ball into Page's hands on offense and defensively they couldn't contain point guard penetration or keep AW off the offensive glass.

"In the first half, defensively, we had a hard time figuring them out," Bretsch said. "Our half-court man usually is our strength. Their point guard was really doing some damage off penetration and off backdoor cuts.

"And their offensive rebounding was outstanding. We weren't able to keep them off the boards. Time and time again they got second chance opportunities."

In the second half, Quincy moved Page from the post to the outside, forcing AW to abandon its box-and-one defense and go to man-to-man.

"We were more successful when we did that," Bretsch said. "Once she discovered the shot was available, she shot the ball very confidently."

The Presidents' defense also turned it up a notch with their press and they went on a 10-0 surge in four minutes to slice AW's lead to 46-43 with nine minutes remaining. They trailed 52-50 with 5:30 left, but couldn't get over the hump.

"In the second half we just did a much better job of getting ourselves into a defensive mind set," Bretsch said. "We were a little more aggressive when we went to the press. We made a little run. We were within striking distance but we couldn't make that last little push.

"The kids played with a lot of heart and guts in the second half. This team never feels like it's out of it. No matter what the score is, they always think they can come back. That's the kind of heart I ask for. I'm proud of that effort. We just got ourselves in too big of a hole."

Page scored 15 of her team-high 21 points in the second half. Junior forward Brighid Kyle chipped in 14 points, including eight in the first five minutes of the second half that also forced AW to change its defense. Sophomore guard Meagan Tobin (11 points) and Torpey (10) dished out five assists apiece.

Last Tuesday, the Presidents blew an 11-point halftime lead in their loss at Sandwich. Page scored 22 points and Torpey added eight.

Ayers Hosts Pizza Party For Barnstable Girls' Volleyball Team At State House

State legislators Rep. Bruce Ayers (D - Quincy) and Rep. Demetrius Atsalis (D - Barnstable) recently joined with members of the State Champion Barnstable Girls Volleyball Team and North Quincy Red Raiders at the State House.

Earlier this year, Ayers, a North Quincy alum, and Atsalis, a Barnstable alum, made a friendly wager prior to the Massachusetts Volleyball Semifinals between the two teams that the loser would buy lunch for the winning team. Rep. Ayers made good on his luncheon wager and hosted a pizza luncheon in the State House for the Barnstable Girls Volleyball team who visited the State House.

Rep. Atsalis thought he surprised Ayers when he brought the entire team, coach Tom Turco and athletic director to the State House. But Ayers had his own surprise when he appeared with volleyball captain Erin Connolly, and Red Raider player, Hallie Acton, who were both in the State House shadowing Rep. Ayers as part of North Quincy High School's Junior Achievement Day.

Showing good sportsmanship, Ayers, Connolly and Acton served the pizza.

"The pizza tasted much better because Rep. Ayers paid for it," Atsalis said.

MAKING GOOD on a Bet – Rep. Bruce Ayers (D-Quincy), third from left, and Rep. Demetrius Atsalis (D-Barnstable) joined with members of the State Champion Barnstable Girls' Volleyball Team and North Quincy Red Raiders at the State House recently. Ayers made good on his luncheon wager and hosted a pizza luncheon in the State House for the Barnstable girls. With them are (from left) Hallie Acton (North Quincy), Captain Erin Connolly (North Quincy) and Barnstable Co-captains: Gen Moore, Amy Sears, Katelyn Morin, Carly Newton, and Liz Anger.

"It was good to have Red Raiders allies with me," Ayers said. "I hope the Barnstable girls enjoyed the pizza because we know that the Red Raiders will be enjoying it next year."

WINTER CAR CARE

Drivers: Don't Forget To Check The Antifreeze

(NU) One of the easiest and most important tasks to prepare your vehicle for winter driving is to inspect the level and freshness of your vehicle's antifreeze.

The Car Care Council recommends that motorists check their antifreeze every 12 months or 12,000 miles to help protect the engine from freezing and overheating as well as from rust and corrosion damage.

The most common formulation of antifreeze is green in color and uses ethylene glycol as a base with anti-corrosion additives mixed in. Ethylene glycol lowers the freezing point and raises the boiling point of the radiator fluid to keep the water from freezing on cold days and from boiling over on hot days.

Over time, these additives wear out, lessening their ability to protect vital engine and cooling system metals against rust and corrosion. Your vehicle owner's manual will provide antifreeze usage specifications.

"Inspecting and maintaining your vehicle's cooling system takes just a few minutes of your time, but it is well worth it when you consider what could happen," said Rich White, executive director of the Car Care Council. "Cooling system failure is the leading cause of engine related breakdowns, which can cost thousands of dollars and leave you and your family stranded at the worst possible time."

To check the level of antifreeze, you will need a few basic service tools and an antifreeze ball tester, which is available at auto part stores.

Always make sure the engine and coolant system are cool before you begin. Opening a hot radiator or coolant reservoir can cause severe burns. If the antifreeze is low, add a 50/50 mix of approved antifreeze and distilled water. If you changed your antifreeze recently, but your level is low, use the antifreeze ball tester to make sure the antifreeze-to-water ratio is correct.

This is also a good time to inspect and replace any bad cooling system hoses. Check for leaking, brittle, spongy, cracked or rotted hoses and make sure that the radiator hose clamps are tight to prevent leaks at the connections.

If you're unsure about any aspect of cooling system service, have your car inspected by a professional service technician. Checking your vehicle's cooling system today will ensure that it's ready for the long winter ahead.

To obtain a free service interval schedule, visit the Car Care Council Web site at www.carcare.org.

Don't Let Potholes Puncture Spring Fun

By Trisha Hessinger
For NewsUSA

(NU) Many of us eagerly await the arrival of spring every year. But once the spring showers wash away what's left of winter, often we are left dodging potholes on the roads.

Potholes form as pavement ages and weathers. The pavement eventually begins to lose its ability to resist water, and small cracks start to appear. As water works its way down into the cracks and expands as it freezes, it pushes up on the pavement. The weight of cars and trucks can break up this uneven pavement, creating a pothole.

Hitting a pothole can easily ruin your beautiful spring day, not to mention your tires or wheels. The sharp impact caused by hitting a pothole can cause immediate tire or wheel failure. Or, internal damage could eventually lead to tire failure weeks or months later. Despite the dangers of potholes, there are measures you can take:

• Start with proper tire inflation. Keeping your tires properly inflated will help reduce damage from potholes and other road hazards.

• Check the tread on your tires, because uneven wear can be a sign of misalignment. Hitting potholes can effect your vehicle's alignment. If you feel your car "pulling" to one said during driving, that's a sign that you could have a problem.

• If you can't avoid hitting a pothole, do not brake during the impact. Instead, try to apply brakes before hitting and release them just prior to impact. Braking during the impact sets up the tire and wheel assembly for a "solid hit" against the edge of the hole. Severe damage can be better avoided while the tire is rolling, rather than skidding, over a hole during braking.

Just as you undertake spring cleaning to get your house in order, take advantage of the warmer weather to make sure your tires and vehicle are also in the best possible condition. Properly maintaining your tires includes proper rotation, inflation, repair and replacement.

Remember to check your tire pressure at least once a month and be sure to rotate your tires according to recommendations in your owner's manual.

SCOTT DEWARE

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Valentine's Day is for children, lovers and romantics. Well, essentially, yes, but when it comes to affairs of the heart, everyone is included.

Valentines need not be expensive. A happy note written in your own handwriting . . . a telephone call to someone who might otherwise receive a call.

Some people find it hard to say "I love you," but on Valentine's Day they express that sentiment with special remembrances or gifts. It is also a day that "mushy" sentiments on brightly colored paper are not really taken seriously (i.e. Valentines exchanged by children at school). There, the important thing is the number of valentines received, not the sentiment. As people mature, the sentiment becomes more important than the number.

It takes only a little time to send a valentine, or a note, or to make a telephone call to someone, especially someone who is a little "out of circulation" these days. A little surprise gift will make that someone feel special, and you'll feel good too!

A funeral Mass for Teresa F. (Wall) Kelly, 88, of Newburyport, formerly of Quincy, a retired crossing guard, was celebrated Tuesday at St. Mary's Church, West Quincy.

Mrs. Kelly died Feb. 4 at the Country Rehabilitation and Nursing Center, Newburyport.

She retired from the Metropolitan District Commission after many years as a crossing guard on Furnace Brook Parkway in Quincy.

Born in Newfoundland, Mrs. Kelly came to the United States as a child. She was raised in South Boston and lived in Quincy for many years before moving to Newburyport.

Wife of the late Thomas J. Kelly, she is survived by two sons, Brendan F. Kelly of Seabrook, N.H., and Robert J. Kelly of South Boston; three daughters, Carol Nelson of Quincy, Ellen Kelly of Sagamore and Teresa E. Kelly of Newburyport; and several grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

She was the mother of the late Thomas J. Kelly, Sr.

Burial was in Blue Hill Cemetery, Braintree.

Funeral arrangements were made by Dennis Sweeney Funeral Home, Quincy.

SHINE Counsel At Aging Office

A SHINE counselor will be available Tuesdays and Wednesdays from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. at the Quincy Council on Aging office, 83 Saratoga St., Quincy, to assist the elderly and adults with disabilities with health information and benefits.

SHINE is the acronym for Serving the Health Information Needs of Elders.

Call 617-376-1247 to make an appointment or to speak with a SHINE counselor.

Dorothea A. Madden, 84

Former Professional Ice Skater

A funeral Mass for Dorothea A. "Dottie" (Dempsey) Madden, 84, of Norwood, a former professional ice skater, was celebrated Feb. 4 at St. Ann's Church, Wollaston.

Mrs. Madden died Jan. 30 at Caritas Norwood Hospital.

Born in Boston, she was a graduate of Quincy High School.

After high school, she worked briefly as a model for Furs of Distinction, a former Quincy fur retailer.

Her competitive figure skating career began in the early 1940s. She won the Miss Massachusetts Queen of the Ice contest and the New England Ice Queen title.

She also competed in the National Queen of the Ice competition and placed in the top six.

Mrs. Madden received a professional contract to tour nationwide with the Ice Capades.

She moved to Hollywood in 1943 and received a contract with Paramount Pictures. During World War II she gave up the movie business and married Paul V. Brown and later they raised a family.

When she moved back to the Boston area, Mrs. Madden went to work as a data processor for Kiddie Fenwal, an electronics manufacturing company in Ashland. She worked there for 27 years, retiring in 1986.

DOROTHEA A. MADDEN

She lived in Norwood for 25 years.

She enjoyed reading, history, politics, business, sports and geography.

Wife of the late Paul V. Brown and the late John F. Madden, she is survived by two daughters, Dorothea A. Brown of Brookline and M. Carol Grady of Rockland, Maine; a sister, Delores Jennings of Foxboro; two brothers, William Dempsey of Wellesley and Gerard Dempsey of Pembroke; a stepson, Robert Madden of Rhode Island; three stepdaughters, Jane LaFerr and Kathleen Gross, both of Rhode Island and Susan Gatier of France; three grandchildren and four great-grandchildren; and many nieces and nephews.

Burial was in Blue Hill Cemetery, Braintree.

Funeral arrangements were made by the Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., Wollaston.

Elizabeth J. Fuller, 79

Homemaker

A funeral service for Elizabeth J. (Doucette) Fuller, 79, of Quincy, a homemaker, was held Feb. 4 at Sweeney Brothers Home for Funerals, Quincy.

Mrs. Fuller died Jan. 31 at the Hancock Park Nursing and Rehabilitation Center after a long illness.

Born in Halifax, Nova Scotia, she came to the United States as a child and was educated in Baltimore. She lived in Weymouth for four years and in Abington for 10 before moving to Quincy three years ago.

She is survived by three sons, Paul R. Fuller and Michael G. Fuller, both of Weymouth, and Robert J. Fuller of Kingston; her former husband, Charles Robert Fuller of Melrose; seven grandchildren; and three great-grandchildren.

ELIZABETH FULLER

Burial was in Central Cemetery, Halifax.

Funeral arrangements were by Sweeney Brothers Home for Funerals, 1 Independence Ave.

A MOTHER'S LOVE

KRISTAL AND CHUCKIE SPAULDING

If I could have one lifetime wish
One dream that could come true
I'd pray to God with all my heart
For all those yesterday's with you

My Baby Doll and my Little Guy

I think of you both in silence
And very often speak your names
Now all I have are memories
And pictures in a frame

I know you both walk beside me
And when my life on earth is through
I know that God will take my hand
And bring me home to you

Kristal, your are my life, my best friend
I am in awe of you and I worship the ground you've walked on
You are so sadly missed
Twenty years was not enough
My forever beautiful Valentine

I love you both with all my heart

Always and forever

Mommie Doll

We need you.

Every time I think of you
It makes me want to cry

Every time I dream of you
It makes me want to die

Never in a million years
Did I think you'd be gone

You meant everything to me
It's hard to carry on

I know you told me not to cry
But what am I to do

I hate to face each coming day
Without your love and you

Love you always and forever
my beautiful Valentine

A Memorial Service will be held at 9:00 am on 2.14.06 at St. Jeromes Church North Weymouth, Route 3A

Grandpa loved gardening, baseball, and playing the harmonica.

Your memories are precious. That's why, at Keohane Funeral Service, we take the time to find out what made your loved one special. Whether it's gathering some of the flowers he so tenderly cultivated or finding a musician to play "Take Me Out to the Ball Game" on the harmonica, you can count on us to help you plan a service that will be just as unique as the person you love.

SELF STARTER! Challenge: To initiate some research: With how many toothpicks—without bending or breaking any—can letters of the word INITIATE be formed? Fifteen, 17, 19—what say?

In cap letters it takes toothpicks

TIME WARP? What ho, Mr. Moon, when we fix our gaze on the black spot in the figure below, the two long lines (from side to side) appear to bend inward, as if to a distant infinity. Yet, when we hold the display at eye level and sight along these same two lines, alakazam, they are perfectly straight and parallel.

Why is this so?

It is a classic example, of course, of a design that fools the eyes.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) A gracious Lamb can learn more about a problem-filled situation than one who is openly suspicious of what could be happening. A friend might offer some well-directed advice.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Getting adjusted to an unexpected change might be difficult for the Bovine who prefers things to go according to plan. But help could come from a most welcome source.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) This could be a good time to get a head start on those career-related plans. The sooner you check out the pluses and minuses, the sooner you can act on your information.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) A personal situation you thought would no longer present a problem could suddenly produce some surprises. Try to sort things out with the help of trusted colleagues.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) An upcoming move holds both anticipation and anxiety for Leos and Leonas who have some big decisions to make. Advice is plentiful, but it's up to you to decide which way you want to go.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Someone from a previous project could provide valuable guidance on how to handle a current problem, especially where it might involve a legal matter.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) A business situation presents some unexpected complications. But rather than try to handle them all at once, it would be best to deal with them one at a time.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) You just might get what you want, despite the odds against it. In any event, be sure to thank all those people involved who believed in you and went to bat for you.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Before you even hint at an accusation, remember that you'll have to prove what you say. So be sure you have what you need to back up your comments.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) A romantic situation takes an unexpected turn that favors some Sea Goats, but causes others to reassess how they've been handling the relationship.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) A surprise turn of events could unsettle the Water Bearer. But it might also help open up an entirely different way of working out an important matter.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) A smoothly running operation could bump up against an obstacle. This is where your ability to assess situations and make adjustments can restore things to normal.

BORN THIS WEEK: Your kindness is legendary, and so is your strong sense of responsibility.

HERE IS A PLEASANT LITTLE GAME that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner and check one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

WEI Hosts Women's Enterprise Forum

The Women's Enterprise Initiative (WEI) recently hosted a Women's Business Forum at the Newton Free Library, Newton.

WEI, a partnership with the City of Newton and the New England Women Business Owners, provides women business owners the opportunity to expand their business and grow as entrepreneurs.

A panel of financial, sales and marketing experts donated their time to review and evaluate a business plan presented by Marlene MacDonald, Owner/President of Hanover-based The Cabinetry.

Paula Lyons, former TV consumer editor, and currently Senior Consultant, Bates Communications, moderated the event.

"I am very grateful to the WEI for inviting me to participate in this event. The panel and audience provided helpful feedback," MacDonald said. "WEI gives women business owners the opportunity to make the connections they need to improve their business."

ATTENDING THE RECENT Women's Enterprise Initative Women's Business Forum were (from left), Paul Lyons, former TV consumer editor; Marlene MacDonald, owner/president of The Cabinetry; and panel members Suzanne Paling of Sales Management Services in Belmont; Dolly DiPesa of Dipesa & Co. LLC in Quincy, who counseled MacDonald on finance and accounting issues, and Lori Moretti of CM Communications in Boston, who answered marketing questions.

The Women's Enterprise Initiative is a partnership with the City of Newton and the New England Women Business Owners.

Founded in 1996, its purpose is to assist women in developing successful businesses. WEI provides women business owners with the educational and networking resources they need to further expand their company.

For more information on The Women's Enterprise Initiative, call 617-566-3013 or visit the web site at www.ci.newton.ma.us/wei.

Recent Medicaid Changes Topic Feb. 22

Attorney Dagmar M. Pollex, a local attorney and member of the Massachusetts Academy of Elder Law Attorneys, will talk about the recent Medicaid changes at Milton Hospital, Wednesday, Feb. 22 at 10 a.m. in the Nangeroni Conference Center.

Pollex will explain the impact of new rules for long term care and Medicaid planning and discuss the key points that families need to know about their current planning options in order to protect savings and meet rising long term care costs.

To register, call Christine or Luann at 781-535-6490 to register.

In light of the recent legislation passed by the U.S. Senate establishing new rules for long term Medicaid planning, Pollex will address how these changes will potentially drastically change (and reduce) the options available for many middle-income families to protect at least some of their lifetime savings.

She will also suggest ways to plan in order to offset the fewer options now available to protect savings and meet rising long term care costs. Anyone concerned about the possibility of needing long term care for themselves or their loved ones in the future will benefit from this important program.

Pollex has been practicing law in Massachusetts for over 26 years, and focuses on the areas of Elder Law and Estate Planning for individuals, families and businesses.

She is a member of the National Network of Estate Planning Attorneys, Wealth Counsel and the National Academy of Elder Law Attorneys.

For more information, contact the firm at 781-535-6490.

Quincy Youth Soccer Meeting On Special Needs Program Saturday

Quincy Youth Soccer will hold an informational meeting on TOPSoccer, a program designed for children with special needs, Saturday from 10 to 11 a.m. at Quincy Parks and Recreation Department, 1 Merrymount Parkway.

TOPSoccer is a community-based training and team placement program for young athletes, organized by youth soccer association volunteers. The program is designed to bring the opportunity of learning and playing soccer to any boy and girl, ages 6-16, who has a mental or physical disability.

The goal is to enable the hundreds of young athletes with disabilities to become valued and successful members of Mass Youth Soccer and Quincy Youth Soccer.

Quincy Youth Soccer is looking forward to starting a program this spring. It is an outdoor program and isn't meant to interfere with any Special Olympics programs.

For more information, contact Malcolm MacNeil at 617-471-5317.

High School Basketball Tournament Feb. 19-20

The 21st annual High School Coca Cola Hall of Fame Basketball Classic will be held Feb. 19-20 at Massasoit Community College in Brockton.

The event is sponsored by Coca Cola Bottling Co. and Board 54-IAABO Plymouth County Basketball Officials, in conjunction with Massasoit Community College.

The tournament schedule:

Feb. 19: Rockland-Cardinal Spellman, girls, 2 p.m.; Duxbury-Braintree, girls, 3:45 p.m.; Cardinal Spellman-Duxbury, boys, 5:30 p.m.; Rockland-Braintree, boys, 7:15 p.m.

Feb. 20: Girls consolation, 2 p.m.; boys consolation, 3:45 p.m.; girls final, 5:30 p.m.; boys final, 7:15 p.m.

The tournament is being organized for the 21st year by Board 54 referees Peter Hansen, Harry Straughn, Steve Petluck and Doug MacFarlane, head coach of the North Quincy High School girls' basketball team.

IAABO Board 54 referees donate their time to run and officiate the event in hopes to give something back to the sport of basketball and to the kids who play it on the South Shore.

Tickets will be available at the door for $5, with children under 12 free.

Refreshments are available during the entire tournament.

Traveling With Dementia

"Peter" plans to take his wife on a trip to their daughter's home in Colorado this spring and will be traveling by air. His wife has been diagnosed with Alzheimer's disease, and although she has been functioning quite well since the diagnosis, he's noticed what he calls "blanks" in her memory, and occasional angry outbursts. He asks for any advice we can give him.

I would advise Peter to check with her doctors first. If they say she can travel, then he should tell the airline about his wife's condition. They will give him information on how to prepare her for the flight and how to make her flight as comfortable as possible.

It's important for the attendants to know about her, including other problems she may have and what medications she takes. These details are important to have in case of a medical emergency.

The confining spaces of an airline toilet can create problems. Caregivers may want to stay with their charges, especially during turbulence.

Peter should tell fellow passengers about his wife's condition to avoid misunderstandings.

Keep all medications, extra eyeglasses, copies of prescriptions and other medical data and needs with you. Also keep some familiar items in easy reach: Perhaps a washcloth from home, or a piece of clothing or anything else she can relate to.

Keep smiling and talking to her. She needs a lot of reassuring as she tries to cope with an unfamiliar world.

(Note: Please share your advice for Peter and anyone else planning a trip with someone with dementia or any other medical condition.)

Write to Matilda Charles in care of King Features Weekly Service, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475, or send e-mails to letters.kfws@hearstsc.com.

CRITIC'S CORNER

By D.N.A Smith

"Hostel"

Running time: 95 minutes
MPAA rating: R

"Hostel" is, in a way, three movies in one — and none of them are very good. Although the film is being marketed as an extremely graphic torture movie, a good two-thirds of the film is spent being anything but that.

The first section of the movie introduces us to Paxton, Oli and Josh, three 20-something stoners who are backpacking around Europe looking to shove anything in a bong that might remotely promote a buzz. They're also looking to bag as many EuroHotties as biologically possible. This isn't so much a torture film as a film that's torture to watch.

Our three doofuses hook up with a dude in Amsterdam who tells them there is a hostel in Slovakia that has the most beautiful, accommodating women in Europe. Naturally, they hotfoot it to Slovakia and check into the hostel, and that's when the film begins its descent into the gory stuff.

Turns out the Dutch dude set up the Stoner Trio to be kidnapped and taken to a remote, bombed-out factory where people pay up to $50,000 to torture a complete stranger.

The torture section of the film is extremely graphic, but not as horrible as you're led to believe by the commercials. Frankly, I've seen the horror stuff done better.

Jay Hernandez

One by one the boys are tortured and killed. But Paxton (played by Jay Hernandez), manages to escape, and then "Hostel" becomes a Chase Movie, as the sole survivor chases down the leader of the Snuff Club.

Really. Don't bother with "Hostel." It's a mess of a film. If you really have an itch to see it, wait a few weeks. It should be out on DVD by then.

They added WESX in 1952, Tobin slipped away to a station in Gloversville, N.Y., and Asher died in 1973 leaving a young (26) Jay Asher in charge.

Over the years, WJDA has been the springboard to celebrity for a number of broadcasters, notably Ken Coleman, who became the Voice of the Red Sox, and Don Kent, who became the dean of Boston weathermen with WBZ.

For years, listeners woke up to "Breakfast with JDA," news reports by Herb Fontaine and Joe Catalano, and remained for the talk show, "Party Line," with Roy Lind and Win Bettinson.

Girls Soccer Skills Program Begins Feb. 13

The Quincy Recreation Department will conduct a six-week soccer skills program for girls as part of its evening recreation gym program.

The program will be held at Lincoln Hancock School gym Monday nights starting Feb. 13. There will be two separate periods: grades 5 to 7 from 5:30 to 7 p.m. and grades 8 to 10 from 7 to 8:30 p.m.

Registration will be taken on the first night of the program and will be limited. After the registration period there will be a full program of skills.

The program will feature activities and instruction to improve the fundamental soccer skills of each youngster. The participants will also take part in mini games.

Don Martin, head coach of the Quincy High School girls' soccer team, will direct the program and will be assisted by members of the Recreation Department staff.

The program will end March 27 and there will be no session on Presidents' Day, Feb. 20.

Participants are requested to wear sneakers and appropriate gym attire. For more information, call the Quincy Recreation Department at 617-376-1394.

License Board Revisits Jazz Moon Suspension

The License Board was scheduled to hold a special meeting yesterday (Wednesday) at 4 p.m. to clarify the status of the licenses held by the Jazz Moon , 217 Quincy Ave.

The licenses were suspended for 30-days last week after the establishment was caught serving alcohol to a minor in a sting Dec. 29 for the third violation in 20 months.

The Jazz Moon asked the board to stay the suspension pending an appealed to the State Alcoholic Beverages Commission but it was denied.

It Wasn't So Bad

SNOWBOUND cars wait out the storm on Atlantic Street in North Quincy.

YOUNGSTERS enjoy the newly fallen snow on Heavenly Hill near Furnace Brook School.

NEWLY FALLEN snow turns Black's Creek into an idyllic winter wonderland.

A Lot Of Snow But:

Blizzard Packs Little Punch Here

By TOM HENSHAW

It was the strangest of northeast winter storms.

Meteorologists called it a blizzard. Snow fell in near record amounts. The wind reached near gale force of 35 miles an hour. The temperature fell well below freezing.

Yet in Quincy, where folks have grown up with nor'easters, life for the most part went on as if nothing out of the ordinary was going on around them.

"Nothing of an emergency nature happened," said Tom Gorman, the city's director of Emergency Management. "Nothing our public safety people couldn't handle on a routine day.

"Coastal flooding was minimal," said Steve O'Donnell, the director of Public Works who had 70 pieces of equipment battling the snow. "There was very little property damage."

In fact, the highlight of the storm was the appearance of O'Donnell and Mayor William Phelan on the Weather Channel, which broadcast its Boston report nationally from the boardwalk at Marina Bay.

There was no early estimate of the cost of the storm but O'Donnell said the cost could "easily go to six figures when the post-storm cleanup is finished."

Gorman figured that about 15 inches of snow fell on Quincy but the fact that almost all of it came down on a Sunday and there were a couple of days advance notice minimized any problems.

"The height of the tide kept damage down," said Gorman. "It was only 9.2 feet. If there had been a big one like the week before there would have been a lot of coastal flooding.

"It was on a weekend, too. There wasn't a lot of traffic to deal with. Most people stayed home which gave the plows an opportunity to stay ahead of it."

O'Donnell said his Public Works Department began preparing for the storm well before it struck and was able to send trucks and plows out shortly after 1 a.m. Sunday when the snow started.

"We had about 14 hours of hard plowing," he said. "It's still going on (at 1 p.m. Monday). We're trying to get the streets more open. We're working on the main walking routes and safety issues."

During the storm, said O'Donnell, the DPW had

Star Of The Sea Hints At Further Vatican Appeal

Friends of the Star of the Sea in Squantum just won't give up in their efforts to have the suppressed house of worship brought back to life as a full-fledged parish church.

Although they have been turned down once by officials in the Vatican, the Friends indicated Tuesday that they are willing to carry their case at least one more step up the appeal ladder.

Star of the Sea Parish was closed in October, 2004, but the building was allow in July, 2005, to remain open as a chapel for one Mass a week, supplied by Sacred Heart Parish in North Quincy.

Their appeal to reopen as a parish church was rejected by Boston Archbishop Sean O'Malley and further appeal to the Congregation for the Clergy in the Vatican also was denied.

"Although the decision is disappointing it was not entirely unexpected," said Maureen Mazrimas, co-chair of the Friends. "It is very rare for the Congregation to overturn the decision of a bishop."

"All hope is not lost," said Sean Glennon, the other co-chair. "Appeals can be submitted to a higher power than the Congregation for the Clergy."

That higher power is called the Supreme Tribunal of the Apostolic Signatura and, said Glennon, it "has been known to overturn the decisions of the Congregation for the Clergy."

Glennon said a poll among members of the Friends at the end of January showed that more than 96 per cent were in favor of filing such an appeal.

Mazrimas recalled that last April members of the Friends met with the (Peter) Meade - (Sister Janet) Eisner Reconfiguration Review Committee.

"At that meeting we were able to illustrate that when applying the Archdiocesan criteria to determine the viability of parishes, there were 14 flaws in the decision to suppress Star of the Sea.

"It was due to this evidence that Star of the Sea was reopened this past July — but only as a chapel."

3 New Tenants For Quincy Food Court

By MARIE D'OLIMPIO

The Pacific Food Court at the Quincy Fair Mall, 1585 Hancock St. is taking shape and almost complete with three new tenants.

The License Board Tuesday granted common victualer licenses to Julie Fang, manager of the Taste of Taiwan, Dwayne Law, manager of Sushi Time and Allen Challeunsack, manager of the Puket Cafe.

The area is right across from the Cinema on the same floor.

Maralin Manning, executive director of the Qui ncy Business Association told the board that "people coming in to the food court all have extensive experience."

She added that its a "new concept and one we hope will do well."

KAI LAU, manager

Last Friday, the main restaurant opened at the Food Court called the Hot Pot whereby patrons can come in and make their own soup in a pot provided by the restaurant.

The common seating area is in the center of the court.

Kai Lau, manager of the Food Court said the use of paper plates has been replaced by china and plastic providing a more sanitary and safe way especially dealing with hot soup. He said that dishwashers were recently added to the court.

Chris Harrington, counsel for the Food Court said that each restaurant has its own sinks and bus boys will collect plates from the tables and they will all go into the dishwasher.

The restaurants will be open seven days a week from 11:30 a.m. to 12:20 p.m.

The Puket Cafe offers foods from Vietnamese rice plates to spicy beef salad, papaya salad, lamb, and hundreds of other specialties.

All three restaurants that were granted their common victualer licenses will be open by April according to Lau.

LICENSE BOARD BRIEFS

The License Board took the following action at Tuesday's meeting.

•Granted a general permit to Eugene Dean of Fiesta Shows, Seabrook, NH. for the annual mayor's carnival May 3-18 at Faxon Field.

•Granted a common victualer license to Carla Aguiar, doing business as Little Brazil, 136 Washington St. Jay Duca requested that the name Lima Travel be taken down and Little Brazil in its place. The store will sell appetizers and also clothing. Acting Chairman Drew Scheele told the spokesman for Aguiar who does not speak English that someone has to be able to speak and understsand English when an emergency occurs. The spokesman said her sister will be on hand and she speaks English.

•Granted a lodging house license to Robert Corley, manager of Neighborhood Housing Services, for the 11-unit rooming house on 358 Washington St.

•Granted a brunch and pool table license to Christopher Mealey, doing business as Kilroy's, 132 East Howard St. (former Yard Rock).

Mealey said he has plenty of parking and that he discourages anyone form parking on Winter Street.

The Sunday brunch will begin at 9 a.m.

•Granted a change of managers at the Houghs Neck Post American Legion, 1116 Sea St. from Raymond Larue to James Fratolillo.

•Granted a beer and wine license for a wine tasting event at St. Ann's School Saturday, Feb. 25 in the Scally School Center.

•Granted a one-day liquor license for the March Madness Event at St. Ann's School, Saturday, March 24.

Full-Day, Half-Day Kindergarten Sessions Registration March 4, 7

Registration for kindergarten full-day or half-day sessions will be held Saturday, March 4, and Tuesday, March 7.

The March 4 registration will be from 9 a.m. to noon and the March 7 from noon to 3 p.m., announces Assistant Supt. Carmen Mariano.

Students seeking full-day or half-day placements must be registered at their home school on one of those two days. March 4 is considered the better of the two days.

Mariano said the school system will do its best to place all full-day kindergarten students in their home schools and that it will be to a parent's advantage to register the child as early as possible.

The School Committee last Jan. 25 approved a plan to offer a full-day kindergarten for all students who will be 5 years old on or before Aug. 31, 2006 (born on or before Aug. 31, 2001). Parents will be allowed to choose either a full-day or half-day program.

The following documents must be produced in order for a student to be registered:

• Child's birth certificate (with raised seal)

• Proof that child resides in home school district (any two: tax bill, utility bill, copy of lease)

• Photo ID of the adult seeking to enroll the student

No matter when a child is registered he/she will be offered a full-day experience if his/her parents so desire; but if space is limited in the child's home school, and a child is not registered early enough, he/she may have to be transported to a full-day class in another school.

Phase II of the registration process will take place in April. Details in that regard will come to all pre-registered students some time in March.

Copies of a booklet detailing the entire QPS kindergarten program and registration process are available in all QPS elementary schools, on Channel 22 and on the QPS web site: (www.quincypublicschools.com).

Interested parents are encouraged to obtain and review this booklet in advance of the March 4 pre-registration date.

Questions regarding the kindergarten program or any other Quincy Public Schools offering may be directed to any of the following principals:

• Amelio Della Chiesa, Dennis Carini, 617-984-8777.

• Atherton Hough, Dorothy Greene, 617-984-8797.

• Beechwood Knoll, Diane O'Keeffe, 617-984-8781.

• Charles A. Bernazzani, Richard Hutchison, 617-984-8713.

Ice Cream Parlor Coming To Quincy Center

By MARIE D'OLIMPIO

Not since Baskin & Robbins ice cream parlor moved out of Quincy Center has there been a place to buy an ice cream cone.

That will all be ended in May when Quincy Center will finally have an ice cream parlor.

The License Board Tuesday granted a common victualer license to Lynn and Tim Galligan who will own and operate the Quincy Creamery at 5 Cottage Ave.

Acting Chairman, Health Commissioner Drew Scheele said "Quincy really needs an ice cream parlor since we haven't had one since Baskin & Robbins was here."

Maralin Manning, executive director of the Quincy Business Association said that the Galligans are "very modest in that they own a very successful deli on Wood Road in Braintree.

Lynn said in addition to the homemade ice cream, there will be other desserts including homemade apple pie, and cheese cake among others. They will also serve coffee.

Hours of operation will be from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. and maybe longer hours in the summer.

Do you have an adjustable rate mortgage or home equity loan?

Will you be able to afford your payment when rates start going up? Lots of people have gone with adjustable rate loans because they could "buy more house" or just because the rates were so low. But rates are starting to move up now. In fact, short-term rates went up more than a point over the past few months. Fed watchers say they'll be going up again soon. Did you always plan to switch to a fixed-rate loan before rates went up? Then we should talk. At Colonial Federal Savings Bank, we can make it very easy for you to convert to a fixed-rate loan. And fixed rates are still hovering near 50-year lows. Is that adjustable rate loan starting to make you nervous? Come see us. Or call 617-471-0750.

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On Feb. 15, 1812, Charles Lewis Tiffany is born. After political upheaval in Europe in 1848 dropped the price of gems, he snapped up cheap diamonds, including a few of the French Crown Jewels, which he later sold for a tidy sum, prompting the press to dub Tiffany "The King of Diamonds."

• On Feb. 13, 1905, President Theodore Roosevelt delivers a stirring speech on the state of race relations. He referred to white Americans as "the forward race," whose responsibility it was to raise the status of minorities through training "the backward race[s] in industrial efficiency, political capacity and domestic morality."

• On Feb 18, 1929, the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences announces the winners of the first Academy Awards. The awards, gold statuettes, weren't nicknamed "Oscars" until 1931, when a secretary at the academy noted the statue's resemblance to her Uncle Oscar.

• On Feb. 19, 1942, ten weeks after the Japanese bombed Pearl Harbor, U.S. President Franklin D. Roosevelt signs Executive Order 9066. By June, more than 110,000 Japanese Americans were relocated to remote internment camps built by the U.S. military.

• On Feb. 14, 1962, the first televised tour of the White House airs, hosted by first lady Jackie Kennedy.

• On Feb. 16, 1979, the Bee Gees receive the Grammy for Best Album of 1978 for "Saturday Night Fever." The Australian brothers — Barry, Robin and Maurice Gibb — signed with Festival Records of Australia in 1962, when Barry was 15 and his twin brothers were 13.

• On Feb. 17, 1982, American director, actor and drama coach Lee Strasberg, the founder of "method acting," dies of a heart attack at age 80. The technique required actors to draw on their own intense memories of emotion in order to generate the required feeling onscreen.

Tame Compared To '78

They're calling it "The Blizzard of '06."

Technically, it had all the qualifications: snow, wind and cold.

But to those who were around for the historic "Blizzard of '78" it seemed more like just another big snowstorm.

Parts of the region really got hammered. But there wasn't that much fury here. Compared to '78 it was pretty tame.

Quincy got hit with 27 inches of snow in '78. Germantown, Houghs Neck and Squantum were battered. Residents in flooded areas were evacuated to shelters. Some 1,500 customers, most of them in Quincy Point and North Quincy, lost power.

The city was virtually paralyzed for most of the week.

Last weekend's snowfall in Quincy is estimated as up to 14 or 15 inches. But it was fluffy and easier to handle. No flooding. No evacuation. About 200 outages.

Still, 14 or 15 inches of snow is a lot of snow. And DPW Commissioner Steve O'Donnell and his crews did a good job overall clearing the streets and sidewalks. They deserve a "well done."

The "Blizzard of '78" is one to be long remembered for its fury.

The "Blizzard of '06" probably for being kind to us.

SISTER JOANNE WESTWATER, the popular founder and retired executive director of the Quincy based Good Shepherd's Maria Droste Services, is sidelined with a fracture of the right leg.

WESTWATER

She fell leaving St. Joseph's Convent in Quincy Point.

She is now at Hancock Park, 164 Parkinway, Quincy Center (room 504-B), undergoing therapy. And welcomes visitors.

When she fell, she called 911 on her cell phone. She was carrying among other things, a cup of coffee.

"And you know what," she muses. "I didn't spill a drop."

A STAR IS born? Sal Giarratani is making his movie debut in "STIFFS" about wakes set in a former funeral home in Everett.

GIARRATANI

Sal is an extra in two scenes, one with Danny Aiello. Well, almost with Aiello.

He is shown escorting two women in black up the stairs to the funeral home. Aiello is at the top of the stairs.

"I'm playing a low-level hood with great Italian hair," says Sal. "The movie will come out later this year. You can spot me. I'm the good looking Italian guy wearing a purple shirt, white tie and blue jacket."

He doesn't think that scene will be cut because Aiello's in it.

But Sal wants you to know, if Hollywood calls, he's still going to be writing those letters to the editor.

FAITHFUL SUN READERS Jean and Elliot Patten, who grew up in North Quincy and now live in Palm Beach Gardens, Fla., report they are still dealing with Hurricane Wilma's wrath.

Some 126 patio porches are being rebuilt and the entire complex in which they live is still being renovated.

But they can still smile and send along this "obituary" they came across, author apparently unknown. You might like it. Goes like this:

It is with saddest of heart that we pass on the following news.

The Pillsbury Doughboy died yesterday of a yeast infection, and complications from repeated pokes in the belly, he was 71.

Doughboy is survived by his wife, Play Dough, two children, John Dough and Jane Dough. He is also survived by his elderly father, Pop Tart.

Doughboy was buried in a lightly greased coffin. Dozens of celebrities turned out to pay their respects, including Mrs. Butterworth, Hungry Jack, The California Raisins, Betty Crocker, the Hostess Twinkies and Captain Crunch. The grave site was piled high with flours.

Aunt Jemima delivered the eulogy and lovingly described Doughboy as a man who never knew how much he was kneaded. Doughboy rose quickly in show business, but his later life was filled with turnovers. He was not considered a very smart "cookie," wasting much of his dough on half-baked schemes.

Despite being a little flaky at times, he still was a crusty old man and was considered a roll model for millions.

The funeral was held at 3:50 for about 20 minutes. He will be missed by so many.

'UNScrabble' Fundraiser At Library March 16

The Literacy Volunteers of Massachusetts-Quincy (LVM-Quincy) will hold the eighth annual UNScrabble fundraiser Thursday, March 16, from 6 to 8 p.m. at the Thomas Crane Public Library, 40 Washington St.

Registration fee is $15 per person with proceeds to benefit the library's literacy tutoring program.

UNScrabble play consists of 30 minutes of frenzied word building using all the Scrabble tiles in a short amount of time. Players may purchase extra Scrabble tiles of peeks at the dictionary.

Volunteers are trained and matched through LVM-Quincy and have provided free tutoring to adults in basic reading and writing since 1986. The fundraiser is co-sponsored by Altrusa International Inc. of Quincy.

Call Elaine Kline at 617-376-1314 for registration forms and information.

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS IS a 1907 postcard view of the old Squantum Inn, which opened in 1899 at Squantum Park, just off Shoreham Street in Squantum. Dorchester Street is in the foreground. The inn was built by Nelson V. Titus, who owned a farm and most of the land in this part of Squantum. Joseph Lee, the inn's manager, made it a popular destination with his famous native seafood and fresh game dinners. In addition to its main dining room, the inn featured private dining rooms and a sweeping veranda for outdoor dining overlooking Dorchester Bay. In later years, the inn's name was changed to the Wan-eta. Then in 1929 Boston radio stations WNAC and WAAB built a 430-foot transmitting tower here. It was the first time in the world to use a new dual-transmitting technology but it caused havoc with Quincy residents' ability to receive other radio stations. In 1943, station WAAB was moved to Worcester and the tower was unnecessary. It was then demolished along with the inn and the five-acre site was divided into house lots. Today remnants of the tower's base and cable moorings can be seen in the yards of the houses built there. To contact Tom Galvin, e-mail tmgalvin@verizon.net.

13,000 On Strike At FR Shipyard

Feb. 17 - 22
1960
46 Years Ago

A strike of some 13,000 workers at the Bethlehem Steel Co.'s Fore River Shipyard entered its third week with Quincy and the South Shore beginning to feel the pinch of the loss of a $2 million weekly payroll.

Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa asked the state to reimburse Quincy for its share of money paid to veterans during the strike payments, which amounted to 15,696 between Feb. 5 and 17.

The Shipbuilding Workers Union informed the U.S. Navy it would not permit its members to do any work whatsoever on the $35 million cruiser Springfield, which was 95 percent completed at the yard.

The Navy had asked the union for its help in moving the missile cruiser from Fore River to the Boston Navy Yard for completion.

Snow Shoveling Ordinance Should Include Multi-Family Houses

The Quincy City Council's passage of the bill to fine owners of non-residential buildings if they don't shovel out snow is commendable.

I just wish the bill went one step further and fined owners/landlords of houses/multi-family units. Too often, I and many other pedestrians have had to slip-slide on icy sidewalks or sidewalks buried in snow, or forced to dangerously walk on the streets.

There's one stretch of sidewalk, directly across from the Quincy Center "T" station, Burgin Parkway side, that has been negligently not shoveled for I don't know how long; the owners/landlords of these multi-family houses should be heavily fined; the owners can hire someone/company to shovel if they can't or are unable to.

Unfortunately, it seems some owners/landlords need to have "their cards stacked against them" before they would do anything positive for their community."

Heating Tax Credit Bill Just Illusionary

The legislature last fall enacted a tax credit for oil and gas heat expenses from November 2005 through March 2006 as well as a credit for home energy products, such as vinyl windows.

The bill's sponsors were both the Senate President and House Speaker as well as Senator Morrissey and Rep. Dempsey.

The law was intended to help the poor such as widows and couples and families with low income pay for the high energy bills.

Turns out the state tax form shows it to be an illusionary credit that equals zero, if you are one of the households or families on low income and in the no tax status as appearing on page 15 on the Mass Tax informational booklet.

Thousands of retired city and state workers are in this category.

The poor were forgotten in this one. Sounded good in the news stories but it was just a white elephant.

Nancy Barron Receives Paul Keough Award

Nancy Barron, assistant principal of the Beechwood Knoll School, recently received the Paul Keough Award from the New England Water Environment Association (NEWEA).

The award was established in 1994 in memory of Paul Keough, in recognition of his leadership and efforts to communicate to the public the needs to protect the water environment. Keough was a reporter for The Patriot Ledger prior to joining the Regional Office of the Environmental Protection Agency, where he started as a Public Affairs Officer and worked his way up to Regional Administrator.

In addition to her job as assistant principal, Barron is also the fourth grade science/social studies teacher, and the founder and lead educator for the Explorers Club at the Beechwood Knoll School. In her role with the Explorers Club, she demonstrated her leadership ability in effectively communicating to the public the need to protect the water environment.

NANCY BARRON, assistant principal at Beechwood Knoll School is presented the Paul Keough Award by Douglas Miller, New Englad Water Environment Association president.

Among numerous community-based learning projects undertaken by the Explorers Club was a documentary entitled: A Year At Sailor's Home Pond, which was written by Beechwood Knoll students and produced by Barron. This film, which aired on Quincy's local access channel, has made an impact on how the community, as well as the students involved in the project, perceive the pond, its flora and fauna.

The production, educating not only the students who created it, but also a substantial at-large public audience, is just one example of how Nancy Barron has proven herself to be a worthy recipient of the Paul Keough Award.

Barron received the award at NEWEA's annual conference, held at the Marriott Copley Place in Boston.

For more information on NEWEA, call 781-939-0908, or email: mail@newea.org.

John, Abigal Play In Three Performances

"Marriage of True Minds," a play about John and Abigail Adams' love for each other and their zeal for liberty maintained throughout 10 years of the American Revolution, will be presented Friday, Feb. 24 through Sunday, Feb. 26 for three performances at the Quincy High School auditorium.

Discover Quincy, the official tourist agency of the city of Quincy, is sponsoring this professional production of the play written by Martin P. Kelly.

The play's title, taken from a Shakespearean sonnet, celebrates the couple's single-minded support of the revolution and of each other. The three performances will be staged at the school's theater, near the couple's burial site in United First Parish Church.

Through excerpting their letters, Kelly's two-character play provides the audience with a solid glimpse of John and Abigail's involvement in the American Revolution. The play also offers the image of the binding love shared by the two during almost seven years of separation from each other in the decade from 1774 to 1784.

The premier of the play was in July, 2004 at the Bridge Theater in Whitehall, NY where there is a continued effort of the producers of the not-for-profit venue to maintain a historical concept for its summer seasons. John and Abigail's letters echo their strong belief in the need for liberty for the American colonies and also express the couple's deep affection for each other.

Adams, a member of the American Congress, who got the Declaration of Independence through the Continental Congress, spent almost seven years separated from Abigail, while conducting the business of forming a new government. She, in turn, kept their home and family intact, in what was then part of Braintree, while Adams lived in Philadelphia and later in France as the American representative working on peace arrangements with Britain.

She remained a keen observer of the political and military events taking place thoughout that period. These facts are borne out in Abigail's letters to her husband.

Kelly, a veteran stage director as well as playwright, has long been a student of the American revolution. He has been captivated by the Adam's unique idealism and down-to-earth approach to life.

"These letters illustrate the fervor of their belief in independence for the colonies while also dealing with the poignancy of separation and the humor and tragedy of life between husband and wife," Kelly said.

Kelly, who is producing artistic director and playwright-in-residence at the Bridge Theater in Whitehall, NY is a veteran of more than 50 years in theater as a writer, critic, director and producer. He has also written "Victory in Defeat," a play about Benedict Arnold when he heroically stalled a large British fleet on Lake Champlain in 1776, holding back an invasion by the English for a year.

William Hickman, a veteran professional regional actor in the Capital District in New York State, will play John Adams in "Marriage of True Minds" in the Quincy performances. He previously portrayed John Adams several years ago in a historical tribute to the American Revolution in Atlanta, GA.

Hickman is also an associate producer of Riverview Entertainment Productions, a professional theater company of which Kelly is producing artistic director. The company has produced the summer seasons at the Bridge Theater for the past six years.

Hickman originated the role of Adams in the 2004 Bridge Theater premier of "Marriage of True Minds." Rita Russell, another veteran theater professional from the Capital District in New York, will be seen as Abigail Adams. She also originated the role in the 2004 premier in Whitehall.

Red Cross Plans Spring Gala March 9

The American Red Cross Chapter of Massachusetts Bay will hold its 28th annual "Suddenly Spring" Thursday, March 9, at the Quincy Neighborhood Club.

The evening will include cocktails, dinner and musical offerings by Suzanne Lockwood. Tickets are $75 per person. Tables for 10 may be reserved for $750.

Co-chairing the event are Tom Accomondo, Lynn Houghton and Dr. John Pasciucco, assisted by members of the Red Cross South Area Council.

Jackie Gardner, executive director of the American Red Cross South Area based in Quincy, reminds benefactors that the Red Cross is "always there" to help in emergencies such as floods, fires and storms.

Hundreds annually are taught by the Red Cross how to give first aid and CPR and many have been trained to save lives with automatic external defibrillators.

Each year thousands of units of blood are collected at local bloodmobiles and thousands of local school students participate in special youth programs, "Safe On My Own" and "Whales Tales."

South Area Council members assisting in this year's gala are:

Michelle Bowen, Kevin Burke, James Chiccino, Jerry Dacey, Donna Feenan, Mark Fisher, Daniel Flynn III, Michael Gianoni, Richard Gormley, Mae Harris, Michael Healy, Michelle Higgins, Maralin Manning, Daniel May, James McLean, Kevin Meskell, Maryrose Myrick, Robert Petrie, William Reilly, Joseph Richardi, Mary Snethen, Walter White and Catherine Wood.

More information and tickets may be obtained by contacting the South Area Red Cross office at 617-770-2600 or a member of the South Area Council.

PLANNING THE AMERICAN Red Cross "Suddenly Spring Gala" March 9 at the Quincy Neighborhood Club are (seated) Co-chair Lynne Houghton and Jackie Gardner, executive director Red Cross South Area and (standing) Co-chairs Tom Accondo and Dr. John Pasciucco.

12 Quincy Residents Inducted Into Boston College High Honor Roll

Twelve Quincy students have been inducted into the National Honor Society at Boston College High School.

They are:

Wesley K. Chen, Ian M. Flaherty, Francis P. Hartel, Michael J. Maxey, Alexander M. Miner, Jeffrey C. Mui, Conor M. Roche, John P. Schiepers, Eric R. Still, Francis E. Tansey, Nicholas G. Venuti and Justin Woo.

The Quincy residents were among 115 seniors and juniors inducted into the Robert J. Fulton, S.J. Chapter of the National Honor Society at a recent ceremony in the school's Fahey-Hunter Commons.

Guest speaker was Massachusetts State Senator Jack Hart, an alumnus of BC High, class of 1979.

A reception for the inductees and their parents followed the ceremonies.

The National Honor Society is established under the National Association of Secondary School Principals to provide recognition to high school students who have clearly distinguished themselves in their school and community for scholarship, character, leadership and service.

Boston College High School is a Jesuit, Catholic, college-preparatory school for young men founded in 1863. The school enrolls approximately 1300 students from some 100 communities in eastern Massachusetts

City Seeking New Proposals For Collecting Unpaid Parking Tickets

The city has issued a new Request for Proposals for the collection of outstanding or unpaid parking tickets.

Mayor William Phelan noted that the city will be following up on outstanding parking tickets three years ago and he's collecting more than $1.4 million in outstanding revenue from unpaid parking tickets.

"I made a promise to collect revenue that was due to our taxpayers and this program is an example of another successful initiative," said Mayor William Phelan. "People who did not pay their parking tickets can no longer ignore their obligation to our taxpayers. We will continue to build on the success of this effort with the new contract."

The city contracted with MVP Enterprises in 2002 in an effort to collect more than 200,000 outstanding tickets. MVP created a link between the city's database of outstanding tickets and the Registry of Motor Vehicles. The Registry will not renew a driver's license if there are parking tickets owed.

The new request for proposals will also call for handheld enforcement equipment for parking control officers and compatible database software for appropriate city personnel.

The original contract called for the city to pay a percentage of revenue collected, meaning that no actual capital outlay was required to collect the $1.4 million in outstanding revenue.

"I'm pleased with our success to date, but there is more that we can do to ensure that our taxpayers receive what is due to them," said Phelan. "I hope that the new contract will build upon our success and ensure that both old and new parking tickets are properly resolved in the interest of our taxpayers."

SEN. JOHN KERRY visited the Central Fire Station in Quincy following his speech to a breakfast meeting of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce at the Quincy Marriott Hotel. MODELS await their turn to show their interview outfits at the "Hey, Kid . . . Get a job!" fair at the Y. Left to right, Clara Saade, Lisa Meloski, Edson Souza, Patric Stroud, Michael McPherson, Mona Matta and, standing, Cheryl Nolan of Old Navy stores.

'Hey Kid . . . Get A Job!' Has Interview Tips For Teens

Sixty students from Grade 11 at Quincy and North Quincy High Schools recently spent the day at the YMCA learning the first step in becoming gainfully employed —the interview.

They dubbed it: "Hey, Kid . . . Get a job!"

Grade 12 students modeled proper clothing from the Old Navy stores, representative from My Turn and the YMCA practiced proper interview techniques, and Public School personnel led resume workshops.

All participants were served a continental breakfast at the Y and lunch at The Three Seasons Restaurant at Quincy High School. Each student received a $50 gift certificate from Old Navy for interview clothes.

"It was really and informative day," said Ledia Kadiu from Quincy High. "I really came for the food, the fun and the gift certificate but I left knowing how to prepare resume, dress for an interview and present myself at a job site."

Local Botanical Artist Topic At Historical Society

Guest speaker John Galluzzo will present the little-known story of Isaac Sprague of Hingham, a 19th century naturalist and artist, at Quincy Historical Society, Thursday, Feb. 23 at 7:30 p.m., at the Adams Academy, Quincy Center.

Sprague was, by all accounts, a physically slight man. Yet in 1843, he was one of only four men whom the great naturalist John James Audubon picked to accompany him on an arduous journey into the still largely unexplored wilderness of the Missouri River to search for new species of animals for Audubon's proposed book Quadrupeds of North America.

Galluzzo's will reveal that the reason Sprague was chosen is clear: In the opinion of such contemporaries as Audubon, Asa Gray, and others, Sprague was the greatest botanical artist of his era. Galluzzo will offer a profile of him, his times and experiences, and will present images of the artwork that drew Audubon to Hingham to meet him.

Galluzzo is a historian who has written several books on South Shore topics. He is a public program coordinator for Massachusetts Audubon Society's South Shore Sanctuaries and executive director of the United States Life-Saving Service Heritage Association.

The public is invited to attend. There is no charge for admission.

Crime Fiction Discussion Continues At Main Library

The Thomas Crane Public Library is hosting a six-part reading and discussion series entitled "Crime And The Cultural Landscape."

The series is being held in the Main Library, 40 Washington St., Quincy Center, on Tuesday at 7 p.m. in February, March and April as part of this year's Quincy Reads Together; Mystery By The Book.

Each session begins with a short presentation by Professor David Fodo of Curry College, followed by a group discussion. Readers are welcome to attend any discussion and no pre-registration is required.

The book for the next session, Feb. 21, will be The Mysterious Affair At Styles by Agatha Christie. Copies of the book in regular, large print, and audio formats are available to borrow at the Main Library checkout desk. This program has been sponsored by the Bill Flynn Foundation. For more information, call 617-376-1301 or visit thomascranelibrary.org/quincyreadstogether.

ENC Opens Spring Season With 'The Blue Light'

Fables, folk tales, and parables are brought to life in an intimate black box setting as Eastern Nazarene College begins its 2006 spring theatre season, tonight (Thursday) Friday and Saturday.

The Blue Light and Other Stories from Paul Sills' Story Theater: Four Shows, directed by Michael W. Ballard, brings the audience into a frolicsome, fanciful world full of on-stage transformations and surprise endings without the help of scenery or unnecessary props. An ensemble cast of eight actors producers a multitude of characters, animals, situations and objects to life through movement and words in an improvisation-based performance style known as story theatre.

Playwright/director Paul Sills pioneered this approach, which draws on traditions of storytelling, traveling players, mime, and Shakespearean theatre. This production adapts stories from Aesop, the Brothers Grimm, and other sources.

Sills co-founded The Second City, a Chicago based improvisational theatre that later inspired the creation of Saturday Night Live. The Second City troupe typically works without scripts and has launched the careers of such actors as John Belushi, Bill Murray, and Mike Myers.

Performances are at 7:30 p.m. Tickets are $5 for general admission. Student and group rates are available. For more information, call the box office at 617-745-3715.

10th Presidents' Day Winter Carnival Feb. 20

The city's 10th annual Presidents' Day Winter Carnival will be held Monday, Feb. 20 from noon to 4 p.m. in Quincy Center.

Mayor William Phelan announces that Comcast will sponsor the event that will feature a wide variety of entertainment including presidential and historical reenactments, magic shows, live music, hay rides, ice sculptures and other activities. Admission is free.

Phelan expressed his appreciation of Comcast signing on as the corporate sponsor for the second consecutive year.

"We're fortunate to enjoy the continued support of Comcast and I thank them for seeing the importance of this fun, family-oriented, educational event," he said.

Comcast Regional Vice President Tom Coughlin added, "Comcast is proud to be a part of this important community event. It is great that Mayor Phelan and the city of Quincy have organized a variety of events for the whole family to enjoy."

Performances will take place at City Hall, the Church of the Presidents, Thomas Crane Public Library's Richardson Room, National Park Service Visitors Center and the Presidents' Place Atrium. Reenactments will feature Abigail Adams, John Quincy Adams, Dorothy Quincy Hancock, Ben Franklin and Theodore Roosevelt.

Outdoor activities are scheduled weather permitting and include hayrides, mini-golf, a moonwalk, and an ice sculpting demonstration. The complete entertainment schedule is available on the city's web site: www.ci.quincy.ma.us

The schedule of events:

CITY HALL COUNCIL CHAMBERS

Noon and 1 p.m. — Meet Dorothy Quincy Hancock

Was the vote for the Declaration of Independence unanimous? Who married the richest man in colonial Boston? Come see! Join Dorothy Quincy Hancock, daughter of Quincy and the wife of the famous signer of the Declaration. Children and adults are encouraged to participate as actress Belinda West recounts dramatic tales from the Revolutionary era.

2 to 3 p.m. — Benjamin Franklin "Made in Boston"

Emmy-winner Bill Meikle portrays one of America's most recognizable figures in an interactive performance spanning the life and times of a man known as Founding Father, scientist, inventor, writer, statesman, philosopher and postmaster, whose 300th birthday was celebrated last month.

3 to 3:30 p.m. — A question and answer session with Mr. Franklin.

NEW CITY HALL, ATRIUM

1 and 2 p.m. — Peter Panic

No stranger to Quincy, Peter Panic returns with his exciting, skillful and thoroughly entertaining juggling show for Presidents' Day. Panic has been juggling professionally since 1987. He has delighted audiences throughout the 50 states and has performed internationally in Canada, Ireland, Germany, Spain, Holland and New Zealand.

All day — Honest Abe's Hat Decorating Store

Kids can decorate their own hat and join in the patriotic and colonial fun.

UNITED FIRST PARISH CHURCH

Noon and 2 p.m. — Abigail Adams

First Lady, mother of a president, financial manager, farm manager and advocate for women's rights, as she stated in her letters to husband John Adams, "Remember the ladies, and be more generous and favorable to them than you ancestors." Meet Abigail as she describes her Revolutionary experience and much more from the home front perspective.

1 p.m. — John Quincy Adams: A Spirit Unconquerable!

In a portrayal by Quincy resident Jim Cook, native son and sixth president is seen in the last 10 years of his long life. He returns to Washington as a member of Congress; witness his fight against infamous "Gag rule" and his defense of imprisoned slaves aboard the Amistad who fought for their freedom.

Noon to 4 p.m. — Tours of the Presidential Crypts.

PRESIDENTS' PLACE ATRIUM

12:30 to 3:30 p.m. — Uncle Sam's Patriotic Jazz Band

Uncle Sam's Band plays a rousing, rhythmic rendition of traditional New Orleans style jazz. This entertaining, charismatic group is fun for the entire family.

1:15 and 2:15 p.m. — Chuckles the Clown

The talented, sometimes stilt-walking antics of Chuckles are sure to entertain and amaze the crowd.

Noon to 3 p.m. — Face painting and caricature artists.

THOMAS CRANE, RICHARDSON ROOM

1 to 2 p.m. — Teddy Roosevelt "Mind, Body & Spirit"

Ted Zalewski returns with the most authentic portrayal of Teddy Roosevelt you will ever see. He takes the audience through his experience as a cowboy, soldier, naturalist, historian, father and statesman.

OUTDOOR ACTIVITIES

All day, weather permitting: Outdoor mini-golf, hay rides, moonwalk and ice sculptures.

Mardi Gras Festivities At River Bay Club

River Bay Club, 99 Brackett St., invites the public to an afternoon of Mardi Gras Festivities Tuesday, Feb. 28 from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m.

Featured will be Creole Cuisine and a Dixie Land band in recreation of New Orleans' French Quarter and Bourbone Street.

Those planning to attend are asked to RSVP to Kerry at 617-472-4457 by Friday, Feb. 24.

City Tests Water Service Emergencies

The Quincy Emergency Management Agency (QEMA) has completed an exercise simulating a significant interruption of water service in the city.

The exercise tested the response plans for a break in service to the city's main water supply.

Participating were the Public Works Department, Health Department, Police Department, Fire Department, QEMA and the Massachusetts Water Resource Authority.

"Such exercises help identify our strengths and weaknesses in an emergency response situation," said Mayor William Phelan. "It's best that we know our areas for improvement prior to an actual emergency, thus strengthening our response and communication capabilities."

The exercise was assisted by an outside consulting group which provided the city with an ever-changing series of events that tested the full range of incident response capabilities.

"This drill was helpful because of the impact that such an event would have on Quincy residents," said QEMA director Tom Gorman. "This is a critical piece of infrastructure. We should be prepared for such an event to ensure the highest level of public safety."

"We will continue to work together to ensure that we are providing the highest level of public safety for our resident," Phelan said. "The time to test your response capabilities is not during an emergency. We should be constantly preparing and testing for a full range of scenarios. I want to compliment our Emergency Management Agency and all of our participants for their work on this exercise."

Star Of The Sea Hints At Further Vatican Appeal

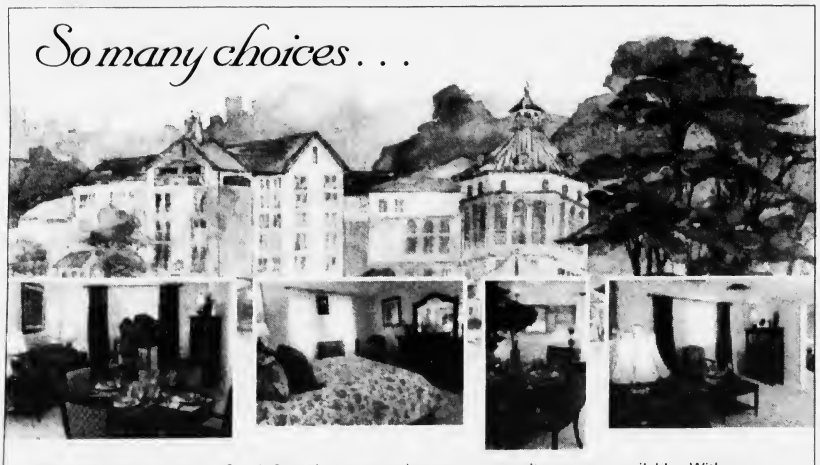
"Although we are blessed to have our worship space open once again for Sunday Mass," said Glennon, "a tremendous void still remains — the absence of sacramental liturgies.

"Because Squantum has a stable Catholic population and because Squantum is a village, there ought to be a sacramental presence at Star of the Sea for the celebration of baptisms, weddings and funerals."

"From both an emotional and practical perspective, to celebrate life's milestones, happy and sad, within the community enhances the spiritual life of that community," said Mazrimas.

"It would be different if we were completely shuttered. However, the church is open once a week for Mass.

"Therefore, if a church building needs to be opened for a special liturgy, i.e. a wedding or a funeral or a baptism, from a logistical standpoint, it shouldn't matter whether that building is on Hancock Street or Bellevue Road.



"However, from a community perspective, it's the merger of the secular and spiritual that enhances these liturgies."

Rights Group To Hear Lecture On Slavery

The Human Rights Commission will observe Black History Month with a lecture on black life under slavery Saturday, Feb. 25, at 2:30 p.m. in the first floor activities room at the Thomas Crane Public Library, 40 Washington St.

Samuel Hatchett, a World War II veteran with a masters degree from Cambridge College, will deliver the lecture on what a black man experienced in his journey up from slavery into equality under the law.

The lecture is free and open to the public.

about 20 or 25 pieces of department equipment and men on the job as well as some 40 to 50 plows and trucks and personnel from private contractors.

"A lot of the men worked 24 or 30 hours," he said.

"We tried to give them breaks so they could catch a little sleep in their vehicles or in the DPW lounge. With a lot of them a break is just a matter of getting out of their trucks."

Only one road had to be closed to traffic because of the storm. Quincy Shore Drive was shut down when waves threatened the sea wall along Wollaston Beach.

Public schools were closed for the day on Monday as a safety measure but reopened Tuesday after the DPW had a chance to clear sidewalks and intersections of snow.

Some churches postponed Sunday services when the storm was at its height. There was a momentary loss of power to some 200 homes in the Washington and Sumner Streets area of Quincy Point.

But most people appeared to have followed Mayor Phelan's advice — stay home and watch it on TV.

Morrisette Post 77th Memorial Mass Feb. 20

Morrisette Legion Post will hold its 77th annual memorial Mass Monday, Feb. 20 at 10 a.m. at St. Mary's Church, Cresent Street, West Quincy.

The Rev. John Rowan, pastor will celebrate the Mass.

Past Commanders Henry Bradley and Lawrence Norton will read the roll call of deceased members from 2005-2006. A list of names of all the deceased members will be distributed to families and guests to take home. Tom Stansbury and Harold DiMattio are chief marshal and chaplain respectively.

Honored guests will be the families of the deceased veterans.

Morrisette Post members, veterans' organizations and the general public are urged to attend the special ceremony honoring all deceased veterans.

Prayers will be offered for all uniformed men and women who are deployed overseas particularly in Iraq and Afghanistan.

New veterans and their families are welcome to join Morrisette Post.

At North Quincy High School

18th Annual Lunar New Year Festival Sunday

The 18th annual Quincy Lunar New Year Festival will be held Sunday at North Quincy High School.

Opening ceremonies for the celebration of the Asian New Year will begin at 11 a.m. with festivities continuing until 4 p.m.

Free parking is available across the street at the North Quincy MBTA station.

The festival is a free event presented by Quincy Asian Resources, Inc. (QARI) under the leadership of event chairman David Zou.

"This year's Lunar New Year Festival promises to be the biggest to date," said John Brothers, executive director of QARI. "Since moving much of the festival into a larger area of the school, we have been able to invite more exhibitors and accommodate more visitors to what has become not just an event for the Asian community, but for the whole city."

The Asian Lunar New Year is celebrated at the end of the annual cycle of new moons and each New Year is named for one of the 12 animals. According to ancient legend, the Lord Buddha once summoned all animals to come to him. When only 12 came, he rewarded them by naming each year for them. 2006 is the year of the Dog.

Lunar New Year celebrations are held in Asian communities throughout the world. Traditionally, the New Year is a family holiday. Families come together to visit, share meals and present gifts of "lucky" red envelopes to children. Quincy's celebration will reflect this tradition.

"The New Year Festival is a great family event," said Richard Hung, president of the QARI Board of Directors. "It represents the involvement of many different groups including students of the North Quincy High Thomas Jefferson Forum; two Grand Sponsors, Mohegan Sun and Sunshine Travel, QARI institution members like South Shore Elder Services and Quincy Community Action Programs and volunteers from the community, all working to bring together several generations of the community to celebrate the New Year."

As a family event, the festival offers entertainment for all ages. There will be performances of Chinese, Filipino and Vietnamese music and dance and exhibits featuring the work of local Asian artists. The festival will also feature the Lion Dance, Japanese Taiko Drumming and Chinese opera in the senior citizen area.

There will be a children's area with Asian games and crafts. Local restaurants will serve different types of Asian cuisine including Chinese and Vietnamese foods.

More than 100 local businesses, government and social service agencies and individuals will be participating in the Lunar New Year Festival.

Quincy Asian Resources Inc. is a not for profit organization dedicated to promoting the development of the Asian-American community.

For more information about the Lunar New Year Festival or QARI, contact QARI at 617-472-2200 or visit www.qari.info.

Death Closes Dentist's Case

Death has closed the case of Dr. Joseph T. Matarazzo.

The body of the 77-year-old Quincy dentist was found Monday in his Marina Bay home, three days after he pleaded innocent to charges he wrote fake prescriptions for the pain-killer oxycondone in exchange for sexual favors.

The Norfolk County District Attorney's office said State Police "found no apparent signs of foul play and have not found any indications or evidence that any other party was involved in Matarazzo's death."

"The Quincy District Court prosecution of Joseph T. Matarazzo," said the DA's statement, "has been stopped due to his death."

Matarazzo, whose dental offices were at 1050 Hancock St., between Central Middle School and Woodward School for Girls, was accused of writing more than 100 prescriptions for oxycondone for known drug addicts.

Squeaky Stairs Cry Out for Repair

Q. I have two steps on my first-floor stairs that squeak loudly when anyone walks on them. How do I stop this? — Jay L., Burlington, Vt.

A. Squeaks in stairs (or any wooden surface) are caused by two or more boards rubbing together. In new construction one rarely hears squeaks, as boards placed closely together don't "give." But as the wood ages, swells and shrinks repeatedly due to temperature changes, and reacts to the stresses of constant use, the spacing between boards can change slightly; a little "give" works in, and you have a squeak. The solution is to tighten up the space between the offending boards as much as possible.

In a stair, squeaks can occur between the tread and the risers, or between the tread and the stringers (the angle-cut boards on which treads and risers rest). If you can get underneath the staircase to work, you have the best chance of eliminating the squeaks.

Have someone walk up and down the stairs while you're underneath, so you can pinpoint the exact stairs that are squeaking and, hopefully, the exact spots where the squeaks are occurring.

Next, shim the squeaky treads. A shim is a thin wedge of wood that can be placed between boards to eliminate squeaks. Coat several shims with wood glue (as you apply them) and, using a thick piece of wood as a buffer, tap the shims between the tread and the lower riser, the tread and the upper riser, and between the tread and the stringers. Have your helper test the tread again.

Another method, if the shims just splinter and won't go in, is to place a wood block (ideally a 1-by-2-inch piece about two-thirds as long as the tread) between the tread and the forward (lower) riser. Glue the block into place, with the 2-inch side against the riser and the 1-inch side against the tread. Then nail it firmly down.

If you can't get under the stairs to work, try driving finishing nails at an angle through the squeaky tread and into the supporting riser; and drive finishing nails through the tread into the stringers on either side. This can tighten the gaps between the boards and lessen or eliminate the squeaks. To hide the nail heads, countersink them (drive them below the board surface using a nail set or another nail) and cover with wood filler.

Stephen Marcus Sales Associate At Century 21 Annex Realty

Phyllis Rudnick, Broker/ Owner of Century 21 Annex Realty, announces Stephen Marcus has joined the company as a sales associate based in the company's Quincy office.

Marcus was introduced to the real estate industry in 1980, when he was responsible for locating and managing residential services for children and adults with disabilities. In 1983, he became certified in real estate sales after graduating from the American Real Estate Academy in Waltham.

STEPHEN MARCUS

Most recently, Marcus worked as a sales associate at MRM Associates, Inc. in Groton.

""We're proud to introduce Stephen to our team," Rudnick said. "Our customers will appreciate the experience and commitment that he brings to the firm. He has a proven track record of providing the highest levels of knowledgeable service."

A native of Littleton, Marcus lives in Quincy with his wife, Veronica. Marcus has two daughters, Emily, 26, and Alice, 29, as well as two grandchildren.

Century 21 Annex Realty, Inc., has offered comprehensive real estate services to the South Shore since 1978. A staff of more than 50 professional Realtors serve the South Shore community.

Tullish & Clancy Exclusive Brokers To Market Quincy's Hamilton Condos

Century 21® Tullish & Clancy, a Weymouth real estate firm, has been named Exclusive Sales Agent for The Hamilton Company's newest condominium property, Hamilton Bay Condominiums, 165-185 Quincy Shore Dr. in Quincy.

Tullish & Clancy will serve as the exclusive marketing agent for the sale of more than 120 condominium units in the 8-story building, formerly known as Bay Shore Apartments.

Hamilton Bay Condominiums feature fully renovated common areas, and spectacular views of Quincy Bay and the Boston skyline; each condominium offers oversized 1 BR as well as oversized 2 bedroom/2 bath condominiums each condo enjoying individual, private balcony. Other amenities include a tennis court, a 60'x30' inground, heated pool and clubhouse.

Located near the North Quincy MBTA stop and six miles south of downtown Boston, prices begin at $239,900.

"The pace of sales activity to date, even during the winter, does not surprise us given the amenity package, building wide renovations coupled with the price points and generous living space," said Carl Valeri, president of The Hamilton Company. "For first time home buyers or empty nesters, Hamilton Bay offers more than the higher priced competition."

Mike Clancy, sales agent for the development, said, "It's a privilege for us to handle this sale for The Hamilton Company. They are a highly respected and successful name in the property development and management field.

"This is a great property and excellent opportunity for someone to enjoy the many benefits of living in Quincy. This affords both existing residents as well as interested purchasers the opportunity to take advantage of a strong housing market and low interest rates."

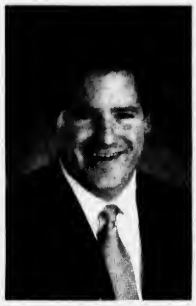
1,810-Square-Foot Colonial Sells For $472,500

Flynn Auction Sells Norwell Home



The cold weather didn't put a chill on the sale of a beautiful colonial in Norwell.

The auction took place Feb. 10 inside the actual living room of the residence being sold.

The crowd convening at the empty 1,810 square foot colonial in excellent condition drove the bidding to $472,500. The owner, Ed Smith, said he was quite pleased with the sale results.

"The final price at an auction is perhaps the truest test of the real estate's fair market value," said Auctioneer and Flynn & Co. CEO Dan Flynn. "Auctions create a sense of urgency among potential buyers because the subject property will only be available for sale at the specified date and time.

"By selling at auction, property owners can forego an often lengthy marketing period traditionally associated with selling real estate. Rather than attracting potential buyers one at a time over a period of months, an auction brings all your buyers together on a pre-determined date and provides a forum for the highest bid to rise to the top in a matter of minutes," Flynn said.

DANIEL FLYNN

THIS COLONIAL HOME in Norwell sold at auction for $472,500. Daniel Flynn, CEO of Flynn & Co. Real Estate, was the auctioneer.

In addition to a streamlined marketing process, real estate auction sales generally contain no contingencies that can slow or even derail a closing.

"The auction process is a natural draw and presents a great opportunity for buyers to acquire real estate on the open market," Flynn said.

Daniel J. Flynn & Co., Inc. is a full service real estate firm specializing in commercial sales and leasing, residential real estate and real estate auctions.

Window Fashions Are Going Hybrid

(NAPS) A growing number of products are being created to respond to the demands of environmentally-conscious consumers, as well as those who like styles that blend the old and new.

For example, hybrid-a term often used to describe a type of car designed to appeal to consumers concerned about energy savings- is now being used to describe a new type of interior window shutter.

The leader in window fashions-Hunter Douglas- has introduced what's said to be the first-ever hybrid shutter to appeal to trend-conscious consumers of all ages.

Combining the style of finely painted wood with the strength and straightness of advanced materials, the shutters evoke quality at an economical price.

Based on age-old craftsmanship techniques and infused with forward-thinking design, NewStyle hybrid shutters boast Truemill dovetail construction. Dovetail construction has long been considered by many to be the best method on the market for joining wood.

The shutters also have a micro-smooth sophisticated satin finish called Finetech that simulates the look of a finely painted wood shutter. They are available in various louver sizes- 2 1/2 inches, 3 1/2 inches and 4 1/2 inches- to cover small traditional windows as well as large modern ones.

The award-winning, exclusive TruView rear tilt operating system, originally created for Heritance hardwood shutters also from Hunger Douglas, is offered on the NewStyle collection as well. With TruView, the operating system is barely visible from the front and blends in perfectly on the back side of the shutter for a sleek, contemporary design and more expansive views.

NewStyle shutters come in a choice of eight frame styles and more than 250 configuration options, including bay and corner windows, French doors and perfect and imperfect specialty shapes.

What's more, the shutters are available in six colors that follow the latest trends, from Pure White, to the golden yellow Buttercup, to Gentle Taupe. In addition, there is a choice of hinge finishes.

Ideal for those consumers who need a custom product quickly at an economical price, Express NewStyle hybrid shutters come in three of the NewStyle colors and three frame types and can accommodate openings as large as eight feet wide and eight feet high.

"Inspired design, choices to suit any taste, a price point with wide appeal- that's NewStyle hybrid shutters in a nutshell," said Jim Klawiter, Business Unit Manager of the Hunter Douglas Custom Shutter Division.

For more information about Hunter Douglas-a sponsor of Habitat for Humanity- or the hybrid shutters, call 1-800-274-2985 or visit the Web site at www.hunterdouglas.com.

A Sophisticated Way To Buy Undeveloped Land

(NAPS) There's good news for those who want to buy unimproved parcels of land. Using a Web site, one company has developed an innovative way to match buyers with property that fits their needs, ranging from a first time buyer to the experienced land purchaser.

Since 1990, a company called LandAuction.com has specialized in the auctioning of unimproved land. This company has created a special niche in the market and has been described as a leader in the industry of auctioning raw land all across North America.

The company has developed a reputation for finding property that matches the individual buyer's needs, and is said to have established a solid, credible track record in the marketplace.

At the same time, the action process offers buyers the comfort of knowing that they are buying property at the price determined by the market.

Here's how the process works. Visitors to the Web site can click on the calendar page to learn when and where a land auction will be held. Auctions are held throughout the country in some of the fastest-growing areas of the U.S. at various convention centers and hotels.

Visitors to the site can then view the list of properties that will be available at the action. Each property has a brief description and links to pages where buyers can see maps, aerial photos and any legal documents available for that property.

Once a potential buyer has identified a property he or she wants to purchase, the Web site suggests that the buyer contact a county planning department, speak with local realtors, read through area real estate ads and decide how much the property is worth. That way, at the auction, buyers can set the price for the properties they want and bid before they go into the auction.

Prospective buyers are encouraged to inspect a property before they buy. Walking the property, asking local developers pertinent questions, and meeting with the brokers and bankers in the area are all steps they can take.

The company offers financing for any purchase over $1,000. To learn more, visit the Web site at www.landauction.com.

Spotlight On Health & Fitness

From Start to Fitness

by Andrea Wyatt M.S.S., C.S.C.S.

Never Too Old for Strength Training

Q: I'm 71 years old and my husband is 74. We go to the gym three days a week. We do the bike for 10 to 20 minutes, get on the treadmill for 30 minutes, and if possible we do the rowing machine for 10 to 15 minutes.

Do we need to add some strengthening exercises to our program? We have the approval of our doctor, and we are sponsored by our hospital. It is the Humana/Silver Sneakers program. Thanks for your help.

A: Congratulations for committing to exercise three days a week. The variety in your cardiovascular program should provide a good aerobic workout. The amount of cardiovascular exercise you and your husband are completing will help keep your bones, joints and muscles strong, and it would be equally beneficial to add strength training to your current program.

The benefits of a strength-training workout include muscular strength and control, increased joint stability and maintaining lean muscle mass. Everyday activities such as walking up and down stairs, sitting and standing, and lifting and pushing objects in the kitchen and throughout the house can be done more easily and with less chance of injury with stronger muscles.

A balanced routine that strengthens the muscles of your legs, back, abdominals, shoulders, chest and arms does not have to require high-intensity weight training. Start with a basic program two to three times a week in addition to your cardiovascular routine, and you'll soon start to see results. You may also begin to notice your cardiovascular exercise becoming easier because of the added strength you acquire through your strength-training routine.

To get started, I would recommend using the resources of the Humana Silver Sneakers program to meet with a fitness professional. He or she will be able to assess your needs and design and teach you a strength-training program that can be done safely. Learning how to combine your current cardiovascular routine with your new strength-training workout may take a few trial runs. Keep working to balance the two so you have enough energy to complete the entire workout. This may mean modifying your cardiovascular workout.

Another way to incorporate this training into your workout routine is to add a group exercise class that focuses on strength training. Your fitness facility may offer a class that combines both cardiovascular and strength training. Observe the class and speak with the instructor about any concerns you may have. Group exercise is a great way to complete a workout under the supervision of a fitness professional.

Be patient when learning your new exercise routine, and remember to have fun.

Always consult a physician before beginning an exercise program.

Keep Those Weight Loss Resolutions

(NAPS) Each year, millions of Americans resolve to lose weight and get healthy, but many abandon their resolutions.

Weight Watchers leaders from all over the country, who have all succeeded in keeping their weight-loss resolutions are offering their own personal tips to guide you through this season and beyond. Through the entire month of January, you can also call 1-800-ATIP4YOU to get more tips from Weight Watchers leaders like these:

Getting Started:

• Meal Makeovers. Love for low-calorie substitutions that don't sacrifice taste. For example, switching from mayonnaise to mustard on a sandwich can add to big calorie savings over time.

• Support Sustenance. Having the support of others is critical. Losing weight with a friend or group of friends really helps.

• Produce Perfection with Produce. Ounce for ounce, the nutrition in fruits and vegetables can't be beat. To get the best blend of nutrients, include as many colors as possible.

• Fitness Flashback. Use activities you enjoyed as a child as a starting point for choosing an exercise routine: roller skating, hula-hooping, bike riding.

• The Impact of Small Changes:

• Cover Up. Put a napkin over your plate as soon as you're satisfied. It's like turning off a light switch.

• Rewarding Remedies. Always reward every weight-loss celebration with a non food item such as a facial or a manicure.

• Eyes on the Prize. Purge unhealthy food from your pantry, freezer and fridge.

• Sneakers in Sight. Make physical activity as convenient as possible. Keep your sneakers and jacket ready and nearby for short, frequent walks.

Staying Motivated.

• Mix and Match. Food ruts can kill motivation. Visit www.weightwatchers.com for delicious recipes.

• Fitness with Friends. Group activities allow you to fill that need for social outlets.

• Go for the Goal. Setting new goals can be the key to keeping yourself motivated. Goals do not have to be weight related.

• Full of Fabulous. Wear something you feel fabulous in. The best appetite suppressant ever is a compliment.

Maintaining the Momentum:

• Consistent Counting. Consistency is critical. Write down what you're eating each and every day to help keep you on target.

• Behavior Barometer. If you eat out, eat exactly the way you would eat at home.

• TV Tuneup. Watch TV-but do some form of exercise during commercials: sit ups, crunches, free weights.

To learn more about Weight Watchers or to find the nearest meeting, call 1-800-651-6000 or visit www.WeightWatchers.com.

Blood Drive Feb. 27

The American Red Cross is teaming up with the Quincy community to help ensure that a safe and adequate blood supply is available when needed.

A blood drive will be held Monday, Feb. 27 at the Quincy Point Congregational Church, 444 Washington St.

Donor hours are from 1 to 7 p.m. All donors are eligible to enter the "WARM YOUR HEART - WARM YOUR HOME" promotion, which is a weekly drawing to win $200 towards home heating costs.

Anyone 17 years of age or older, weighing 110 pounds or more, and feeling in good health may be eligible to donate blood. Call 1-800-GIVE-LIFE (1-800-448-3543) to schedule an appointment.

Common Cholesterol Stumpers

(NAPS) Cholesterol can be confusing. But the fact is, elevated cholesterol affects more than 100 million Americans and is a big risk factor for heart disease-America's number one killer. Atlanta-based registered dietitian and health expert, Rachel Agnew, gives straight answers to commonly asked questions.

What's the difference between LDL and HDL cholesterol levels?

LDL and HDL are two types of cholesterol that contribute to an overall cholesterol rating. LDL is "bad" cholesterol that can clog arteries and increase risk of heart disease. The target level to have is less than 100mg/dL. HDL is "good" cholesterol that helps remove excess cholesterol out of the body. It is optimal to have an HDL level greater than 40mg/dL. A good rule of thumb is to keep LDL cholesterol low and HDL cholesterol high.

How can I keep my cholesterol low?

Steps that can help reduce cholesterol naturally include exercise, a diet low in saturated fat and cholesterol, and the consumption of at least two grams of plant-based sterol and stanol nutrients per day. Sterols and stanols are found in plants, nuts, corn and rice, but only in trace amounts. An easy solution is a sterol and stanol supplement, such as Nature Made CholestOff. By integrating these simple lifestyle changes into your routine, your cholesterol can be reduced by around 12 percent on average. Talk to your health care professional to see what's right for you.

What type of foods should I avoid?

Some foods "low in cholesterol" can still be unhealthy. When choosing a product at the grocery store, read food labels and avoid foods with high levels of total, saturated and trans-fats, calories and cholesterol. For example, look for plant sterol and stanol products that are labeled with the FDA-approved health claim, "May reduce the risk of heart disease."

ANTIBIOTICS AND POSSIBLE ENAMEL DAMAGE

Amoxicillin is an antibiotic that is commonly prescribed for children to combat problems such as ear infections and other bacterial illnesses. A new study suggests that this treatment may be linked to tooth-enamel damage. While the finding is preliminary, parents and doctors should be aware that the potential exists. The study followed 579 children from birth to age 39 months. Every 3-4 months, the researchers asked about fluoride intake and amoxicillin use. At the end of the study, researchers found that 75% of the children had been given amoxicillin by 12 months and 91% had received the antibiotic by 32 months. Even after adjustment to account for fluoride intake, 24% of the children had dental fluorosis (permanent damage to enamel-forming cells).

Once fluoride is part of the tooth enamel, it can't be taken out. But the appearance of teeth affected by fluorosis can be greatly improved by a variety of treatments in esthetic dentistry. Do you have concerns about antibiotics? At your next appointment we'll be happy to discuss all your dental options in detail with you. We are a highly qualified and experienced team of professionals who want you to look and feel your best. Call us at 617-479-6220 and we'll gladly answer any questions you may have. We're located at 44 Greenleaf Street. Come smile with us! We offer the services of anesthesiology with a fully trained and qualified anesthesiologist. Visit us on the web at www.quincydentist.com.

P.S. Dental fluorosis, which is characterized by staining and discoloration ranging from white flecks to pits and brown stains, can be caused by excessive ingestion of fluoride during early childhood years.

Presidents Vs. Red Raiders Friday At NQHS

Quincy, North On Collision Course For Atlantic Coast Title

BOYS' BASKETBALL

By CHRIS POISSON

If you're a high school boys' basketball fan in this city, then you'll want to be in North Quincy tomorrow (Friday) night.

Providing North Quincy beat Plymouth North on Valentine's Day, the Red Raiders and Presidents will duke it out with the Atlantic Coast League championship at stake.

Quincy (16-1 overall, 10-1 league) has already clinched at least a share of the title, but would much rather wear the crown by itself.

North Quincy (13-5 overall, 8-2 league), though, would like to spoil that idea and grab a piece of the hardware, too.

"I'm rooting for North Quincy to win Tuesday," said Quincy head coach Bill Fisher Monday afternoon. "It would be one of the biggest games in Quincy in recent memory. It would be great to see the two city teams fighting for the tournament title. Without question, it would be packed. I bet they'd have to close the gym. I just feel it would be overloaded."

"I think it would be as good as we've had it around here in a long time," said North Quincy head coach Jim Rendle. "At times we've had decent clubs and they've had decent clubs. But you'd have to go back to the 70's for us fighting for a league title. Two good tournament teams squaring off would be exciting."

The two rivals offered plenty of excitement in the first meeting Jan. 13. The Presidents pulled out a dramatic 41-38 win at home when senior tri-captain and forward Lovell Johnson sank a 3-pointer to give his team a 40-38 lead with just under 10 seconds remaining.

Last week, the two teams won both their games on Tuesday and Friday to extend their winning streaks.

The Presidents pulled out a 59-54 win at Whitman-Hanson and defeated Plymouth North, 68-46, for 10 straight triumphs, while the Red Raiders routed Plymouth South, 82-49, and topped Whitman-Hanson, 59-49, for six straight W's.

Quincy's victory over Plymouth North turned out to be important on many fronts. Not only did it extend its winning streak and clinch at least a portion of the title, it also locked up a home game in the first round of the tourney, avenged its only loss this season and gave them an undefeated (11-0) record at home this year. And it all happened on Senior Night.

"It was nice to have that win for a lot of reasons," Fisher said.

Twelve different players had their names penciled in the score book, led by Johnson's 16 points and four 3-pointers.

In the Whitman-Hanson game, the Presidents trailed, 34-31, at halftime before their defense took control in the second half.

Senior tri-captain and guard John Orlando shut down W-H's top player, Andrew MacDonald, in the second half after he buried four treys in the opening stanza.

"That kind of defense propelled our kids offensively," Fisher said.

Johnson scored 18 points, freshman point guard Doug Scott netted 11 with seven assists, and junior forward Steve Connolly and senior tri-captain and center Joe Griffin each had 10 points and eight rebounds.

In North Quincy's game against Whitman-Hanson, it stormed to an early 19-point advantage and remained in control the rest of the way.

Senior guard Imad Elkatrib paced the team with 17 points on offense and dominated defensively with six more steals and four blocks while holding MacDonald to 11 points.

Senior tri-captains John Murray (center) and Kyle Costa (point guard) added 14 points apiece and sophomore forward Marcellus Lee chipped in 10.

Against Plymouth South, the Red Raiders had their way as 12 different players scored, with four reaching double figures.

Murray drained 16 points, senior tri-captain and forward Kevin Donovan tallied a double-double with 13 points and 11 rebounds, and Costa and Lee each had 10

"Those two games were very important to us because it gives us a crack at maybe sharing the league title," Rendle said.

Friday's showdown will not be the final game of the regular season. Quincy and North Quincy will close out with the annual Vin Moscardelli Tournament to be held at NQHS this year.

On Monday, the Presidents play Milton at 5:30 p.m. and the Red Raiders face Malden at 7 p.m. The consolation and championship games will be held Tuesday at 5:30 and 7, respectively.

Quincy Training Run For L Street Runners

More than 200 runners training for the Boston Marathon will converge on the streets and take to the challenge of the hills of Quincy Sunday morning.

The L Street Running Club will be running a 17-mile run in preparation for the marathon as part of its training program.

Starting at 8:15 a.m., the trainees will be running south on Newport Avenue to Adams Street, over Hospital Hill, up over Quarry Street and into East Milton.

The run on the hills of Quincy and Milton will assess the runner's ability to master Heartbreak Hill on race day.

Support teams will set up fuel stations at McGinns Citgo Station on Newport Avenue and the Elks on Quarry Street. Club members will also monitor the course with the assistance of local police to insure the safety of the runners and the motorists.

The L Street Running Club would like the motoring public to be aware there will be runners passing through the various intersections Sunday morning. Those who see the runners are asked to give them some encouragement with a wave or a slight toot of the horn.

More than half of the 200 runners are running this year's marathon to raise money for charity. In 2005, the L Street Running Club raised more than $250,000 for local charities.

For more information on the training run or the running club, visit www.lstreet.org.

Receives Team Spirit Award At Tufts-New England Medical Center Gala

North's Jessica Mann Honored As 'Rising Star'

Jessica Mann of North Quincy High School was honored by Tufts-New England Medical Center and a host of Boston celebrities at the recent third annual Rising Stars Gala at The Agganis Arena at Boston University.

One of six student-athletes recognized, Mann received the Team Spirit Award from Deb Devaux, senior vice president Health Care Management of Blue Cross and Blue Shield; and Lyndon Byers, former Boston Bruin and current member of the Hillman Morning Show.

The program raised close to $400,000 for Tufts-NEMC and its Floating Hospital for Children.

In attendance at the event were Tufts-NEMC CEO Ellen Zane and Harvard Pilgrim CEO Charlie Baker. WAAF Morning Show Host Greg Hill was the live auctioneer.

High-profile personalities, including Boston Celtics captain Paul Pierce, Celtics legend Robert Parish, U.S. Olympic gold medalist A.J. Mleczko, New England Revolution star James Riley and Boston Herald columnist Karen Guregian, joined Byers to present the awards. The event was emceed by Fox Sports New England's Greg Dickerson.

Rising Stars Gala recognizes individual achievements by the best and brightest young athletes from New England, and celebrates the medical center's long tradition of community involvement and its commitment to fostering the hope and future of promising youth from across the region.

Boating Course April 1, 18, 15 At Houghs Neck Maritime Center

The Massachusetts Environmental Police will offer two "Boat Massachusetts" courses in Quincy.

The first boating basic course will be held April 1, 8 and 15 and the second course, April 22, 29 and May 6. They will be held from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the Houghs Neck Maritime Center, 137 Bayview Ave., Quincy.

Offered to the public at no charge, Boat Massachusetts is designed to foster safe boat operation through increased awareness of required safety equipment, safe boating practices and legal responsibilities.

Youth ages 12 to 15 who successfully complete the course will be issued a safety certificate allowing them to operate a motorboat without adult supervision, as required by state law.

The course will also satisfy requirements for personal watercraft users who are 16 or 17 years of age. All graduates will be issued a course completion diploma and a safety certificate. Taking a class as a family is encouraged.

Pre-registration is required with the Massachusetts Environmental Police Department Boat & Recreational Vehicle Safety Bureau. Call 617-727-8760 or 508-790-9360.

BELT-TIGHTENING TIME

Many key components and accessories in your vehicle get the power they need to function via rubber belts that connect to the engine's drive shaft. With the aid of pulleys, these belts drive the engine fan, water pump, air-conditioning compressor, power-steering system, and the alternator in most vehicles. The alternator is an important component that provides electrical power and charges the battery while the engine is running. Consequently, it is vitally important that all engine belts be inspected regularly for cracks and looseness. Generally, there should not be more than about a half-inch of "play" in the belt when you press down on a point midway between two pulleys. Loose belts should be tightened, and cracked/frayed belts should be replaced.

A surprising amount of vital components use belts in your car. At LEO & WALT'S SUNOCO, we feature the right parts, and the knowledge to install them properly. Our ASE Certified mechanics will check your belts and let you know if there are any that need tightening or need to be changed. If your car is making any sort of squeaking noise, or if it hasn't had a tune-up in a while, bring it to 258 Quincy Ave., E. Braintree to be looked at. If you have any automotive questions call 781-843-1550. Open: Mon.-Fri. 6am-9pm, Sat. 7am-9pm, Sun. 9am-5pm.

HINT: Squealing sounds emanating from under the hood of your vehicle could very well be the sound of a loose belt.

Bow To Whitman-Hanson In Battle For First

North Quincy Can't Cash In Quincy Favor

GIRLS' BASKETBALL

By CHRIS POISSON

The North Quincy High School girls' basketball team found itself in a fortunate situation last Friday thanks to the work done by city rival Quincy.

When the Presidents handed Whitman-Hanson its first league loss last Tuesday, the Red Raiders had a chance to tie the Panthers for the Atlantic Coast League championship with a victory at home.

But W-H, fueled by the setback to Quincy, dashed those dreams as it rolled to a 59-37 win to clinch the league title.

"Quincy helped us out a lot, but unfortunately we couldn't finish it off," said head coach Doug MacFarlane. "I knew we were going to be in a tough game when they lost to Quincy. I knew they wouldn't be flat against us. They were fired up."

North Quincy (8-6 overall, 7-3 Atlantic Coast League), which needs nine wins to qualify for the state tournament, played Plymouth North Tuesday and will battle Quincy Friday at 5 p.m. at home.

The Red Raiders jumped out to a 7-0 lead in the first three minutes against Whitman-Hanson before it all went down hill. After the Panthers called a timeout to regroup, they came back to take a 33-15 lead at halftime.

"Unfortunately that's the way it stayed in the second half," MacFarlane said. "We cut it to 10 a couple of times but we never got below that. Whitman-Hanson played great defense. I think we had 12 turnovers in the first half and they make you pay when you turn it over. And again, we have this scoring problem that we've been talking about all season. We go into these spells."

Senior tri-captain and center Elyse O'Connell led the team with nine points and senior tri-captain and forward Kayla Lenane scored six points and grabbed 11 rebounds. Junior guard Lauren Stille also added six points.

Last Tuesday, North Quincy coasted to an 88-56 home win over Plymouth South, which has only one victory this season.

Sophomore forward Rebecca Goreham registered a double-double with 16 points and 14 rebounds. O'Connell, Lenane and junior forward Shannon Malone each scored 12 points and sophomore guard Paige Bonanni chipped in 11.

Red Raiders Ice Presidents, 3-0

ICE HOCKEY

North Quincy High School hockey coach Bob Doyle made sure certain players were on the ice as the final seconds ticked away in last Wednesday night's 3-0 upset victory over Quincy at Quincy Youth Arena.

His six seniors — goalie Frankie Sorrento, defensemen Evan Harrington, Rob Mann and Dave Finnegan and forwards Andrew Donovan and Dave Regan — celebrated together after their final game in the city rivalry.

"We wrapped up the game with having all six seniors on the ice," Doyle said. "They've had a tough season and I thought it would be a nice tribute for them. Even if it was a 2-1 game, they would've been out there."

A nice moment, definitely. But what most people will remember from that night is the sensational play between the pipes by Sorrento, whose first shutout also marked the first time a goalie has blanked the potent Presidents this season.

Sorrento must have felt like someone had smashed a beehive as the buzzing Presidents swarmed him for 45 minutes; however, he had on the right repellent as he turned back all 31 shots.

"Frankie Sorrento was just absolutely phenomenal," Doyle said. "Thirty-one saves, some of them unbelievable. The glove saves from the point were incredible. He saw the puck beautiful all night. He was on top of his rebounds, which there weren't that many of."

"Frankie Sorrento, what else can I say?" said Quincy head coach Bob Sylvia. "That was the difference in the game as far as I was concerned. We certainly threw plenty of rubber at them. We outshot them all three periods. We ran into a real hot goaltender. That's the game of hockey."

North Quincy (4-11-1 overall, 3-8 Atlantic Coast League) dropped a 7-0 game last Friday to Don Bosco Prep (N.J.), coached by his former assistant, Chip Foley, and fell to Hanover, 6-2, last Saturday to eliminate themselves from postseason play.

It played Plymouth North Wednesday and will close out the season next week with a tournament at Pembroke.

Meanwhile, tournament-bound Quincy (12-5 overall, 7-5 ACL) defeated Somerville, 3-1, Saturday. Sophomore Casey Conley netted a pair of goals with an assist and sophomore Teddy Walsh added the other. Freshman goalie Jeff Giordani turned in a strong game in net.

It hosted Rockland Wednesday (7:10 p.m.) and will finish the regular season next week with a tournament at Pembroke.

The Presidents, who won the first showdown, 5-2, Jan. 4 and were coming off a 12-goal outburst in their previous game, dominated the opening period as they outshot the Red Raiders, 15-5.

"They certainly did outplay us in the first period," Doyle said. "We hadn't won a hockey game in over eight games so I was concerned how we were going to come out in the first period. In the first period of the first Quincy game, Quincy was absolutely all over us."

North Quincy, though, weathered the storm and grabbed the lead with 27 seconds left when junior center Jimmy Fitzpatrick stuffed the puck past senior goalie Alex Smith from in front.

"It was a huge uplift," Doyle said. "I went into the locker room and said we were so fortunate. Quincy carried the play. The kids weren't too overly excited because they knew it. I put the question right to them. I said, 'Who won the period?' And they said, 'They did.'"

Sorrento preserved the 1-0 lead with several great saves in the second period, including gloving a blast from the point by sophomore defenseman Kyle Craig on the power play.

In the final frame, Quincy senior sniper Mike McKeon received a great feed from senior forward Steve Bythrow for a breakaway, but shot just wide right with 10 minutes left in the game.

With under two minutes, Sorrento denied McKeon again and Walsh on scoring bids 14 seconds apart.

Soon after, Fitzpatrick netted his second goal of the game to seal the win with 1:18 left. Junior Josh McKeon, still recovering from the flu, and Finnegan picked up the assists.

"In a big game like this, in a venue like this, he really rose his game and I'm real proud of him," Doyle said of Fitzpatrick.

Quincy pulled its goalie with 1:10 left and junior forward Zachary Deegan knocked home an empty-net goal to close out the scoring. Junior defenseman Joe Canavan and Finnegan assisted.

Deegan played a strong game as a fill-in for freshman Brandon Gilmore, the team's leading scorer who was out with a knee injury. Canavan turned in a solid defensive effort in his first game back from a four-game suspension.

"It's a huge lift for us against a very good club," Doyle said. "I didn't feel Quincy went through the motions at all. We were fortunate to come out on top."

"You have to be happy for the North Quincy kids," Sylvia said. "They had won three games. They come out there and play like that, my hat is off them."

Quincy Bounces Back With Big Win Over W-H

After struggling in several previous games, the Quincy High School girls' basketball team bounced back in a big way last week.

The Presidents last Tuesday became the first team in the Atlantic Coast League to defeat the powerful first-place Whitman-Hanson Panthers with a resounding 52-32 victory at home.

They followed their performance last Friday with an easy 45-30 win at winless Plymouth North.

"It was one of our most exciting wins since I've been the coach," said Jeff Bretsch. "They're a very tough team. They essentially have the same nucleus that has won three straight league titles. To beat the three-time champs in such convincing fashion is a thrill. They were undefeated in the league and blowing out all opposition."

Quincy (12-5 overall, 8-3 Atlantic Coast League) played Fontbonne Academy Tuesday and will travel to neighboring North Quincy Friday at 5 p.m. If the Red Raiders defeated Plymouth North Tuesday, then Friday's game will decide second place in the league.

In the first meeting against Whitman-Hanson, Quincy played them well in a tough 54-50 setback on the road. Although they lost, the Presidents' confidence grew as they knew they could stay close with the Panthers.

"We had a sense from the first time we played them," Bretsch said. "They were shorthanded in that game but we gained confidence from that game. It gave us a glimpse that there might be a chance to catch them the next time."

Quincy's defense anchored the victory as it held the potent Panthers to just 12 points in the first half as Quincy held a 15-point lead.

Sophomore guards Marybeth Torpey and Meagan Tobin spearheaded the defensive attack. Torpey held Jackie Branca, one of the best players in the league, to two points while Tobin held W-H's other guard scoreless.

"The story was our defense," Bretsch said. "For the first 14 minutes of the first half we held them to eight points and they're a pretty powerful offense.

"To hold their guards to a combined two points is incredible. They couldn't get anything going and they were getting frustrated."

Senior co-captain and forward Jessica Page, who leads the league in scoring with 21.2 points per game, tallied 17 points and nine rebounds. She hit 8-of-10 free-throws in the second half.

Torpey netted 13 points, including two 3-pointers in the second half, junior forward Brighid Kyle scored 12 and Tobin eight. Sophomore center Elizabeth Bock grabbed seven rebounds.

"It's a real achievement for our kids," Bretsch said. "They played smart. They didn't turn the ball over and we didn't give them the easy baskets they are used to getting.

In the Plymouth North game, Quincy held a 23-9 advantage at the break and was able to play its reserves.

Tobin poured in a season-high 16 points to lead the team. Page added 12 points, Kyle six and junior guard Sarah Troy four off the bench.

Sean Ryan Completes Marine Corps Basic Training

Marine Corps Pvt. Sean P. Ryan, son of Teresa A. and Glenn P. Ryan of Quincy, recently completed 12 weeks of basic training at Marine Corps Recruit Depot, Parris Island, S. C.

Ryan and fellow recruits began their training at 5 a.m., by running three miles and performing calisthenics. In addition to the physical conditioning program, Ryan spent numerous hours in classroom and field assignments which included learning first aid, uniform regulations, combat water survival, marksmanship, hand-to-hand combat and assorted weapons training. They performed close order drill and operated as a small infantry unit during field training.

Quincy-North Sending 11 Track Players To State Championship

The Quincy/North Quincy boys' and girls' track teams are sending 11 individuals to the state championships.

Head coach Geoff Hennessy said it could be the youngest contingent ever with three freshmen and two sophomores in the bunch.

The boys will be represented by senior Anthony Walsh in the shot-put along with the 4x200 relay team of senior Dan Chan and freshmen Terrell Staley, Pat Watkins and Jeff Pereira.

Pereira also qualified for the states in the 55-meter hurdles, perhaps the youngest hurdler in the entire state meet.

The girls will be led by junior Kelly Pineo in the shot-put, and senior Kim Allen and sophomores Rebecca Stanton and Ally Nee in the high jump. That threesome also won the high jump relay at the Class A State Relays and the McIntyre Elite Relays, sort of an All-State Relay meet with a few out-of-state teams as well.

Foot Screening For Seniors

Podiatrist Jordana Szpiro will be available to seniors for foot screening on the first Monday of every month at the Council on Aging office, 83 Saratoga St.

She will also treat feet for a fee of $20 per person payable at the time of the visit. Such payments are not covered by health insurance.

For an appointment, call 617-376-1506.

Quincy High's 'Munroe MacLean Maniacs' Cheer On Presidents

QUINCY HIGH SCHOOL students show their school spirit at a recent Presidents' basketball victory over Plymouth South at the Vo-Tech Gym. The fans, many wearing blue and white face paint, have been dubbed "The Munroe MacLean Maniacs" by head basketball coach Bob Fisher. They attend every game and cheer on their Presidents in basketball as well as ice hockey.

Exercise Classes For Seniors At Fore River Clubhouse

The Quincy Council on Aging will hold a safe senior exercise program every Monday and Wednesday at 10 a.m. at the Fore River Clubhouse, 16 Nevada Rd., Quincy Point.

For more information, call the Council at 617-376-1506.

WINTER CAR CARE

Stay On The Road To Safety In All Conditions

(NAPS) Sometimes, whether or not you're a good driver is less important than the weather you're driving in. Of the nearly 6.2 million traffic accidents that occur a year, approximately one million are weather-related, according to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA).

Fortunately, newer vehicles are now equipped with sophisticated technology solutions to help drivers navigate through a variety of weather conditions safely.

Before you get caught in the next storm or even rain shower, take time to think through the poor weather conditions you may encounter and what you need to do to stay safe.

• Take a Brake: If you've ever had your brakes lock up on slippery surfaces, you know why to look for vehicles with Anti-Lock brake Systems (ABS). With this technology, drivers can apply maximum brake pressure without fear of locking up the tires or skidding out of control.

• Burnin' Rubber: To keep your wheels from spinning on slippery surfaces, look for vehicles with Traction Control Systems (TCS). This technology prevents wheels from spinning during the acceleration on normal or slippery surfaces by applying brakes to all four wheels. the newest version of this technology, called All-Speed Traction Control, decreases excess engine power to give you the best acceleration on slippery surfaces.

• The Straight and Narrow: You're less likely to go off the road or lose control of your vehicle after swerving to miss something ahead in a vehicle with an Electronic Stability Program (ESP). This system keeps vehicles moving in the intended direction of travel by applying selective throttle and braking to the appropriate wheels to get the vehicle back on course. This is especially important when driving on mixed surface conditions, such as snow, sleet, ice or gravel, but works on all surfaces.

• Stop, Drop and Roll: If vehicle rollover is a concern, look for vehicles with Electronic Roll Mitigation (ERM). If driving conditions approach a rollover scenario, ERM applies a burst of full braking power to the appropriate wheel to help stabilize the vehicle.

While the latest technology systems operate automatically, it is important for drivers to understand their vehicle's safety and technology features according to leading safety experts at the Chrysler Group.

"Taking the time to understand the latest safety technology available in new vehicles will give consumers the knowledge they need to face the varying weather conditions," said Frank Klegon, Executive Vice President Product Development, Chrysler Group. "These features will help drivers and passengers stay safe and will help reduce the number of weather related traffic accidents that occur on the road."

Additional information and news on driving technology systems are available on the Internet at www.daimlerchrysler.com.

SCOTT DEWARE

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

"I was summoned by my country, whose voice I can never hear but with veneration and love." These words were spoken on April 30, 1789, by a tall, tired man. After losing many battles, but winning a war, he had hoped to retire from public life to his beautiful and beloved home on the banks of the Potomac.

His countrymen, though, needed George Washington in peace even more than in war. They called upon him to lead their infant republic forward.

How Washington responded to the summons is described in his Inaugural Address. In an eloquent passage, the first President of the United States gave his countrymen of that day and of our own day a responsibility which should always guide Americans: "The preservation of the sacred fire of liberty and the destiny of the republican model of government are justly considered as deeply and finally staked on the experiment entrusted to the hands of the American people."

We Americans have preserved this heritage; its future rests in our hands today, as surely as when the Father of His Country gave his trust to those who heard him on April 30, 1789. We, like Washington, are summoned by our country to preserve "the sacred fire of liberty." . . .

A Job Well Done

By LT. DAN MINTON
Quincy Police Crime Prevention Officer

On Jan. 30, at approximately 1:30 a.m., the Quincy Police Department received a "911" telephone call from a female crying. Before the caller could provide any information, a male got on the phone and stated, "Everything's fine," and hung up.

LT. DAN MINTON

Since the address automatically shows up on the dispatcher's screen, he sent two cruisers to the house on Quincy Street. Officers James Borden and Jeff Brooks arrived at the residence and could hear a male party yelling as they knocked on the door.

After a minute of knocking, the male (suspect) opened the door and stated there was no problem. "We just had an argument." Upon entering the residence, Officer Borden heard a female crying in another room. He interviewed her while Officer Brooks spoke with the suspect.

The female, very upset, red-faced and crying, said her husband (suspect) and a friend came home at 1:00 a.m. and began drinking and getting loud. The victim said she asked them to be quiet so she could sleep. The friend left and an argument ensued.

She attempted to leave but her husband refused to let her out, pushing her away from the door. She then tried escaping out the window, but her husband then grabbed her by the shirt, pushing her down on the bed.

The victim then grabbed the phone to call police, but her husband grabbed the phone away from her. She then began yelling, "Help," but was stopped by her husband, who grabbed her from behind and covered her mouth with his hands.

She had trouble breathing and when her husband let her go, she immediately went for the phone and called "911," screaming the address into the phone. This is when the suspect told police officer/dispatcher Reeves everything was fine and hung up the phone.

While Officer Borden interviewed the victim, Officer Brooks questioned the suspect. Although he did no admit to any involvement in the incident, he did state the victim was in the country illegally and driving without a license.

Based on evidence available and statements made by the victim, the suspect, a 26-year-old Quincy resident, was arrested and charged with "Domestic Assault and Battery" and "Intimidation of a Witness."

Officer Borden informed the victim of her rights as a victim of domestic violence and offered an emergency restraining order, which the victim declined. She was advised she could go to Quincy District Court to seek a restraining order if she changed her mind.

According to Lieutenant Charles Santoro of the Quincy Police Department's Training Unit, the recommended course of action is to get the restraining order against the abuser. The conditions of the order are requested by the victim and then granted by the judge. Restraining orders are available 24 hours a day through the Police Department.

For the victim, this provides a level of safety against the abuser and helps prevent further abuse. The restraining order aids the Officer in making an arrest if any of the conditions of the order are violated.

As an example, if one of the conditions of the restraining order is for the abuser to remain away from the victim, the officer could arrest the abuser if he/she was found near the victim, even though there was no contact.

Victims of domestic violence need to understand they are not alone. There are countless victims in need and the Quincy Police Department is at your service.

Quincy Episcopal Churches Co-Sponsoring Program On Social Justice Issues

The WMBQ, a consortium of Episcopal churches from Weymouth, Milton, Braintree and Quincy, is sponsoring a Wednesday evening series of programs during Lent around issues of social justice.

Each evening begins at 6:30 p.m. with a service of Evening Prayer followed by a simple supper and a presentation.

The year the schedule includes The Covenant Players, March 8 at Trinity, Weymouth; Sr. Emily of the Society of St. Margaret, March 15 at St. Chrysostom's, Quincy; Walter Skinner on "Restorative Justice," March 22 at Christ Church, Quincy; the Rev. Bill Wallace, March 29 at Emmanuel, Braintree; a Service of Forgiveness, April 5, Church of Our Savior, Milton; and a service of Tenebrae at Holy Nativity, Weymouth, April 12 at 7 p.m.

The evenings are free and open to all.

For more information, phone 781-331-5570.

Wedding Liturgy Preparation Workshop

Sacred Heart Parish, 386 Hancock St., North Quincy, will present a wedding liturgical workshop for engaged couples Sunday, Feb. 19 at 6:30 p.m. in Sacred Heart Church.

The event, though primarily held for couples who will marry at the parish, is open to all couples seeking information on the church's wedding liturgy.

An outline of the wedding, parish policies, Scripture choices and music demonstrations will highlight the evening. Planning booklets will be distributed to attending couples.

To register, call the parish rectory at 617-328-8666.

Benefit Dinner At Salvation Army Feb. 24

A steak and chicken dinner to benefit world missions will be held Friday, Feb. 24 from 6 to 7 p.m. at the Salvation Army Quincy Temple Corps, 6 Baxter St.

Food will be provided by the Outback Steakhouse.

Tickets are limited. Cost is $10 for adults, $5 for children 6 and under.

For tickets, call 617-472-2345 Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Christianity Introduction At Fort Square Church

Alpha, a 10-week introduction to Christianity, will be held at Fort Square Presbyterian Church, 16 Pleasant St., Quincy.

The course begins March 8 and continues through May 17. Dinner and childcare included.

All are welcome.

For more information, call 617-471-6806.

Quincy Community United Methodist

The Rev. Dr. Susan Jarek-Glidden will lead a Bible Study at 9 a.m. and the 10:30 a.m. worship service Sunday at Quincy Community United Methodist Church, 40 Beale St., Wollaston.

Mary Emsheimer will serve as lector. Jeanne Couillard and Dorothy Hall will be the ushers.

The Hospitality Hour which follows the service will be hosted by Nancy Ahonen, Liz Bucella and Ann Pierce.

The New Women's Circle will collect small boxed cereals for the Interfaith social Services.

On movie night, Saturday, Feb. 18 at 6 p.m. "The March of the Penguins" will be shown. Admission is free but donations will be accepted. Snacks and soft drinks will be available.

Bethany Congregational Church

Bethany Congregational Church, 18 Spear St., Quincy Center, will have a Sunday worship and church school beginning at 10 a.m.

The Rev. Gary W. Smothers will conduct the service and preach a sermon entitled "The Other End of Concord Bridge."

There will also be a children's message.

Childcare is available for infants and toddlers.

Following the worship service there will be fellowship in the Allen Parlor. Light refreshments will be served.

Central Baptist Church Evangelical Service Feb. 26

Central Baptist Church, 65 Washington St., Quincy, will hold a hymn sing and evangelical service at their handicapped-accessible church center, corner of Foster and Washington Sts., Sunday, Feb. 26 at 6 p.m.

Marina Bay Skilled Nursing Center Seeks Volunteers

Marina Bay Skilled Nursing Center, located in North Quincy, has an active volunteer program and is seeking volunteers.

People are needed to assist with activity programs, and visit with residents on a one-to-one basis.

To volunteer or for more information, call Lucia Treggiari at (617) 769-5152 between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Blood Pressure Clinics Free For Seniors

Weekly blood pressure screenings for elders will be held every Monday from 10 to 11 a.m. at the Council on Aging office, 83 Saratoga St., North Quincy.

Gail Crawford, a registered nurse, will donate her time and talents to assisting senior citizens in having their blood pressure taken weekly.

Appointments can be made but walk-ins also are accepted. For more information, call 617-376-1506.

ON TAPE! See if you can translate these abbreviations attributed to a supermarket checkout tape. SK MLK, WW BRD, CR CH, TOM SCE, GFT RED, GRPS RED P.S.: All are edibles.

THREE OUT! You are asked to insert just three numbers—4, 6 and 8—in blank circles of the diagram shown so that each row of three numbers has the same total, which is left up to you to determine.

Insert the right number at center, and you can hardly miss.

How quickly can you comply?

Place 8 at center, 6 at top, 4 at bottom.

ELEVEN UP! Any three-digit number whose first and third digits total the middle digit may be divided by 11. Dubious? Give it a try.

Sun milk, whole-wheat bread, cream cheese, tomato sauce, grapefruit, red grapes, red.

Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) St. Valentine's Day magic rules the entire week for romantic Rams and Ewes. Music, which is the food of love, is also strong. The weekend offers news both unexpected and anticipated.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Your aspects favor the arts — which the Divine Bovine loves, loves, loves. Also, for those looking for romantic love, Cupid is available for requests. After all, his mother, Venus, rules your sign.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Loving commitments continue to grow stronger. Ditto budding relationships. A recent move to help start up a new career-linked direction could soon begin to show signs of progress.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Single Moon Children might be eager to take that proverbial chance on love. But your more serious side will feel better if you take things slowly and give your moonstruck self more time.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) It's a love fest for Leos and Leonas this week. Paired Cats might expect to be purrfectly in sync. And with matchmaking friends, single Simbas searching for romance shouldn't have too far to look.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) More understanding on both sides can work miracles in restoring ailing relationships to health. Make the first move, and you'll be closer to your much-wanted reunion.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Accept the fact that you are worthy of being loved, and you'll find proof in what is revealed to you over the course of the week. Also accept a compliment offered with great sincerity.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Planning to take a new direction in life is exciting. And so is a new awareness of someone's special affection. Expect a slow and mostly steady development of the situation.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Although you might still feel you weren't treated quite right in a recent matter, all that will work out in time. Meanwhile, enjoy the week's special qualities and potentials.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Deciding not to give up on a troubling romantic situation helps start the healing process. Expect to find some valuable insight into yourself as things move along.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) The week is filled with positive potentials, but it's up to you to make the right choices. The advice of someone who truly cares for you and your well-being can be priceless.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) It's a good time to make yourself available to possibilities of the romantic kind. Already paired? Good. In that case, be sure to reassure that special person of your feelings.

BORN THIS WEEK: Your generosity gladdens the hearts of others, and you bask in their joy.

Milton Hospital To Host Discussion On Recent Medicaid Changes

Attorney Dagmar M. Pollex, a member of the Massachusetts Academy of Elder Law Attorneys, will talk about the recent Medicaid changes at Milton Hospital, Wednesday, Feb. 22 at 10 a.m. in the Nangeroni Education Center.

Pollex will explain the impact of new rules for long term care and Medicaid planning and discuss the key points that families need to know about their current planning options in order to protect savings and meet rising long term care costs.

In light of the recent legislation passed by the U.S. Senate establishing new rules for long term Medicaid planning, Pollex will address how these changes will potentially drastically change and reduce the options available for many middle-income families to protect at least some of their lifetime savings. Attorney Pollex will also suggest ways to plan in order to offset the fewer options now available to protect savings and meet rising long term care costs.

Call Christine or Luann at 781-535-6490 to register.

Pollex has been practicing law in Massachusetts for over 26 years.

George Moody Completes Marines Basic Training

Marine Corps Pvt. George E. Moody, Jr, son of Donna E. Baldwin of Quincy, recently completed 12 weeks of basic training at Marine Corps Recruit Depot, Parris Island, S. C. designed to challenge new Marine recruits both physically and mentally.

Moody and fellow recruits began their training at 5 a. m., by running three miles and performing calisthenics.

In addition to the physical conditioning program, Moody spent numerous hours in classroom and field assignments which included learning first aid, uniform regulations, combat water survival, marksmanship, hand-to-hand combat and assorted weapons training. They performed close order drill and operated as a small infantry unit during field training.

Moody and other recruits also received instruction on the Marine Corps' core values—honor, courage and commitment, and what the core values mean in guiding personal and professional conduct. Moody and fellow recruits ended the training phase with The Crucible, a 54-hour, team evolution culminating in an emotional ceremony in which recruits are presented the Marine Corps Emblem, and addressed as "Marines" for the first time in their careers.

Gutro Names Three To Preservation Act Committee

City Council President Doug Gutro a three-member special committee of councillors to study the impact of the state's Community Preservation Act.

Ward 4 Councillor Jay Davis was named chairman, Councillor-at-Large Joseph Finn vice chairman, and Ward 3 Councillor Kevin Coughlin member.

The Community Preservation Act, when adopted by the city, would raise additional funds through taxes to purchase land for open space and other community uses.

Gym Schedule For February School Vacation

The Quincy Recreation Department will conduct an expanded schedule of supervised gym programs during next week's school vacation period.

Gyms will be supervised from 9 a.m. to noon for free activities for boys and girls ages 8 through high school. School gyms will be open in all neighborhoods of the city and will feature activities such as basketball, floor hockey, gym games and dodge ball.

Registration is done at each location. Those ages 8 through grade 5 will attend from 9 to 10:30 a.m.; those in grades 7 to 12 will attend from 10:30 a.m. to noon. Participants may attend the program of their choice.

Some minor changes in times may occur in some locations to accommodate differences in enrollment.

In addition to the day schedule, with the exception of Monday, Feb. 20, the ongoing night gyms program will also be conducted in selected locations and all regular Saturday morning programs will be conducted Saturdays, Feb. 18 and 25.

"The department expects these programs to be well attended and have always been beneficial to participants and working parents," said Recreation Director Barry Welch.

The gyms scheduled to open from 9 a.m. to noon:

Tuesday, Feb. 21: Beechwood Knoll, Bernazzani, Montclair, Wollaston, Atlantic and Point Webster.

Wednesday, Feb. 22: Atherton Hough, Beechwood Knoll, Bernazzani, Merrymount, Squantum, Atlantic and Point Webster.

Thursday, Feb. 23: Atherton Hough, Bernazzani, Merrymount, Montclair, Squantum, Wollaston and Atlantic.

Friday, Feb. 24: Montclair, Squantum and Atlantic.

Saturday, Feb. 25: Regular gym programs 9 a.m. to noon.

For more information call the Quincy Recreation Department at 617-376-1394.

18th Annual Festival

Record 4,000 Celebrate Asian New Year Here

By TOM HENSHAW

Many years ago, in the dreamtime of the Chinese people, the Jade Emperor decided to celebrate his birthday with a contest among all the animals of the world.

They would swim across the fastest flowing river in China and the first 12 to reach the farther bank would be rewarded with his name on a year in the zodiac.

Thus the rat, who hitched a ride on the back of the water buffalo (or ox), won and became the first year of the cycle. The dog finished 11th, next to last.

It was the Year of the Dog that the Asian community celebrated Sunday at North Quincy High School with a record crowd of 4,000 at the 18th annual Quincy Lunar New Year Festival.

"We're really excited by the strong interest of the Asians and non-Asians

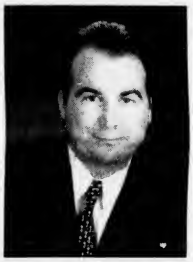
Cites 47% Hike In Public Building Costs

Gutro Calls For Special Energy Study Committee



The city of Quincy's energy bill has nearly doubled since 1998 and City Council President Doug Gutro wants to do something about it.

He filed an order Tuesday night establishing a special cimmittee to check energy efficiency of all public buildings and develop recommendations for the Council's consideration.

The committee would have the aid of advisors who have expertise in energy production and distribution, Gutro said.

"Although it has been a relatively mild winter, you wouldn't know it by reading the average monthly energy bill," said Gutro.

"Anyone who pays to heat a home or drives a car has endured the sticker shock of rising energy costs in recent years.

DOUG GUTRO

"We are coming off our coldest weekend of the year and now is the time to act."

Gutro said information he obtained from City Auditor Rick Fitzpatrick showed him that Quincy's energy costs have skyrocketed 47 percent in the last eight years. That's a million dollars more than 1998.

And that figure doesn't include the Housing Authority or street and traffic lights.

"I firmly believe that there are a range of options available to reduce our city's energy use and save taxpayers money," said Gutro.

"This special committee of the City Council will research and analyze energy use and cost information and, I believe, ultimately make some solid recommendations that will save this city both energy and money."

Gutro's order noted that American K-12 schools spend a total of $6 billion annually on energy, more than computers and textbooks combined, and government agencies spend $10 billion a year on energy.

18 New Quincy Police Officers To Graduate Academy Friday

The Quincy Police Department graduates 18 new police officers from the Police Academy Friday, Feb. 24, at 11 a.m. ceremonies in Faneuil Hall in Boston.

But don't expect to see them in uniform alone on the streets of Quincy at least until the end of April.

This in addition to the just completed 21 weeks of training at the academy, which is run by the MBTA Transit Police Department at the Quincy Naval Reserve Center, One Sea St., Quincy.

"They'll show up for roll call Monday," said Lt. Charles Santoro, the department's training officer. "Then they'll spend the next three weeks on in-house training on Quincy police procedures."

They include special training for demonstrations, E911 response, handling domestic violence cases, writing reports and communications and requalification in weapons.

"Then they'll spend six to eight weeks on the street assigned to work with an experienced officer," said Santoro.

"Each segment of training is designed to give them the maximum opportunity to demonstrate that they can perform at a solo police level."

The 18 graduating officers include: Danny Church, James Curran, James Parisi, Robert Bell, Stephen DesRoche, Ryan Donnelly, Arthur Carthas Jr., Paul Delahoyde, John Grazioso, Matthew Hockney, Sean Kelley, Robert Kelly, Michael Powers, Sean Glennon, James Goldrick, James Karvelis, James Menz and Stephen Rayne.

Effective March 31

Carbon Monoxide Alarms To Be Required In Some Homes

Carbon monoxide alarms will be required in all residences with potential sources of carbon monoxide sources effective March 31.

The announcement was made jointly by State Fire Marshall Stephen D. Coan and Quincy Fire Chief Timothy Pettinelli.

The vast majority of homes, they said, will not be required to install hard-wired systems. But where hard-wired systems are required by regulations, the installation deadline is Jan. 1, 2007.

The Board of Fire Prevention Regulations (BFPR) recently passed emergency regulations to implement the law known as "Nicole's Law".

"Each year we see the devastating effects of carbon monoxide poisoning," Coan said. "Many of these incidents are avoidable with early detection and warning as provided through this new law."

Chief Pettinelli said, "The fire service urged passage of this legislation and the Quincy Fire Department stands ready to educate and assist homeowners to meet the new requirement for carbon monoxide alarms. Please call the Quincy Fire Prevention Bureau at 617-376-1015."

Coan added, "Consumers should work with their local fire departments to educate themselves carefully, because not every CO alarm on the shelf at the local hardware store will bring your home into compliance with these regulations."

General Requirements:

For most residential buildings with fossil fuel burning equipment or enclosed parking areas, the new regulations require carbon monoxide alarms on every level of the home or dwelling unit including habitable portions of basements and attics. On levels with sleeping areas the alarms must be placed within 10 feet of the bedroom doors. The regulations allow the following options for CO alarms:

CHIEF PETTINELLI

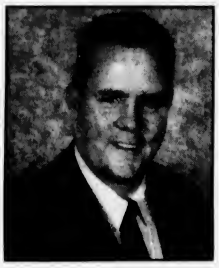
- Battery operated with battery monitoring; or
- Plug-ins with battery back-up; or
- Low voltage system; or
- Wireless, or
- Qualified combination smoke and carbon monoxide alarm.

Acceptable Combination Alarms:

Acceptable combination smoke and carbon monoxide alarms must have simulated voice and tone alarms that clearly distinguish between the two types of emergencies. The State Building Code mandates that only photoelectric smoke alarms are permitted within twenty feet of a bathroom or kitchen. Consumers are urged to check with the local fire department on whether a specific alarm meets the code requirements.

Alternative Compliance Option:

Owners of larger buildings with centralized or minimal sources of carbon monoxide may wish to consider the alternative compliance option contained in the regulation.



Enforcement:

Fire departments are currently required to inspect smoke alarms when homes are being sold and transferred. Starting March 31, 2006 (or January 1, 2007 where hard-wired alarms are required) fire departments will now inspect all residences upon sale and transfer for carbon monoxide alarms.

The Department of Fire Services is distributing A Consumer's Guide to Requirements for Residential Carbon Monoxide Alarms. This guide and information about the regulations can be obtained from local fire departments and on the DFS website at http://www.mass.gov/dfs/osfm/pubed/firesafetytopics/carbon_monoxide_safety.htm.

The U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission also has information in both English and Spanish on common sources of carbon monoxide in the home and recognizing the symptoms of CO poisoning in a pamphlet called The Invisible Killer at: www.cpsc.gov/CPSCPUB/PUBS/464.pdf.

Course Selection Starts At NQHS March 8

The course selection process for the 2006-07 school year for students in Grades 9, 10 and 11 at North Quincy High School will begin Wednesday, March 8.

Students will be instructed in the process by the guidance staff and will have input and recommendations from the academic department heads and their teachers.

The Program of Studies Booklet, Course Selection Sheets and Course Description Booklets will be sent home with the students so they and their parents can work together to make informed choices.

The booklets are also available for viewing on the school's website at www.quincypublicschools.com/northquincy/guidance (under academics).

Parents with questions should call their child's guidance counselor at 617-984-8747. The deadline to return the signed Course Selection Sheet is Friday, March 10.

Matt Delorey To Use $1,000 For College Tuition

Quincy Veteran Of Two Wars Receives First Bonus

A student at Quincy College, a veteran of two wars at the age of 23, who wants to be federal agent, has received the first tax-free $1,000 bonus under a state program to reward its fighting sons and daughters.

Matt Delorey, a 2001 graduate of North Quincy High School, enlisted in the Army after Sept. 11 and served three months with special forces in Iraq in 2003 and four months in Afghanistan in 2004, said he plans to use his bonus to help pay his tuition.

He is studying law enforcement at Quincy College and has hopes of joining the FBI or the Drug Enforcement Agency when he graduates. He is also works in security and is scheduled to start as an associate probation officer in Boston Municipal Court.

Delorey, who was also the first to apply for the bonus, received the symbolic check for $1,000 in State House ceremonies from State Treasurer Tim Cahill, whose office administers the program.

"This is an expression of our gratitude to the people who serve our country," said Cahill. "I am pleased to offer this bonus to servicemen and women of Massachusetts for their dedication and commitment."

An estimated 21,000 men and women in service since Sept. 11, 2001, are eligible for the bonuses under the so-called "Welcome Home" bill. which was signed into law by Gov. Mitt Romney last Veterans Day. Those who served in Iraq and Afghanistan get $1,000, others with six months service $500.

"Last year on Veterans Day I was proud to sign into law a bipartisan bill that provides the most generous benefits in the country for our state's veterans and those who currently serve in the armed forces.

"We have a duty to fulfill to our service men and women who make great sacrifices to defend our freedom."

"The Welcome Home Bonus is a tangible way to thank the many who have given so much," said Rep. Anthony Verga of Gloucester, the chief sponsor of the bill who is a Navy veterans.

"War has taught us that freedom is not free and no one has sacrificed more to ensure our freedom than our service members and their families."

"I congratulate Treasurer Cahill for his efficiency in implementing this program after the passage of the Welcome Home Bill into law this past Veterans Day," said Sen. Stephen M. Brewer of Barre, co-chair with Verga of the Joint Committee on Veterans and Federal Affairs.

"Today we honor our current service members in the Commonwealth by offering this bonus payment."

Also present at the State House ceremony were Secretary of Veterans Services Thomas G. Kelley and National Guard Adjutant General Olive Mason.

The measure also entitles members of the Massachusetts National Guard to free tuition and fees at any state college, death benefits for National Guardsmen are raised from $10,000 to $100,000 and the annuity for 100 per cent disabled veterans goes up from $1,500 to $2,000.

To apply for the "Welcome Home Bonus" program, service members or their families must submit an application, which is available from Treasurer Cahill's office, a residence certificate, a copy of discharge papers (DD214) and a W9 form.

Cahill's office also administers a bonus program for veterans of World War II, Korea and Vietnam. The Office of Veterans Services administers a bonus program for Gulf War veterans.

For more information about the "Welcome Home Bonus" program or to get an application, contact Cahill's office at www.mass.gov/treasury or 617-367-9333 x350 or x505.

A SYMBOLIC CHECK for $1,000 is held by Matt DeLorey of Quincy, an Army Ranger veteran of Iraq and Afghanistan, as the first recipient of the Massachusetts "Welcome Home" Veterans Bonus program. With him, from the left, are state Sen. Michael Morrissey, Al Grazioso, assistant treasurer; Treasurer Tim Cahill and Rep. Bruce Ayers, all of Quincy.

Jim Fay Named To Planning Board

Mayor William Phelan has appointed Jim Fay to the Quincy Planning Board.

Fay, is a Quincy resident, and a Business Agent for Local 103.

"I want to thank Mr. Fay for accepting this opportunity to serve our city and its residents," Phelan said. "Our volunteer boards and commissions give countless hours to the betterment of our city without recognition or fanfare. We all owe them our gratitude."

Fay has been a member of Local 103, the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers for more than 18 years. He currently serves as the Business Agent serving the South Shore area.

He and his wife Maryann live in Hough's Neck with their two daughters, Abigail and Margaret.

"I look forward to the opportunity to serve and I appreciate Mayor Phelan considering me for this appointment," said Fay. "I hope to bring an important point of view to the Planning Board."

"Is it too late for me to refinance?"

(The surprising answer? Probably not!)

If you just go by what you hear or read in the mainstream media, you might think that the refinancing "window" has slammed shut. But that's a simplification that's simply not true. Here are the facts: Mortgage rates are still bouncing around near 50-year lows. So if you want to refinance for whatever reason – to be mortgage-free before you retire, to pay for tuition, to consolidate other loans and debts or just to lock in a low rate before the window does close – you still have time. But possibly not much. So don't wait. Come see us or call 617-471-0750.

Happy 50th Joe . . . (And?)

Friends are tossing a 50th birthday party tonight (Thursday) for Councillor Joe Finn.

They're getting together at The Fours on Cottage Ave. from 6 to 9 p.m. Suggested donation is an appropriate $50 — $1 per year.

FINN

But, is it just a birthday party?

The invitations sent out by Mike Berry, Finn's campaign manager, say:

"Come and join us as we celebrate with Joe Finn, as he enters the next chapter of his political life in our city and the next half of a century of birthdays."

Hmmm!

The next chapter of his political life?

It can't be councillor at-large. He's already in his third term. It certainly wouldn't be ward councillor. Nor school committee.

So, that would seem to leave the mayor's office as the only next political chapter.

Finn almost challenged incumbent Bill Phelan last year, but decided not to "because of family and personal reasons."

But he didn't close the door.

"I will keep all my options toward the future open," he said at the time.

Those close to him say he regrets not running for mayor back then. Maybe especially after topping the councillor at-large field.

Of the present city council members, he would be the one more apt to challenge Phelan if the latter decides to seek a fourth term. Maybe Dan Raymondi.

The other mayoral hopefuls in the council seem to be willing to wait until Phelan decides to turn the keys to the mayor's office over to someone else.

Phelan has indicated he has no intentions of making a career out of being mayor of Quincy.

PHELAN

He's just a couple of months into his third term. The next election is nearly two years away. Whether he decides to seek a fourth term remains to be seen. His got plenty of time to think about it.

Phelan likes being mayor. And when you like a job, it's a little hard to leave it. There's the prestige that goes with being mayor. And, the power, the challenges, the opportunity to do what you think is best for your city. The chance to leave your legacy.

And for him, there are projects he wants to see completed while he's in office. Like the Quincy Center Concourse and that nagging one, the proposed new Quincy High School.

It would seem that he will seek a fourth term. But that could change between now and next year.

Last year with Finn out of the picture Phelan faced only a sticker opponent who's campaign sputtered and went no where. Phelan was the only mayoral candidate name on the ballot.

BURGIN

SHEETS

He thus officially became only the fourth mayor in the city's history to be re-elected unopposed. The first was Thomas Burgin in 1940, second, Frank McCauley in 1983 and the third, James Sheets, who got three free rides in 1991, 1993 and 1997.

Would he get another free ride if he decides to go for a fourth term?

Or, would the next political chapter for Joe Finn be entitled "A Run For Mayor"?

Stay tuned. It's still early.

JOE-ANN BRAGG, as a 12-year school committee member, gave her all when it came to programs benefiting youngsters.

BRAGG

She stepped down from the school committee at the end of December but hasn't lost any of that enthusiasm.

She's the treasurer and a 14-year board member of the non-profit Quincy After School Child Care program.

It enables youngsters five to 12 years old to continue various programs at their home school after regular class hours. And, at the same time, helps working mothers to continue to work.

But that's not surprising about Jo-Ann. She was involved in youth programs long before she ever ran for the school committee.

Workshop On Organizing At Main Library

A workshop on organizing will be held Saturday, March 11 at 2 p.m. at the Thomas Crane public library, 40 Washington St., Quincy Center.

Through a combination of lecture, exercises and group discussion, the free workshop will highlight common problems and outline strategies for success, including proven organizing techniques for use in home or office.

Maxine Gautier, founder of Out from Under Professional Organizing, has been organizing homes, offices and lives in the Boston area for the past six years. She is a member of the National Association of Professional Organizers. Her practice also includes helping prepare houses for the real estate market.

The program is one of a series of programs highlighting the library's collections by its classification systems, the Dewey Decimal System. Discover It @your library- in the 600's section this month. It is sponsored by the Friends of the Thomas Crane Public Library. For more information about this or other library events, call 617-376-1301 or visit thomascranelibrary.org.

Lt. Minton To Speak On H.E.L.P. Program

Two programs aimed at making life a little safer for older citizens in Quincy will be explained Thursday, March 2, at 7 p.m. at the River Bay Club, 99 Brackett St.

Quincy Police Lt. Dan Minton will present H.E.L.P. (Handicapped Elderly Lost Person), designed to locate lost and/or confused persons and returning them home safely.

A representative of the Norfolk County Sheriff's Office will present Project Lifesaver.

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS IS a 1912 real photo postcard reproduction showing on the left the first Quincy police station on School Street. The building on the right was an old firehouse. They were across from the end of Marsh Street west of the tracks in Quincy Center. Built in 1829 of Quincy granite, the station was originally the South District Schoolhouse. It was a dark, cold, damp and unhealthy building from the beginning. After it became fire headquarters in the 1880s the fire chief told the City Council in 1890 that it was "not suitable for man or beast." He got a new headquarters building in 1892. Then the police were moved here from City Hall. Conditions were still bad, Chief Alfred Goodhue worked tirelessly to get a new station and finally in 1924 when he again reported the "unsanitary, unfit and healthy conditions" the state health department ordered its use discontinued. A new police headquarters were built in 1926. Later, the building was spruced up some and was used by the city Welfare Department until it was finally demolished in the 1950s. A close look at the picture reveals one of Quincy's finest in the doorway getting a breath of fresh air. To contact Tom Galvin, e-mail tmgalvin@verizon.net.

Snow Storms And Parking Bans

Another major winter snow storm hits Quincy and the city has barely enough pieces of equipment to move the snow and make our roads passable.

However, just before the storm hit our mayor went public with his view that city police and firefighters shouldn't be snow plow contractors for the city. He wanted to bar the eight or nine guys from further plowing. Then the news of the approaching storm hit and the mayor put his plan on hold for a year. Good decision just before the first flake fell.

However, the real issue is the lack of enforcement when it comes to parking pans during snow storms. Atlantic Street is designated an emergency artery but after living on the street for 18 winters, this artery hardens during storms. No cars get towed and often fire apparatus can't even navigate the road. This storm was no exception.

The city does a good job at plowing. The folks who contract with the city do a good job. Together, they do their best to keep up with the worst of road conditions.

Their jobs are made more difficult when people continue to park on the street during major storms like the most recent one on Feb. 12.

Thanks to folks not moving their cars, my street and so many others look like a snake pathway.

The problem isn't contractors who are also police officers or firefighters, the problem is clearing the roads so they can do their job more effectively.

Eighteen winters is a long enough wait!

St. Valentine's Blizzard Cost Is Set At $34,629

City Treasurer Harold P. Newell announced the total cost to the city for snow removal after the Great Valentine's Day blizzard would be $34,629.21.

Feb. 23 - March 1
1940
66 Years Ago

Newell said the figure did not include $4,800 paid out of emergency funds at the height of the storm for the purchase of a new snow loader.

Meanwhile, City Auditor Leo E. Mullen refused to authorize payment of a $17,502.77 bill for the hiring of outside cleanup equipment, claiming the bills were not itemized.

But about 1,200 men, some of them relief recipients and WPA workers, were paid a total of $17,126.44 for cleanup work. They worked 27,400 man hours at 62 1/2 cents an hour.

The storm, which deposited up to 20 inches of snow that was whipped into drifts 10 to 12 feet deep by winds that reached 80 mph, was called the worst blizzard of the century.

Quincy Scenes Quilt On Display At City Hall

By MIKAELA SLANEY

Residents and local participants with Quilters Compass, created a quilt, celebrating city life, that hangs on display in the lobby of the new city hall building.

Scenes of local buildings and icons, stitched by quilters, are bordered by smaller floral squares, decorated by participants in the downtown holiday stroll.

The quilt measures 75 inches wide by 90 inches long.

"I decided to ask our talented quilters to depict their favorite Quincy sites," said Pat Fay of Quilter's Compass, who conceived of the construction of the quilt.

"I wasn't sure if I was going to get five, or 50, but I know I had a pool of excellent quilters who would do a good job.

"The blocks are a combination of hand-piecing, hand-appliqué, and the quilt is machine quilted."

Quilters Compass involved local residents by helping them decorate and sign the bordering squares.

"I could not expect someone who has never done it, to cut and piece a quilt block either by hand or by machine," said Fay.

"So we settled on having people come in to the shop during the Holiday Stroll, and letting them choose their squares, and decorate."

The quilt hangs visible from the front entrance of city hall.

"All of our quilters are pleased that the quilt is on display in such a prominent place in City Hall, and I hope that the public can enjoy viewing it for years to come," said Fay.

The contributing quilters to the center 16 squares include:

The quilt was sponsored by Discover Quincy as a part of the first annual Quincy holiday stroll, last December.

For more information on Quilter's Compass, call 617-479-2206.

Choral Society Concert March 12

The Quincy Choral Society will present a free concert and silent auction Sunday, March 12, at 2 p.m. in the auditorium at Sacred Heart School, 370 Hancock St., North Quincy.

The musical "Anything Goes," the music of Cole Porter and humor in music will be featured.

Mysteries To Be Featured In Library Reading Programs

"Crime and the Cultural Landscape," a six-part reading and discussion series, will be held on Tuesday evenings in February, March and April at 7 p.m. in the Thomas Crane Public Library, 40 Washington St.

The series is part of this year's "Quincy Reads Together: Mystery By The Book" community reading program. Book in regular, large print and audio formats are available for borrowing. Registration is unnecessary.

Each session begins with a short presentation by Professor David Fedo of Curry College followed by a group discussion.

The library will present "Castle of Cagliostro," the first feature film written and directed by Academy Ward-winning anime pioneer Hayao Miyazaki Thursday, March 9, at 7 p.m. at the main library.

The storyline follows the master thief Lupin III, a.k.a. "The Wolf," as he steals a fortune in counterfeit bills from a casino and then realizes that the printing plates that made them are more valuable.

The search takes him to the tiny European country of Cagliostro where Lupin and his outlaws friends cross swords with the local count over his forthcoming marriage to the last princess of the Cagliostro family.

The program is intended for adults and teens aged 13 and older and is not suitable for younger audiences.

For more information, call 617-376-1301 or visit thomascranelibrary.org.

KRISTI GJINA

Atlantic 7th Grader Anti-Smoking Poetry Winner

Kristi Gjina, a seventh grade student at Atlantic Middle School was a winner in the recent "2005 Smoking Don't Go There" poetry contest.

The contest, sponsored by the Norfolk South District Medical Society, was part of the observance of Smoke-Free Week.

Dr. David Wong of South Shore Hospital spoke with students in grades six and eight about the dangers of tobacco use.

Dr. Alice A. Coombs of South Shore Hospital chairs the Anti-Tobacco Program sponsored by the Medical Society.

Krisi's winning poem:

Smoking

Why smoke? I ask myself.
I'd only be ruining my health.
It's just one simple cigarette
Which you will one day regret.
My whole family would be devastated
I'd make my mother cry
And, after a while, I would die.

Marie's Kitchen

BY MARIE D'OLIMPIO

Nancy's Heavenly Raviolis

You can either roll up your sleeves and make pasta, or buy the dough ready made. I opt to roll up my sleeves and made some last week for raviolis But the main recipe for today is the filling and sauce created by our daughter Nancy which is very different from the usual ricotta or meat filling.

First the dough. which consists of just two ingredients; flour and eggs. It is easier to work on a wooden surface rather than marble because marble is cold.

Start with two cups of flour and make a well in the center. After cracking up the eggs (room temperature) into the center of the well, Start beating the eggs gently with a fork at first until they form a smooth look. Then gradually start to chip away at the well incorporating the flour little by little into the eggs. Work in the flour until it starts to form a ball which you will knead until well blended.

If you have a pasta machine, all you have to do is start pushing the dough in small pieces through the machine until it is thin enough to work with.

When that is done, you can start to make either the pasta or raviolis. Your machine should have parts to make several kinds of pasta if you are planning to make spaghetti or fettucine for instance. For the raviolis , make a long strip and it is ready to fill.

Now here is the recipe for the filling.

Nancy's Heavenly Raviolis

For the filling

2 sweet potatoes (orange) and one white sweet potato (whipped) This is what Nancy used, but three same color ones are okay to use) butter and milk for the potatoes
salt and pepper to taste
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 cup proscuitto (cut in small pieces)
smidgen of garlic powder

After you mashed the potatoes, fold in the proscuitto and you're ready to fill the raviolis. Place one teaspoon full of the filling in each of the ravioli unless you like them larger.

After they are cooked, here is a great glaze for them It starts with the traditional white sauce.

Topping
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
salt and pepper to taste
1 cup milk
1 cup butternut squash soup
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
Parmesane cheese for topping (optional)

Melt the butter, add the flour and then the milk. Blend well and add the butternut squash soup and the nutmeg.

Pour over cooked ravioli and sprinkle with parmesan cheese. I hope you enjoy this as an alternate to the usual tomato sauce. We sure did.

Tips From Better Business On Prescription Drug Scams

Medicare Part D, the new prescription drug plan that kicked in last Jan. 1, is regarded as a boon to seniors on fixed incomes.

But it's an even greater boon to scam artists who pose as approved providers or government officials to milk elders of personal financial information.

Armed with such data as social security and bank account numbers, says the Better Business Bureau, it is easy to steal unsuspecting seniors' identities and life savings.

"It has been the experience of the BBB that seniors have always been a targeted group," says Kevin J. Sanders, president and CEO of the BBB in eastern Mass, Maine and Vermont.

"It's tragic when anyone gets scammed, however, it's even more devastating for seniors who generally do not have the ability to rebuild their financial loss."

With this in mind, the BBB offers these tips to seniors and those who care for them for evaluating the offers:

• Carefully review the Medicare & You 2006 handbook that has been provided to every seniors citizens. It explains what the coverage means to you and the plans available in your area.

• Remember that legitimate providers are not allowed to market the drug plans door-to-door or by unsolicited e-mails.

• Remember legitimate providers are permitted to contact you but they must observe "do-not call" laws, and they should be willing to send you information in the mail. Withhold any personal or financial information until after you decide to enroll.

• If someone calls out of the blue to offer a plan and asks for personal and financial information, obtain his or her name, company and telephone number. Ask them to send their information in the mail.

Do not provide your bank account number, your Social Security number or any other personal information over the telephone.

• You can verify the legitimacy of any provider who contacts you by calling Medicare toll-free at 1-800-633-4227. It's open 24 hours a day.

QHS Provides Information On Drug Plan Medicare D

The Quincy Housing Authority's Support Services Department has completed its second round of informational sessions on the Medicare D Prescription Drug Benefit.

In November, Peggy McDonough, Director of the SHINE Program in Norfolk County, (Serving Health Insurance Needs of Elders), spoke at all five of the housing authority's high-rise apartment buildings for elderly/disabled. She presented an overview of the government's insurance initiative called Medicare D, designed to help pay for seniors' prescription drug costs. Enrollment for this program opened on Jan. 1, and will close May 15.

Refresher sessions were provided last Monday at all of QHA's buildings. A partnership of educators collaborated to bring this vital information to interested Medicare recipients.

Among the presenters were Dawn Heywood of Quincy Social Security Administration, Robyn Geranis from ABCD of Boston, and a training group from the "My Medicare Matters" federal initiative, which will be traveling throughout New England offering individualized, computer assisted consultations.

SHINE counselors, Wendy Wong, Anna Situ, and Agnes Lee, from Greater Boston Chinese Golden Age Center brought this information to Chinese speaking residents in November.

Laura Davis On Dean's List

Laura Davis is on the Dean's List at Fairfield University in Fairfield, Conn. for the fall semester.

A nursing major, she is a member of the sailing team.

Educcated at Notre Dame High School in Hingham, she is the daughter of Karen and Edward Davis of Quincy.

Gutro Calls For Special Energy Study Committee

He quoted the Environmental Protection Agency as saying the schools could save as much as 25 to 30 per cent of its costs by using energy-efficient technology and making changes in operations and maintenance.

Gutro's order directs the special committee to "audit and benchmark energy use in all public buildings, tabulate associated costs and environmental impacts and develop recommendations for consideration by the full City Council."

The committee also was also directed to "study transportation-related energy usage and costs and make recommendations to the full City Council."

IRS Looking For Taxpayers Due Refunds

Congressman William Delahunt advises Southeastern Massachusetts residents they may be entitled to a 2004 tax refund.

At least 146 residents on the South Shore and the Cape & Islands are still owed 2004 federal refunds because the IRS literally can't find them. Refund checks go unclaimed for a variety of reasons, but the most common is the simplest: the taxpayer fails to notify government of an address change.

"The checks are ready to send, if only the taxpayer will tell the IRS his or her mailing address," Delahunt said.

Nationwide, the IRS is looking for more than 90,000 taxpayers who are owed $70 million in unclaimed refunds. In Massachusetts, the federal government wants to return $1.4 million to 1,500 taxpayers. In the Tenth Congressional District alone, refunds ranging from $3 to $7,237 have gone unreturned.

There is no deadline for claiming refunds, but the unclaimed returns represent an interest-free loan to the government. In the event the taxpayer is deceased, the estate can apply for the funds.

The quickest way to check the status of a missing refund is online, through the IRS website. After clicking on "Where's My Refund?" a taxpayer is asked to enter his or her Social Security Number, filing status, and the amount of their expected 2004 tax refund. The site will then show the status of any refund and further instructions. For those without internet access, the IRS offers a toll-free phone assistance at 800-829-1040.

Unless the government hears otherwise, the IRS sends refunds to the mailing address used for its most recent correspondence with taxpayers- in most cases involving 2004 refunds, it is most likely to be the address used for 2003 returns.

To change the mailing address, a taxpayer must complete Form 8822, a simple one-page document available from any IRS office- and online at www.irs.gov. It is also advised to file change-of-address information with the US Postal Service, which offers its form online at www.usps.gov.

Assistance on individual questions is available toll-free through Delehunt's Hyannis office at 800-870-2626 or Quincy office at 800-794-9911.

Students, Families Celebrate Lunar New Year At Sacred Heart School

Sacred Heart School students and families recently celebrated the Lunar New Year in great style at the North Quincy school.

Students, parents, teachers and friends welcomed the "Year of the Dog" with an exciting night of entertainment, crafts and demonstrations. Fr. John O'Brien, pastor of Sacred Heart Parish, started the festivities with a prayer. Saritha Venkatesh, a parent of a student at Sacred Heart, then sang a Hindu welcoming song.

The Iskwelahang Pilipino School, a non-profit school that teaches children about their Philippine heritage, had seven students perform traditional dances. The dancers performed with arches of flowers and both the dances and the dancers were quite beautiful.

Next, the audience was treated to a two traditional Korean dances. These dancers, from the Quincy YoungShang Korean School, performed first with drums and then with fans. Their beautifully synchronized movements were amazing.

Additionally, there were Tai Chi and Tai Chi Sword demonstrations by students and their teacher from the New Star Community Art Center in North Quincy. Jose Ramos and his son Raphael performed a Tae Kwon Do demonstration and almost two dozen children participated in a fashion show of traditional clothing. The extended day program at Sacred Heart School contributed many beautiful decorations for the event.

Mrs. Katherine Hunter, Sacred Heart School's principal, declared the night one of the best school events she has ever attended. More than 150 people attended this annual event and its chairperson, Sue Forbes, says it keeps getting better and better.

Many local businesses supported this event by donating gift certificates and other items. The Sacred Heart PTO would like to thank Super 88 Market, Kan Man Market, Mr. Chan's Restaurant, Quincy Dynasty, Fuji 1546, China Pearl, Mary Kay Cosmetics, Victoria's Secret, Punjab Cafe, Saigon Corner and the Milton Fruit Marketplace for their continued support of the school.

Gerald McCarthy Demonstrates Braille Skills At Regional Competition

Gerald McCarthy of Quincy was among the blind students throughout New England who recently demonstrated their Braille skills by participating in the sixth annual Northeast Braille Literacy Celebration held recently at The Carroll Center for the Blind in Newton.

McCarthy, a seventh grader at Quincy's Broad Meadows Middle School, was among 33 blind children ages 6-18 years who competed in four contests that measured spelling, comprehension and speed and accuracy in reading and writing Braille.

Students vied for an opportunity to compete at the National Braille Challenge Invitational to be held in June in Los Angeles hosted by the Braille Institute of America.

Results to tests taken by local students will be reviewed against an estimated 400 to 500 blind competitors from throughout the country, in the hope that they will be among 60 students selected to attend the final competition.

McCarthy is the son of David and Roseanne McCarthy of Quincy. His father is a member of the Quincy School Committee.

Braille is a system of raised dots invented by Louis Braille, that is read with the fingers and has remained an essential literacy tool for blind persons of all ages.

GERALD McCARTHY, a seventh grader at the Broad Meadows Middle School in Quincy, is a regular participant in The Carroll Center's Annual Braille Literacy celebration.

"Braille is an important skill to master in order to achieve success in the classroom and in the workplace," said Dr. Karen Ross, vice president of Education Services at The Carroll Center for the Blind. "This annual event helps to promote an understanding and acceptance of Braille as a viable literacy tool."

Ross' department provides Teachers of the Visually Impaired to public schools throughout the state to instruct blind children in Braille and other adaptive skills necessary to participate in the classroom with their sighted peers.

The Carroll Center for the Blind serves more than 2,000 blind children and adults annually at its Newton campus, as well as in schools and communities around the state.

Maria Droste Services Receives Grants

Good Shepherd's Maria Droste Services of Quincy, a non-profit counseling and holistic therapy agency, is the recipient of two recent grants.

Last December, a grant of $10,000 was received from the Harold Brooks Foundation. These funds will be used for operational support.

The foundation considers requests for assisting non-profit organizations that provide for the health, human services, religious, education, environmental, recreational or cultural needs of the community, focusing on low income children and families particularly within the South Shore area.

Bank of America serves as co-trustee with Rev. M. James Workman, John Doody and Paul Mollica.

In January, a grant of $750 was received from the Blue Hills Community Health Alliance (BHCHA). BHCHA works in collaboration with agencies to create healthier communities within their 13 BHCHA area communities.

The money received will be used to offer an Adolescent Group for middle school female students. This group will focus on bodily changes, relationships and peer pressure.

Also, a Parenting Group for single mothers will be offered which will focus on child development, de-escalation techniques and self care.

"We are very excited and grateful to have received this funding from both sources: Harold Brooks Foundation and Blue Hills Community Health Alliance," said Cathy Cronin, Assistant Administrator. "The grants received will support the efforts of Maria Droste Services and assist in improving the physical and emotional health of our clients."

Winter On-Street Parking Regulations

The Public Works Department reminds residents of regulations for parking on streets this winter:

- Overnight parking is prohibited without a residential parking permit which is available from the Police Department (617-479-1212).
- Resident parking permits are void during snow emergencies.
- Parking on a snow emergency artery during a snow emergency is prohibited. All main streets in the city are posted with signs identifying them as emergency arteries.
- This year, parking is allowed during a snow emergency on the odd-numbered side of non-emergency streets.
- Your car will be towed if it is in violation of these winter parking rules. The average tow and storage fee is $100.

If bad weather is expected, call 770-SNOW or listen to WJDA 1300 or to television to learn if there is a snow emergency. WJDA will have snow emergency updates.

If you have problems or questions related to snow removal, call the snow hotline: 617-376-1943.

Roseann's Offers Unique Gifts Of Handicrafts, Flowers

Something new has been added to Quincy Center.

Roseann's at 1089 Hancock St. is best described as a gift shop featuring handicrafts by local artisans and flowers by the owners, Beth and Bob Gilfoyle.

Both Gilfoyles are trained florists who put their artistic talents to work in mid-life career changes to create imaginative fresh-flower arrangements on their own.

Their store is located slightly off the beaten path from downtown Quincy which makes it necessary for them to please enough customers to make it a destination shop.

As such they stand ready to fill the needs of shoppers for that distinctive gift for a special occasion that calls for special attention from a special store.

Reverse Mortgage Topic For Seniors

Ed Barrett, a reverse mortgage specialist, will discuss his specialty on the first and third Wednesdays of the month at 1 p.m. at the Council on Aging office, 83 Saratoga St., North Quincy.

Reverse mortgage is a new program offered by the federal government thst allows seniors to convert a portion of their home equity into tax free cash.

For an appointment, call Ann Bruce at 617-376-1506.

Neighborhood Housing Services Homebuyer Workshop

Neighborhood Housing Services of the South Shore, in conjunction with Dedham Institution for Savings, will host a First Time Homebuyer Workshop Monday, March 6 from 6 to 8 p.m., and Saturday, March 11 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Dedham Institution for Savings, 55 Elm St., Dedham.

Participants are asked to arrive by 8:45 a.m. on Saturday, March 11.

Attendance at both workshops is mandatory to receive a homebuying certificate.

All potential first time homebuyers are encouraged to attend the educational workshop. Participants will have the opportunity to be pre-qualified by a lender.

Topics covered include mortgage options, legal aspects of the homebuying process, home a home inspection works, and other presentations from real estate professionals.

Participants must complete the workshop to qualify for grant programs.

There is a $15 fee per person. Breakfast and lunch will be provided.

For more information, call 617-770-2227 ext. 31.

First Time Homebuyers Workshop To Be Presented In Cantonese

Quincy Community Action Programs, Inc. (QCAP) has joined with Quincy Asian Resources, Inc. (QARI) to offer its First Time Home Buyers Workshop series in Cantonese.

The free workshop will be held on March 4 and March 11, from 9 to 1:30 p.m. in the floor conference room of QCAP, 1509 Hancock St. in Quincy Center.

With QARI's support, QCAP was the first South Shore nonprofit with a Homeownership Seal of Approval to offer its workshops series in Cantonese.

John Brothers, QARI's executive director, said the workshop was being held to serve the needs of the many Cantonese speakers moving to the South Shore.

"Cantonese speakers need to know about and be able to take advantage of the same home buying opportunities as other home buyers," he said.

QCAP's Housing Coordinator, Rona W. Goodman, said that the workshop provides a comprehensive review of the home buying process. Cantonese-speaking real estate professionals will cover everything from mortgages to home insurance. In addition, low income participants who complete the 10 hour program may be eligible for downpayment/closing cost assistance of up to $10,000 and for the soft second program.

Other participants may use their certificate of completion to obtain a low rate loan through MassHousing. QCAP's First Time Home Buyer Workshops are open to all prospective homebuyers, regardless of income level or residence.

For more information about the Cantonese workshop and to register, please contact Amy Szeto at 617-479-8181 Ext. 114 or go to www.qcap.org.

Conway Real Estate Licensing Courses

The Conway Country School of Real Estate is offering four-week courses on the fundamentals of the industry.

Anyone interested in obtaining a license must take the 25 hours of coursework to meet the Commonwealth of Massachusetts' requirements prior to taking the salesperson's licensing exam.

Students of the Conway Country School of Real Estate also have access to professional career counseling to discuss joining the Conway sales team, although enrolling in the prelicensing class does not obligate students to work for Conway.

Tuition is $200 and the classes are at the Hanover Campus (at the intersection of Routes 53 and 139) on Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 6:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m.

The next class starts on March 7 and runs through March 30.

For more information on license courses, call (781) 826-0088.

The Conway Country School of Real Estate is a division of Norwell-based Jack Conway & Co., which is the largest independent real estate company in Massachusetts, with more than 1,000 agents in 45 offices from Boston to Cape Cod.

Annex Real Estate School Sales Course

Annex Real Estate School, Inc., 49 Beale St., Wollaston, is offering a 24-hour real estate course held over a four-week period Tuesdays and Thursdays beginning March 14.

Students must attend both Tuesday and Thursday sessions for all four weeks, but may choose to attend either morning or evening classes as their schedule allows.

Classes are held mornings from 9 a.m. to noon or evenings 6:30 to 9:30 p.m.

Pre-registration is required on or before Sunday, March 12. To register, call Phyllis Rudnick, director, at 617-472-4330 ext. 314.

The cost is $160 for the course, and $40 book fee.

Course graduates qualify for an examination to become a licensed real estate salesperson in Massachusetts.

Annex Real Estate School, Inc. is accredited by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts to teach real estate pre-licensing for salespersons, brokers and continuing education.

Effective Toilet Cleaning

(NAPS) Ask someone to name their least favorite household chore and you're very likely to hear "cleaning the toilet" as a response. No one likes the dirty work that comes with keeping a commode clean, but it has to be done.

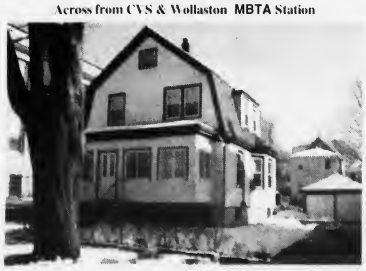
Here are a few tips that will make this painful process more efficient, tolerable and effective. Start following these suggestions today, and you'll save yourself time, money and effort.

Alkaline Isn't So Fine

Alkaline can cause rings to form around the edges of your toilet bowl. To remove unsightly rings, pour one or two cups (two cups if you have hard water) of white vinegar into the toilet each month to remove current rings and keep new ones from forming.

Baking Soda Removes The Odor

Baking soda has hundreds of uses, and here's one that can help remove unwanted odors and keep drains clogfree: once a week, pour one cup of baking soda into the bowl, let it sit for 30 minutes, then flush. You'll notice a pleasant smell and a clear drain after several weeks of repeating this process.



Clean Safely

When cleaning the bathroom and/or toilet, remember to always follow the directions for use found on a product's packaging. Be especially careful not to mix products in the toilet bowl, as it can produce harmful and/or toxic fumes. It's also a good idea to wear rubber gloves and goggles if you use a manual or automatic toilet brush, in order to prevent splattering of water or cleaner on skin or in your eyes.

Want to make toilet cleanup much easier and more infrequent? Try 2000 Flushes, the longest-duration automatic toilet bowl cleaner you can buy. The concentrated cleaning power of 2000 Flushes keeps toilet bowls clean and sanitary for up to four months.

Available as a drop-in tablet or clip-on unit, 2000 Flushes products are easy and quick to install and provide contipual, automatic toilet bowl cleaning.

Repairing Small Cracks in Wall

Q. There are small cracks in the wall at the corners of some of my windows. They're really tiny; should I be worried? And how do I fix them? — Julie D., via e-mail

A. These are most likely stress cracks in the plaster or drywall surrounding the window frame, caused by the house settling or adjusting to seasonal temperature differences. They're very common, but a little annoying, as they need to be filled in with plaster or spackling compound and repainted — often.

One way to reduce the number of times you'll have to touch up these spots is to cover the cracks with mesh wall tape (available at your home-improvement store). The tape can be painted to match the wall, and its flexibility will reduce the visible cracks in the corners of your windows.

After a few years, the tape might pop up — clearly visible as it separates from the wall. Carefully peel away the old tape so that the paint in surrounding areas doesn't pull up too. Inspect the cracks in the corners to see if they've gotten larger; you may want to spackle the wider cracks. Then apply new mesh tape and repaint.

Larger cracks extending from the corners of your windows — especially those extending several inches outward or extending from the frame all the way to the ceiling — need to be checked by a professional structural contractor. Most are also due to the settling of the house and foundation in older homes, but following major storms or other events, the stress can show up in newer ones. The faster these are addressed, the less costly the repair will be.

Send questions or home repair tips to homeguru2000@hotmail.com, or write This Is a Hammer, c/o King Features Weekly Service, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475.

2005 Record Year For Housing Market But:

Home Sales, Prices Moderate In Fourth Quarter

Despite predictions of a housing slump, the residential real estate market in Massachusetts experienced another year of steady growth in 2005 as total sales of detached single-family homes and condominiums set a new record and median prices rose for a twelfth consecutive year, according to recent data issued by the Massachusetts Association of Realtors® (MAR).

Attractive mortgage rates, a more plentiful supply of homes for sale, and more modest price appreciation have all helped to keep demand strong amidst rising energy prices and a weak job market this past year, MAR officials said.

Across much of the state, the largest gains in sales activity occurred in the condominium market where sales soared to a new all-time high in 2005, climbing 16.4 percent from 19,781 units sold in 2004 to 23,026 last year. It's the fourth consecutive year that condo sales have set a new annual sales volume record. Sales of detached single-family homes were historically strong this past year as well, but slid a modest 3.2 percent statewide, from a record 50,561 closings a year ago to 48,922 in 2005. Notably, the 2005 sales volume for detached homes ranks as the fourth highest on record in state history.

There are signs of moderation in the market however. Specifically, the MAR report shows that sales of detached single-family homes fell 8.1 percent in the fourth quarter, declining from 12,171 homes sold in the final quarter of 2004 to 11,189 in the same three-month period this past year. It's the largest annual quarterly decline in home sales in nearly three years, dating back to the first quarter of 2003 when sales decreased 10.6 percent from the first quarter of 2002, and marks the third consecutive quarter that home sales have fallen in the Bay State from the same quarter the prior year.

Regionally, every market area of the state saw a drop in fourth quarter sales of detached single-family homes, and five of the seven regions reported annual declines in detached home sales from 2004 to 2005. Last year, sales fell a modest two to four percent in greater Boston and the Northeast region, six percent along the South Shore and in southeastern Massachusetts, and 14.5 percent on Cape Cod. Sales rose in two of the state's more affordably-priced markets however, climbing 1.1 percent in Worcester County and 2.5 percent in western Massachusetts this past year over 2004 sales levels.

The condominium market has seen a surge in activity both for luxury units and entry-level condos and townhouses. Sales of condominiums rose during all four quarters of 2005 over a year ago levels, including a 6.8 percent increase in sales volume during the final quarter of the year, as sales rose to a fourth quarter record of 5,025 units sold from 4,705 in the final three months of 2004.

Furthermore, this past year, condo sales accounted for 32 percent or one in every three residential property sales in the Bay State, the largest percentage ever recorded on an annual basis in state history.

Another factor that has helped entice buyers into the market of late is the sharp increase in the number of homes for sale across the state. In the past year, the inventory of single-family properties (detached homes and condos) on the market has risen 20 percent, from a monthly average of 38,823 listings in 2004 to 46,501 in 2005. At the current sales pace this represents 7.7 months of supply, an increase from 6.6 months of supply in 2004, and signals the first time since 1997 that there's been a healthy balance between supply and demand of 7 1/2 to 8 1/2 months of inventory for sale statewide.

Illustrative of this point, data from the MAR report shows that home prices have continued to appreciate even as inventory levels have increased and sales have slowed. In the most recent quarter, the statewide median selling price for detached single-family homes rose 1.5 percent to $350,000 in the fourth quarter from the comparable period last year, and the statewide median selling price for condos increased 3.8 percent in the past year to $270,000 in the final quarter of 2005.

Additionally, the annual statewide median selling price for detached homes rose 5.9 percent, from $340,000 in 2004 to $360,000 this past year, while the annual statewide median selling price for condos climbed 6.6 percent, from $259,000 a year ago to $276,000 in 2005. Every region of the state also saw healthy price appreciation this past year for detached single-family homes, with the strongest price gains observed in Barnstable County, the South Coast, and western Massachusetts, where prices increased seven to eight percent over 2004. Elsewhere, prices increased a more modest four to five percent. In the condo market, double-digit price appreciation occurred in central and western Massachusetts where prices rose 10 to 12 percent last year, with price gains of four to seven percent reported in all other regions except the South Shore, where prices were flat.

Sales and price data from the MAR report reflects transactions occurring through Realtor®-affiliated multiple listing services in the Commonwealth, and account for approximately 80 percent of all real estate sales in Massachusetts.

A Healthy Home Environment

(NAPS) – Creating an asthma-and allergy-free home may be easier than you think.

The first step is to identify the triggers, which are found in many homes. According to the American Lung Association, the most common triggers are house dust, feathers, mold and pets.

A good way to reduce these triggers is to improve the air quality of your home. Using air purifiers and allergy filters in your AC/heater unit to reduce the amount of airborne allergens are the easiest changes to make. Avoid smoking if you suffer from asthma and don't smoke around a family member with this condition.

Troops Overseas Remembered At St. Ann School Celebration

Students at St. Ann School in Wollaston celebrated one aspect of Catholic Schools Week (Jan. 29 to Feb. 3) by chipping in to buy telephone cards to send to American troops fighting in Iraq.

The youngsters also created banners thanking the men and women of the armed forces for their service in the war on terror. The banners were sent to Iraq.

Catholic Schools Week is observed nationally with events of spiritual, educational and social importance.

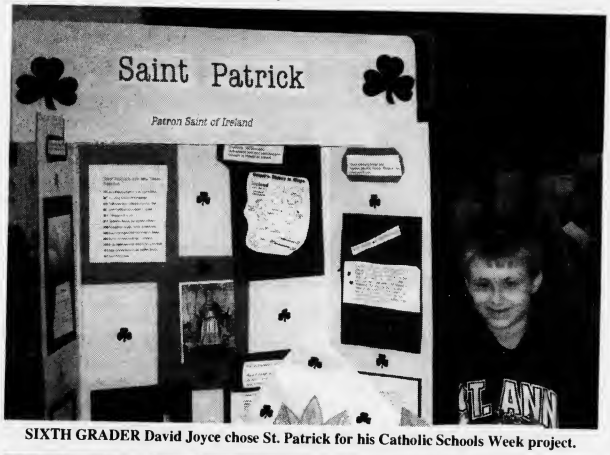
The week started at St. Ann School with a celebration of Sunday Mass at St. Ann's Church followed by an open house at the school, One St. Ann's Rd.

Volunteers who devote their time to the school were honored on Monday, and Tuesday each class performed a short play, sang an original song or read a poem on the themes of the week — compassion, character and values.

Students from the middle school staged their annual education fair, the sixth grade did projects on the lives of the saints, the seventh grade produced displays and reports on American history and the eighth grade built simple machines.

Projects includes such diverse subjects as the Industrial Revolution, wars throughout history, the American flag, the history of music and origami and the lives of the saints.

Exhibits included a report, a visual display, a word search puzzle and memorabilia, as well as student displays that blended research skills, critical and creative thinking skills and the joy of learning.



Activities of Catholic Schools Week sere coordinated and directed by fifth grade teacher Alanna Edstrom.

SPOTLIGHT ON HEALTH & FITNESS

FROM START TO FITNESS

by Andrea Wyatt
M.S.S., C.S.C.S.

What's the Best Time to Exercise?

Q: Is one time of day better than another to exercise? I've heard that to burn more calories it is better to exercise in the morning than in the afternoon or evening. Is this correct? Does it really matter what time of day I exercise?

A. The easy answer to this question is that your calorie expenditure has more to do with the level of your heart rate throughout the time you exercise, rather than the time of the day you exercise.

If you complete 45 minutes on the treadmill at 7 a.m. and keep your heart rate at around 150 beats per minute and burn 300 calories, you will burn the same amount of calories completing the exact same workout at 7 p.m.

The popular fitness myth that it's better to excerise in the morning came about because of the notion that you can burn more fat in the morning than in the evening. The argument goes that doing cardiovascular exercise the first thing in the morning without eating and after a full night's sleep will enable you to utilize a higher percentage of fat as a source of fuel.

Although this may happen to some extent, I would not base my workout schedule or routine on this idea. I would focus more on completing an exercise program and maintaining an intensity that will give you the most efficient calorie expenditure.

One of the first questions I have to ask is if you currently exercise at ALL? If not, then the first priority is to develop a well-balanced, safe, realistic and effective exercise routine that you can complete consistently. If you ARE currently participating in a workout routine, then you must determine when during the day you have the time and energy to exercise.

Some people enjoy exercising the first thing in the morning or before work because they can get it "out of the way," while others prefer to exercise once their day is complete as a means to relax and possibly socialize. The best time of the day to exercise is truly when you commit to it.

Try exercising at different times of day, and find a time when you feel comfortable, have the energy to complete your workout and can still function throughout the remainder of your day or night. Everyone is different, so find the best time for YOU, and commit to consistently completing your exercise program.

Always consult a physician before beginning an exercise program.

Number Three Cancer Killer Is Largely Preventable

March Is Colon Cancer Awareness Month

As the nation marks the seventh annual National Colorectal Cancer Awareness Month in March 2006, the American Cancer Society is raising awareness that this third leading cause of cancer death for both men and women in the United States is largely preventable.

In 2005, the Society estimated that more than 145,000 Americans would be diagnosed with colorectal cancer (commonly referred to as "colon cancer") and more than 55,000 would die, a number that could be cut in half if Americans followed American Cancer Society screening recommendations.

Despite overwhelming evidence that screening tests can save lives, many Americans still are not following recommendations from the American Cancer Society and others for early detection. Perhaps the least understood aspect of colon cancer, and the most compelling, is the fact that colon cancer can be stopped before it starts if precancerous polyps are found and removed through screening endoscopy (colonoscopy or flexible sigmoidoscopy), thereby avoiding disease completely.

Early colon cancer often has no symptoms, which is why testing is so important. Getting tested is especially critical for Americans aged 50 and older as more than 90 percent of colon cancer cases are diagnosed in people in that age group. When colon cancer is caught at an early stage, it has a 90 percent survival rate. Still, fewer than four in 10 (39 percent) of these cancers are discovered at this stage.

The American Cancer Society says increasing colon cancer screening among adults 50 and older represents the single greatest opportunity to decrease colon cancer death rates in this country.

"Many people 50 and older do not know that they are at risk and that they need to be screened," said Carolyn D. Runowicz, MD, national volunteer president of the Society. "If we can increase awareness and compliance to the level we've achieved with the Pap test and the mammogram, we will have a tremendous opportunity to save thousands of lives through the prevention and early detection of colon cancer."

The reasons for low testing rates include many misconceptions. One common misperception is that only those with a family history should be tested. While those who have a family history of the disease are at increased risk, the majority of cases occur in people whose only risk factor is their age – so everyone 50 and older should be screened.

Others think testing is necessary only once symptoms arise. Yet symptoms are often a sign that the disease has progressed into more advanced stages. Testing is most effective when a patient has no signs of illness.

The Society also emphasizes the major role doctors play in increasing testing rates.

"Physicians are the most important factor in getting patients tested for colon cancer," said Durado Brooks, MD, the Society's director of prostate and colorectal cancer. "If your doctor recommends it, you're more likely to get tested. Doctors have so much to cover in so little time, but they need to take the time to emphasize the importance of testing. The American Cancer Society can help with materials to educate their patients."

The American Cancer Society is introducing a new book to help patients and caregivers better understand colorectal cancer: The American Cancer Society's Complete Guide to Colorectal Cancer. As comprehensive as it is easy to read, the new guide covers everything a person should know about colorectal cancer, from risk factors to prevention to testing, treatment choices, coping, and life after treatment.

For information about ordering the book, call 800-ACS-2345.

For the second year in a row, in an effort to boost colon cancer testing rates, the Society will run a nationwide advertising campaign that emphasizes the importance of getting tested starting at age 50. The campaign encourages consumers to call the American Cancer Society for a free information kit on colon cancer, which includes a list of questions for consumers to ask their doctors and a DVD that provides detailed information about colon cancer screening tests. These tools will help consumers discuss testing options with their physician. This effort is part of a comprehensive strategy to combat colon cancer from every angle, including research, education, advocacy, and patient service.

The Society currently funds 101 colon cancer research grants nationwide totaling more than $50 million. Its science-based early detection guidelines help health care providers and consumers alike make informed decisions about testing.

Quincy Medical Center Offers Free HIV Testing

A new public health initiative, co-sponsored by the Quincy/South Shore AIDS Cares at Quincy Medical Center and Project Umbrella at Boston Medical Center, brings free, confidential HIV testing to the South Shore.

"An estimated 22,000 to 24,000 people in Massachusetts are currently living with HIV, including nearly 7,000 people who do not know that they are HIV positive," said Kim Krueger, HIV program director for South Shore AIDS Cares at QMC. "This free HIV testing program is designed to expand accessibility of HIV testing and to make testing as available as possible."

The free HIV testing is offered by appointment on Fridays, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., in the Quincy/South Shore AIDS Cares offices at Quincy Medical Center, 114 Whitwell St.

For more information, call 617-376-2038.

DENTISTRY for the 21st Century

by Steven A. Brustin, D.M.D.

TOOTH LOSS AND NUTRITION DEFICIT

Tooth loss, especially at the back of the mouth, can make it harder for people to get the nutrients they need to stay vibrant and healthy. According to a recent study, older adults who had fewer than five remaining pairs of back teeth had a lower intake of vitamins A and C and folic acid than those with more intact back teeth. Certainly, this finding is quite understandable when one considers that the molars at the back of the mouth are responsible for chewing food into digestible pieces that the body can further break down and utilize. Of course, one way around the tooth loss/nutrient deficit problem is to eat soft, nutrient-rich foods such as soups and cereals.

A missing tooth leaves a gap in your mouth and room for surrounding teeth to drift out of position and change your bite, potentially leading to serious dental concerns. If you are missing one or more teeth, we encourage you to call us today to discuss your best options for replacements. Early intervention will help you avoid more extensive and more expensive dentistry in the future. Our entire staff encourages your questions about comprehensive dental care. Call us at 617-479-6220. We offer almost any type of dental treatment right here in our office at 44 Greenleaf Street. Our goal is to make each visit to our office a comfortable and positive experience. We offer the services of anesthesiology with a fully trained and qualified anesthesiologist. Visit us on the web at www.quincydentist.com.

P.S. The most natural and effective way to address tooth loss is to get dental implants, which look and function like natural teeth.

Raiders, Presidents Share League Crown

North Defeats Quincy In Double OT Thriller Before Overflow Crowd

BOYS' BASKETBALL

Athletic Director Ed Miller estimated 1,400 fans flocked to the gym on Hancock Street last Friday night to witness the epic encounter between the Quincy and North Quincy boys' basketball teams.

And after the historic performance the two city rivals put on, that number might rise as the years pass by.

The Red Raiders (15-5, 10-2) and Presidents (16-2, 10-2) squared off with the Atlantic Coast League North Division title at stake — the first time that's happened in 40 years, when North beat Quincy for the Greater Boston League crown in 1966.

Defending league champion Quincy entered the game with two hands tightly clenched around its trophy, but North Quincy was finally able to pry one hand loose after 40 grueling minutes.

Deadlocked at halftime (25), at the end of regulation (50) and at the end of the first overtime (53), the Red Raiders landed the last blow in double OT to knock out the Presidents, 67-59, to earn a share of the title and avenge a painful last-second defeat on Jan. 13.

Not since the days when Patrick Ewing's Cambridge Rindge and Latin team invaded North Quincy in the early 1980s, had there been that many people at a game. Fans filled every nook and cranny, which made stepping outside into the cold after the game rather refreshing compared to the gym's sweltering air.

In anticipation of the turnout, two extra sets of bleachers were dusted off from the Ewing era and rolled out under a basket; one section stuffed with Quincy students decked out in blue and the other bleeding North Quincy red. They chanted back and forth, trying to one-up the other as if they were in the movie "8 Mile."

"It's been a long time since we've had those bleachers out and this kind of excitement for basketball," said North head coach Jim Rendle. "That's just a compliment for both teams, win or lose.

"It was a great game. Two great teams. It was exciting. It was great for the student body. We can't say enough about how much the school was excited about it. I know Quincy was the same way. For the City of Quincy, it was a great matchup."

"It was a great game," said Quincy head coach Bob Fisher. "It's great for both ends of the city. Tied at halftime, tied at the end of the game, tied after the first overtime. It was a great high school basketball game."

There were many heroes in a game where the score was tied nine times and the lead changed 21 times. But North Quincy's Kevin Donovan came through with two clutch plays in the second OT to put the Red Raiders ahead for good.

The senior tri-captain scored six of his 13 points in that period, including a knifing layup to begin the frame and a deep 3-pointer from the top of the key for a 58-54 advantage a minute and a half in.

"North made shots when they had to," Fisher said. "They made some big shots in the second overtime. Their senior players came up big."

And when senior forward Akil Benjamin, who played with a broken right wrist, swooped in for a layup at the buzzer, a sea of red flowed from the bleachers and onto the hardwood to celebrate with the basketball team.

"It's the first banner we've had in a long time," Donovan said. "Double OT was a great win for the team. We didn't play too well the last time. Good game this time. The crowd was unreal. The best crowd I've ever seen. The first game was the biggest crowd I've ever seen. This one was even better."

In regulation, North Quincy trailed, 44-42, with under three minutes remaining before sophomore center Marcellus Lee (game-high 19 points) scored six straight points in the post for the Red Raiders to give them a 48-45 lead with 1:33 left.

Senior forward Lovell Johnson (16 points) — the hero in the first game with the game-winning 3-pointer — had a chance to tie the game seven seconds later, but misfired on all three free throw attempts.

The tri-captain got a second chance and he redeemed himself when he rattled home a 3-pointer to knot the score at 48 with 43 seconds left.

Freshman Doug Scott (10) was fouled with 18 ticks on the clock and with the gym the loudest it had been all night, the unruffled point guard sank both free throws for the go-ahead points.

This time, the Red Raiders provided last-second heroics when Lee tipped home a jumper by senior John Murray (18) with four seconds left to send the game into extras.

In the first OT, each team scored three points and North Quincy had several chances to win the game near the end.

"It's a share of the title, but that's all we could get so we're thrilled with that right now," Rendle said. "It helps us with the seed in the tournament. We go to the Division 1 tournament and they have a Division 2 draw. We're going to go against some power so we need to have that kind of intensity. It was good for us to grow and I think it will help us as a team."

Quincy Boys' Lacrosse Fundraiser March 3

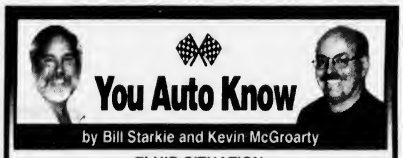
Golf Tournament May 19 Benefits Autism Center

The Autism Center of the South Shore, Inc., (ACSS) will host its fourth annual golf tournament Friday, May 19, at the Pembroke County Club.

All funds raised from the event will go directly to its programs to ensure services will continue to be provided for hundreds of South Shore families.



ACSS, a non-profit organization, was created in 2001 by a group of parents and professionals dedicated to supporting individuals with autism and their families on the South Shore.

Autism is a lifelong neurological disorder and the third most common childhood disability. Autism affects each individual differently and in varying degrees of severity. As many as 1.5 million Americans — children and adults — are thought to have autism today.

Currently, ACSS provides recreational and therapeutic programs that include a family swim program, music therapy, social skills classes and a weekly teen recreation program. ACSS is also in the process of initiating two much-needed support groups.

ACSS provides parent and professional training that includes an annual educational conference. It maintains both a lending library filled with valuable resources and a web site at autismsouthshore.org.

Those interested in golfing, donating a raffle item or becoming a sponsor, can call ACSS at 1-800-482-5788.

FLUID SITUATION

Like engine oil, automatic transmission fluid requires periodic filter and fluid changes to maintain the function and prolong the life of automatic transmission. An automobile's owners manual can provide recommendations on fluid changes based on mileage. A quick glance at transmission fluid on a white paper towel can provide information about the need for a change, regardless of mileage. If the fluid is clear pinkish-red (or green, in some cases), the fluid is still good. If it has a milky cast, there may be a leak at the transmission cooler in the radiator, which should be repaired immediately. Dark red-dish-brown fluid with a burnt smell is an indication that the fluid has lost its lubricating ability. In this case, the transmission fluid is overdue for a change.

Quincy Secures Second Place After Win Over North

By CHRIS POISSON

The Quincy High School girls' basketball team sure did grow up in just over a month between city showdowns with North Quincy.

The Presidents matured from a young, jittery bunch in a 46-39 home loss Jan. 13 to a more wiser, confident group that eked out a 56-46 road victory last Friday in front a very large, boisterous crowd.

"We're a young team," said Quincy head coach Jeff Bretsch. "Earlier in the year, some of the kids didn't have that experience in this environment. The intensity, people yelling at you when you shoot free throws, that's something we're not used to.

"In the first game they were very nervous. They came out and missed a few shots and kind of lost some confidence. This time there was no sign of that. You could see how far they've come this year. They didn't hesitate at all."

Quincy (13-6 overall, 9-3 league) clinched second place in the Atlantic Coast League North Division with the win, behind champion Whitman-Hanson. North Quincy (9-7 overall) took third with an 8-4 league mark.

Both teams competed in the ACL Tournament at W-H Tuesday and Wednesday to close out the regular season.

Quincy sophomore guard Meagan Tobin had a memorable night, knocking down five 3-pointers as she poured in a career-high 25 points.

"Tobin was the story," Bretsch said. "She's been showing signs of that all year; that she has that in her. Her 3-pointers, she's been getting more and more confident. She's always been good at going to the basket, but to have the 3-pointers working really opened things up. She just had a great game. When we were sputtering she just kept hitting those shots to keep us in the game."

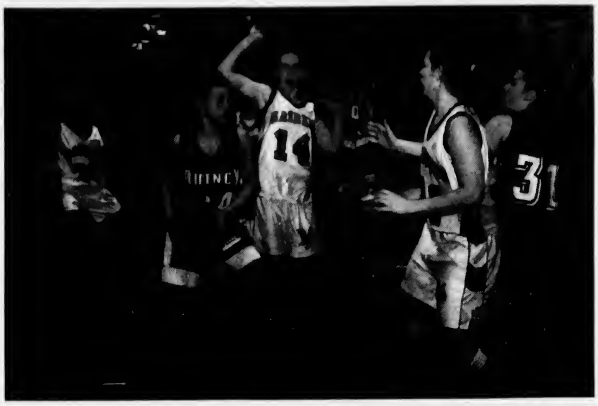
In a change of roles from the first matchup, the Presidents jumped out to an early 8-2 lead as Tobin canned a 3-pointer and converted a 3-point play.

The Red Raiders regrouped after calling a timeout, tying the game at 13 with just under eight minutes remaining. Sophomore forward Rebecca Goreham had her way with Quincy, scoring seven of her 14 first-half points during that stretch.

"Goreham is really super, super aggressive," Bretsch said. "I think we had everyone on the team try guarding her before it was done."

Meanwhile, Quincy found itself in a dicey situation as senior co-captain Jessica Page and sophomore point guard Marybeth Torpey each picked up three fouls. Bretsch, however, gambled by leaving them on the court the rest of the half.

"That made me real nervous," Bretsch said. "They played just real smart defense by not getting that fourth foul."



The Presidents held a 24-22 lead at the break and the score went back and forth in the second half before Quincy pulled away with a 9-0 run for a 48-38 advantage with five minutes left.

The Red Raiders managed to cut the deficit to three points with 1:36 remaining, but after Goreham (20 points) fouled out they didn't have enough to complete the comeback.

Tobin's fast-break layup with 44 ticks left iced the game and Quincy hit 5-of-6 free throws to close out the scoring.

Page, who was held in check in the first game, scored 19 points and played a strong defensive game with seven rebounds and four blocks.

"I thought Jessica had a good game," Bretsch said. "They're notorious for really keying their whole defense on her, just trying to take her out of the game. I think she refused to be taken out. She played smart and didn't force the issue."

Junior forward Brighid Kyle scored eight of her 10 points in the second half and also grabbed eight rebounds. Senior co-captain Ashlee Scott played well defensively, helping to hold Goreham to six second-half points.

Senior tri-captain and forward Kayla Lenane scored 16 points for North Quincy.

"It was a good game," said North head coach Doug MacFarlane. "We missed 15 foul shots and in close games you have to make them. They shot extremely well and Tobin nailed us from the outside. Page is Page. She's a good player. She's hard to stop."

"The game meant a lot to us," Bretsch said. "I told the kids this is an experience that a lot of Division 1 girls don't get. This kind of environment. To play in front of a crowd that's really into the game. I told them to enjoy themselves. It's a memory they'll have the rest of their lives. They made the most of it."

Kiwanis Tournament Underway

The 33rd annual Quincy Kiwanis International Youth Hockey Tournament got underway Monday at Quincy Youth Arena with a seven-game slate.

In Bantam action, Quincy suffered a 7-1 loss to Hyde Park. Quincy played Braintree Tuesday and will square off against Somerville Friday at 2 p.m.

In the Pee Wee division, Quincy skated to a 4-1 victory over Woburn and the Coastal Stars defeated Pembroke, 8-3. Quincy will play the Coastal Stars Thursday at 7:50 p.m. and Brockton Friday at 12:50 p.m.

In Squirts play, Newton blanked Quincy, 6-0. Quincy took on Parkway Tuesday and Weymouth Wednesday (6:40 p.m.). The Quincy 11 team, which opened against Newton Tuesday and faced Parkway Wednesday, will battle Weymouth Thursday at 3:10 p.m.

In Mites action, Weymouth topped Tri-County, 9-7, and Braintree cruised to a 10-1 win over Quincy. Quincy met the Coastal Stars Tuesday and will play Lewiston (Maine) Friday at 5:30 p.m.

The Quincy Two squad, which played Weymouth Tuesday and Dorchester Wednesday, tangles with Norwood today at 4:20 p.m.

In the Girls division, Dorchester coasted to an 8-1 win over Braintree. Quincy, which opened Tuesday against Dorchester and took on Woburn Wednesday, will face Braintree Friday at 8:10 a.m. and Weymouth Saturday at 10:30 a.m.

The semifinals will be held Saturday and the week-long tournament will culminate Sunday with five championship games: Girls, 9:30 a.m.; Mites, 11 a.m.; Pee Wees, 12:30 p.m.; Squirts, 2 p.m.; and Bantams, 3:30 p.m.

Senior Pre-Olympics Activities Start Friday At Beechwood

Seniors throughout Quincy and the South Shore are readying for the 23rd annual Quincy Senior Olympics to be held in May.

Beginning tomorrow, volunteer senior coaches will be at Beechwood on the Bay, 440 East Squantum St., each Friday morning to introduce and coach interested seniors in Olympic activities.

Activities include the three-mile walk, shot-put, javelin throws, horseshoes, pitching and hitting practice indoors, basketball, free throws and darts. Co-ed volleyball also is held Wednesdays and Fridays at 11 a.m.

There is no cost for the Friday morning "Fitness Fun." Olympic planners are hopeful the "drop in and try" invitation will appeal to many seniors ages 55 and above who have yet to get active with the Senior Olympics.

"We hope to involve more retirees in the Olympic Games," said Maryann Mahony, coordinator of Beechwood's Senior Center. "We're resuming our strength training classes and beginning this month, dedicating Fridays to fitness activities."

Sponsored by Beechwood and the City of Quincy, the Senior Olympics will be held May 15-19 with an awards night celebration May 24.

Quincy Medical Center and Boston Medical Center are primary benefactors, assisting with the costs of the citywide event. Their identifying logo is worn proudly on the Olympians' shirts.

Quincy Rotary Club also sponsors each year and its designation is on each competitor's ID number card.

For more information about Fitness Fridays, the Senior Olympics or the Senior Center, call 617-471-5712 or stop by Beechwood on the Bay.

WINTER CAR CARE

Respect Large Trucks, Stay Safe On The Road

(NU) Passenger vehicle operators- not truck drivers- cause approximately 70 percent of all fatal crashes involving a car and commercial truck, according to federal government statistics.

Most accidents are the result of an unsafe driving act, such as following a truck too closely or lingering in its blind spot.

The following precautions will help you safely share the road with large trucks:

• Beware of blind spots. Approximately 35 percent of truck-related auto fatalities occur in a truck's blind spots. Tractor trailers have very large blind spots- as much as 30 feet behind the truck. Always try to pass on the left side; the blind spot on the right side is much larger (running the length of the truck and extending out nearly three lanes).

• Stay back. When following a truck, try to maintain a distance of 20 to 25 lengths. Driving too closely behind a truck gives you little or no time to react to changing conditions.

• When passing a truck, do not loiter in the blind spot. Before moving back into the truck's lane, be sure you can see its headlights in your rearview mirror. Most fully-loaded semi trucks driving at highway speeds need 100 yards- that's one football field- to come to a safe stop. Leave them plenty of space.

• Pay attention. Driver inattentiveness is the most common unsafe driving act that results in a truck-related auto fatality.

• Heed the weather. Poor conditions make it more difficult to drive safely around big trucks. Bridgestone Firestone North American Tire LLC reminds you that statistics show nearly 1,000,000 vehicle accidents a year occur in wet weather.

When it's raining, slow down, turn on your lights, drive smoothly and maintain a safe distance. If you start to hydroplane, take your foot off the accelerator (if manual transmission, engage the clutch) and don't slam on your brakes.

• Properly maintain your tires. A tire cannot provide good traction on wet roads once the tread is worn below 2/32 of an inch tread depth. Check your tires regularly and replace them at the proper time. Don't forget to maintain the proper air pressure in your tires; tire pressure should be checked monthly.

For more information, visit www.tiresafety.com.

Auto Safety

(NAPS) Following some expert tips and keeping a few tools on hand can help steer drivers toward safer rides. Here's some advice from the experts:

Avoid Breakdowns

Breaking down isn't just inconvenient and expensive-it can also put drivers in danger. If your car is having problems and you need to pull off the road, try to do so in a well-lit area and pull as far over on the shoulder as possible. Put emergency flares or reflectors on the road behind your car to help other drivers see you.

Of course, one of the best ways to avoid breaking down is to keep your vehicle well maintained. Check your car's oil, tires and belts regularly and bring it in for regular tune-ups.

Preventing Theft

A vehicle is stolen every 25 seconds in the U.S. To avoid falling victim to theft, always lock your vehicle, no matter where you are, and avoid parking in isolated areas where there are few passersby.

You may also want to consider anti-theft tools such as The Club Automotive Security Series. The line includes steering-wheel locks, cable and spare-tire locks, padlocks and specialty locks. The cable and spare-tire locks can be used to protect tires mounted on the back of trucks, luggage or other items. They run from four to six feet long. The Weather-proof Automotive Padlock can be used on gates, sheds and to secure garages, and the steering-wheel locks render vehicles unusable when attached.

Be Prepared

Plan out long trips ahead of time and always let someone know when you plan to travel and how long you expect the trip to take. Also, pack a survival kit in your car. It should include flares, jumper cables, a quart of oil, radiator fluid, a first-aid kit, bottled water, a blanket and a road atlas. It's smart to carry a cell phone on the road as well.

In addition, it's a good idea to check out your auto insurance policy. If it doesn't include roadside assistance, you may want to consider upgrading.

A Job Well Done

By LT. DAN MINTON
Quincy Police Crime Prevention Officer

On Feb. 11, at approximately 2:01 a.m., Officers E.J. Hartnett, Christopher McDermott and Sergeant Michael O'Shea were dispatched to Bates Avenue for a report of a disorder.

LT. DAN MINTON

Neighbors said they were awakened by yelling and arguing and directed the officers to the house. As the officers approached the driveway, they were confronted by two young females screaming obscenities at their neighbors.

The officers learned they were sisters and attempted to calm them down, but they screamed louder, waking up more neighbors in the middle of this winter night, when windows are closed. The two females then directed the tirade at the officers, who were trying to get them to go back inside their home.

The officers were told that no one else was inside the home. Once inside, the disturbance appeared even louder. Sergeant O'Shea attempted to reason with the females but he couldn't get a word in. The officers separated the two females to calm the situation.

As one female was led into another room, a male and female emerged from the basement. Officer Hartnett asked the male to try calming down the two females but he was unsuccessful.

One of the females, suspect #1, swearing at the officers, ordering them to leave her home, then flicked her lit cigarette at Officer Hartnett, narrowly missing his face and hitting the right collarbone area.

Officer Hartnett told suspect #1 she was under arrest and she immediately began to resist, flailing her arms and striking the officer. As Officer Hartnett struggled to arrest her, the other sister ran to her sister's assistance, screaming, "Leave her the @%&$ alone. Don't *^&%# touch her."

Sergeant O'Shea and Officer McDermott intercepted suspect #2, who then punched and kicked at the officers. After brief struggles, the sisters were taken into custody. The officers found another male hiding upstairs in the house. The three remaining parties were checked for warrants but since there were none, they were sent on their way.

Suspect #1, a minor and Quincy resident, was charged with "Assault and Battery with a Dangerous Weapon" (the lit cigarette), "Resisting Arrest," "Assault and Battery on a Police Officer" and "Disorderly Conduct."

Suspect #2, a 20-year-old Quincy resident, was charged with "Assault and Battery on a Police Officer," "Disorderly Conduct" and "Resisting Arrest." Nice Work!

ABANDONED CARS

The penalties for abandoning a car in Massachusetts are extensive. Aside from the towing, storage and parking ticket charges, the criminal penalties are: $250 for the first offense and $500 for a subsequent office.

The Registry of Motor Vehicles may revoke the owner's license for three months and prohibit the owner from registering another vehicle in his/her name for one year. If you are the owner of a car/truck that is parked on public property and is inoperable or unregistered, the Quincy Police Department urges you to remove it as soon as possible.

Fraudsters Targeting Toll-Free Business Phone Numbers

Businesses that use toll-free numbers for advertising are being targeted by fraudsters who illegally divert calls to companies associated with these criminals. These outfits capture inbound sales calls, revenues and customer names and data intended for legitimate firms.

The Association of TeleServices International ("ATSI") www.atsi.org, the international association for the owners of telephone answering services and small call centers, has issued a fraud warning to all businesses that use toll free numbers for advertising. ATSI has also notified the FBI. Locally, Ansophone Service, Inc. located in Quincy, Massachusetts is a member of ATSI.

Here's how the fraud is instituted: The perpetrator calls a businesses' long distance provider and tells them that they are from that company. They explain that due to an equipment failure or some other emergency, the number they are advertising needs to be rerouted so it is terminated on the criminal's telephone system. Then, when the phone number is called, it gets answered by the unscrupulous criminal selling similar services.

The problem doesn't stop there. In one instance, the perpetrators have a system in place that allows them to reroute the calls further so that they could pick times of the day and week to take a company's calls. At other times of day they route calls back to a company so that it would never know that its lines are out of its control.

How does a company protect itself? ATSI suggests checking your toll free numbers regularly at different times of the day and week to make sure they are ringing to your business. Also consider creating passwords or other types of security measures with your long distance provider that limit how your lines can be rerouted but won't limit your ability to deal with real emergencies.

ATSI (Association of TeleServices International) based in Atkinson, New Hampshire, is an international trade association established by and for entrepreneurs in the teleservice and telemessaging call center business.

A Thought For The Week

It has been said that curiosity is one of the permanent and certain characteristics of a vigorous mind... It has also been said that one of the secrets of life is to keep our intellectual curiosity acute.

The key to knowledge is curiosity. The curious child learns. The curious adult, likewise, improves his mind and expands his knowledge.

Without curiosity – the urge to know why – there's little incentive to investigate, study and solve the mysteries of life.

The famous discoverers have often been stimulated by simple occurrences... the way a plant grows, the odd color of a flower, etc.

Though some dismiss the curious as eccentrics or "nuts," the intelligent are curious about all the mysteries which surrounds him.

To a considerable degree, then, curiosity is the basis and motivation of much of the world's knowledge...

We welcome your comments about the thoughts you read here. They are most appreciated...

Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Time is on your side in the early part of the week. But anything left undone by midweek will need to be put into rush mode. The weekend offers choices for you and someone special.

TAURUS (April 30 to May 20) Finally getting credit for a contribution is nice for all you idea-generating Ferdinands and Fernandas. But don't sit on your laurels under the cork tree. Use it as a first step to a bigger opportunity.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Despite the progress made, a hint of doubt might set in. That's OK. You need to stop and consider not only what you're doing but also how you are doing. Make adjustments where needed.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) The dreamer is dominant in the Moon Child's aspect, but a dollop of hardheaded practicality is coming up fast and jockeying for space. The challenge is to make room for both modes.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) It's a good week for Leos and Leonas to start assessing what they've done and what they plan to do. Moving to a new environment — home or job-related — is a possibility for some Cats.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) The week calls for Virgos to make tough decisions, but in a way that leaves the door open for changes. Ask for advice from someone who has been in the position you're in now.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Disappointments are never easy to take, but you have the ability to learn from them and go on to success. Meanwhile, continue to build up your contacts. You'll need them soon.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Things might still be going much too slowly to suit you. But you need the time to make sure they're going in the right direction. It's easier to make a course correction now rather than later.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Showing some temperament at the way things are going is one way of getting your point across. Just don't overdo it, or you risk turning away more-moderate supporters.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Things could change more quickly this week than you like. But don't fret; you'll most likely find that you're up to the challenges. The weekend offers much-needed relaxation.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Big challenge coming up? Uncross those fingers and believe that you're going to do well. And keep in mind that so many people have faith in your ability to succeed.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Testing the waters is a good way of learning about an opportunity before plunging right in. Ask more questions and be alert to any attempts to avoid giving complete answers.

BORN THIS WEEK: You have a gift for making people — and animals, too — feel special and loved.

HERE IS A PLEASANT LITTLE GAME that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner and check one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Patrick Fahey Completes Basic Training

Marine Corps Pfc. Patrick M. Fahey, grandson of Mary McCarthy of Quincy, recently completed basic training at Marine Corps Recruit Depot, Parris Island, S. C and was promoted to his current rank.

Fahey successfully completed 12 weeks of training designed to challenge new Marine recruits both physically and mentally.

Fahey and fellow recruits began their training at 5 a. m., by running three miles and performing calisthenics. In addition to the physical conditioning program, Fahey spent numerous hours in classroom and field assignments which included learning first aid, uniform regulations, combat water survival, marksmanship, hand-to-hand combat and assorted weapons training. They performed close order drill and operated as a small infantry unit during field training.

Fahey and other recruits also received instruction on the Marine Corps' core values — honor, courage and commitment, and what the words mean in guiding personal and professional conduct.

Fahey is a 2005 graduate of Plymouth North High School.

IF YOU DESIRE TO OBJECT THERETO, YOU OR YOUR ATTORNEY MUST FILE A WRITTEN APPEARANCE IN SAID COURT AT CANTON ON OR BEFORE TEN O'CLOCK IN THE FORENOON (10:00AM) ON MARCH 29, 2006.

In addition, you must file a written affidavit of objections to the petition, stating specific facts and grounds upon which the objection is based, within thirty (30) days after the return day (or such other time as the court, on motion with notice to the petitioner, may allow) in accordance with Probate Rule 16.

WITNESS, HON. DAVID H. KOPELMAN, ESQUIRE, First Justice of said Court at CANTON this day, February 13, 2006.

PRAYER TO THE BLESSED VIRGIN
(Never Known To Fail)

"Oh, most beautiful flower of Mt. Carmel, Fruitful vine, splendor of heaven, Blessed Mother of the Son of God, Immaculate Virgin, assist me in my necessity. Oh, Star of the Sea, help me and show me, herin you are my Mother. Oh, Holy Mary, Mother of God, Queen of Heaven and Earth! I humbly beseech you from the bottom of my heart to succor me in this necessity. There are none that can withstand your power. Oh, show me herin that you are my Mother. Oh, Mary, conceived without sin, pray for us who have recourse to thee. (3X) Holy Mother, I place this cause in your hands (3X) Holy Spirit, you who solve all problems, light roads so that I can attain my goal. You gave me divine gift to forgive and forget all evil against me and that in all instances in my life you are with me. I want in this short prayer to thank you for all the things as you confirm once again that I never want to be separated from you in eternal glory. Thank you for your mercy toward me and mine." The person must say this prayer 3 consecutive days. After 3 days, the request will be granted. This prayer must be published after the favor is granted. Thank you. AMG 2/16

CELEBRITY extra

by Evelyn Green

Q. I know that "The West Wing" is going off the air. My question is two-fold: First, did the decision have anything to do with John Spencer's death? And second, did NBC decide to cancel it because there was pressure to make the next president (after Martin Sheen's Democratic President Bartlett) a Republican? — Ed C.

A. Neither suggestion factored into the cancellation. Plans to end the series were already on the table when John Spencer, who played former chief of staff turned vice-presidential candidate Leo McGarry, died in December. In any event, whether the Republican candidate, played by Alan Alda, or the Democrat, played by Jimmy Smits, wins the election was a decision made solely by "The West Wing" honchos without pressure from any outside source.

P.S. The series finale is scheduled for May 14.

Q. What is actress Sarah Michelle Gellar's religious background? — Romy S.

A. Sarah Michelle Gellar says she is not a part of any organized religion and never will be. And that's as much as she'll say about the subject publicly.

Q. At the time Julia Roberts and Benjamin Bratt broke up, I read that he ended the relationship because he wanted children and she didn't. Now that they both have children with other people, some of us wonder if they might one day get back together. — Rose and friends

A. Your question implies that now that Roberts and Bratt are parents, that "obstacle" to a relationship — especially for Bratt — has been overcome and they can resume as before.

Well, Rose and friends, we're talking about two people who appear to be happily married and enjoying parenthood not with each other, but with their respective mates. I would say that while anything is possible, your projected scenario is improbable.

Sarah Michelle Gellar

Q. Along with all the news about Supreme Court Justice Sandra Day O'Connor's decision to step down from the court, there was an item about her once being a cowgirl? When was that? — Lisa D.

A. Justice O'Connor grew up on a ranch and did all the chores her brother did, including helping to herd cattle.

Record 4,000 Celebrate Asian New Year Here

who attended the festival," said John Brothers, executive director of the sponsoring Quincy Asian Resources, Inc. (QARI). "The crowd was more than double any past crowd."

He said there were 1,500 at last year's festival and only 600 the year before that.

"We're particularly pleased with the large turnout of non-Asians," he said.

"The leadership of the Asian community from the kids at North Quincy High School to the professionals really came together to make this happen."

Tackey Chan, treasurer of QARI, which took over sponsorship four years ago, gave a lot of credit to the high school students.

"The high school kids never had a chance to be involved before," he said. "They flourished this year.

"They were given a chance to be a part of it and they worked hard at it. There was a sense of enthusiasm, of being part of something.

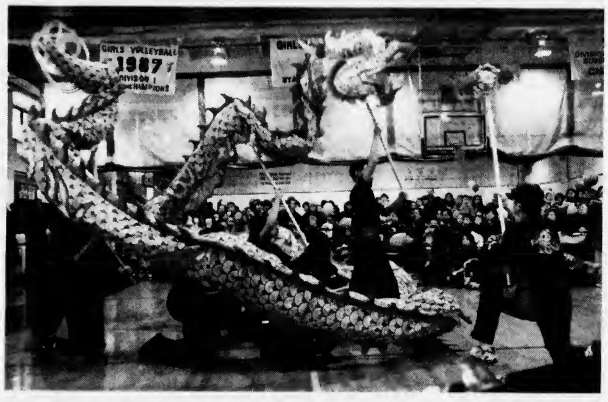
There was a little something for everyone from the traditional Lion Dance, performed by the Shao Lin Hung Gar Martial Arts Academy of Boston, to a Friendship Forever Chorus by Zhu Shi Gong and the audience.

A Chinese opera, arranged by Frank Poon, chairman of senior activities, was staged for the first time to the delight of the elders in the diverse group audience.

There was also a Cambodian Dance by the Angkor Dance Troupe, a Filipino Dance by Dance Philippines Performing Arts, drumming by the Samurai Yaiko/Academy of Kobudo, and an Indian Dance by Eastern Rhythms.

The color red and loud noises predominated since it was those sights and sounds that frightened away "Nian," the legendary man-eating beast, an event that led to the first celebration of the Chinese New Year.

According to Chinese records, the celebration has gone on since the year 2000 BC, based on the lunar cycle rather than the solar cycle of the West. The current Year of the Dog began Jan. 29, touching off 15 days of festivity.



Animals in the Chinese zodiac take on the characteristics of people, too. The Dog is noble and true, a loyal and faithful friend and a keeper of secrets. The Dog is an enemy of all that is unjust.

Some notable dogs of recent yearshave included: Winston Churchill, Bill Clinton, George Bush, Elvis Presley, Michael Jackson, Sylvester Stallone, Madonna and Rodney Dangerfield.

Next year will be the year of the boar, the 12th arrival on the far bank of the stream and the last to qualify for the Jade Emperor's zodiac.

DRAGON DANCE is the highlight of an appearance by performers from the Chinese Folk Art Workshop.

HISTORIC First Parish Church would have looked like this if original plans to fly a banner supporting gay marriage received approval from the Historical District Commission and the Zoning Board of Appeals. The Commission thought the banner was too big and misplaced.

First Parish Church Asked To Downsize

Same-Sex Marriage Banner In Limbo

By TOM HENSHAW and MIKAELA SLANEY

The Historical District Commission Monday night left in limbo plans by United First Parish Church to display a banner supporting gay marriage from the 367-year-old Stone Temple in Quincy Square.

The Commission ruled that the size of the banner, 34 feet by 4 feet carrying the words "People of Faith for Marriage Equality," was too big and the configuration would compromise the integrity of the architecture.

The vote was 4-1, with Commissioner Tom Koch dissenting, to deny the application but the Church was given an opportunity to submit a revised application after the Zoning Board of Appeals has heard the case March 7.

Plans to hang the banner grew out of a resolution passed at the May, 2004, annual meeting of the Congregation of the Unitarian-Universalist church when 92 percent of the membership voted to support same-sex marriage.

REV. SHELDON BENNETT
'We want to let the community know where we stand.'

The 2004 meeting also urged the state legislature to abandon its efforts to amend the state constitution to forbid such unions.

The constitutional amendment has attained the required number of signatures and is due to come before the 2005-6 legislature sitting in constitutional convention before the scheduled adjournment in July.

Then it must be passed a second time by the 2007-8 legislature in joint session before going on the ballot in November, 2008, to pass muster by the voters.

"Marriage equality affirms the core values of the Unitarian-Universalist Church," said the Rev. Sheldon Bennett, the pastor, explaining the banner. "We want to let the community know where we stand. We have a long tradition of standing with people who face bigotry.

"We are a living congregation. We've been here for 367 years. But we're not a museum. We are participating in the history of today. Our goal is not to create controversy but to confirm our faith."

The message delivered by the banner may be volatile to some but Bennett is undaunted.

"John Adams could have said the same thing in 1776," he said. "'Why get mixed up

Gutro, Shea See Need

Diversity Training Planned For Council, City Clerk's Staffs

City Council President Doug Gutro and City Clerk Joseph Shea are teaming to hold a half-day training session for their staffs on "Community Diversity and Cultural Competency."

"Working with Quincy Asian Resources, Inc., we intend to hire a nationally recognized consultant who has extensive experience training municipal professionals," Gutro said.

He said the city councillors themselves would participate in the training session, which he and Shea are planning for the spring.

"With the city of Quincy's Asian population approaching 25 percent and a growing elderly population, it is my belief that city councillors, council staff and employees under the city clerk — all of whom interact with the public on a routine basis — would benefit substantially from this training," Gutro said.

He noted that a comparable training was well received by employees and management at Quincy Medical Center and Quincy College.

"As council president, I believe we have a responsibility to serve all of our citizens equally," Gutro added. "Part of doing so requires a respect and understanding of cultural differences.

"Although I am proud of the progress Quincy has in this regard, I believe this training will better equip employees of the council and clerk's offices to more effectively serve all of those who live in our community."

Gutro said cultural competence can be defined as services sensitive and responsive to cultural differences and employees are aware of the impact of culture and possess the skills to help provide services appropriately.

The cultural differences, he said, include race, ethnicity, national origin, religion, age, gender, sexual orientation and physical disability.
